Governor Koshyari to discuss "legal aspects of the delay in formation of a government, but not to stake claim. Speaking to reporters after meeting Koshyari, state BJP chief Chandrakant Patil said: "It is true that it has taken more than normal time to stake claim for government formation in Maharashtra." "We discussed the legal aspects of the current situation with the governor. We will hold talks with our leaders and decide next course of action," he said.

In a related development, union minister and senior BJP leader Nitin Gadkari met Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS) chief Mohan Bhagwat in Nagpur on Thursday morning, but said his meeting should not be seen in the context of government formation in Maharashtra. On Wednesday, Congress leader Ahmed Patel had called on Gadkari in New Delhi, but said the meeting was to

On Thursday, Thackeray chaired a meeting of Sena's new MLAs for over an hour, during which the legislators reiterated that the "equal sharing of posts and responsibilities" formula agreed upon before the Lok Sabha polls should be implemented. The Sena MLAs passed a resolution, authorising Uddhav Thackeray to take a "final decision" on government formation in Maharashtra.

"It is necessary for all the MLAs to be together in the prevailing situation. Whatever decision Uddhav*ji* takes will be binding on all of us," Sena MLA Sunil Prabhu said.

"Threats and blackmailing won't work now," said Sena Rajya Sabha MP Sanjay Raut.

Maharashtra Advocate General Ashutosh Kumbhakoni met Governor Koshyari at Raj Bhavan amid talk of the latter stepping in to appoint a caretaker the state's top job.

Anant Kalse, former principal secretary of the state legislature, told a television channel that the onus is on Governor Koshyari to act if no party stakes claim to form the new government. If no party comes forward, the governor can invite the single largest party to form the government, Kalse said.

"If that party shows its inability to form the new government, then the governor will invite the second largest party to form the government," Kalse said.

"There is no provision of a caretaker government according to the Constitution but there have been such incidents even at the Centre," he said. "The tenure of a caretaker government is a grey area but the new government will have to be formed soon," Kalse said.

Former Maharashtra Advocate General Shrihari Aney said, it is a "very long time" before one can think of imposing President's rule in the state. "There are many options and actions to be taken before reaching such a decision," Aney said.
