Dear Sir / Madam,

UPDATE: SUCCESSFULLY DEVELOPED LUMPY SKIN DISEASE MEDICINE FOR CATTLE

SYMBOL: AJOONI

Our company wishes to inform with great pleasure that our company has successfully done research and development of lumpy skin disease.

Ajooni is fully committed to build and sustain itself as an organization where Innovation is a key driver. Company is constantly experimenting and working on research-based different health care solutions by a strong Research & Development team, working closely with leading research agencies, universities and independent scientists for product and process development. Its focus is to develop cost effective solutions to improve animal health, sustainable productivity of dairy and poultry farm, and thereby, the profitability of farmers.

The recent fast-spreading outbreak of lumpy skin disease (LSD) in cattle is estimated to have infected large number of animals particularly cows across India and over thousands of head of cattle have succumbed to the disease. Farmers and cattle-rearing communities in the affected areas are badly suffering with the fast spread of this disease.

Ajooni Biotech Ltd has been working for the last few months to develop new medicines to control Lumpy Skin disease as a part of its regular research work and has been successful to produce a most effective formula at very reasonable cost by our expert team of Doctors and Scientists.

The animal starts improving with first few doses and fully recovered with in a week's time. We have run very successful trails in Dairy Farms and results are very encouraging and really marvelous. Our unique product is antipyretic, anti-inflammatory and antiallergic also. It overcomes the ill effects of Lumpy skin disease in addition to fever, lacrimation, hyper salivation and characteristic skin eruption.

You are requested to take the above information on records.

Thanking You,
Yours Truly,
For Ajooni Biotech Limited
