Anondita Medicare expands business across Nepal, Bhutan and Bangladesh through new distribution partnerships

Anondita Medicare's three-country expansion covers COBRA condoms, personal lubricants and surgical gloves

New Delhi, 2nd November 2026: Anondita Medicare Limited has entered new distribution arrangements in Nepal, Bhutan and Bangladesh as it looks to grow its business in neighbouring markets. The partnerships will help the company take its COBRA condom range and other healthcare products, including personal lubricants and surgical gloves, to more customers through local distributors. Sales of the company's condoms have already begun through one of its new partners in Nepal.

In Nepal, Anondita Medicare appointed three distribution partners in October 2026 to develop its business across different product categories and customer segments. Lotus Pharmaceuticals Ltd., Kathmandu, a pharmaceutical and FMCG importer and distributor, will focus on condoms and personal lubricants. The company will also explore sales through Daraz, one of Nepal's major e-commerce platforms, to reach consumers through online channels.

SSR Traders, a medium-sized distributor based in central Kathmandu, has already commenced sales of Anondita Medicare's condoms in three-piece and 10-piece retail packs. The initial sales mark the start of commercial activity through the new distribution network in Nepal. Another partner, Hitayu Holdings Pvt. Ltd., Kathmandu, is an importer of surgical and disposable medical products operating in the Chhetrapati area. The company's proposed product focus extends beyond condoms to include surgical gloves, contraceptives, nebulisers, pregnancy test kits as well as personal lubricants. This will provide the company with an opportunity to develop a wider presence in the local healthcare market.

In Bhutan, Anondita Medicare has finalised an arrangement with Prema Olo Pharmaceuticals & Medical Supply, a pharmaceutical importer and distributor with a focus on government supply channels. The proposed arrangement covers the import and distribution of condoms and surgical gloves, with government hospitals and clinics identified as key potential channels. The partnership is expected to provide a route for the company to develop its presence in the country's institutional healthcare supply segment, subject to the applicable requirements.

The company has also finalised two distribution partnerships in Bangladesh for its COBRA condom portfolio, which covers both premium and economy segments. National Marketing Company, based in Jessore, imports surgical and disposable medical products and is expected to focus on northern Bangladesh. Its proposed product portfolio includes premium condoms and surgical gloves. R K Corporation, located in Nawabganj, Dhaka, imports pharmaceutical products and medical equipment. The company will concentrate on the economy category which includes the Midnight and COBRA CC condom ranges, with the intention of targeting the interior markets of eastern Bangladesh.

Commenting on the company's expansion into neighbouring markets, Mr. Anupam Ghosh, Managing Director, Anondita Medicare Limited said, "Expanding into neighbouring markets is an important step in growing our international presence. We see opportunities for our COBRA condom portfolio as well as other healthcare products, including surgical gloves and personal lubricants. Each market has its own distribution structure and customer requirements, so working with local partners will help us build a better understanding of these requirements and reach customers through established channels."

Anondita Medicare Limited manufactures condoms under its COBRA brand and also operates in other healthcare product categories. The company's distribution partnerships in Nepal, Bhutan and Bangladesh form part of its efforts to expand its international reach through local market relationships. As the partnerships progress, the company will look to develop product availability across retail and institutional channels in line with the regulatory and commercial requirements of each country.
