GING IN THE NEW YEAR WITH MOBILE PHONES

that'll blow ay next year

een a frenzy of phone launches. Some have gone on ers have petered out after the initial flash. Yet, next cement, with various innovations planned. Business st-anticipated launches and their rumoured details:

Apple iPhone 7/ iPhone 7 Plus/iPhone 6C

When it comes to Apple, there's no end to speculation. The iPhone 7 and the 7 Plus are the annual releases expected in September. If rumours are to be believed, both would feature upgraded hardware (zippier processor, more RAM etc.), a new headphone connector, a bigger and better screen and water-proofing. Before that, the iPhone 6C might debut, to replace the 5C, with the features of the 5S, along with support for Apple Pay, and colourful models in metal.

revolutionise the sector. One can essentially swap in a module according to one's usage (say I want more storage but not a camera in office) onto a fixed frame. Since everything would be swappable, one can build customised configurations. This would, hopefully, hit some markets by the end of 2016.

NextBit Robin

This phone, which made its debut on Kickstarter, will be a boon for all who keep running out of space on their phones. The phone would sport 32GB of storage space but would automatically upload to the cloud photos, videos and even rarely used apps! All this it does automatically, for example when you're charging the phone at home. And don't worry, whenever you want that app back, it'll be restored seamlessly. The phone comes with cloud storage of 100GB. While we're not sure if the was working on a new phone. The Surface phone is rumoured to be powered by a 64-bit Intel processor and might run an updated Windows 10. The phone could reportedly sport a 5.5-inch AMOLED display with a 21-megapixel (MP) primary and an 8MP secondary camera, as online reports say. This device, too, might feature a USB Type-C connector. Would this mean the demise of the Lumia line? That's one question we can answer only next year.

Sony Xperia Z6

The Sony Xperia Z5 Premium had a 4K display, besides bells and whistles such as a fingerprint scanner and a big battery. In the Z6, what will be of interest is the type of camera Sony packs in, since cameras for most flagship phones are sourced from the Japanese giant. Sony will definitely try to be back with a bang.
