US-Iran thaw opens new sector playbook

Analysts point to oil-sensitive biz, W Asia-linked opportunities

PUNEET WADHWA
New Delhi, 15 June

The US-Iran peace deal is likely to ease stress and benefit a host of sectors back home, say analysts. They, however, suggest that investors await the finer minutiae of the agreement before investing. At the moment, both parties — the US and Iran — could try to spin narratives due to domestic political compulsions, point out analysts at Bernstein. Some more details may only become visible in the coming weeks.

Among sectors, Bernstein expects oil-marketing companies (OMCs) to benefit from reduced crude oil prices, which dropped around 4 per cent on Monday to $83 a barrel. Aviation, travel, and Middle East and North Africa (MENA)-exposed names are other direct beneficiaries. The research and broking house has a Nifty target of 26,000 by year-end, nearly 8.3 per cent above current levels.

"We'll likely see a continued rebound in healthcare due to easing US pricing pressures. We also expect many infrastructure (infra)-linked announcements in West Asia after a decisive end to the war — involving both energy-linked and water-linked infrastructure — which could support some industrial names in the coming months," said Venugopal Garre, managing director (MD), Bernstein. With the rate-hike overhang receding, we may also see an easing of the spending environment in the US, potentially helping the information technology sector, he added.

The announcement of a likely US-Iran peace deal, to be signed on June 19, sent global markets soaring on Monday, with the Sensex and Nifty 50 indices rising over 1.3 per cent each in intraday deals.

If the ceasefire holds and energy markets stabilise, the cleaner Indian beneficiaries, according to Anirudh Garg, partner and fund

manager, INVasset PMS, are oil-sensitive domestic sectors: OMCs, aviation, logistics, cement, paint, automotive, and select financials.

Capital market intermediaries, he believes, could also become relevant because lower geopolitical risk can revive flows, risk appetite, and trading activity. Pharmaceutical remains a defensive hedge, while power remains structural, but the immediate post-West Asia basket is import-cost relief.

"India's pressure point in this conflict was never only geopolitics; it was the pass-through into crude, rupee weakness, imported inflation, and margin pressure. Lower crude and calmer freight rates can give immediate earnings relief to sectors where fuel, petrochemical, transport, or borrowing costs

matter," Garg said.

That said, as a strategy, UR Bhat, cofounder and director, Alphanti Fintech, suggests investors partly sell into the rally as there is still time for the actual deal to be signed (on June 19) in Switzerland. "I think investors should play it safe for now. Finer details of the deal are still awaited, and the actual signing is still a few days away. If oil prices fall further, stocks of OMCs and airline companies will do well. Once West Asia opens for reconstruction, Indian infra companies may bag orders and, to that extent, the stocks will be in the limelight. Reliance Industries is another counter that can do well as it has underperformed in the past few weeks," Bhat said.

Meanwhile, analysts at Morgan Stanley Research expect strong consumption growth in India going ahead, helped by lower interest rates, the effect of lower taxes, and better overall income growth. A pickup in private capital expenditure (capex), they said, is the key reason for them to remain overweight on the consumption-related sector.

Morgan Stanley's list of 'focus stocks' includes Maruti Suzuki India, Trent, Lenskart Solutions, Varun Beverages, Bajaj Finance, IICI Bank, Larsen & Toubro, Ultra-Tech Cement, Prestige Estates, and Adani Power.

Equity savings funds: FD plus returns, modest risks

KARTHIK JEROME

A comparison of April and May mutual fund inflows reveals an interesting pattern. Of the 42 categories for which data are available from the Association of Mutual Funds in India (Amfi), only five recorded a positive percentage change in May over April. Two of them are hybrid categories, suggesting that investors may be moving towards steadier products amid market volatility. Let us focus on equity savings funds, the larger of the two: The category has 24 schemes and assets under management of ₹49,194 crore.

How they work

Equity savings funds invest in equity, arbitrage, and debt. "They must maintain a minimum gross equity exposure of 65 per cent. Their net equity exposure, after hedging, must remain in the 15-40 per cent range," says Nilesh D Naik, head of mutual funds, ShareMarket by PhonePe. The arbitrage portion helps reduce risk by lowering the net equity exposure.

Lower drawdowns, tax edge

Equity savings funds usually suffer much lower drawdowns than pure equity funds. "The drawdown depends on the net equity exposure of individual funds," says Naik. Anand K Rathi, co-founder, MIRA Money, points out that the equity portion adds to returns when markets perform well.

The tax treatment of equity savings funds makes them appealing, especially to investors in higher income-tax brackets. They are treated as equity-oriented funds for tax purposes. "Long-term capital gains (LTCG), which apply when investors hold them for more than one year, are taxed at 12.5 per cent. Short-term capital gains (STCG) apply when investors hold them for up to one year. STCG is taxed at 20 per cent," says Vishal Dhawan, founder and chief executive officer (CEO), Plan Ahead Wealth Advisors.

Do not expect full equity upside

These funds do not offer the full upside of equities. "That is because their open equity exposure remains limited," says Naik. Rathi adds that they can deliver low or even negative returns when equity markets perform poorly.

Recent return trend

Equity saving funds	AUM (₹ cr)	Return (%)
		1-year	3-year	5-year
ICICI Prudential	16,732.9	2.9	7.8	7.7
Kotak	10,108.2	5.5	11.0	10.5
HDFC	5,643.8	2.7	9.4	8.9
SBI	5,642.7	3.0	10.0	8.8
DSP	3,478.2	2.7	9.5	8.5

Returns are for direct plans and are annualised for periods over one year. Returns as on June 12, 2026. AUM as on May 31, 2026. Source: Value Research

Who should consider them

Investors with a conservative-to-moderate risk profile, who want stability in the portfolio but can accept some volatility, may consider these funds. "They suit investors who want better returns than FDs can offer," says Rathi. Investors should have a minimum three-year investment horizon.

Who should stay away

Highly conservative investors and senior citizens should avoid equity savings funds. "Investors who expect a definite 6-7 per cent return may be disappointed," says Rathi. Those with a very short investment horizon of, say, one year, should also avoid this category. Those focused on long-term wealth creation, who have a five-to-10-year horizon, can earn better returns in other products.

Should you enter now?

Over the past couple of years, the equity portion has not generated meaningful returns. "This has dragged down the returns earned by the fixed-income and arbitrage portions," says Rathi. Investors may enter with a three-year horizon. "Equity market performance may improve, and the equity portion could act as a return booster over the next three years," says Rathi.

How to select a fund

Use rolling returns to assess performance consistency. "Also check risk-adjusted return metrics such as the Sharpe ratio," says Dhawan.

Check the actual percentage allocation to equity. "Higher equity exposure can boost returns, but it can also hurt returns when equities perform poorly," says Dhawan. Also check market-cap allocation. A higher mid- and small-cap exposure may require a longer horizon. "Check the credit quality and modified duration of the debt portion to assess risks," says Dhawan.

What existing and new investors should do

Existing investors should revisit why they entered the category. "Poor one-year returns alone should not lead to stoppage of systematic investment plan (SIP) if the investment was meant for goals two to three years away," says Dhawan. Those who need money soon may move to pure liquid or arbitrage funds. New investors should recognise that these funds contain some unhedged equity exposure and should be comfortable with some volatility. "Staggered strategies can further control risk," says Dhawan.

Passing on MFs? How investors can gift units without cashing out

Gift mutual fund (MF) units does not always require an investor to redeem the investment and hand over cash to the recipient. Investors can transfer existing MF units directly to another person. However, the process is not as straightforward as gifting shares or making a bank transfer.

The investor generally needs

Read full report here: mybs.in/2g6wz3S3

to follow these steps:

- Ensure the recipient has a mutual fund account
- Submit a transfer request

The form usually requires:

- Donor's and recipient's folio numbers and details
- Number of units to be transferred
- Reason for transfer (gift)
- Signatures of both parties

Transfer is processed after verification

Once the documents are verified, the units are moved from the donor's folio to the recipient's folio. The market value of the units is not paid out during this process. The investment continues under the new owner's name.

Is gifting MF units taxable?

The tax treatment depends on the relationship between the donor and recipient and the value of the gift. Under income-tax (IT) rules, gifts received from certain relatives are generally exempt from tax. Relatives covered under the IT Act include spouse, parents, children and siblings, among others. However, if MF units are gifted to a non-relative and the value of the gift exceeds the prescribed threshold, recipient may face tax implications.

US-Iran thaw opens new sector playbooks

Analysts point to oil-sensitive biz, W Asia-linked opportunities

PUNEET WADHWAN
New Delhi, 15 June

The US-Iran peace deal is likely to ease stress and benefit a host of sectors back home, say analysts. They, however, suggest that investors await the finer minutiae of the agreement before investing. At the moment, both parties — the US and Iran — could try to spin narratives due to domestic political compulsions, point out analysts at Bernstein. Some more details may only become visible in the coming weeks.

Among sectors, Bernstein expects oil-marketing companies (OMCs) to benefit from reduced crude oil prices, which dropped around 4 per cent on Monday to $83 a barrel. Aviation, travel, and Middle East and North Africa (MENA)-exposed names are other direct beneficiaries. The research and broking house has a Nifty target of 26,000 by year-end, nearly 8.3 per cent above current levels.

"We'll likely see a continued rebound in healthcare due to easing US pricing pressures. We also expect many infrastructure (infra)-linked announcements in West Asia after a decisive end to the war — involving both energy-linked and water-linked infrastructure — which could support some industrial names in the coming months," said Venugopal Garre, managing director (MD), Bernstein. With the rate-hike overhang receding, we may also see an easing of the spending environment in the US, potentially helping the information technology sector, he added.

The announcement of a likely US-Iran peace deal, to be signed on June 19, sent global markets soaring on Monday, with the Sensex and Nifty 50 indices rising over 1.3 per cent each in intraday deals.

If the ceasefire holds and energy markets stabilise, the cleaner Indian beneficiaries, according to Anirudh Garg, partner and fund

manager, INVasset PMS, are oil-sensitive domestic sectors: OMCs, aviation, logistics, cement, paint, automotive, and select financials.

Capital market intermediaries, he believes, could also become relevant because lower geopolitical risk can revive flows, risk appetite, and trading activity. Pharmaceutical remains a defensive hedge, while power remains structural, but the immediate post-West Asia basket is import-cost relief.

"India's pressure point in this conflict was never only geopolitics; it was the pass-through into crude, rupee weakness, imported inflation, and margin pressure. Lower crude and calmer freight rates can give immediate earnings relief to sectors where fuel, petrochemical, transport, or borrowing costs

matter," Garg said. That said, as a strategy, UR Bhat, cofounder and director, Alphaniti Pntech, suggests investors partly sell into the rally as there is still time for the actual deal to be signed (on June 19) in Switzerland. "I think investors should play it safe for now. Finer details of the deal are still awaited, and the actual signing is still a few days away. If oil prices fall further, stocks of OMCs and airline companies will do well. Once West Asia opens for reconstruction, Indian infra companies may bag orders and, to that extent, the stocks will be in the limelight. Reliance Industries is another counter that can do well as it has underperformed in the past few weeks," Bhat said.

Meanwhile, analysts at Morgan Stanley Research expect strong consumption growth in India going ahead, helped by lower interest rates, the effect of lower taxes, and better overall income growth. A pickup in private capital expenditure (capex), they said, is the key reason for them to remain overweight on the consumption-related sector.

Morgan Stanley's list of 'focus stocks' includes Maruti Suzuki India, Trent, Lenskart Solutions, Varun Beverages, Bajaj Finance, ICICI Bank, Larsen & Toubro, Ultra-Tech Cement, Prestige Estates, and Adani Power.

EQUITY SAVINGS FUNDS

Equity savings funds: FD plus returns, modest risks

KARTHIK JEROME

A comparison of April and May mutual fund inflows reveals an interesting pattern. Of the 42 categories for which data are available from the Association of Mutual Funds in India (Amfi), only five recorded a positive percentage change in May over April. Two of them are hybrid categories, suggesting that investors may be moving towards steadier products amid market volatility. Let us focus on equity savings funds, the larger of the two: The category has 24 schemes and assets under management of ₹49,194 crore.

How they work

Equity savings funds invest in equity, arbitrage, and debt. "They must maintain a minimum gross equity exposure of 65 per cent. Their net equity exposure, after hedging, must remain in the 15-40 per cent range," says Nilesh D Naik, head of mutual funds, ShareMarket by PhonePe. The arbitrage portion helps reduce risk by lowering the net equity exposure.

Lower drawdowns, tax edge

Equity savings funds usually suffer much lower drawdowns than pure equity funds. "The drawdown depends on the net equity exposure of individual funds," says Naik. Anand K Rathi, co-founder, MIRA Money, points out that the equity portion adds to returns when markets perform well.

The tax treatment of equity savings funds makes them appealing, especially to investors in higher income-tax brackets. They are treated as equity-oriented funds for tax purposes. "Long-term capital gains (LTCG), which apply when investors hold them for more than one year, are taxed at 12.5 per cent. Short-term capital gains (STCG) apply when investors hold them for up to one year. STCG is taxed at 20 per cent," says Vishal Dhawan, founder and chief executive officer (CEO), Plan Ahead Wealth Advisors.

Do not expect full equity upside. These funds do not offer the full upside of equities. "That is because their open equity exposure remains limited," says Naik. Rathi adds that they can deliver low or even negative returns when equity markets perform poorly.

Who should consider them

Investors with a conservative-to-moderate risk profile, who want stability in the portfolio but can accept some volatility, may consider these funds. "They suit investors who want better returns than FDs can offer," says Rathi. Investors should have a minimum three-year investment horizon.

Who should stay away

Highly conservative investors and senior citizens should avoid equity savings funds. "Investors who expect a definite 6-7 per cent return may be disappointed," says Rathi. Those with a very short investment horizon of, say, one year, should also avoid this category. Those focused on long-term wealth creation, who have a five-to-10-year horizon, can earn better returns in other products.

