6 mt sugar exports allowed in 2022-23

Lower quota in view of high domestic prices, review later

SANDIP DAS
New Delhi, November 6

THE GOVERNMENT ON Sunday allowed exports of 6 million tonne (mt) of sugar in the 2022-23 season (October-September), as against 11.2 mt shipped out in the last year. "By restricting the sugar exports, domestic prices will remain under control and no major inflationary trends will arise in the domestic market," according to a food ministry statement on Sunday.

It stated that the sugarcane production in the country will be reviewed periodically and based on the estimates, additional quantity of sugar exports would be considered. Sources said that another 2-3 mt of exports may be allowed later in the season.

The Indian Sugar Mills Association (ISMA) had earlier stated that the country could easily export 8 mt of sugar in the 2022-23 season.

As per food ministry's assessment, domestic consumption of sugar in the 2022-23 season has been estimated at 27.5 mt, while around 5 mt would be used for ethanol production and a closing balance of 6 mt is likely on September 30, 2023. The crushing of sugarcane has com-

BID TO CURB INFLATIONARY TRENDS

Govt has allowed exports of 6 mt of sugar in the 2022-23 season, as against 11.2 mt shipped out in the last year

In 2021-22, a record 11 mt of sugar was exported. India emerged as the world's 2nd largest exporter after Brazil.

menced and a new crop is expected to arrive in the market by December.

In the 2021-22 season, a record 11 mt of sugar was exported from the country and India emerged as the world's second largest exporter of sweeter after Brazil. The value of sugar exports last season was ₹ 40,000 crore.

The modal retail prices of sugar across key cities have remained unchanged at ₹42/kg since the beginning of September, as per the department of consumer affairs.

Officials said that by allowing 6 mt of sugar exports in the first tranche, mills will be able to take benefits of favourable global prices of sweeter so that cane dues of farmers in current sugar season would be paid timely. This would reduce the working capital cost of mills because of the optimum level of stocks. According to ISMA, the country's sugar output for the 2022-23 season (October-September) is estimated to be around 41 mt which includes around 4.5 mt to be diverted towards making ethanol. The domestic consumption would be around 27.5 mt.

Meanwhile, the food ministry last month extended the deadline for implementing the export release orders (ERO) of sugar issued for the 2021-22 season till November 30, 2022. It implies that the export quota issue in the previous crop year (2021-22) could be executed till November 30, 2022. An ERO is a permit issued to mills for exports of sugar.

Draft Digital Act by early 2023: MoS IT

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
New Delhi, November 6

A SIGNIFICANT AMOUNT of work has been done on proposed Digital India Act, and the draft legislative framework to support 'India's techade' is expected by early 2023, Minister of State for IT Rajeev Chandrasekhar has said. The comments assume significance as India is moving swiftly towards a strong framework to catalyse its digital ambitions and govern online ecosystem, with openness, user safety and trust as the guiding principles.

At the same time, the government has asserted that extensive consultation will go into framing key legislations which are going to be essential building blocks for 'new India' and its digital architecture.

DEEPAK PENTAL, NATIONAL SCIENCE CHAIR OF SCIENCE AND ENGINEERING RESEARCH BOARD

GM mustard could reach farmers in 2-3 years

LAST MONTH, THE country's bio-tech regulator, Genetic Engineering Appraisal Committee (GEAC), under the union ministry of environment, forest and climate change, recommended the 'environmental' release of DMH 11, transgenic hybrid mustard developed by Deepak Pental and his team at the Centre for Genetic Manipulation of Crop Plants, University of Delhi. Pental, who is also National Science Chair of Science and Engineering Research Board, under Department of Science and Technology, spoke to Sandip Das on the new seed variety and its potential to boost oilseeds production.

Q: What was the rationale behind developing the oil seed variety?

Since 1994, we have been working on developing new varieties for the mustard crop. For oilseeds production we attained self-sufficiency for some time but in the last 15 to 20 years, our domestic production could not match the rising demand which boosted imports. Currently, oilseed productivity is low and farmers do not make adequate economic gains from these crops. This is even as production of cereals such as wheat and rice have risen in recent years. Of the total edible oil imports of Rs 1.5 trillion last fiscal, a major chunk was palm oil which can be used for making confectionaries but it is linked to health issues.

Q: How did the research start and how many years it took for developing the variety for extended field trials?

Mustard was grown in the then Soviet Union (eastern Europe) as well. When we crossed these lines (varieties) with Indian lines many years ago, we found that the hybrids produced higher yields. Indian gene pool had come to a saturation point for variability in developing new varieties. The east European gene pool had many interesting characteristics which need to be transferred for Indian mustard for varietal improvement. DMH 11 was the first hybrid developed by crossing a popular domestic variety 'Varuna' (the barnase line) with an east European 'early Heera-2' variety (barstar) developed by Nagpur university in a programme funded by the National Dairy Development Board (NDDB). NDDB late 1990s mission for edible oil collaboration with Canada. The transgenic variety was developed in 2002 and a few trials were conducted soon with permission. In subsequent years, clearances for GM crops did not progress after BT brinjal approved for wider environmental release by the then Genetic Engineering Approval Committee in 2009, was stalled.

Q: In terms of yield of mustard, how do you assess DMH11's performance?

We expect at least 20-30% yield increase (from current level of 1-1.5 tonne per hectare). The yield would vary across various agro-ecologies. We have tested this hybrid irrigated fields in mustard-growing regions of Rajasthan and Haryana and the variety has performed well. Widening the gene pool of Indian mustard varieties is critical, whether through conventional breeding or genetic modification.

