EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
VADODARA, JANUARY 28

THE FOREST department and the animal husbandry department of the Vadodara administration found carcasses of 19 native white ibis near a pond in Dhabasa village in Padra taluka on Thursday, setting off fears of Avian flu again. Samples of five birds have been dispatched to the Diagnostic Laboratory of the Animal Disease Investigation Section in Pune, Maharashtra.

On Thursday morning, the villagers of Dhabasa raised an alarm after 19 white ibis were found dead near the periphery of the pond. The officials of the district animal husbandry department and forest reached the spot and cleared the carcasses as well as collected samples of the birds for investigation.

Prakash Darji, animal husbandry officer for Vadodara, told this newspaper, "We have collected samples of the birds and it is being physically taken to the Pune laboratory of the animal disease investigation section. This is because there is a lot of rush for testing in the Bhopal-based National Institute of High-Security Animal Diseases laboratory. We will receive the report on the H5N1 virus within 48 hours."

Vadodara reported the outbreak of Avian flu on January 10 when close to 25 crows were found dead in Vasantpura in Savli taluka of the district. A few days later about 30 pigeons died at once in Kia village in Karjan taluka. While two mortalities were reported among peacocks in the city. However, only three samples of the crows from Vasantpura had tested positive for the Avian flu.

Woman found dead, husband booked

Vadodara: The Vadodara district police has booked a man and initiated a probe into the alleged suicide of his 23-year-old wife, following a complaint by the woman's father.

Khadaksinh Bhalala, 25, who works as a labourer in a company in Manjusar GIDC was booked for abetment to suicide and domestic violence after his wife was found hanging in the shed of the company where they lived on Wednesday.

In his complaint, Malamsinh Bhalala, father of the deceased, said that his daughter was constantly harassed by her husband. ENS

ISSUES

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
AHMEDABAD, JANUARY 28

THE GUJARAT High Court has taken suo motu cognisance of an accident that took place in Surat on January 19, where a dumper truck ran over migrant worker families, killing 15 of them, including eight women and a one-year-old girl, on the spot.

A public interest litigation was registered on January 27 under the cause title 'To regulate road discipline and to give shelter to weaker section' and notices were issued to various departments of the state government, seeking responses by February 8.

The issue was brought to the notice of a division bench headed by Chief Justice Vikram Nath on January 20 by senior counsel Anshin Desai who sought to monitor some key issues, "touching the life and liberty of the weaker sections of the society and also to deal with their valuable right to housing, right to shelter and right to life". The court also took cognisance of a letter submitted by Desai, to register the PIL.

The court has impleaded five parties, including the chief secretary, additional chief secretaries of home department, and ports and transport department, transport department commissioner and principal secretary of labour and employ-