Should you enter now?

Over the past couple of years, the equity portion has not generated meaningful returns. "This has dragged down the returns earned by the fixed-income and arbitrage portions," says Rathi. Investors may enter with a three-year horizon. "Equity market performance may improve, and the equity portion could act as a return booster over

the next three years," says Rathi.

How to select a fund

Use rolling returns to assess performance consistency. "Also check risk-adjusted return metrics such as the Sharpe ratio," says Dhawan.

Check the actual percentage allocation to equity. "Higher equity exposure can boost returns, but it can also hurt returns when equities perform poorly," says Dhawan. Also check market-cap allocation. A higher mid- and small-cap exposure may require a longer horizon. "Check the credit quality and modified duration of the debt portion to assess risks," says Dhawan.

What existing and new investors should do

Existing investors should revisit why they entered the category. "Poor one-year returns alone should not lead to stoppage of systematic investment plan (SIP) if the investment was meant for goals two to three years away," says Dhawan. Those who need money soon may move to pure liquid or arbitrage funds. New investors should recognise that these funds contain some unhedged equity exposure and should be comfortable with some volatility. "Staggered strategies can further control risk," says Dhawan.

Passing on MFs? How investors can gift units without cashing out

Gifting mutual fund (MF) units does not always require an investor to redeem the investment and hand over cash to the recipient. Investors can transfer existing MF units directly to another person. However, the process is not as straightforward as gifting shares or making a bank transfer.

The investor generally needs

to follow these steps:

- Ensure the recipient has a mutual fund account
- Submit a transfer request

The form usually requires:

- Donor's and recipient's folio numbers and details
- Number of units to be transferred
- Reason for transfer (gift)
- Signatures of both parties

Transfer is processed after verification. Once the documents are verified, the units are moved from the donor's folio to the recipient's folio.

The market value of the units is not paid out during this process. The investment continues under the new owner's name.

Is gifting MF units taxable?

The gift treatment depends on the relationship between the donor and recipient and the value of the gift.

Under income-tax (IT) rules, gifts received from certain relatives are generally exempt from tax. Relatives covered under the IT Act include spouse, parents, children and siblings, among others. However, if MF units are gifted to a non-relative and the value of the gift exceeds the prescribed threshold, recipient may face tax implications.

US-Iran thaw opens new sector playbook

Analysts point to oil-sensitive biz, W Asia-linked opportunities

PUNEET WADHWAN
New Delhi, 15 June

The US-Iran peace deal is likely to ease stress and benefit a host of sectors back home, say analysts. They, however, suggest that investors await the finer minutiae of the agreement before investing. At the moment, both parties — the US and Iran — could try to spin narratives due to domestic political compulsions, point out analysts at Bernstein. Some more details may only become visible in the coming weeks.

Among sectors, Bernstein expects oil-marketing companies (OMCs) to benefit from reduced crude oil prices, which dropped around 4 per cent on Monday to $83 a barrel. Aviation, travel, and Middle East and North Africa (MENA)-exposed names are other direct beneficiaries. The research and broking house has a Nifty target of 26,000 by year-end, nearly 8.3 per cent above current levels.

"We'll likely see a continued rebound in healthcare due to easing US pricing pressures. We also expect many infrastructure (infra)-linked announcements in West Asia after a decisive end to the war — involving both energy-linked and water-linked infrastructure — which could support some industrial names in the coming months," said Venugopal Garre, managing director (MD), Bernstein. With the rate-hike overhang receding, we may also see an easing of the spending environment in the US, potentially helping the information technology sector, he added.

The announcement of a likely US-Iran peace deal, to be signed on June 19, sent global markets soaring on Monday, with the Sensex and Nifty 50 indices rising over 1.3 per cent each in intraday deals.

If the ceasefire holds and energy markets stabilise, the cleaner Indian beneficiaries, according to Anirudh Garg, partner and fund

Lower crude and calmer freight rates can give immediate earnings relief to sectors where fuel, petrochemical, transport, or borrowing costs matter," Garg said. That said, as a strategy, UR Bhat, cofounder and director, Alphanti Pntech, suggests investors partly sell into the rally as there is still time for the actual deal to be signed (on June 19) in Switzerland. "I think investors should play it safe for now. Finer details of the deal are still awaited, and the actual signing is still a few days away. If oil prices fall further, stocks of OMCs and airline companies will do well. Once West Asia opens for reconstruction, Indian infra companies may bag orders and, to that extent, the stocks will be in the limelight. Reliance Industries is another counter that can do well as it has underperformed in the past few weeks," Bhat said.

Meanwhile, analysts at Morgan Stanley Research expect strong consumption growth in India going ahead, helped by lower interest rates, the effect of lower taxes, and better overall income growth. A pickup in private capital expenditure (capex), they said, is the key reason for them to remain overweight on the consumption-related sector.

Morgan Stanley's list of 'focus stocks' includes Maruti Suzuki India, Trent, Lenskart Solutions, Varun Beverages, Bajaj Finance, ICICI Bank, Larsen & Toubro, Ultra-Tech Cement, Prestige Estates, and Adani Power.

EQUITY SAVINGS FUNDS

Equity savings funds: FD plus returns, modest risks

KARTHIK JEROME

A comparison of April and May mutual fund inflows reveals an interesting pattern. Of the 42 categories for which data are available from the Association of Mutual Funds in India (Amfi), only five recorded a positive percentage change in May over April. Two of them are hybrid categories, suggesting that investors may be moving towards steadier products amid market volatility. Let us focus on equity savings funds, the larger of the two: The category has 24 schemes and assets under management of ₹49,194 crore.

How they work

Equity savings funds invest in equity, arbitrage, and debt. "They must maintain a minimum gross equity exposure of 65 per cent. Their net equity exposure, after hedging, must remain in the 15-40 per cent range," says Nilesh D Naik, head of mutual funds, ShareMarket by PhonePe. The arbitrage portion helps reduce risk by lowering the net equity exposure.

Lower drawdowns, tax edge

Equity savings funds usually suffer much lower drawdowns than pure equity funds. "The drawdown depends on the net equity exposure of individual funds," says Naik. Anand K Rathi, co-founder, MIRA Money, points out that the equity portion adds to returns when markets perform well.

The tax treatment of equity savings funds makes them appealing, especially to investors in higher income-tax brackets. They are treated as equity-oriented funds for tax purposes. "Long-term capital gains (LTCG), which apply when investors hold them for more than one year, are taxed at 12.5 per cent. Short-term capital gains (STCG) apply when investors hold them for up to one year. STCG is taxed at 20 per cent," says Vishal Dhawan, founder and chief executive officer (CEO), Plan Ahead Wealth Advisors.

Do not expect full equity upside. These funds do not offer the full upside of equities. "That is because their open equity exposure remains limited," says Naik. Rathi adds that they can deliver low or even negative returns when equity markets perform poorly.

Who should consider them

Investors with a conservative-to-moderate risk profile, who want stability in the portfolio but can accept some volatility, may consider these funds. "They suit investors who want better returns than FDs can offer," says Rathi. Investors should have a minimum three-year investment horizon.

Who should stay away

Highly conservative investors and senior citizens should avoid equity savings funds. "Investors who expect a definite 6-7 per cent return may be disappointed," says Rathi. Those with a very short investment horizon of, say, one year, should also avoid this category. Those focused on long-term wealth creation, who have a five-to-10-year horizon, can earn better returns in other products.

Should you enter now?

Over the past couple of years, the equity portion has not generated meaningful returns. "This has dragged down the returns earned by the fixed-income and arbitrage portions," says Rathi. Investors may enter with a three-year horizon. "Equity market performance may improve, and the equity portion could act as a return booster over

the next three years," says Rathi.

How to select a fund

Use rolling returns to assess performance consistency. "Also check risk-adjusted return metrics such as the Sharpe ratio," says Dhawan.

Check the actual percentage allocation to equity. "Higher equity exposure can boost returns, but it can also hurt returns when equities perform poorly," says Dhawan. Also check market-cap allocation. A higher mid- and small-cap exposure may require a longer horizon. "Check the credit quality and modified duration of the debt portion to assess risks," says Dhawan.

What existing and new investors should do

Existing investors should revisit why they entered the category. "Poor one-year returns alone should not lead to stoppage of systematic investment plan (SIP) if the investment was meant for goals two to three years away," says Dhawan. Those who need money soon may move to pure liquid or arbitrage funds. New investors should recognise that these funds contain some unhedged equity exposure and should be comfortable with some volatility. "Staggered strategies can further control risk," says Dhawan.

Passing on MFs? How investors can gift units without cashing out

Gifting mutual fund (MF) units does not always require an investor to redeem the investment and hand over cash to the recipient. Investors can transfer existing MF units directly to another person. However, the process is not as straightforward as gifting shares or making a bank transfer.

Transfer is processed after verification. Once the documents are verified, the units are moved from the donor's folio to the recipient's folio. The market value of the units is not paid out during this process. The investment continues under the new owner's name.

Is gifting MF units taxable? The tax treatment depends on the relationship between the donor and recipient and the value of the gift. Under income-tax (IT) rules, gifts received from certain relatives are generally exempt from tax. Relatives covered under the IT Act include spouse, parents, children and siblings, among others. However, if MF units are gifted to a non-relative and the value of the gift exceeds the prescribed threshold, recipient may face tax implications.

US-Iran thaw opens new sector playbook

Analysts point to oil-sensitive biz, W Asia-linked opportunities

PUNEET WADHWAN
New Delhi, 15 June

The US-Iran peace deal is likely to ease stress and benefit a host of sectors back home, say analysts. They, however, suggest that investors await the finer minutiae of the agreement before investing. At the moment, both parties — the US and Iran — could try to spin narratives due to domestic political compulsions, point out analysts at Bernstein. Some more details may only become visible in the coming weeks.

Among sectors, Bernstein expects oil-marketing companies (OMCs) to benefit from reduced crude oil prices, which dropped around 4 per cent on Monday to $83 a barrel. Aviation, travel, and Middle East and North Africa (MENA)-exposed names are other direct beneficiaries. The research and broking house has a Nifty target of 26,000 by year-end, nearly 8.3 per cent above current levels.

"We'll likely see a continued rebound in healthcare due to easing US pricing pressures. We also expect many infrastructure (infra)-linked announcements in West Asia after a decisive end to the war — involving both energy-linked and water-linked infrastructure — which could support some industrial names in the coming months," said Venugopal Garre, managing director (MD), Bernstein. With the rate-hike overhang receding, we may also see an easing of the spending environment in the US, potentially helping the information technology sector, he added.

The announcement of a likely US-Iran peace deal, to be signed on June 19, sent global markets soaring on Monday, with the Sensex and Nifty 50 indices rising over 1.3 per cent each in intraday deals.

If the ceasefire holds and energy markets stabilise, the cleaner Indian beneficiaries, according to Anirudh Garg, partner and fund

manager, INVasset PMS, are oil-sensitive domestic sectors: OMCs, aviation, logistics, cement, paint, automotive, and select financials.

Capital market intermediaries, he believes, could also become relevant because lower geopolitical risk can revive flows, risk appetite, and trading activity. Pharmaceutical remains a defensive hedge, while power remains structural, but the immediate post-West Asia basket is import-cost relief.

"India's pressure point in this conflict was never only geopolitics; it was the pass-through into crude, rupee weakness, imported inflation, and margin pressure. Lower crude and calmer freight rates can give immediate earnings relief to sectors where fuel, petrochemical, transport, or borrowing costs

matter," Garg said.

That said, as a strategy, UR Bhat, cofounder and director, Alphaniti Pntech, suggests investors partly sell into the rally as there is still time for the actual deal to be signed (on June 19) in Switzerland. "I think investors should play it safe for now. Finer details of the deal are still awaited, and the actual signing is still a few days away. If oil prices fall further, stocks of OMCs and airline companies will do well. Once West Asia opens for reconstruction, Indian infra companies may bag orders and, to that extent, the stocks will be in the limelight. Reliance Industries is another counter that can do well as it has underperformed in the past few weeks," Bhat said.

Meanwhile, analysts at Morgan Stanley Research expect strong consumption growth in India going ahead, helped by lower interest rates, the effect of lower taxes, and better overall income growth. A pickup in private capital expenditure (capex), they said, is the key reason for them to remain overweight on the consumption-related sector.

Morgan Stanley's list of 'focus stocks' includes Maruti Suzuki India, Trent, Lenskart Solutions, Varun Beverages, Bajaj Finance, ICICI Bank, Larsen & Toubro, Ultra-Tech Cement, Prestige Estates, and Adani Power.

Equity savings funds: FD plus returns, modest risks

KARTHIK JEROME

A comparison of April and May mutual fund inflows reveals an interesting pattern. Of the 42 categories for which data are available from the Association of Mutual Funds in India (Amfi), only five recorded a positive percentage change in May over April. Two of them are hybrid categories, suggesting that investors may be moving towards steadier products amid market volatility. Let us focus on equity savings funds, the larger of the two: The category has 24 schemes and assets under management of ₹49,194 crore.

How they work

Equity savings funds invest in equity, arbitrage, and debt. "They must maintain a minimum gross equity exposure of 65 per cent. Their net equity exposure, after hedging, must remain in the 15-40 per cent range," says Nilesh D Naik, head of mutual funds, ShareMarket by PhonePe. The arbitrage portion helps reduce risk by lowering the net equity exposure.

Lower drawdowns, tax edge

Equity savings funds usually suffer much lower drawdowns than pure equity funds. "The drawdown depends on the net equity exposure of individual funds," says Naik. Anand K Rathi, co-founder, MIRA Money, points out that the equity portion adds to returns when markets perform well.

The tax treatment of equity savings funds makes them appealing, especially to investors in higher income-tax brackets. They are treated as equity-oriented funds for tax purposes. "Long-term capital gains (LTCG), which apply when investors hold them for more than one year, are taxed at 12.5 per cent. Short-term capital gains (STCG) apply when investors hold them for up to one year. STCG is taxed at 20 per cent," says Vishal Dhawan, founder and chief executive officer (CEO), Plan Ahead Wealth Advisors.

