India-Mauritius tax treaty amended to curb misuse

SHUBHAM RANA
New Delhi, October 14

THE FINANCE MINISTRY has amended the India-Mauritius Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement (DTAA) by introducing a Principal Purpose Test (PPT) to curb misuse of the treaty benefits, effective August 10, 2026.

Under the PPT, tax authorities can deny treaty benefits to a Mauritius-based investor if obtaining the benefits was one of the primary purposes of an arrangement or transaction.

The ministry has also amended the preamble and the entitlement to benefits provision of the India-Mauritius DTAA.

"The revised treaty expressly clarifies that its objective is to eliminate double taxation without creating opportunities for non-taxation or reduced taxation through tax evasion or avoidance," said Riaz Thingna, Partner-Tax, Grant Thornton Bharat.

The amended treaty would empower tax authorities to deny treaty benefits – like lower tax rates on capital gains, dividend income or exemptions – unless the relevant Mauritius entity has

EVOLVING DEAL

■ The tax authorities can now deny treaty benefits to a Mauritius-based investor if obtaining the benefits was one of the purposes of an arrangement or transaction

■ The change will have implications for foreign portfolio investors, PE funds, VC funds etc with a nominal presence in the island country

■ The India-Mauritius DTAA was signed in April 1983 and amended by a protocol in May 2016. The new protocol, which introduces the PPT, was signed in 2024

genuine commercial reasons to exist. The change will have implications for foreign portfolio investors, private equity funds, venture capital funds etc, with a nominal presence in the island country, which offers a benign tax regime.

The India-Mauritius DTAA was signed in April 1983 and amended by a protocol in May 2016. The new protocol, which introduces the PPT, was signed in 2024. Mauritius had earlier made the necessary changes in its domestic law in deference of the new protocol.

The Central Board of Direct Taxes (CBDT) in January 2025 clarified that the PPT would apply prospectively, while treaty-specific grandfathering remains protected. Investments made prior to April 1, 2017, would remain outside the scope of the PPT.

The PPT's potential application to assets, including convertible debentures and shares of foreign companies deriving value from Indian assets, merits careful consideration even for pre-protocol investments, said Subramaniam Krishnan, tax partner, EY India.

"The CBDT Circular of January 2025 was a welcome and important clarification, confirming the prospective application of the PPT and importantly, that the existing treaty-specific grandfathering provisions remain outside its purview," said Kunal Shah, partner at Price Waterhouse & Co.

"This provided much-needed clarity on the scope and application of the new PPT framework. The subsequent March 2025 clarification that judicial anti-avoidance principles would continue to operate independently may, however, merit further clarity in light of the Supreme Court's decision in Tiger Global, particularly on the interplay between such principles and treaty grandfathering," Shah said.

According to Thingna, it will be critical for investors to demonstrate commercial rationale and substance for investments and transactions routed through Mauritius.

"Given the Supreme Court's ruling in the Tiger Global matter, many taxpayers had already commenced a review of their holding structures. However, the recent treaty amendment significantly heightens the importance of such reviews and the continued availability of treaty benefits," Thingna said.

NIIF bets ₹7.6K cr on data centre push

INDIA'S QUASI-SOVEREIGN WEALTH fund is planning to invest up to $800 million (about ₹7,600 crore) in data centres and related businesses, seeking to expand in the space after drawing billions in added investments.

The National Investment and Infrastructure Fund (NIIF) is likely to draw as much as $3.2 billion in investments for one of its entities, Chief Executive Officer Sanjiv Aggarwal said in an interview with Bloomberg Television.

Data centres is a new emerging side. It is getting a lot of attention from us

Between $700 million to $800 million of that will go to data centres, he said.

Meanwhile, NIIF is planning to launch a performing private credit fund in the next few quarters, he said.

Set up by PM Narendra Modi's government in 2015, NIIF now manages around $7 billion in equity capital commitments across infrastructure, private markets, growth equity and climate investments. It's backed by the Indian government along-side global investors such as Temasek Holdings, Abu Dhabi Investment Authority and Australian Super.

As global demand for AI computing capacity has accelerated, India has sought to strengthen its position as a data centre hub. An estimated $90 billion investment opportunity could emerge across India's data centre value chain by fiscal year 2035, extending beyond capacity additions into related infrastructure and services, according to a KPMG report. "Data centres is a new emerging side. It is getting a lot of attention from us," Aggarwal said. "Indian infrastructure has been a very attractive area of investment for international investors."

Global investors have poured billions of dollars into Indian roads, renewable energy, warehouses and data centres, complementing a government infrastructure push.

Electricity data sharing framework this month

SAURAV ANAND
New Delhi, October 14

THE POWER MINISTRY will roll out the National Electricity Data Sharing Framework this month, creating a structured system for sharing electricity-sector data as the government looks to accelerate the use of artificial intelligence for demand forecasting, grid management and planning.

The framework will cover data across generation, transmission, distribution, grid operations and power markets, providing utilities and technology companies, particularly startups, a common base for developing AI-led applications and decision-making tools.

Power Secretary Pankaj Agarwal said the framework has been prepared after consultations with stakeholders and will be launched in October. It will also provide for a National Electricity Data Governance Committee, headed by the Central Electricity Authority (CEA) chairman, with representatives from the government as well as public and private industry.

Data centre policy in the works

THE GOVERNMENT IS rolling out a policy for data centres, Junior IT minister Jitin Prasada said on Wednesday, adding the government wants to keep consumers from paying more for electricity as the sector's power use draws concern worldwide. The move follows protests by residents in cities such as Mumbai and Visakhapatnam against data centres planned by Amazon and Google over concerns including water and electricity use.

India does not have a dedicated policy for the sector, which is approved under existing environmental and building rules, with some states offering their own incentives.
