Tata Group, JSW to spend $1 bn on EV, battery tech

TATA GROUP AND JSW Group are looking to spend nearly $1 billion to build domestic capabilities in electric-vehicle and battery technologies, people familiar with the matter said, reflecting a growing urgency on the part of the country's biggest companies to reduce their reliance on Chinese technology.

The conglomerates are separately funding research and development centres aimed at building in-house expertise in next-generation battery technologies and advanced EV systems, said the people who asked not to be identified because the details are private.

Batteries are the priciest and most technically demanding part of an EV, and the investments signal a more deliberate push by Indian companies to build local capability. China is growing increasingly guarded about sharing critical technology as the world's No. 2 economy seeks to ring-fence its core expertise areas amid a tariff war with the US.

FUTURISTIC BET

■ Tata's battery unit Agradas is spending more than $400 mn on a new R&D facility in Bengaluru

■ JSW Motors plans to invest at least $500 mn over the next five to six years in a research hub at Maharashtra

■ Batteries are the priciest and most technically demanding part of an EV

■ China is growing increasingly guarded about sharing critical technology

■ The goal is to adapt global automotive technology to Indian conditions

Tata's battery unit, Agradas, is spending more than $400 million on a new R&D facility in Bengaluru focused on developing lithium iron phosphate, or LFP, and lithium manganese iron phosphate technologies to create products for which it currently depends from China, the people said.

Bharti's arm launches cybersecurity platform

■ FE BUREAU
Mumbai, May 7

BHARTI AIRTEL'S ENTERPRISE arm Airtel Business has launched a new cybersecurity platform aimed at securing hybrid work environments, as companies grapple with rising and increasingly sophisticated cyber threats.

The company on Thursday introduced Airtel Secure Workforce, describing it as a fully managed and unified Zero Trust Architecture (ZTA) solution designed to protect users, devices, applications and data across enterprise networks.

The launch comes at a time when organisations are contending with a surge in cyber incidents, with over two million cases reported in 2025.

The platform is positioned as a compliance-ready, end-to-end security stack aligned with India's Digital Personal Data Protection (DPDP) Act. It integrates connectivity and managed security services, backed by round-the-clock monitoring, while aiming to reduce the operational burden on enterprises managing fragmented security systems.

The company said the platform addresses key enterprise challenges such as vendor fragmentation, alert fatigue and cybersecurity talent shortages by consolidating multiple security functions into a single, unified system. It also enables endpoint detection and response, secure remote access, and visibility across networks, users and data through a centralised dashboard.