Should you enter now?

Over the past couple of years, the equity portion has not generated meaningful returns. "This has dragged down the returns earned by the fixed-income and arbitrage portions," says Rathi. Investors may enter with a three-year horizon. "Equity market performance may improve, and the equity portion could act as a return booster over

the next three years," says Rathi.

How to select a fund

Use rolling returns to assess performance consistency. "Also check risk-adjusted return metrics such as the Sharpe ratio," says Dhawan.

Check the actual percentage allocation to equity. "Higher equity exposure can boost returns, but it can also hurt returns when equities perform poorly," says Dhawan. Also check market-cap allocation. A higher mid- and small-cap exposure may require a longer horizon. "Check the credit quality and modified duration of the debt portion to assess risks," says Dhawan.

What existing and new investors should do

Existing investors should revisit why they entered the category. "Poor one-year returns alone should not lead to stoppage of systematic investment plan (SIP) if the investment was meant for goals two to three years away," says Dhawan. Those who need money soon may move to pure liquid or arbitrage funds. New investors should recognise that these funds contain some unhedged equity exposure and should be comfortable with some volatility. "Staggered strategies can further control risk," says Dhawan.

Passing on MFs? How investors can gift units without cashing out

Gifting mutual fund (MF) units does not always require an investor to redeem the investment and hand over cash to the recipient. Investors can transfer existing MF units directly to another person. However, the process is not as straightforward as gifting shares or making a bank transfer.

Read full report here: mybs.in/2g6w3S3

to follow these steps:

- Ensure the recipient has a mutual fund account
- Submit a transfer request

The form usually requires:

- Donor's and recipient's folio numbers and details
- Number of units to be transferred
- Reason for transfer (gift)
- Signatures of both parties

Transfer is processed after verification

Once the documents are verified, the units are moved from the donor's folio to the recipient's folio.

The market value of the units is not paid out during this process. The investment continues under the new owner's name.

Is gifting MF units taxable?

The tax treatment depends on the relationship between the donor and recipient and the value of the gift. Under income-tax (IT) rules, gifts received from certain relatives are generally exempt from tax. Relatives covered under the IT Act include spouse, parents, children and siblings, among others. However, if MF units are gifted to a non-relative and the value of the gift exceeds the prescribed threshold, recipient may face tax implications.

US-Iran thaw opens new sector playbook

Analysts point to oil-sensitive biz, W Asia-linked opportunities

PUNEET WADHWA
New Delhi, 15 June

The US-Iran peace deal is likely to ease stress and benefit a host of sectors back home, say analysts. They, however, suggest that investors await the finer minutiae of the agreement before investing. At the moment, both parties — the US and Iran — could try to spin narratives due to domestic political compulsions, point out analysts at Bernstein. Some more details may only become visible in the coming weeks.

Among sectors, Bernstein expects oil-marketing companies (OMCs) to benefit from reduced crude oil prices, which dropped around 4 per cent on Monday to $83 a barrel. Aviation, travel, and Middle East and North Africa (MENA)-exposed names are other direct beneficiaries. The research and broking house has a Nifty target of 26,000 by year-end, nearly 8.3 per cent above current levels.

"We'll likely see a continued rebound in healthcare due to easing US pricing pressures. We also expect many infrastructure (infra)-linked announcements in West Asia after a decisive end to the war — involving both energy-linked and water-linked infrastructure — which could support some industrial names in the coming months," said Venugopal Garre, managing director (MD), Bernstein. With the rate-hike overhang receding, we may also see an easing of the spending environment in the US, potentially helping the information technology sector, he added.

The announcement of a likely US-Iran peace deal, to be signed on June 19, sent global markets soaring on Monday, with the Sensex and Nifty 50 indices rising over 1.3 per cent each in intraday deals.

If the ceasefire holds and energy markets stabilise, the cleaner Indian beneficiaries, according to Anirudh Garg, partner and fund

manager, INVasset PMS, are oil-sensitive domestic sectors: OMCs, aviation, logistics, cement, paint, automotive, and select financials.

Capital market intermediaries, he believes, could also become relevant because lower geopolitical risk can revive flows, risk appetite, and trading activity. Pharmaceutical remains a defensive hedge, while power remains structural, but the immediate post-West Asia basket is import-cost relief.

"India's pressure point in this conflict was never only geopolitics; it was the pass-through into crude, rupee weakness, imported inflation, and margin pressure. Lower crude and calmer freight rates can give immediate earnings relief to sectors where fuel, petrochemical, transport, or borrowing costs

matter," Garg said. That said, as a strategy, UR Bhat, cofounder and director, Alphaniti Pntech, suggests investors partly sell into the rally as there is still time for the actual deal to be signed (on June 19) in Switzerland. "I think investors should play it safe for now. Finer details of the deal are still awaited, and the actual signing is still a few days away. If oil prices fall further, stocks of OMCs and airline companies will do well. Once West Asia opens for reconstruction, Indian infra companies may bag orders and, to that extent, the stocks will be in the limelight. Reliance Industries is another counter that can do well as it has underperformed in the past few weeks," Bhat said.

Meanwhile, analysts at Morgan Stanley Research expect strong consumption growth in India going ahead, helped by lower interest rates, the effect of lower taxes, and better overall income growth. A pickup in private capital expenditure (capex), they said, is the key reason for them to remain overweight on the consumption-related sector.

Morgan Stanley's list of 'focus stocks' includes Maruti Suzuki India, Trent, Lenskart Solutions, Varun Beverages, Bajaj Finance, ICICI Bank, Larsen & Toubro, Ultra-Tech Cement, Prestige Estates, and Adani Power.

EQUITY SAVINGS FUNDS

Equity savings funds: FD plus returns, modest risks

KARTHIK JEROME

A comparison of April and May mutual fund inflows reveals an interesting pattern. Of the 42 categories for which data are available from the Association of Mutual Funds in India (Amfi), only five recorded a positive percentage change in May over April. Two of them are hybrid categories, suggesting that investors may be moving towards steadier products amid market volatility. Let us focus on equity savings funds, the larger of the two: The category has 24 schemes and assets under management of ₹49,194 crore.

How they work

Equity savings funds invest in equity, arbitrage, and debt. "They must maintain a minimum gross equity exposure of 65 per cent. Their net equity exposure, after hedging, must remain in the 15-40 per cent range," says Nilesh D Naik, head of mutual funds, ShareMarket by PhonePe. The arbitrage portion helps reduce risk by lowering the net equity exposure.

Lower drawdowns, tax edge

Equity savings funds usually suffer much lower drawdowns than pure equity funds. "The drawdown depends on the net equity exposure of individual funds," says Naik. Anand K Rathi, co-founder, MIRA Money, points out that the equity portion adds to returns when markets perform well.

The tax treatment of equity savings funds makes them appealing, especially to investors in higher income-tax brackets. They are treated as equity-oriented funds for tax purposes. "Long-term capital gains (LTCG), which apply when investors hold them for more than one year, are taxed at 12.5 per cent. Short-term capital gains (STCG) apply when investors hold them for up to one year. STCG is taxed at 20 per cent," says Vishal Dhawan, founder and chief executive officer (CEO), Plan Ahead Wealth Advisors.

Do not expect full equity upside. These funds do not offer the full upside of equities. "That is because their open equity exposure remains limited," says Naik. Rathi adds that they can deliver low or even negative returns when equity markets perform poorly.

Who should consider them? Investors with a conservative-to-moderate risk profile, who want stability in the portfolio but can accept some volatility, may consider these funds. "They suit investors who want better returns than FDs can offer," says Rathi. Investors should have a minimum three-year investment horizon.

Who should stay away? Highly conservative investors and senior citizens should avoid equity savings funds. "Investors who expect a definite 6-7 per cent return may be disappointed," says Rathi. Those with a very short investment horizon of, say, one year, should also avoid this category. Those focused on long-term wealth creation, who have a five-to-10-year horizon, can earn better returns in other products.

Should you enter now? Over the past couple of years, the equity portion has not generated meaningful returns. "This has dragged down the returns earned by the fixed-income and arbitrage portions," says Rathi. Investors may enter with a three-year horizon. "Equity market performance may improve, and the equity portion could act as a return booster over

Gifting mutual fund (MF) units does not always require an investor to redeem the investment and hand over cash to the recipient. Investors can transfer existing MF units directly to another person. However, the process is not as straightforward as gifting shares or making a bank transfer.

The investor generally needs

to follow these steps:

- Ensure the recipient has a mutual fund account
- Submit a transfer request

The form usually requires:

- Donor's and recipient's folio numbers and details
- Number of units to be transferred
- Reason for transfer (gift)
- Signatures of both parties

Transfer is processed after verification

Once the documents are verified, the units are moved from the donor's folio to the recipient's folio.

The market value of the units is not paid out during this process. The investment continues under the new owner's name.

Is gifting MF units taxable?

The gift treatment depends on the relationship between the donor and recipient and the value of the gift.

Under income-tax (IT) rules, gifts received from certain relatives are generally exempt from tax. Relatives covered under the IT Act include spouse, parents, children and siblings, among others. However, if MF units are gifted to a non-relative and the value of the gift exceeds the prescribed threshold, recipient may face tax implications.

US-Iran thaw opens new sector playbooks

Analysts point to oil-sensitive biz, W Asia-linked opportunities

PUNEET WADHWAN
New Delhi, 15 June

The US-Iran peace deal is likely to ease stress and benefit a host of sectors back home, say analysts. They, however, suggest that investors await the finer minutiae of the agreement before investing. At the moment, both parties — the US and Iran — could try to spin narratives due to domestic political compulsions, point out analysts at Bernstein. Some more details may only become visible in the coming weeks.

Among sectors, Bernstein expects oil-marketing companies (OMCs) to benefit from reduced crude oil prices, which dropped around 4 per cent on Monday to $83 a barrel. Aviation, travel, and Middle East and North Africa (MENA)-exposed names are other direct beneficiaries. The research and broking house has a Nifty target of 26,000 by year-end, nearly 8.3 per cent above current levels.

"We'll likely see a continued rebound in healthcare due to easing US pricing pressures. We also expect many infrastructure (infra)-linked announcements in West Asia after a decisive end to the war — involving both energy-linked and water-linked infrastructure — which could support some industrial names in the coming months," said Venugopal Garre, managing director (MD), Bernstein. With the rate-hike overhang receding, we may also see an easing of the spending environment in the US, potentially helping the information technology sector, he added.

The announcement of a likely US-Iran peace deal, to be signed on June 19, sent global markets soaring on Monday, with the Sensex and Nifty 50 indices rising over 1.3 per cent each in intraday deals.

If the ceasefire holds and energy markets stabilise, the cleaner Indian beneficiaries, according to Anirudh Garg, partner and fund

manager, INVasset PMS, are oil-sensitive domestic sectors: OMCs, aviation, logistics, cement, paint, automotive, and select financials.

Capital market intermediaries, he believes, could also become relevant because lower geopolitical risk can revive flows, risk appetite, and trading activity. Pharmaceutical remains a defensive hedge, while power remains structural, but the immediate post-West Asia basket is import-cost relief.

"India's pressure point in this conflict was never only geopolitics; it was the pass-through into crude, rupee weakness, imported inflation, and margin pressure. Lower crude and calmer freight rates can give immediate earnings relief to sectors where fuel, petrochemical, transport, or borrowing costs

matter," Garg said. That said, as a strategy, UR Bhat, cofounder and director, Alphaniti Pntech, suggests investors partly sell into the rally as there is still time for the actual deal to be signed (on June 19) in Switzerland. "I think investors should play it safe for now. Finer details of the deal are still awaited, and the actual signing is still a few days away. If oil prices fall further, stocks of OMCs and airline companies will do well. Once West Asia opens for reconstruction, Indian infra companies may bag orders and, to that extent, the stocks will be in the limelight. Reliance Industries is another counter that can do well as it has underperformed in the past few weeks," Bhat said.

Meanwhile, analysts at Morgan Stanley Research expect strong consumption growth in India going ahead, helped by lower interest rates, the effect of lower taxes, and better overall income growth. A pickup in private capital expenditure (capex), they said, is the key reason for them to remain overweight on the consumption-related sector.

Morgan Stanley's list of 'focus stocks' includes Maruti Suzuki India, Trent, Lenskart Solutions, Varun Beverages, Bajaj Finance, ICICI Bank, Larsen & Toubro, Ultra-Tech Cement, Prestige Estates, and Adani Power.

EQUITY SAVINGS FUNDS

Equity savings funds: FD plus returns, modest risks

KARTHIK JEROME

A comparison of April and May mutual fund inflows reveals an interesting pattern. Of the 42 categories for which data are available from the Association of Mutual Funds in India (Amfi), only five recorded a positive percentage change in May over April. Two of them are hybrid categories, suggesting that investors may be moving towards steadier products amid market volatility. Let us focus on equity savings funds, the larger of the two: The category has 24 schemes and assets under management of ₹49,194 crore.

How they work

Equity savings funds invest in equity, arbitrage, and debt. "They must maintain a minimum gross equity exposure of 65 per cent. Their net equity exposure, after hedging, must remain in the 15-40 per cent range," says Nilesh D Naik, head of mutual funds, ShareMarket by PhonePe. The arbitrage portion helps reduce risk by lowering the net equity exposure.

Lower drawdowns, tax edge

Equity savings funds usually suffer much lower drawdowns than pure equity funds. "The drawdown depends on the net equity exposure of individual funds," says Naik. Anand K Rathi, co-founder, MIRA Money, points out that the equity portion adds to returns when markets perform well.

The tax treatment of equity savings funds makes them appealing, especially to investors in higher income-tax brackets. They are treated as equity-oriented funds for tax purposes. "Long-term capital gains (LTCG), which apply when investors hold them for more than one year, are taxed at 12.5 per cent. Short-term capital gains (STCG) apply when investors hold them for up to one year. STCG is taxed at 20 per cent," says Vishal Dhawan, founder and chief executive officer (CEO), Plan Ahead Wealth Advisors.

