Coal reserves at 175.5 MT amid rising power demand

SAURAV ANAND
New Delhi, February 27

AS ELECTRICITY DEMAND began rising from January levels and summer approaches, state-run Coal India has accumulated a combined coal availability of about 175.5 million tonne (MT) across pitheads, power plants and transit.

As of February 26, Coal India's producing subsidiaries were holding 115 MTs of coal at pitheads, with the stock expected to increase further by the end of the fiscal year. At the consumption end, domestic coal-based thermal power plants were carrying nearly 55 MT of inventory as of 25 February, the highest level for this period. In addition, 5.5 MT of coal is currently in transit across goods sheds, washeries and ports.

Taken together, the cumulative accessible stock stands at approximately 175.5 MT. The build-up comes at a time when electricity consumption has begun trending upward after winter, ahead of the peak summer months when cooling demand typically pushes load higher.

In parallel, Coal India reported 60.2 MTs of in-situ coal exposure at mines contributing around 90% of its annual output as of mid-February. This refers to coal already uncovered through overburden removal and available for extraction at short notice.

India seeks to cut power sector coal imports by 30%

INDIA, THE WORLD'S second-largest importer of thermal coal, wants to cut those imports for power plants by at least 30%, asking them to test increased blending with domestic coal, government and industry officials familiar with the plan said.

India's power plants used nearly 50 million tons of imported coal in 2025 from countries like Indonesia, South Africa and Russia. The government aims to cut this by at least 15 million tonne (MT) this year, said two government officials and one industry source.

New Delhi wants to reduce reliance on imports for the country's nearly 17GW of power plants built to run on imported coal.

exposed coal in-situ provides strong operational assurance," a senior Coal India official told FE.

Coal-fired generation continues to account for the bulk of India's electricity supply, particularly during peak load periods. Adequate coal inventories at power plants are monitored closely during the pre-summer months to avoid supply constraints.

The current stock position may also influence import decisions. International coal prices have shown an upward trend in February 2026, increasing procurement costs for imported fuel.

India faces 82% talent crunch, AI skills elude employers: Report

FE BUREAU
New Delhi, February 27

INDIA'S TALENT CRUNCH has deepened sharply this year, with over eight in ten employers reporting difficulty in finding skilled workers, according to the latest Global Talent Shortage Survey by ManpowerGroup. The country's 82% shortage rate — up from last year — is well above the global average of 72%, placing India among the world's most talent-constrained markets.

For the first time, artificial intelligence (AI)-related capabilities have emerged as the hardest to find, surpassing traditional engineering and IT skills. Employers surveyed identified AI literacy and AI model development as the scarcest skills, underlining how automation and digital transformation are reshaping the labour market.

The 2026 survey, which drew responses from 3,051 employers across India and more than 39,000 globally, found that while global hiring challenges have eased slightly since 2025 (72% versus 74%), the competition for AI-driven expertise has intensified. Countries such as Slovakia (87%), Greece (84%), and Japan (84%) joined India at the top of the shortage rankings.

Industries facing the most acute talent gaps in India include Engineering, Operations & Logistics, and Manufacturing, sectors critical to the country's growth ambitions. Experts say that the persistent scarcity reflects a deeper structural imbalance rather than a temporary disruption.

"India's talent shortage at 82%, significantly above the global average, signals a structural transformation in the labour market rather than a cyclical one," said Sandeep Gulati, Managing Director for India and the Middle East at ManpowerGroup.

"The surge in demand for AI skills reflects that AI is not replacing jobs but fundamentally reshaping how work gets done. Employers are no longer hiring only for roles; they are hiring for future readiness."

AI to disrupt India's services sector: Rajan

BLOOMBERG
February 28

ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE (AI) will be disruptive for India's services sector, particularly the software firms, but warnings of a doomsday scenario are exaggerated, former Reserve Bank of India Governor Raghuram Rajan said in an interview.

"The Indian services story can still persist in many other areas outside of software, but yes, AI will be a challenge," Rajan, a professor at the University of Chicago Booth School of Business, said Friday in an interview with Bloomberg Television's Haslinda Amin and Menaka Doshi. "Things take time. The firms that are not technology-savvy will take more time. That is it."

While software firms are cutting jobs as AI is rolled out more widely, it could also lead to more demand. India's software firms and employees will have to retool and reskill "really fast," but "this is not something they cannot overcome."

India, home to the world's back-office operations from call centers to IT outsourcing, risks disruption as artificial intelligence (AI) automates routine coding and customer-support jobs that employ millions. A recent note by Citirini Research warned that Indian IT firms could see pressure on revenues, triggering a selloff in their stocks earlier this week.

"Let's not get overly wound up in science fiction and think that is the outcome," Rajan said commenting about the Citirini note.
