

INITIATIVE TO COVER CRITICAL MINERALS, CHIPS

India left out of US-led supply chain coalition

RAVI DUTTA MISHRA
New Delhi, December 12

A NEW US-LED strategic initiative, Pax Silica, which aims to build a secure supply chain ranging from critical minerals and energy inputs to advanced manufacturing and semiconductors, does not include India.

This comes at a time when an India-US trade deal remains elusive despite several high-level talks and rounds of technical negotiations.

Delhi has been vying for opportunities during the ongoing global supply chain realignment as US and European companies are looking to diversify away from China. The West's diversification push has gathered pace, especially after China imposed restrictions on rare earth magnets, disrupting global supply chains.

A US Department of State statement said the inaugural Pax Silica Summit convenes counterparts from Japan, the Republic of Korea, Singapore, the Netherlands, the United Kingdom, Israel, the United Arab Emirates and Australia. "Together, these countries are home to the most important companies and investors powering the global AI supply chain," the statement said.

Pax Silica is a US-led strategic initiative to build a "secure, prosperous, and innovation-driven silicon supply chain"—from critical minerals and energy inputs to advanced manufacturing, semiconductors, AI infrastructure, and logistics.

"Rooted in deep cooperation with trusted allies, Pax Silica aims to reduce coercive dependencies, protect the materials and capabilities foundational to artificial intelligence, and ensure aligned nations can develop and deploy transformative technologies at scale. Countries will partner on securing strategic stacks of the global technology supply chain, including, but not limited to, software applications and platforms," the State Department said.

"Countries affirmed a shared commitment to pursue projects to jointly address AI supply chain opportunities and vulnerabilities in priority critical minerals, semiconductor design, fabrication, and packaging, logistics and transportation, compute, and energy grids and power generation," it said.

Measures under Pax Silica include pursuing new joint ventures and strategic co-investment opportunities, protecting sensitive technologies and critical infrastructure from undue access or control by countries of concern and building trusted technology ecosystems, including ICT systems, fibre-optic cables, data centres, foundational models and applications.

"The initiative responds to growing demand from partners to deepen economic and technology cooperation with the United States and understanding that AI represents a transformative force for our long-term prosperity. Recognition that trustworthy systems are essential for safeguarding our mutual security and prosperity," the US State Department said.

In an interview in October, US Secretary of the Treasury Scott Bessent had framed China's new export controls on critical minerals as "China versus the rest of the world", stating that the US is pushing back firmly and expects strong support from "Europe, India and other Asian democracies".

JioStar: Media rights deal with ICC in full force

VIVEAT SUSAN PINTO
Mumbai, December 12

THE INTERNATIONAL CRICKET Council and JioStar, the media company that holds the $3-billion broadcast and streaming rights for ICC tournaments from 2024-2027, said on Friday that the agreement between the two was in full force.

Star India, which has been merged with Viacom18 to form JioStar, had won the ICC media rights in 2022 for the 2024-2027 cycle.

"JioStar continues as the ICC's official media rights partner and is fully committed to honour its contractual obligations in letter and spirit," a joint statement said. It added that JioStar was focussed on providing "uninterrupted, world-class coverage of upcoming ICC events, including the ICC Men's T20 World Cup".

The statement acquires significance since speculation had gathered steam this week that the two partners were on a sticky wicket with regard to the media agreement owing to a weak TV advertising market. The ICC Men's T20 World Cup 2026 is scheduled to be held in February in India and Sri Lanka.

However, ICC and JioStar said in their latest statement that the preparations for the event was progressing as planned, adding that there was no impact on viewers or advertisers. "ICC and JioStar, as long-term commercial partners, maintain regular communication on operational, commercial and strategic matters focused on the role the partnership can play in growing the sport," the statement said.

Some reports had also indicated that ICC had tapped competitors such as Sony Pictures Networks India (SPNI), Amazon Prime and Netflix for the media rights after JioStar had expressed its inability to service the last two years of the contract over mounting losses.

But experts have said that sports remains a key programming differentiator for JioStar and its streaming platform JioHotstar. The latter crossed over 1 billion downloads on Google Play in India, joining apps such as Netflix that have achieved this milestone.

This follows the platforms already having a close race in terms of subscribers. JioHotstar, launched in February as the combined platform of JioCinema and Disney+ Hotstar, has about 300 million paid subscribers. On the other hand, Netflix, which is present in around 190 countries, is said to have about 309.8 million subscribers as of September, according to Bloomberg Consensus.

With over 500 million monthly active users, JioHotstar also leads the OTT market in the country.

Vinesh returns to the mat, eyes medal at 2028 Games

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
New Delhi, December 12

STAR WRESTLER VINESH PHOGAT on Friday announced that she would be coming out of retirement to take another shot at an elusive Olympic medal at the 2028 Los Angeles Games as the "the fire never left" her and was merely buried under "exhaustion and noise".

The 31-year-old had walked away from the sport after the heartbreak of the Paris Games last year, where she was dramatically disqualified for being 100 g over the permissible weight limit ahead of her 50-kg category gold medal bout.

She had appealed to the Court of Arbitration for Sport (CAS), seeking a joint silver medal, but the verdict remained unchanged, leading her to announce her retirement and join politics to be elected as an MLA from Haryana's Julana constituency.

"People kept asking if Paris was the end. For a long time, I didn't have the answer. I needed to step away from the mat, from the pressure, from the expectations, even from my own ambitions. For the first time in years, I allowed myself to breathe," Vinesh posted on her social media accounts.

"I took time to understand the weight of my journey the highs, the heartbreaks, the sacrifices, the versions of me the world never saw. And somewhere in that reflection, I found the truth, I still love this sport. I still want to compete."

The athlete welcomed a baby boy in July.

"In that silence, I found something I'd forgotten 'the fire never left'. It was only buried under exhaustion and noise. The discipline, the routine, the fight...it's in my system. No matter how far I walked away, a part of me stayed on the mat."

Vinesh said she will begin her journey towards LA28 with renewed spirit and her son by her side.

"So here I am, stepping back towards LA28 with a heart that's unafraid and a spirit that refuses to bow. And this time, I'm not walking alone my son is joining my team, my biggest motivation, my little cheerleader on this road to the LA Olympics," she added.

Vinesh had already scripted history by becoming the first Indian woman wrestler to reach an Olympic gold-medal bout. A three-time Olympian, she has won gold medals at both the Asian Games and the Commonwealth Games.

House panel demands updated air quality norms 'at the earliest'

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
New Delhi, December 12

A PARLIAMENTARY PANEL on Friday asked the Centre to come up with the updated India's National Ambient Air Quality Standards "at the earliest", noting that the standards were last revised in 2009.

In a report tabled in the Lok Sabha, the Department-related Parliamentary Standing Committee on Science and Technology, Environment, Forests and Climate Change also recommended that all manual stations in Delhi-NCR be upgraded to continuous ambient air quality monitoring systems.

The committee said the current distribution of air quality monitoring stations in Delhi is "heavily skewed" towards central and southern parts, which are relatively less populated, greener and more affluent.

It said this geographical bias leads to "a distorted and non-representative dataset".

The panel also noted most of the six new continuous monitoring stations proposed were again planned in relatively greener areas, while the trans-Yamuna region has "again been left out".