Do not expect full equity upside. These funds do not offer the full upside of equities. "That is because their open equity exposure remains limited," says Naik. Rathi adds that they can deliver low or even negative returns when equity markets perform poorly.

to follow these steps: ● Ensure the recipient has a mutual fund account ● Submit a transfer request

The form usually requires: ● Donor's and recipient's folio numbers and details ● Number of units to be transferred ● Reason for transfer (gift) ● Signatures of both parties

Transfer is processed after verification

Once the documents are verified, the units are moved from the donor's folio to the recipient's folio.

The market value of the units is not paid out during this process. The investment continues under the new owner's name.

Is gifting MF units taxable? The gift treatment depends on the relationship between the donor and recipient and the value of the gift. Under income-tax (IT) rules, gifts received from certain relatives are generally exempt from tax. Relatives covered under the IT Act include spouse, parents, children and siblings, among others. However, if MF units are gifted to a non-relative and the value of the gift exceeds the prescribed threshold, recipient may face tax implications.

Who should consider them

Investors with a conservative-to-moderate risk profile, who want stability in the portfolio but can accept some volatility, may consider these funds. "They suit investors who want better returns than FDs can offer," says Rathi. Investors should have a minimum three-year investment horizon.

Who should stay away

Highly conservative investors and senior citizens should avoid equity savings funds. "Investors who expect a definite 6-7 per cent return may be disappointed," says Rathi. Those with a very short investment horizon of, say, one year, should also avoid this category. Those focused on long-term wealth creation, who have a five-to-10-year horizon, can earn better returns in other products.

Should you enter now?

Over the past couple of years, the equity portion has not generated meaningful returns. "This has dragged down the returns earned by the fixed-income and arbitrage portions," says Rathi. Investors may enter with a three-year horizon. "Equity market performance may improve, and the equity portion could act as a return booster over

the next three years," says Rathi.

How to select a fund

Use rolling returns to assess performance consistency. "Also check risk-adjusted return metrics such as the Sharpe ratio," says Dhawan.

Check the actual percentage allocation to equity. "Higher equity exposure can boost returns, but it can also hurt returns when equities perform poorly," says Dhawan. Also check market-cap allocation. A higher mid- and small-cap exposure may require a longer horizon. "Check the credit quality and modified duration of the debt portion to assess risks," says Dhawan.

What existing and new investors should do

Existing investors should revisit why they entered the category. "Poor one-year returns alone should not lead to stoppage of systematic investment plan (SIP) if the investment was meant for goals two to three years away," says Dhawan. Those who need money soon may move to pure liquid or arbitrage funds. New investors should recognise that these funds contain some unhedged equity exposure and should be comfortable with some volatility. "Staggered strategies can provide further control risk," says Dhawan.

Passing on MFs? How investors can gift units without cashing out

Gifting mutual fund (MF) units does not always require an investor to redeem the investment and hand over cash to the recipient. Investors can transfer existing MF units directly to another person. However, the process is not as straightforward as gifting shares or making a bank transfer.

The investor generally needs

to follow these steps: ● Ensure the recipient has a mutual fund account ● Submit a transfer request

The form usually requires: ● Donor's and recipient's folio numbers and details ● Number of units to be transferred ● Reason for transfer (gift) ● Signatures of both parties

Transfer is processed after verification

Once the documents are verified, the units are moved from the donor's folio to the recipient's folio.

The market value of the units is not paid out during this process. The investment continues under the new owner's name.

Is gifting MF units taxable? The gift treatment depends on the

Relatives covered under the IT Act include spouse, parents, children and siblings, among others. US-Iran thaw opens new sector playbook

Analysts point to oil-sensitive biz, W Asia-linked opportunities

PUNEET WADHWAN
New Delhi, 15 June

The US-Iran peace deal is likely to ease stress and benefit a host of sectors back home, say analysts. They, however, suggest that investors await the finer minutiae of the agreement before investing. At the moment, both parties — the US and Iran — could try to spin narratives due to domestic political compulsions, point out analysts at Bernstein. Some more details may only become visible in the coming weeks.

Among sectors, Bernstein expects oil-marketing companies (OMCs) to benefit from reduced crude oil prices, which dropped around 4 per cent on Monday to $83 a barrel. Aviation, travel, and Middle East and North Africa (MENA)-exposed names are other direct beneficiaries. The research and broking house has a Nifty target of 26,000 by year-end, nearly 8.3 per cent above current levels.

"We'll likely see a continued rebound in healthcare due to easing US pricing pressures. We also expect many infrastructure (infra)-linked announcements in West Asia after a decisive end to the war — involving both energy-linked and water-linked infrastructure — which could support some industrial names in the coming months," said Venugopal Garre, managing director (MD), Bernstein. With the rate-hike overhang receding, we may also see an easing of the spending environment in the US, potentially helping the information technology sector, he added.

The announcement of a likely US-Iran peace deal, to be signed on June 19, sent global markets soaring on Monday, with the Sensex and Nifty 50 indices rising over 1.3 per cent each in intraday deals.

If the ceasefire holds and energy markets stabilise, the cleaner Indian beneficiaries, according to Anirudh Garg, partner and fund

manager, INVasset PMS, are oil-sensitive domestic sectors: OMCs, aviation, logistics, cement, paint, automotive, and select financials.

Capital market intermediaries, he believes, could also become relevant because lower geopolitical risk can revive flows, risk appetite, and trading activity. Pharmaceutical remains a defensive hedge, while power remains structural, but the immediate post-West Asia basket is import-cost relief.

"India's pressure point in this conflict was never only geopolitics; it was the pass-through into crude, rupee weakness, imported inflation, and margin pressure. Lower crude and calmer freight rates can give immediate earnings relief to sectors where fuel, petrochemical, transport, or borrowing costs

matter," Garg said. That said, as a strategy, UR Bhat, cofounder and director, Alphaniti Pntech, suggests investors partly sell into the rally as there is still time for the actual deal to be signed (on June 19) in Switzerland. "I think investors should play it safe for now. Finer details of the deal are still awaited, and the actual signing is still a few days away. If oil prices fall further, stocks of OMCs and airline companies will do well. Once West Asia opens for reconstruction, Indian infra companies may bag orders and, to that extent, the stocks will be in the limelight. Reliance Industries is another counter that can do well as it has underperformed in the past few weeks," Bhat said.

Meanwhile, analysts at Morgan Stanley Research expect strong consumption growth in India going ahead, helped by lower interest rates, the effect of lower taxes, and better overall income growth. A pickup in private capital expenditure (capex), they said, is the key reason for them to remain overweight on the consumption-related sector.

Morgan Stanley's list of 'focus stocks' includes Maruti Suzuki India, Trent, Lenskart Solutions, Varun Beverages, Bajaj Finance, ICICI Bank, Larsen & Toubro, Ultra-Tech Cement, Prestige Estates, and Adani Power.

EQUITY SAVINGS FUNDS

Equity savings funds: FD plus returns, modest risks

KARTHIK JEROME

A comparison of April and May mutual fund inflows reveals an interesting pattern. Of the 42 categories for which data are available from the Association of Mutual Funds in India (Amfi), only five recorded a positive percentage change in May over April. Two of them are hybrid categories, suggesting that investors may be moving towards steadier products amid market volatility. Let us focus on equity savings funds, the larger of the two: The category has 24 schemes and assets under management of ₹49,194 crore.

How they work

Equity savings funds invest in equity, arbitrage, and debt. "They must maintain a minimum gross equity exposure of 65 per cent. Their net equity exposure, after hedging, must remain in the 15-40 per cent range," says Nilesh D Naik, head of mutual funds, ShareMarket by PhonePe. The arbitrage portion helps reduce risk by lowering the net equity exposure.

Lower drawdowns, tax edge

Equity savings funds usually suffer much lower drawdowns than pure equity funds. "The drawdown depends on the net equity exposure of individual funds," says Naik. Anand K Rathi, co-founder, MIRA Money, points out that the equity portion adds to returns when markets perform well.

The tax treatment of equity savings funds makes them appealing, especially to investors in higher income-tax brackets. They are treated as equity-oriented funds for tax purposes. "Long-term capital gains (LTCG), which apply when investors hold them for more than one year, are taxed at 12.5 per cent. Short-term capital gains (STCG) apply when investors hold them for up to one year. STCG is taxed at 20 per cent," says Vishal Dhawan, founder and chief executive officer (CEO), Plan Ahead Wealth Advisors.

Do not expect full equity upside. These funds do not offer the full upside of equities. "That is because their open equity exposure remains limited," says Naik. Rathi adds that they can deliver low or even negative returns when equity markets perform poorly.

Recent return trend

Equity saving funds	AUM (₹ cr)	Return (%)
		1-year	3-year	5-year
ICICI Prudential	16,732.9	2.9	7.8	7.7
Kotak	10,108.2	5.5	11.0	10.5
HDFC	5,643.8	2.7	9.4	8.9
SBI	5,642.7	3.0	10.0	8.8
DSP	3,478.2	2.7	9.5	8.5

Returns are for direct plans and are annualised for periods over one year. Returns as on June 12, 2026. AUM as on May 31, 2026. Source: Value Research

Who should consider them

Investors with a conservative-to-moderate risk profile, who want stability in the portfolio but can accept some volatility, may consider these funds. "They suit investors who want better returns than FDs can offer," says Rathi. Investors should have a minimum three-year investment horizon.

Who should stay away

Highly conservative investors and senior citizens should avoid equity savings funds. "Investors who expect a definite 6-7 per cent return may be disappointed," says Rathi. Those with a very short investment horizon of, say, one year, should also avoid this category. Those focused on long-term wealth creation, who have a five-to-10-year horizon, can earn better returns in other products.

Should you enter now?

Over the past couple of years, the equity portion has not generated meaningful returns. "This has dragged down the returns earned by the fixed-income and arbitrage portions," says Rathi. Investors may enter with a three-year horizon. "Equity market performance may improve, and the equity portion could act as a return booster over

the next three years," says Rathi.

How to select a fund

Use rolling returns to assess performance consistency. "Also check risk-adjusted return metrics such as the Sharpe ratio," says Dhawan.

Check the actual percentage allocation to equity. "Higher equity exposure can boost returns, but it can also hurt returns when equities perform poorly," says Dhawan. Also check market-cap allocation. A higher mid- and small-cap exposure may require a longer horizon. "Check the credit quality and modified duration of the debt portion to assess risks," says Dhawan.

What existing and new investors should do

Existing investors should revisit why they entered the category. "Poor one-year returns alone should not lead to stoppage of systematic investment plan (SIP) if the investment was meant for goals two to three years away," says Dhawan. Those who need money soon may move to pure liquid or arbitrage funds. New investors should recognise that these funds contain some unhedged equity exposure and should be comfortable with some volatility. "Staggered strategies can further control risk," says Dhawan.

Passing on MFs? How investors can gift units without cashing out

Gifting mutual fund (MF) units does not always require an investor to redeem the investment and hand over cash to the recipient. Investors can transfer existing MF units directly to another person. However, the process is not as straightforward as gifting shares or making a bank transfer.

The investor generally needs

to follow these steps:

- Ensure the recipient has a mutual fund account
- Submit a transfer request

The form usually requires:

- Donor's and recipient's folio numbers and details
- Number of units to be transferred
- Reason for transfer (gift)
- Signatures of both parties

Transfer is processed after verification

Once the documents are verified, the units are moved from the donor's folio to the recipient's folio.

The market value of the units is not paid out during this process. The investment continues under the new owner's name.

Is gifting MF units taxable?

The tax treatment depends on the relationship between the donor and recipient and the value of the gift. Under income-tax (IT) rules, gifts received from certain relatives are generally exempt from tax. Relatives covered under the IT Act include spouse, parents, children and siblings, among others. However, if MF units are gifted to a non-relative and the value of the gift exceeds the prescribed threshold, recipient may face tax implications.

US-Iran thaw opens new sector playbook

Analysts point to oil-sensitive biz, W Asia-linked opportunities

PUNEET WADHWA
New Delhi, 15 June

The US-Iran peace deal is likely to ease stress and benefit a host of sectors back home, say analysts. They, however, suggest that investors wait the finer minutiae of the agreement before investing. At the moment, both parties — the US and Iran — could try to spin narratives due to domestic political compulsions, point out analysts at Bernstein. Some more details may only become visible in the coming weeks.

Among sectors, Bernstein expects oil-marketing companies (OMCs) to benefit from reduced crude oil prices, which dropped around 4 per cent on Monday to $83 a barrel. Aviation, travel, and Middle East and North Africa (MENA)-exposed names are other direct beneficiaries. The research and broking house has a Nifty target of 26,000 by year-end, nearly 8.3 per cent above current levels.

"We'll likely see a continued rebound in healthcare due to easing US pricing pressures. We also expect many infrastructure (infra)-linked announcements in West Asia after a decisive end to the war — involving both energy-linked and water-linked infrastructure — which could support some industrial names in the coming months," said Venugopal Garre, managing director (MD), Bernstein. With the rate-hike overhang receding, we may also see an easing of the spending environment in the US, potentially helping the information technology sector, he added.

The announcement of a likely US-Iran peace deal, to be signed on June 19, sent global markets soaring on Monday, with the Sensex and Nifty 50 indices rising over 1.3 per cent each in intraday deals.

If the ceasefire holds and energy markets stabilise, the cleaner Indian beneficiaries, according to Anirudh Garg, partner and fund

manager, INVasset PMS, are oil-sensitive domestic sectors: OMCs, aviation, logistics, cement, paint, automotive, and select financials.

Capital market intermediaries, he believes, could also become relevant because lower geopolitical risk can revive flows, risk appetite, and trading activity. Pharmaceutical remains a defensive hedge, while power remains structural, but the immediate post-West Asia basket is import-cost relief.

