Economic Overview with specific reference to Textile Industry

India is the second largest textile manufacturer in the world. The Indian textile industry is a global leader thanks to the economic liberalization. Though it used to come under unorganized sector few years back, the scenario has changed and a large part of the industry is now in the organized sector. Increased penetration of organised retail, favourable demographics and rising income levels to drive textile demand are contributing to the sector's growth. The Indian textile industry is one the largest and oldest sectors in the country and among the most important in the economy in terms of output, investment and employment. Contributing a hefty 14% to the country's Industrial production and 4% to the country's Gross Domestic Product (GDP) the segment also accounts for 13% of India's export earnings besides providing direct employment to over 45 million people and thus being the second largest provider of employment after agriculture in the country. After witnessing challenges during the year 2013 and for most part of 2014 given unfavourable economic conditions, the Indian textiles and garments sector has seen reversal of trends in second half of 2014. With domestic and global economic conditions gradually improving along with the focused efforts made by Ministry of Textiles, Indian textiles and garments sector is set for growth, buoyed by revival in domestic consumption and export demand. The Indian textiles industry is currently estimated at around US $108 billion. The potential size of the Indian textiles and apparel industry is expected to reach US$ 223 billion by 2021, according to a report by Technopak Advisors.

Overview of the Sector & Business

The current Indian ethnic wear market is highly unorganized with a few branded players operating primarily in metropolitan cities. The Saree market is huge, unorganized and growing at an incredible rate, comprising a major chunk of Women's apparel segment. The 5000 year old apparel has seen rise and fall of regimes and has dominated the apparel market not even in toughest of economic downturns (recession) but has also been growing strongly ever since. ICRA research of 2006 quotes the Saree market size at Rs. 53000 crore, though a relatively recent one on Ethnic wear by Technopak quotes the Sarees market in 2009 at Rs. 24000 Crore. The Indian women wear industry will continue to grow at a healthy CAGR in the coming years.