Q: How long would it take DMH 11 to reach farmers?

We could have gone for larger field trials as approved by GEAC this year. But for better demonstration or performance of the crop, sowing should be completed by October 15, which looks difficult now. Next year we will do field demonstration on a large scale and hopefully in the next 2-3 years, farmers would be able to sow the transgenic variety of seed.

Q: There are sections still opposed to GM crops...

They are obstructing the use of good science. It gets tiring when people opposing GM technology keep repeating the same misinformation. Hopefully the supreme court will see the benefits GM crops would bring in. (The apex court will hear a case against GM mustard on November 10)

POST FESTIVE SEASON TREND

Liquidity turns surplus as demand for cash drops

HITESH VYAS
Mumbai, November 6

THE LIQUIDITY IN the banking system has turned to a surplus in November as the demand for cash seen during the festive season tapers and also on likely increase in government spending. During the first three days of the month, the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) absorbed a daily average of ₹71,090 crore from the banking system.

This compares with a daily average injection of ₹58,213.98 crore between October 20 and October 31, 2022, when the liquidity situation tightened on account of higher demand for cash during the festive season, GST and other tax related outflows and the Reserve Bank's intervention in the foreign exchange market to contain volatility in the rupee.

Liquidity in the banking system refers to readily available cash that banks need to meet short-term business and financial needs.

"Compared to what we were seeing in October, that (liquidity) tightness was expected to kind of abate in November because the high currency demand during the festive season would have gone and also with the expectation that the government spending will increase and that will improve the liquidity situation," Care Ratings chief economist Rajani Sinha.

While on November 1, the absorption of surplus liquidity was to the tune of ₹26,140.89 crore, the central bank absorbed ₹93,163.62 crore and ₹93,965.62 crore on November 2 and November 3, respectively.

"There must be some lumpy spending by the government and that is what is getting reflected here," said Soumyajit Niyogi, director, core analytical group, India Ratings and Research. Last week, the Reserve Bank of India governor Shaktikanta Das said that the liquidity strain seen in October was likely to be transitory on account of several factors.

"First, the leakage due to currency demand will slow down after the festive season; and as currency returns to the banking system, the system liquidity will improve. Second, government expenditure is likely to pick up after the monsoon season. Third, the pace of forex outflows has moderated, which augurs well for system liquidity, going ahead," Das had said at a banking event. The flows from foreign portfolio investors (FPI) also resumed in October after being negative in September. Das had said that deposit growth of banks has picked up in recent fortnights and is working towards bridging the funding gap associated with double-digit credit offtake.

The governor said the interaction of global and domestic developments somewhat tightened the liquidity conditions in October and the average daily absorption under the liquidity adjustment facility (LAF) amounted to ₹1.35 trillion during the month, down from the average daily absorption of ₹2 trillion in September this year.

Analysts feel that, unlike last year, the liquidity in the banking system is not going to be in extreme surplus as it will defeat the RBI's purpose of taming inflation. "Overall the expectation is that the RBI will not allow that kind of surplus liquidity to be in the system because that doesn't serve their purpose when they are hiking rates. It (rate hike) will be more effective when the liquidity in the system is not abundant," Care Ratings Sinha said.

Cotton prices likely to remain subdued due to surplus supply

NAYAN DAVE
Ahmedabad, November 6

DOMESTIC COTTON PRICES are likely to remain subdued over the third quarter of the current fiscal due to fresh arrival of cotton in the markets in key growing states. Compared to the previous season's nearly 30.7 million bales (170 kg per bale), Cotton Association of India (CAI) has estimated an increase in cotton production by almost 12% to 340 to 35 million bales in the current 2022-23 domestic season (October to September).

As per a recent report of India Ratings and Research (Ind-Ra) estimated higher production of cotton is supported by a 7% higher area under cultivation in the current domestic cotton season. The report claims that with the domestic as well as global consumption likely to be lower than the previous season, a supply surplus is expected and it may weigh on the prices.

The trend is reflected in average month-on-month prices that have reduced by nearly 13.4% and 0.5% on year-on-year basis, says the report. Though the spread between Indian cotton and international cotton prices reduced considerably by

A supply surplus is expected and it is likely to weigh on the prices

Cool domestic prices may allow spinners to regain some export competitiveness around 50%, Indian cotton continued to be more expensive than international cotton during October this year, claims the report.

According to CAI president Atul Ganatra cotton prices in the domestic market are hovering around ₹65,000 per candy (356 kg) as against ₹51,000 per candy or 78.5 cent in International Cotton Exchange (ICE). "In fact, some of the multinational firms are engaged in forward selling January month contracts at ₹59,000-60,000 per candy in the domestic market. They are hedging their risk by taking the ICE January contract at ₹50,000 or 78 cent. This activity is alarming for the entire textile value chain, especially for spinners and yarn buyers," says Ganatra.

Spinning mills across India are expecting and waiting for further downfall in domestic cotton prices, says Gautam Dhamania, secretary Spinners Association of Gujarat (SAG), adding that in order to compete in international cotton yarn market, local mills need to source raw-material at prevailing international prices as out of India's total production of cotton yarn, 40% is being exported.

"The spread between international and domestic prices of cotton determines the competitiveness of Indian yarn spinners. While global cotton prices fell 17% between April and August this year in anticipation of higher production, domestic prices rose 2% because of limited supply during the period.