"India's pressure point in this conflict was never only geopolitics; it was the pass-through into crude, rupee weakness, imported inflation, and margin pressure. Lower crude and calmer freight rates can give immediate earnings relief to sectors where fuel, petrochemical, transport, or borrowing costs

matter," Garg said.

That said, as a strategy, UR Bhat, cofounder and director, Alphanti Fintech, suggests investors partly sell into the rally as there is still time for the actual deal to be signed (on June 19) in Switzerland. "I think investors should play it safe for now. Finer details of the deal are still awaited, and the actual signing is still a few days away. If oil prices fall further, stocks of OMCs and airline companies will do well. Once West Asia opens for reconstruction, Indian infra companies may bag orders and, to that extent, the stocks will be in the limelight. Reliance Industries is another counter that can do well as it has underperformed in the past few weeks," Bhat said.

Meanwhile, analysts at Morgan Stanley Research expect strong consumption growth in India going ahead, helped by lower interest rates, the effect of lower taxes, and better overall income growth. A pickup in private capital expenditure (capex), they said, is the key reason for them to remain overweight on the consumption-related sector.

Morgan Stanley's list of 'focus stocks' includes Maruti Suzuki India, Trent, Lenskart Solutions, Varun Beverages, Bajaj Finance, IICI Bank, Larsen & Toubro, Ultra-Tech Cement, Prestige Estates, and Adani Power.

Equity savings funds: FD plus returns, modest risks

KARTHIK JEROME

A comparison of April and May mutual fund inflows reveals an interesting pattern. Of the 42 categories for which data are available from the Association of Mutual Funds in India (Amfi), only five recorded a positive percentage change in May over April. Two of them are hybrid categories, suggesting that investors may be moving towards steadier products amid market volatility. Let us focus on equity savings funds, the larger of the two: The category has 24 schemes and assets under management of ₹49,194 crore.

How they work

Equity savings funds invest in equity, arbitrage, and debt. "They must maintain a minimum gross equity exposure of 65 per cent. Their net equity exposure, after hedging, must remain in the 15-40 per cent range," says Nilesh D Naik, head of mutual funds, ShareMarket by PhonePe. The arbitrage portion helps reduce risk by lowering the net equity exposure.

Lower drawdowns, tax edge

Equity savings funds usually suffer much lower drawdowns than pure equity funds. "The drawdown depends on the net equity exposure of individual funds," says Naik. Anand K Rathi, co-founder, MIRA Money, points out that the equity portion adds to returns when markets perform well.

The tax treatment of equity savings funds makes them appealing, especially to investors in higher income-tax brackets. They are treated as equity-oriented funds for tax purposes. "Long-term capital gains (LTCG), which apply when investors hold them for more than one year, are taxed at 12.5 per cent. Short-term capital gains (STCG) apply when investors hold them for up to one year. STCG is taxed at 20 per cent," says Vishal Dhawan, founder and chief executive officer (CEO), Plan Ahead Wealth Advisors.

Do not expect full equity upside

These funds do not offer the full upside of equities. "That is because their open equity exposure remains limited," says Naik. Rathi adds that they can deliver low or even negative returns when equity markets perform poorly.

Recent return trend

Equity saving funds	AUM (₹ cr)	Return (%)
		1-year	3-year	5-year
ICICI Prudential	16,732.9	2.9	7.8	7.7
Kotak	10,108.2	5.5	11.0	10.5
HDFC	5,643.8	2.7	9.4	8.9
SBI	5,642.7	3.0	10.0	8.8
DSP	3,478.2	2.7	9.5	8.5

Returns are for direct plans and are annualised for periods over one year. Returns as on June 12, 2026. AUM as on May 31, 2026. Source: Value Research

Who should consider them

Investors with a conservative-to-moderate risk profile, who want stability in the portfolio but can accept some volatility, may consider these funds. "They suit investors who want better returns than FDs can offer," says Rathi. Investors should have a minimum three-year investment horizon.

Who should stay away

Highly conservative investors and senior citizens should avoid equity savings funds. "Investors who expect a definite 6-7 per cent return may be disappointed," says Rathi. Those with a very short investment horizon of, say, one year, should also avoid this category. Those focused on long-term wealth creation, who have a five-to-10-year horizon, can earn better returns in other products.

Should you enter now?

Over the past couple of years, the equity portion has not generated meaningful returns. "This has dragged down the returns earned by the fixed-income and arbitrage portions," says Rathi. Investors may enter with a three-year horizon. "Equity market performance may improve, and the equity portion could act as a return booster over

the next three years," says Rathi.

How to select a fund

Use rolling returns to assess performance consistency. "Also check risk-adjusted return metrics such as the Sharpe ratio," says Dhawan.

Check the actual percentage allocation to equity. "Higher equity exposure can boost returns, but it can also hurt returns when equities perform poorly," says Dhawan. Also check market-cap allocation. A higher mid- and small-cap exposure may require a longer horizon. "Check the credit quality and modified duration of the debt portion to assess risks," says Dhawan.

What existing and new investors should do

Existing investors should revisit why they entered the category. "Poor one-year returns alone should not lead to stoppage of systematic investment plan (SIP) if the investment was meant for goals two to three years away," says Dhawan. Those who need money soon may move to pure liquid or arbitrage funds. New investors should recognise that these funds contain some unhedged equity exposure and should be comfortable with some volatility. "Staggered strategies can further control risk," says Dhawan.

Passing on MFs? How investors can gift units without cashing out

Gift mutual fund (MF) units does not always require an investor to redeem the investment and hand over cash to the recipient. Investors can transfer existing MF units directly to another person. However, the process is not as straightforward as gifting shares or making a bank transfer.

The investor generally needs

Read full report here: mybs.in/2g6wz33

to follow these steps:

- Ensure the recipient has a mutual fund account
- Submit a transfer request

The form usually requires:

- Donor's and recipient's folio numbers and details
- Number of units to be transferred
- Reason for transfer (gift)
- Signatures of both parties

Transfer is processed after verification

Once the documents are verified, the units are moved from the donor's folio to the recipient's folio. The market value of the units is not paid out during this process. The investment continues under the new owner's name.

Is gifting MF units taxable?

The tax treatment depends on the relationship between the donor and recipient and the value of the gift. Under income-tax (IT) rules, gifts received from certain relatives are generally exempt from tax. Relatives covered under the IT Act include spouse, parents, children and siblings, among others. However, if MF units are gifted to a non-relative and the value of the gift exceeds the prescribed threshold, recipient may face tax implications.

US-Iran thaw opens new sector playbooks

Analysts point to oil-sensitive biz, W Asia-linked opportunities

PUNEET WADHWA
New Delhi, 15 June

The US-Iran peace deal is likely to ease stress and benefit a host of sectors back home, say analysts. They, however, suggest that investors await the finer minutiae of the agreement before investing. At the moment, both parties — the US and Iran — could try to spin narratives due to domestic political compulsions, point out analysts at Bernstein. Some more details may only become visible in the coming weeks.

Among sectors, Bernstein expects oil-marketing companies (OMCs) to benefit from reduced crude oil prices, which dropped around 4 per cent on Monday to $83 a barrel. Aviation, travel, and Middle East and North Africa (MENA)-exposed names are other direct beneficiaries. The research and broking house has a Nifty target of 26,000 by year-end, nearly 8.3 per cent above current levels.

"We'll likely see a continued rebound in healthcare due to easing US pricing pressures. We also expect many infrastructure (infra)-linked announcements in West Asia after a decisive end to the war — involving both energy-linked and water-linked infrastructure — which could support some industrial names in the coming months," said Venugopal Garre, managing director (MD), Bernstein. With the rate-hike overhang receding, we may also see an easing of the spending environment in the US, potentially helping the information technology sector, he added.

The announcement of a likely US-Iran peace deal, to be signed on June 19, sent global markets soaring on Monday, with the Sensex and Nifty 50 indices rising over 1.3 per cent each in intraday deals.

If the ceasefire holds and energy markets stabilise, the cleaner Indian beneficiaries, according to Anirudh Garg, partner and fund

manager, INVasset PMS, are oil-sensitive domestic sectors: OMCs, aviation, logistics, cement, paint, automotive, and select financials.

Capital market intermediaries, he believes, could also become relevant because lower geopolitical risk can revive flows, risk appetite, and trading activity. Pharmaceutical remains a defensive hedge, while power remains structural, but the immediate post-West Asia basket is import-cost relief.

"India's pressure point in this conflict was never only geopolitics; it was the pass-through into crude, rupee weakness, imported inflation, and margin pressure. Lower crude and calmer freight rates can give immediate earnings relief to sectors where fuel, petrochemical, transport, or borrowing costs

matter," Garg said.

That said, as a strategy, UR Bhat, cofounder and director, Alphanti Pntech, suggests investors partly sell into the rally as there is still time for the actual deal to be signed (on June 19) in Switzerland. "I think investors should play it safe for now. Finer details of the deal are still awaited, and the actual signing is still a few days away. If oil prices fall further, stocks of OMCs and airline companies will do well. Once West Asia opens for reconstruction, Indian infra companies may bag orders and, to that extent, the stocks will be in the limelight. Reliance Industries is another counter that can do well as it has underperformed in the past few weeks," Bhat said.

Meanwhile, analysts at Morgan Stanley Research expect strong consumption growth in India going ahead, helped by lower interest rates, the effect of lower taxes, and better overall income growth. A pickup in private capital expenditure (capex), they said, is the key reason for them to remain overweight on the consumption-related sector.

Morgan Stanley's list of 'focus stocks' includes Maruti Suzuki India, Trent, Lenskart Solutions, Varun Beverages, Bajaj Finance, ICICI Bank, Larsen & Toubro, Ultra-Tech Cement, Prestige Estates, and Adani Power.

EQUITY SAVINGS FUNDS

Equity savings funds: FD plus returns, modest risks

KARTHIK JEROME

A comparison of April and May mutual fund inflows reveals an interesting pattern. Of the 42 categories for which data are available from the Association of Mutual Funds in India (Amfi), only five recorded a positive percentage change in May over April. Two of them are hybrid categories, suggesting that investors may be moving towards steadier products amid market volatility. Let us focus on equity savings funds, the larger of the two: The category has 24 schemes and assets under management of ₹49,194 crore.

How they work

Equity savings funds invest in equity, arbitrage, and debt. "They must maintain a minimum gross equity exposure of 65 per cent. Their net equity exposure, after hedging, must remain in the 15-40 per cent range," says Nilesh D Naik, head of mutual funds, ShareMarket by PhonePe. The arbitrage portion helps reduce risk by lowering the net equity exposure.

Lower drawdowns, tax edge

Equity savings funds usually suffer much lower drawdowns than pure equity funds. "The drawdown depends on the net equity exposure of individual funds," says Naik. Anand K Rathi, co-founder, MIRA Money, points out that the equity portion adds to returns when markets perform well.

The tax treatment of equity savings funds makes them appealing, especially to investors in higher income-tax brackets. They are treated as equity-oriented funds for tax purposes. "Long-term capital gains (LTCG), which apply when investors hold them for more than one year, are taxed at 12.5 per cent. Short-term capital gains (STCG) apply when investors hold them for up to one year. STCG is taxed at 20 per cent," says Vishal Dhawan, founder and chief executive officer (CEO), Plan Ahead Wealth Advisors.

The investor generally needs

to follow these steps:

- Ensure the recipient has a mutual fund account
- Submit a transfer request

The form usually requires:

- Donor's and recipient's folio numbers and details
- Number of units to be transferred
- Reason for transfer (gift)
- Signatures of both parties

Transfer is processed after verification

Once the documents are verified, the units are moved from the donor's folio to the recipient's folio. The market value of the units is not paid out during this process. The investment continues under the new owner's name.

Is gifting MF units taxable?

The gift treatment depends on the relationship between the donor and recipient and the value of the gift.

Under income-tax (IT) rules, gifts received from certain relatives are generally exempt from tax. Relatives covered under the IT Act include spouse, parents, children and siblings, among others. However, if MF units are gifted to a non-relative and the value of the gift exceeds the prescribed threshold, recipient may face tax implications.

Recent return trend

Equity saving funds	AUM (₹ cr)	Return (%)
		1-year	3-year	5-year
ICICI Prudential	16,732.9	2.9	7.8	7.7
Kotak	10,108.2	5.5	11.0	10.5
HDFC	5,643.8	2.7	9.4	8.9
SBI	5,642.7	3.0	10.0	8.8
DSP	3,478.2	2.7	9.5	8.5

Returns are for direct plans and are annualised for periods over one year. Returns as on June 12, 2026. AUM as on May 31, 2026. Source: Value Research

Who should consider them

Investors with a conservative-to-moderate risk profile, who want stability in the portfolio but can accept some volatility, may consider these funds. "They suit investors who want better returns than FDs can offer," says Rathi. Investors should have a minimum three-year investment horizon.

Who should stay away

Highly conservative investors and senior citizens should avoid equity savings funds. "Investors who expect a definite 6-7 per cent return may be disappointed," says Rathi. Those with a very short investment horizon of, say, one year, should also avoid this category. Those focused on long-term wealth creation, who have a five-to-10-year horizon, can earn better returns in other products.

Should you enter now?

Over the past couple of years, the equity portion has not generated meaningful returns. "This has dragged down the returns earned by the fixed-income and arbitrage portions," says Rathi. Investors may enter with a three-year horizon. "Equity market performance may improve, and the equity portion could act as a return booster over

the next three years," says Rathi.

How to select a fund

Use rolling returns to assess performance consistency. "Also check risk-adjusted return metrics such as the Sharpe ratio," says Dhawan.

Check the actual percentage allocation to equity. "Higher equity exposure can boost returns, but it can also hurt returns when equities perform poorly," says Dhawan. Also check market-cap allocation. A higher mid- and small-cap exposure may require a longer horizon. "Check the credit quality and modified duration of the debt portion to assess risks," says Dhawan.

What existing and new investors should do

Existing investors should revisit why they entered the category. "Poor one-year returns alone should not lead to stoppage of systematic investment plan (SIP) if the investment was meant for goals two to three years away," says Dhawan. Those who need money soon may move to pure liquid or arbitrage funds. New investors should recognise that these funds contain some unhedged equity exposure and should be comfortable with some volatility. "Staggered strategies can further control risk," says Dhawan.

Passing on MFs? How investors can gift units without cashing out

Gifting mutual fund (MF) units does not always require an investor to redeem the investment and hand over cash to the recipient. Investors can transfer existing MF units directly to another person. However, the process is not as straightforward as gifting shares or making a bank transfer.

The investor generally needs

to follow these steps:

- Ensure the recipient has a mutual fund account
- Submit a transfer request

The form usually requires:

- Donor's and recipient's folio numbers and details
- Number of units to be transferred
- Reason for transfer (gift)
- Signatures of both parties

Transfer is processed after verification

Once the documents are verified, the units are moved from the donor's folio to the recipient's folio. The market value of the units is not paid out during this process. The investment continues under the new owner's name.

Is gifting MF units taxable?

The gift treatment depends on the relationship between the donor and recipient and the value of the gift.

Under income-tax (IT) rules, gifts received from certain relatives are generally exempt from tax. Relatives covered under the IT Act include spouse, parents, children and siblings, among others. However, if MF units are gifted to a non-relative and the value of the gift exceeds the prescribed threshold, recipient may face tax implications.

US-Iran thaw opens new sector playbook

Analysts point to oil-sensitive biz, W Asia-linked opportunities

PUNEET WADHWA
New Delhi, 15 June

The US-Iran peace deal is likely to ease stress and benefit a host of sectors back home, say analysts. They, however, suggest that investors await the finer minutiae of the agreement before investing. At the moment, both parties — the US and Iran — could try to spin narratives due to domestic political compulsions, point out analysts at Bernstein. Some more details may only become visible in the coming weeks.

Among sectors, Bernstein expects oil-marketing companies (OMCs) to benefit from reduced crude oil prices, which dropped around 4 per cent on Monday to $83 a barrel. Aviation, travel, and Middle East and North Africa (MENA)-exposed names are other direct beneficiaries. The research and broking house has a Nifty target of 26,000 by year-end, nearly 8.3 per cent above current levels.

"We'll likely see a continued rebound in healthcare due to easing US pricing pressures. We also expect many infrastructure (infra)-linked announcements in West Asia after a decisive end to the war — involving both energy-linked and water-linked infrastructure — which could support some industrial names in the coming months," said Venugopal Garre, managing director (MD), Bernstein. With the rate-hike overhang receding, we may also see an easing of the spending environment in the US, potentially helping the information technology sector, he added.

The announcement of a likely US-Iran peace deal, to be signed on June 19, sent global markets soaring on Monday, with the Sensex and Nifty 50 indices rising over 1.3 per cent each in intraday deals.

If the ceasefire holds and energy markets stabilise, the cleaner Indian beneficiaries, according to Anirudh Garg, partner and fund

manager, INVasset PMS, are oil-sensitive domestic sectors: OMCs, aviation, logistics, cement, paint, automotive, and select financials.

Capital market intermediaries, he believes, could also become relevant because lower geopolitical risk can revive flows, risk appetite, and trading activity. Pharmaceutical remains a defensive hedge, while power remains structural, but the immediate post-West Asia basket is import-cost relief.

"India's pressure point in this conflict was never only geopolitics; it was the pass-through into crude, rupee weakness, imported inflation, and margin pressure. Lower crude and calmer freight rates can give immediate earnings relief to sectors where fuel, petrochemical, transport, or borrowing costs

matter," Garg said. That said, as a strategy, UR Bhat, cofounder and director, Alphaniti Pntech, suggests investors partly sell into the rally as there is still time for the actual deal to be signed (on June 19) in Switzerland. "I think investors should play it safe for now. Finer details of the deal are still awaited, and the actual signing is still a few days away. If oil prices fall further, stocks of OMCs and airline companies will do well. Once West Asia opens for reconstruction, Indian infra companies may bag orders and, to that extent, the stocks will be in the limelight. Reliance Industries is another counter that can do well as it has underperformed in the past few weeks," Bhat said.

Meanwhile, analysts at Morgan Stanley Research expect strong consumption growth in India going ahead, helped by lower interest rates, the effect of lower taxes, and better overall income growth. A pickup in private capital expenditure (capex), they said, is the key reason for them to remain overweight on the consumption-related sector.

Morgan Stanley's list of 'focus stocks' includes Maruti Suzuki India, Trent, Lenskart Solutions, Varun Beverages, Bajaj Finance, ICICI Bank, Larsen & Toubro, Ultra-Tech Cement, Prestige Estates, and Adani Power.

EQUITY SAVINGS FUNDS

Equity savings funds: FD plus returns, modest risks

KARTHIK JEROME

A comparison of April and May mutual fund inflows reveals an interesting pattern. Of the 42 categories for which data are available from the Association of Mutual Funds in India (Amfi), only five recorded a positive percentage change in May over April. Two of them are hybrid categories, suggesting that investors may be moving towards steadier products amid market volatility. Let us focus on equity savings funds, the larger of the two: The category has 24 schemes and assets under management of ₹49,194 crore.

How they work

Equity savings funds invest in equity, arbitrage, and debt. "They must maintain a minimum gross equity exposure of 65 per cent. Their net equity exposure, after hedging, must remain in the 15-40 per cent range," says Nilesh D Naik, head of mutual funds, ShareMarket by PhonePe. The arbitrage portion helps reduce risk by lowering the net equity exposure.

Lower drawdowns, tax edge

Equity savings funds usually suffer much lower drawdowns than pure equity funds. "The drawdown depends on the net equity exposure of individual funds," says Naik. Anand K Rathi, co-founder, MIRA Money, points out that the equity portion adds to returns when markets perform well.

The tax treatment of equity savings funds makes them appealing, especially to investors in higher income-tax brackets. They are treated as equity-oriented funds for tax purposes. "Long-term capital gains (LTCG), which apply when investors hold them for more than one year, are taxed at 12.5 per cent. Short-term capital gains (STCG) apply when investors hold them for up to one year. STCG is taxed at 20 per cent," says Vishal Dhawan, founder and chief executive officer (CEO), Plan Ahead Wealth Advisors.

Do not expect full equity upside. These funds do not offer the full upside of equities. "That is because their open equity exposure remains limited," says Naik. Rathi adds that they can deliver low or even negative returns when equity markets perform poorly.

Recent return trend

Equity saving funds	AUM (₹ cr)	Return (%)
		1-year	3-year	5-year
ICICI Prudential	16,732.9	2.9	7.8	7.7
Kotak	10,108.2	5.5	11.0	10.5
HDFC	5,643.8	2.7	9.4	8.9
SBI	5,642.7	3.0	10.0	8.8
DSP	3,478.2	2.7	9.5	8.5

Who should consider them

Investors with a conservative-to-moderate risk profile, who want stability in the portfolio but can accept some volatility, may consider these funds. "They suit investors who want better returns than FDs can offer," says Rathi. Investors should have a minimum three-year investment horizon.

Who should stay away

Highly conservative investors and senior citizens should avoid equity savings funds. "Investors who expect a definite 6-7 per cent return may be disappointed," says Rathi. Those with a very short investment horizon of, say, one year, should also avoid this category. Those focused on long-term wealth creation, who have a five-to-10-year horizon, can earn better returns in other products.

Should you enter now?

Over the past couple of years, the equity portion has not generated meaningful returns. "This has dragged down the returns earned by the fixed-income and arbitrage portions," says Rathi. Investors may enter with a three-year horizon. "Equity market performance may improve, and the equity portion could act as a return booster over

the next three years," says Rathi.

How to select a fund

Use rolling returns to assess performance consistency. "Also check risk-adjusted return metrics such as the Sharpe ratio," says Dhawan.

Check the actual percentage allocation to equity. "Higher equity exposure can boost returns, but it can also hurt returns when equities perform poorly," says Dhawan. Also check market-cap allocation. A higher mid- and small-cap exposure may require a longer horizon. "Check the credit quality and modified duration of the debt portion to assess risks," says Dhawan.

What existing and new investors should do

Existing investors should revisit why they entered the category. "Poor one-year returns alone should not lead to stoppage of systematic investment plan (SIP) if the investment was meant for goals two to three years away," says Dhawan. Those who need money soon may move to pure liquid or arbitrage funds. New investors should recognise that these funds contain some unhedged equity exposure and should be comfortable with some volatility. "Staggered strategies can further control risk," says Dhawan.

Passing on MFs? How investors can gift units without cashing out

Gifting mutual fund (MF) units does not always require an investor to redeem the investment and hand over cash to the recipient. Investors can transfer existing MF units directly to another person. However, the process is not as straightforward as gifting shares or making a bank transfer.

The investor generally needs

to follow these steps:

- Ensure the recipient has a mutual fund account
- Submit a transfer request

The form usually requires:

- Donor's and recipient's folio numbers and details
- Number of units to be transferred
- Reason for transfer (gift)
- Signatures of both parties

Transfer is processed after verification

Once the documents are verified, the units are moved from the donor's folio to the recipient's folio.

The market value of the units is not paid out during this process. The investment continues under the new owner's name.

Is gifting MF units taxable?

The tax treatment depends on the relationship between the donor and recipient and the value of the gift.

Under income-tax (IT) rules, gifts received from certain relatives are generally exempt from tax. Relatives covered under the IT Act include spouse, parents, children and siblings, among others. However, if MF units are gifted to a non-relative and the value of the gift exceeds the prescribed threshold, recipient may face tax implications.

US-Iran thaw opens new sector playbooks

Analysts point to oil-sensitive biz, W Asia-linked opportunities

PUNEET WADHWAN
New Delhi, 15 June

The US-Iran peace deal is likely to ease stress and benefit a host of sectors back home, say analysts. They, however, suggest that investors await the finer minutiae of the agreement before investing. At the moment, both parties — the US and Iran — could try to spin narratives due to domestic political compulsions, point out analysts at Bernstein. Some more details may only become visible in the coming weeks.

Among sectors, Bernstein expects oil-marketing companies (OMCs) to benefit from reduced crude oil prices, which dropped around 4 per cent on Monday to $83 a barrel. Aviation, travel, and Middle East and North Africa (MENA)-exposed names are other direct beneficiaries. The research and broking house has a Nifty target of 26,000 by year-end, nearly 8.3 per cent above current levels.

"We'll likely see a continued rebound in healthcare due to easing US pricing pressures. We also expect many infrastructure (infra)-linked announcements in West Asia after a decisive end to the war — involving both energy-linked and water-linked infrastructure — which could support some industrial names in the coming months," said Venugopal Garre, managing director (MD), Bernstein. With the rate-hike overhang receding, we may also see an easing of the spending environment in the US, potentially helping the information technology sector, he added.

The announcement of a likely US-Iran peace deal, to be signed on June 19, sent global markets soaring on Monday, with the Sensex and Nifty 50 indices rising over 1.3 per cent each in intraday deals.

If the ceasefire holds and energy markets stabilise, the cleaner Indian beneficiaries, according to Anirudh Garg, partner and fund

manager, INVasset PMS, are oil-sensitive domestic sectors: OMCs, aviation, logistics, cement, paint, automotive, and select financials.

Capital market intermediaries, he believes, could also become relevant because lower geopolitical risk can revive flows, risk appetite, and trading activity. Pharmaceutical remains a defensive hedge, while power remains structural, but the immediate post-West Asia basket is import-cost relief.

"India's pressure point in this conflict was never only geopolitics; it was the pass-through into crude, rupee weakness, imported inflation, and margin pressure. Lower crude and calmer freight rates can give immediate earnings relief to sectors where fuel, petrochemical, transport, or borrowing costs matter," Garg said. That said, as a strategy, UR Bhat, cofounder and director, Alphaniti Fintech, suggests investors partly sell into the rally as there is still time for the actual deal to be signed (on June 19) in Switzerland. "I think investors should play it safe for now. Finer details of the deal are still awaited, and the actual signing is still a few days away. If oil prices fall further, stocks of OMCs and airline companies will do well. Once West Asia opens for reconstruction, Indian infra companies may bag orders and, to that extent, the stocks will be in the limelight. Reliance Industries is another counter that can do well as it has underperformed in the past few weeks," Bhat said.

Meanwhile, analysts at Morgan Stanley Research expect strong consumption growth in India going ahead, helped by lower interest rates, the effect of lower taxes, and better overall income growth. A pickup in private capital expenditure (capex), they said, is the key reason for them to remain overweight on the consumption-related sector.

Morgan Stanley's list of 'focus stocks' includes Maruti Suzuki India, Trent, Lenskart Solutions, Varun Beverages, Bajaj Finance, ICICI Bank, Larsen & Toubro, Ultra-Tech Cement, Prestige Estates, and Adani Power.

EQUITY SAVINGS FUNDS

Equity savings funds: FD plus returns, modest risks

KARTHIK JEROME

A comparison of April and May mutual fund inflows reveals an interesting pattern. Of the 42 categories for which data are available from the Association of Mutual Funds in India (Amfi), only five recorded a positive percentage change in May over April. Two of them are hybrid categories, suggesting that investors may be moving towards steadier products amid market volatility. Let us focus on equity savings funds, the larger of the two: The category has 24 schemes and assets under management of ₹49,194 crore.

How they work

Equity savings funds invest in equity, arbitrage, and debt. "They must maintain a minimum gross equity exposure of 65 per cent. Their net equity exposure, after hedging, must remain in the 15-40 per cent range," says Nilesh D Naik, head of mutual funds, ShareMarket by PhonePe. The arbitrage portion helps reduce risk by lowering the net equity exposure.

Lower drawdowns, tax edge

Equity savings funds usually suffer much lower drawdowns than pure equity funds. "The drawdown depends on the net equity exposure of individual funds," says Naik. Anand K Rathi, co-founder, MIRA Money, points out that the equity portion adds to returns when markets perform well.

The tax treatment of equity savings funds makes them appealing, especially to investors in higher income-tax brackets. They are treated as equity-oriented funds for tax purposes. "Long-term capital gains (LTCG), which apply when investors hold them for more than one year, are taxed at 12.5 per cent. Short-term capital gains (STCG) apply when investors hold them for up to one year. STCG is taxed at 20 per cent," says Vishal Dhawan, founder and chief executive officer (CEO), Plan Ahead Wealth Advisors.

Do not expect full equity upside. These funds do not offer the full upside of equities. "That is because their open equity exposure remains limited," says Naik. Rathi adds that they can deliver low or even negative returns when equity markets perform poorly.

Equity saving funds	AUM (₹ cr)	Return (%)
		1-year	3-year	5-year
ICICI Prudential	16,732.9	2.9	7.8	7.7
Kotak	10,108.2	5.5	11.0	10.5
HDFC	5,643.8	2.7	9.4	8.9
SBI	5,642.7	3.0	10.0	8.8
DSP	3,478.2	2.7	9.5	8.5

Who should consider them

Investors with a conservative-to-moderate risk profile, who want stability in the portfolio but can accept some volatility, may consider these funds. "They suit investors who want better returns than FDs can offer," says Rathi. Investors should have a minimum three-year investment horizon.

Who should stay away

Highly conservative investors and senior citizens should avoid equity savings funds. "Investors who expect a definite 6-7 per cent return may be disappointed," says Rathi. Those with a very short investment horizon of, say, one year, should also avoid this category. Those focused on long-term wealth creation, who have a five-to-10-year horizon, can earn better returns in other products.

Should you enter now?

Over the past couple of years, the equity portion has not generated meaningful returns. "This has dragged down the returns earned by the fixed-income and arbitrage portions," says Rathi. Investors may enter with a three-year horizon. "Equity market performance may improve, and the equity portion could act as a return booster over

the next three years," says Rathi.

How to select a fund

Use rolling returns to assess performance consistency. "Also check risk-adjusted return metrics such as the Sharpe ratio," says Dhawan.

Check the actual percentage allocation to equity. "Higher equity exposure can boost returns, but it can also hurt returns when equities perform poorly," says Dhawan. Also check market-cap allocation. A higher mid- and small-cap exposure may require a longer horizon. "Check the credit quality and modified duration of the debt portion to assess risks," says Dhawan.

What existing and new investors should do

Existing investors should revisit why they entered the category. "Poor one-year returns alone should not lead to stoppage of systematic investment plan (SIP) if the investment was meant for goals two to three years away," says Dhawan. Those who need money soon may move to pure liquid or arbitrage funds. New investors should recognise that these funds contain some unhedged equity exposure and should be comfortable with some volatility. "Staggered strategies can further control risk," says Dhawan.

Passing on MFs? How investors can gift units without cashing out

Gifting mutual fund (MF) units does not always require an investor to redeem the investment and hand over cash to the recipient. Investors can transfer existing MF units directly to another person. However, the process is not as straightforward as gifting shares or making a bank transfer.

The investor generally needs

to follow these steps:

- Ensure the recipient has a mutual fund account
- Submit a transfer request

The form usually requires:

- Donor's and recipient's folio numbers and details
- Number of units to be transferred
- Reason for transfer (gift)
- Signatures of both parties

Transfer is processed after verification

Once the documents are verified, the units are moved from the donor's folio to the recipient's folio.

The market value of the units is not paid out during this process. The investment continues under the new owner's name.

Is gifting MF units taxable?

The gift treatment depends on the relationship between the donor and recipient and the value of the gift. Under income-tax (IT) rules, gifts received from certain relatives are generally exempt from tax. Relatives covered under the IT Act include spouse, parents, children and siblings, among others. However, if MF units are gifted to a non-relative and the value of the gift exceeds the prescribed threshold, recipient may face tax implications.

US-Iran thaw opens new sector playbook

Analysts point to oil-sensitive biz, W Asia-linked opportunities

PUNEET WADHWA
New Delhi, 15 June

The US-Iran peace deal is likely to ease stress and benefit a host of sectors back home, say analysts. They, however, suggest that investors await the finer minutiae of the agreement before investing. At the moment, both parties — the US and Iran — could try to spin narratives due to domestic political compulsions, point out analysts at Bernstein. Some more details may only become visible in the coming weeks.

Among sectors, Bernstein expects oil-marketing companies (OMCs) to benefit from reduced crude oil prices, which dropped around 4 per cent on Monday to $83 a barrel. Aviation, travel, and Middle East and North Africa (MENA)-exposed names are other direct beneficiaries. The research and broking house has a Nifty target of 26,000 by year-end, nearly 8.3 per cent above current levels.

"We'll likely see a continued rebound in healthcare due to easing US pricing pressures. We also expect many infrastructure (infra)-linked announcements in West Asia after a decisive end to the war — involving both energy-linked and water-linked infrastructure — which could support some industrial names in the coming months," said Venugopal Garre, managing director (MD), Bernstein. With the rate-hike overhang receding, we may also see an easing of the spending environment in the US, potentially helping the information technology sector, he added.

The announcement of a likely US-Iran peace deal, to be signed on June 19, sent global markets soaring on Monday, with the Sensex and Nifty 50 indices rising over 1.3 per cent each in intraday deals.

If the ceasefire holds and energy markets stabilise, the cleaner Indian beneficiaries, according to Anirudh Garg, partner and fund

manager, INVasset PMS, are oil-sensitive domestic sectors: OMCs, aviation, logistics, cement, paint, automotive, and select financials.

Capital market intermediaries, he believes, could also become relevant because lower geopolitical risk can revive flows, risk appetite, and trading activity. Pharmaceutical remains a defensive hedge, while power remains structural, but the immediate post-West Asia basket is import-cost relief.

"India's pressure point in this conflict was never only geopolitics; it was the pass-through into crude, rupee weakness, imported inflation, and margin pressure. Lower crude and calmer freight rates can give immediate earnings relief to sectors where fuel, petrochemical, transport, or borrowing costs

matter," Garg said. That said, as a strategy, UR Bhat, cofounder and director, Alphaniti Pntech, suggests investors partly sell into the rally as there is still time for the actual deal to be signed (on June 19) in Switzerland. "I think investors should play it safe for now. Finer details of the deal are still awaited, and the actual signing is still a few days away. If oil prices fall further, stocks of OMCs and airline companies will do well. Once West Asia opens for reconstruction, Indian infra companies may bag orders and, to that extent, the stocks will be in the limelight. Reliance Industries is another counter that can do well as it has underperformed in the past few weeks," Bhat said.

Meanwhile, analysts at Morgan Stanley Research expect strong consumption growth in India going ahead, helped by lower interest rates, the effect of lower taxes, and better overall income growth. A pickup in private capital expenditure (capex), they said, is the key reason for them to remain overweight on the consumption-related sector.

Morgan Stanley's list of 'focus stocks' includes Maruti Suzuki India, Trent, Lenskart Solutions, Varun Beverages, Bajaj Finance, ICICI Bank, Larsen & Toubro, Ultra-Tech Cement, Prestige Estates, and Adani Power.

EQUITY SAVINGS FUNDS

Equity savings funds: FD plus returns, modest risks

KARTHIK JEROME

A comparison of April and May mutual fund inflows reveals an interesting pattern. Of the 42 categories for which data are available from the Association of Mutual Funds in India (Amfi), only five recorded a positive percentage change in May over April. Two of them are hybrid categories, suggesting that investors may be moving towards steadier products amid market volatility. Let us focus on equity savings funds, the larger of the two: The category has 24 schemes and assets under management of ₹49,194 crore.

How they work

Equity savings funds invest in equity, arbitrage, and debt. "They must maintain a minimum gross equity exposure of 65 per cent. Their net equity exposure, after hedging, must remain in the 15-40 per cent range," says Nilesh D Naik, head of mutual funds, ShareMarket by PhonePe. The arbitrage portion helps reduce risk by lowering the net equity exposure.

Lower drawdowns, tax edge

Equity savings funds usually suffer much lower drawdowns than pure equity funds. "The drawdown depends on the net equity exposure of individual funds," says Naik. Anand K Rathi, co-founder, MIRA Money, points out that the equity portion adds to returns when markets perform well.

The tax treatment of equity savings funds makes them appealing, especially to investors in higher income-tax brackets. They are treated as equity-oriented funds for tax purposes. "Long-term capital gains (LTCG), which apply when investors hold them for more than one year, are taxed at 12.5 per cent. Short-term capital gains (STCG) apply when investors hold them for up to one year. STCG is taxed at 20 per cent," says Vishal Dhawan, founder and chief executive officer (CEO), Plan Ahead Wealth Advisors.

Do not expect full equity upside. These funds do not offer the full upside of equities. "That is because their open equity exposure remains limited," says Naik. Rathi adds that they can deliver low or even negative returns when equity markets perform poorly.

to follow these steps: ● Ensure the recipient has a mutual fund account ● Submit a transfer request

The form usually requires: ● Donor's and recipient's folio numbers and details ● Number of units to be transferred ● Reason for transfer (gift) ● Signatures of both parties

Transfer is processed after verification. Once the documents are verified, the units are moved from the donor's folio to the recipient's folio. The market value of the units is not paid out during this process. The investment continues under the new owner's name.

Is gifting MF units taxable? The gift treatment depends on the relationship between the donor and recipient and the value of the gift. Under income-tax (IT) rules, gifts received from certain relatives are generally exempt from tax. Relatives covered under the IT Act include spouse, parents, children and siblings, among others. However, if MF units are gifted to a non-relative and the value of the gift exceeds the prescribed threshold, recipient may face tax implications.

Who should consider them

Investors with a conservative-to-moderate risk profile, who want stability in the portfolio but can accept some volatility, may consider these funds. "They suit investors who want better returns than FDs can offer," says Rathi. Investors should have a minimum three-year investment horizon.

Who should stay away

Highly conservative investors and senior citizens should avoid equity savings funds. "Investors who expect a definite 6-7 per cent return may be disappointed," says Rathi. Those with a very short investment horizon of, say, one year, should also avoid this category. Those focused on long-term wealth creation, who have a five-to-10-year horizon, can earn better returns in other products.

Should you enter now?

Over the past couple of years, the equity portion has not generated meaningful returns. "This has dragged down the returns earned by the fixed-income and arbitrage portions," says Rathi. Investors may enter with a three-year horizon. "Equity market performance may improve, and the equity portion could act as a return booster over

the next three years," says Rathi.

How to select a fund

Use rolling returns to assess performance consistency. "Also check risk-adjusted return metrics such as the Sharpe ratio," says Dhawan.

Check the actual percentage allocation to equity. "Higher equity exposure can boost returns, but it can also hurt returns when equities perform poorly," says Dhawan. Also check market-cap allocation. A higher mid- and small-cap exposure may require a longer horizon. "Check the credit quality and modified duration of the debt portion to assess risks," says Dhawan.

What existing and new investors should do

Existing investors should revisit why they entered the category. "Poor one-year returns alone should not lead to stoppage of systematic investment plan (SIP) if the investment was meant for goals two to three years away," says Dhawan. Those who need money soon may move to pure liquid or arbitrage funds. New investors should recognise that these funds contain some unhedged equity exposure and should be comfortable with some volatility. "Staggered strategies can further control risk," says Dhawan.

Passing on MFs? How investors can gift units without cashing out

Gifting mutual fund (MF) units does not always require an investor to redeem the investment and hand over cash to the recipient. Investors can transfer existing MF units directly to another person. However, the process is not as straightforward as gifting shares or making a bank transfer.

The investor generally needs

to follow these steps: ● Ensure the recipient has a mutual fund account ● Submit a transfer request

The form usually requires: ● Donor's and recipient's folio numbers and details ● Number of units to be transferred ● Reason for transfer (gift) ● Signatures of both parties

Transfer is processed after verification

Once the documents are verified, the units are moved from the donor's folio to the recipient's folio. The market value of the units is not paid out during this process. The investment continues under the new owner's name.

Is gifting MF units taxable?

The gift treatment depends on the relationship between the donor and recipient and the value of the gift. Under income-tax (IT) rules, gifts received from certain relatives are generally exempt from tax. Relatives covered under the IT Act include spouse, parents, children and siblings, among others. However, if MF units are gifted to a non-relative and the value of the gift exceeds the prescribed threshold, recipient may face tax implications.

US-Iran thaw opens new sector playbook

Analysts point to oil-sensitive biz, W Asia-linked opportunities

PUNEET WADHWA
New Delhi, 15 June

The US-Iran peace deal is likely to ease stress and benefit a host of sectors back home, say analysts. They, however, suggest that investors await the finer minutiae of the agreement before investing. At the moment, both parties — the US and Iran — could try to spin narratives due to domestic political compulsions, point out analysts at Bernstein. Some more details may only become visible in the coming weeks.

Among sectors, Bernstein expects oil-marketing companies (OMCs) to benefit from reduced crude oil prices, which dropped around 4 per cent on Monday to $83 a barrel. Aviation, travel, and Middle East and North Africa (MENA)-exposed names are other direct beneficiaries. The research and broking house has a Nifty target of 26,000 by year-end, nearly 8.3 per cent above current levels.

"We'll likely see a continued rebound in healthcare due to easing US pricing pressures. We also expect many infrastructure (infra)-linked announcements in West Asia after a decisive end to the war — involving both energy-linked and water-linked infrastructure — which could support some industrial names in the coming months," said Venugopal Garre, managing director (MD), Bernstein. With the rate-hike overhang receding, we may also see an easing of the spending environment in the US, potentially helping the information technology sector, he added.

The announcement of a likely US-Iran peace deal, to be signed on June 19, sent global markets soaring on Monday, with the Sensex and Nifty 50 indices rising over 1.3 per cent each in intraday deals.

If the ceasefire holds and energy markets stabilise, the cleaner Indian beneficiaries, according to Anirudh Garg, partner and fund

manager, INVasset PMS, are oil-sensitive domestic sectors: OMCs, aviation, logistics, cement, paint, automotive, and select financials.

Capital market intermediaries, he believes, could also become relevant because lower geopolitical risk can revive flows, risk appetite, and trading activity. Pharmaceutical remains a defensive hedge, while power remains structural, but the immediate post-West Asia basket is import-cost relief.

"India's pressure point in this conflict was never only geopolitics; it was the pass-through into crude, rupee weakness, imported inflation, and margin pressure. Lower crude and calmer freight rates can give immediate earnings relief to sectors where fuel, petrochemical, transport, or borrowing costs

matter," Garg said.

That said, as a strategy, UR Bhat, co-founder and director, Alphaniti Pntech, suggests investors partly sell into the rally as there is still time for the actual deal to be signed (on June 19) in Switzerland. "I think investors should play it safe for now. Finer details of the deal are still awaited, and the actual signing is still a few days away. If oil prices fall further, stocks of OMCs and airline companies will do well. Once West Asia opens for reconstruction, Indian infra companies may bag orders and, to that extent, the stocks will be in the limelight. Reliance Industries is another counter that can do well as it has underperformed in the past few weeks," Bhat said.

Meanwhile, analysts at Morgan Stanley Research expect strong consumption growth in India going ahead, helped by lower interest rates, the effect of lower taxes, and better overall income growth. A pickup in private capital expenditure (capex), they said, is the key reason for them to remain overweight on the consumption-related sector.

Morgan Stanley's list of 'focus stocks' includes Maruti Suzuki India, Trent, Lenskart Solutions, Varun Beverages, Bajaj Finance, ICICI Bank, Larsen & Toubro, Ultra-Tech Cement, Prestige Estates, and Adani Power.

EQUITY SAVINGS FUNDS

Equity savings funds: FD plus returns, modest risks

KARTHIK JEROME

A comparison of April and May mutual fund inflows reveals an interesting pattern. Of the 42 categories for which data are available from the Association of Mutual Funds in India (Amfi), only five recorded a positive percentage change in May over April. Two of them are hybrid categories, suggesting that investors may be moving towards steadier products amid market volatility. Let us focus on equity savings funds, the larger of the two: The category has 24 schemes and assets under management of ₹49,194 crore.

How they work

Equity savings funds invest in equity, arbitrage, and debt. "They must maintain a minimum gross equity exposure of 65 per cent. Their net equity exposure, after hedging, must remain in the 15-40 per cent range," says Nilesh D Naik, head of mutual funds, ShareMarket by PhonePe. The arbitrage portion helps reduce risk by lowering the net equity exposure.

Lower drawdowns, tax edge

Equity savings funds usually suffer much lower drawdowns than pure equity funds. "The drawdown depends on the net equity exposure of individual funds," says Naik. Anand K Rathi, co-founder, MIRA Money, points out that the equity portion adds to returns when markets perform well.

The tax treatment of equity savings funds makes them appealing, especially to investors in higher income-tax brackets. They are treated as equity-oriented funds for tax purposes. "Long-term capital gains (LTCG), which apply when investors hold them for more than one year, are taxed at 12.5 per cent. Short-term capital gains (STCG) apply when investors hold them for up to one year. STCG is taxed at 20 per cent," says Vishal Dhawan, founder and chief executive officer (CEO), Plan Ahead Wealth Advisors.

Equity saving funds	AUM (₹ cr)	Return (%)
		1-year	3-year	5-year
ICICI Prudential	16,732.9	2.9	7.8	7.7
Kotak	10,108.2	5.5	11.0	10.5
HDFC	5,643.8	2.7	9.4	8.9
SBI	5,642.7	3.0	10.0	8.8
DSP	3,478.2	2.7	9.5	8.5

Who should consider them

Investors with a conservative-to-moderate risk profile, who want stability in the portfolio but can accept some volatility, may consider these funds. "They suit investors who want better returns than FDs can offer," says Rathi. Investors should have a minimum three-year investment horizon.

Who should stay away

Highly conservative investors and senior citizens should avoid equity savings funds. "Investors who expect a definite 6-7 per cent return may be disappointed," says Rathi. Those with a very short investment horizon of, say, one year, should also avoid this category. Those focused on long-term wealth creation, who have a five-to-10-year horizon, can earn better returns in other products.

Should you enter now?

Over the past couple of years, the equity portion has not generated meaningful returns. "This has dragged down the returns earned by the fixed-income and arbitrage portions," says Rathi. Investors may enter with a three-year horizon. "Equity market performance may improve, and the equity portion could act as a return booster over

the next three years," says Rathi.

How to select a fund

Use rolling returns to assess performance consistency. "Also check risk-adjusted return metrics such as the Sharpe ratio," says Dhawan.

Check the actual percentage allocation to equity. "Higher equity exposure can boost returns, but it can also hurt returns when equities perform poorly," says Dhawan. Also check market-cap allocation. A higher mid- and small-cap exposure may require a longer horizon. "Check the credit quality and modified duration of the debt portion to assess risks," says Dhawan.

What existing and new investors should do

Existing investors should revisit why they entered the category. "Poor one-year returns alone should not lead to stoppage of systematic investment plan (SIP) if the investment was meant for goals two to three years away," says Dhawan. Those who need money soon may move to pure liquid or arbitrage funds. New investors should recognise that these funds contain some unhedged equity exposure and should be comfortable with some volatility. "Staggered strategies can further control risk," says Dhawan.

Passing on MFs? How investors can gift units without cashing out

Gifting mutual fund (MF) units does not always require an investor to redeem the investment and hand over cash to the recipient. Investors can transfer existing MF units directly to another person. However, the process is not as straightforward as gifting shares or making a bank transfer.

The investor generally needs

to follow these steps:

- Ensure the recipient has a mutual fund account
- Submit a transfer request

The form usually requires:

- Donor's and recipient's folio numbers and details
- Number of units to be transferred
- Reason for transfer (gift)
- Signatures of both parties

Transfer is processed after verification

Once the documents are verified, the units are moved from the donor's folio to the recipient's folio.

The market value of the units is not paid out during this process. The investment continues under the new owner's name.

Is gifting MF units taxable?

The tax treatment depends on the relationship between the donor and recipient and the value of the gift. Under income-tax (IT) rules, gifts received from certain relatives are generally exempt from tax. Relatives covered under the IT Act include spouse, parents, children and siblings, among others. However, if MF units are gifted to a non-relative and the value of the gift exceeds the prescribed threshold, recipient may face tax implications.

US-Iran thaw opens new sector playbook

Analysts point to oil-sensitive biz, W Asia-linked opportunities

PUNEET WADHWAN
New Delhi, 15 June

The US-Iran peace deal is likely to ease stress and benefit a host of sectors back home, say analysts. They, however, suggest that investors await the finer minutiae of the agreement before investing. At the moment, both parties — the US and Iran — could try to spin narratives due to domestic political compulsions, point out analysts at Bernstein. Some more details may only become visible in the coming weeks.

Among sectors, Bernstein expects oil-marketing companies (OMCs) to benefit from reduced crude oil prices, which dropped around 4 per cent on Monday to $83 a barrel. Aviation, travel, and Middle East and North Africa (MENA)-exposed names are other direct beneficiaries. The research and broking house has a Nifty target of 26,000 by year-end, nearly 8.3 per cent above current levels.

"We'll likely see a continued rebound in healthcare due to easing US pricing pressures. We also expect many infrastructure (infra)-linked announcements in West Asia after a decisive end to the war — involving both energy-linked and water-linked infrastructure — which could support some industrial names in the coming months," said Venugopal Garre, managing director (MD), Bernstein. With the rate-hike overhang receding, we may also see an easing of the spending environment in the US, potentially helping the information technology sector, he added.

The announcement of a likely US-Iran peace deal, to be signed on June 19, sent global markets soaring on Monday, with the Sensex and Nifty 50 indices rising over 1.3 per cent each in intraday deals.

If the ceasefire holds and energy markets stabilise, the cleaner Indian beneficiaries, according to Anirudh Garg, partner and fund

manager, INVasset PMS, are oil-sensitive domestic sectors: OMCs, aviation, logistics, cement, paint, automotive, and select financials.

Capital market intermediaries, he believes, could also become relevant because lower geopolitical risk can revive flows, risk appetite, and trading activity. Pharmaceutical remains a defensive hedge, while power remains structural, but the immediate post-West Asia basket is import-cost relief.

"India's pressure point in this conflict was never only geopolitics; it was the pass-through into crude, rupee weakness, imported inflation, and margin pressure. Lower crude and calmer freight rates can give immediate earnings relief to sectors where fuel, petrochemical, transport, or borrowing costs

matter," Garg said. That said, as a strategy, UR Bhat, cofounder and director, Alphaniti Pntech, suggests investors partly sell into the rally as there is still time for the actual deal to be signed (on June 19) in Switzerland. "I think investors should play it safe for now. Finer details of the deal are still awaited, and the actual signing is still a few days away. If oil prices fall further, stocks of OMCs and airline companies will do well. Once West Asia opens for reconstruction, Indian infra companies may bag orders and, to that extent, the stocks will be in the limelight. Reliance Industries is another counter that can do well as it has underperformed in the past few weeks," Bhat said.

Meanwhile, analysts at Morgan Stanley Research expect strong consumption growth in India going ahead, helped by lower interest rates, the effect of lower taxes, and better overall income growth. A pickup in private capital expenditure (capex), they said, is the key reason for them to remain overweight on the consumption-related sector.

Morgan Stanley's list of 'focus stocks' includes Maruti Suzuki India, Trent, Lenskart Solutions, Varun Beverages, Bajaj Finance, ICICI Bank, Larsen & Toubro, Ultra-Tech Cement, Prestige Estates, and Adani Power.

EQUITY SAVINGS FUNDS

Equity savings funds: FD plus returns, modest risks

KARTHIK JEROME

A comparison of April and May mutual fund inflows reveals an interesting pattern. Of the 42 categories for which data are available from the Association of Mutual Funds in India (Amfi), only five recorded a positive percentage change in May over April. Two of them are hybrid categories, suggesting that investors may be moving towards steadier products amid market volatility. Let us focus on equity savings funds, the larger of the two: The category has 24 schemes and assets under management of ₹49,194 crore.

How they work

Equity savings funds invest in equity, arbitrage, and debt. "They must maintain a minimum gross equity exposure of 65 per cent. Their net equity exposure, after hedging, must remain in the 15-40 per cent range," says Nilesh D Naik, head of mutual funds, ShareMarket by PhonePe. The arbitrage portion helps reduce risk by lowering the net equity exposure.

Lower drawdowns, tax edge

Equity savings funds usually suffer much lower drawdowns than pure equity funds. "The drawdown depends on the net equity exposure of individual funds," says Naik. Anand K Rathi, co-founder, MIRA Money, points out that the equity portion adds to returns when markets perform well.

The tax treatment of equity savings funds makes them appealing, especially to investors in higher income-tax brackets. They are treated as equity-oriented funds for tax purposes. "Long-term capital gains (LTCG), which apply when investors hold them for more than one year, are taxed at 12.5 per cent. Short-term capital gains (STCG) apply when investors hold them for up to one year. STCG is taxed at 20 per cent," says Vishal Dhawan, founder and chief executive officer (CEO), Plan Ahead Wealth Advisors.

Do not expect full equity upside. These funds do not offer the full upside of equities. "That is because their open equity exposure remains limited," says Naik. Rathi adds that they can deliver low or even negative returns when equity markets perform poorly.

Who should consider them

Investors with a conservative-to-moderate risk profile, who want stability in the portfolio but can accept some volatility, may consider these funds. "They suit investors who want better returns than FDs can offer," says Rathi. Investors should have a minimum three-year investment horizon.

Who should stay away

Highly conservative investors and senior citizens should avoid equity savings funds. "Investors who expect a definite 6-7 per cent return may be disappointed," says Rathi. Those with a very short investment horizon of, say, one year, should also avoid this category. Those focused on long-term wealth creation, who have a five-to-10-year horizon, can earn better returns in other products.

Should you enter now?

Over the past couple of years, the equity portion has not generated meaningful returns. "This has dragged down the returns earned by the fixed-income and arbitrage portions," says Rathi. Investors may enter with a three-year horizon. "Equity market performance may improve, and the equity portion could act as a return booster over

the next three years," says Rathi.

How to select a fund

Use rolling returns to assess performance consistency. "Also check risk-adjusted return metrics such as the Sharpe ratio," says Dhawan.

Check the actual percentage allocation to equity. "Higher equity exposure can boost returns, but it can also hurt returns when equities perform poorly," says Dhawan. Also check market-cap allocation. A higher mid- and small-cap exposure may require a longer horizon. "Check the credit quality and modified duration of the debt portion to assess risks," says Dhawan.

What existing and new investors should do

Existing investors should revisit why they entered the category. "Poor one-year returns alone should not lead to stoppage of systematic investment plan (SIP) if the investment was meant for goals two to three years away," says Dhawan. Those who need money soon may move to pure liquid or arbitrage funds. New investors should recognise that these funds contain some unhedged equity exposure and should be comfortable with some volatility. "Staggered strategies can further control risk," says Dhawan.

Passing on MFs? How investors can gift units without cashing out

Gifting mutual fund (MF) units does not always require an investor to redeem the investment and hand over cash to the recipient. Investors can transfer existing MF units directly to another person. However, the process is not as straightforward as gifting shares or making a bank transfer.

Transfer is processed after verification. Once the documents are verified, the units are moved from the donor's folio to the recipient's folio.

The market value of the units is not paid out during this process. The investment continues under the new owner's name.

Is gifting MF units taxable? The tax treatment depends on the relationship between the donor and recipient and the value of the gift.

Under income-tax (IT) rules, gifts received from certain relatives are generally exempt from tax. Relatives covered under the IT Act include spouse, parents, children and siblings, among others. However, if MF units are gifted to a non-relative and the value of the gift exceeds the prescribed threshold, recipient may face tax implications.
