India backs US-led initiative against 'excess capacity'

FE BUREAU
New Delhi, October 8

INDIA HAS JOINED a US-led initiative to tackle "structural excess capacity" in manufacturing, a move that could draw scrutiny given its own rapid expansion in sectors such as solar modules, steel and petrochemicals, some of which are already under the Trump administration's trade lens.

The initiative seeks to address concerns that excess manufacturing capacity can distort global trade by fuelling overproduction, depressing prices and displacing domestic industries through state-subsidised dumping.

India is among 15 economies that have signed a joint ministerial statement unveiled by the US Trade Representative (USTR) to address structural excess capacity and production.

The initiative will initially cover automobiles and electric vehicles, batteries, chemicals, foundational semiconductors and solar panels, with participating economies setting up sectoral platforms to exchange information and explore coordinated action.

The move comes nearly seven months after USTR launched a Section 301 investigation into structural excess capacity across 16 economies, including India, the European Union, Japan, Mexico and South Korea.

The five are now both subjects of the probe and signatories to the new initiative. For India, the overlap is significant.

USTR has raised concerns about expanding capacity and potential export-driven oversupply in solar modules, steel and petrochemicals, citing Indian solar-module capacity as nearly three times annual domestic demand. The deadline for its final Section 301 findings is March 11, 2027.

The joint statement calls for countries to eliminate structural excess capacity, including by ending non-market policies and practices that distort markets. It says excess capacity can lead to overproduction, price distortions, concentration of production and weaker competition.

The Global Trade Research Initiative (GTRI) founder Ajay Srivastava said India was now "joining Washington in tackling the very issue for which its own manufacturing is under American investigation".

WTO raises global trade forecast for 2026 to 3.9%

FE BUREAU
New Delhi, October 8

THE WEST ASIA conflict has disrupted energy supplies and shipping routes but has so far failed to derail global merchandise trade, prompting the World Trade Organization (WTO) to sharply raise its forecast for 2026 trade growth to 3.9% from 1.9% in its March outlook.

The latest Global Trade Outlook and Statistics, released Thursday, marks a significant turnaround from the WTO's earlier assessment. The organisation had cut its 2026 merchandise trade forecast to 1.9% in March as the conflict raised the prospect of an oil shock and wider disruption. It now expects global merchandise trade volume to grow another 4.1% in 2027.

The stronger outlook follows 3.5% growth in merchandise trade in the first half of 2026, despite the conflict. Supply chains adapted by switching suppliers and rerouting trade through alternative ports and corridors. West Asia crude oil exports fell about 24% and LNG exports 47% during the period, but increased shipments from other suppliers limited the decline in global exports to around 6% for crude and 1% for LNG. Global container throughput rose 3.9% through July.

The WTO cut its 2026 forecast for commercial services trade growth to 3.3% from 4.8%, before projecting a rebound to 6.4% in 2027. Transport services have been hit by rerouted shipping and higher freight costs, while international travel has weakened.

International tourist arrivals fell 0.8% year-on-year in the second quarter and were only 0.4% higher in the first half. In contrast, digitally delivered services remained resilient, with computer services exports rising 1.8% in the first quarter and an estimated 1.2% in the second.

SC orders pharma marketing review

MANU KAUSHIK
New Delhi, October 8

THE SUPREME COURT has directed the Centre to set up a panel to review unethical pharma marketing practices and assess whether the existing regulatory framework is adequate. The panel will also examine mechanisms for monitoring, transparency and enforcement.

The move comes after the court found that the existing framework warranted closer examination, particularly its effectiveness in preventing unethical practices. The panel will identify gaps and recommend an appropriate statutory or regulatory framework to the government.

The government has two weeks to constitute the panel. It will give petitioners, intervenors and other stakeholders a reasonable opportunity to submit their views and concerns. The panel may also seek inputs from technical, professional and domain experts.

It has been given two months from its first meeting to complete the exercise and submit its recommendations. The government will then consider the recommendations and take a decision at the earliest. The Uniform Code for Pharmaceutical Marketing Practices (UCPMP) 2024 will continue to govern pharma marketing practices in the interim, according to the government's submission. While the court did not make the UCPMP statutory, it said choosing the appropriate statutory or regulatory framework falls primarily within the central government's domain.

Prices of 110 anti-cancer drugs to fall sharply

MANU KAUSHIK
New Delhi, October 8

THE GOVERNMENT IS set to cap trade margins at 30% on 110 non-scheduled anti-cancer drugs, including 35 patented medicines, sources in the Department of Pharmaceuticals (DoP) told FE. The move could make these high-priced medicines more affordable to consumers.

The government estimates that the cap could cut the maximum retail prices (MRPs) of these drugs by up to 70% and save patients an estimated ₹2,500 crore annually. The tighter margin ceiling is also likely to pressure retailers, hospital chains and pharma companies that earn higher margins on these drugs.

"These non-scheduled drugs were not under any caps before. A committee under the Director General of Health Services (DGHS) will examine and finalise the list of medicines to be covered. The move will cover generics, patented, imported and locally-produced drugs," the DoP official said.

Non-scheduled drugs are medicines whose prices are not directly fixed by the government. Scheduled drugs, in contrast, are subject to government-controlled price limits under the Drugs (Prices Control) Order, 2013 (DPCO). The scheduled list is based on medicines included in the National List of Essential Medicines (NLEM).

THE ANTI-OBESITY drug GLP-1 market grew 72% in sales value year-on-year in September 2026, even as the number of units sold fell 10%, according to the latest data from healthcare research firm Pharmarack. The growth was driven largely by new products, while prices remained broadly unchanged. The sharp divergence between value and volume growth points to a significant shift in the market's composition.

According to the report, the broader anti-obesity drug market stood at ₹287.9 crore in September, up 5.8% from ₹272.1 crore in August. On a moving annual total (MAT) basis, the GLP-1 market had reached ₹2,492 crore by September. Semaglutide sales stood at ₹113.3 crore during the month, while tirzepatide remained ahead at ₹165.6 crore. Together, the two molecules accounted for nearly 97% of the GLP-1 market. Pharmarack's analysis highlights that the biggest change is taking place within semaglutide. Products launched in 2026, which include mostly generic drugs launched following the expiry of Novo Nordisk's semaglutide patent, accounted for ₹66.7 crore, or 58.8% of September's semaglutide sales.

Torrent Pharmaceuticals' Semalix led this group with sales of ₹13 crore, followed by its Sembolic at ₹6.7 crore and Eris Lifesciences' Sundae at ₹6.3 crore.

The fresh growth is being driven by generic versions of semaglutide. Products launched before 2026, including the innovator brands, have seen a decline in sales. Since May, we are also seeing strong demand for anti-obesity drugs in tier-II and tier-III markets," said Sheetal Sapale, vice-president (commercial) at Pharmarack.

Eli Lilly's tirzepatide continues to lead the anti-obesity market. It accounted for 57.5% of September sales, compared with 39.4% for semaglutide. Mounjaro, the leading GLP-1 brand, remained the country's top-selling drug, with September sales of ₹133.7 crore. Its sales value jumped 15.2% from a year earlier, even as volumes fell 43.9%.

The shift towards generics has not been uniform across the segment. Pharmarack's June analysis showed that while 31 generic semaglutide brands accounted for 82% of injectable unit sales, the pace of incremental generic sales had begun to slow.

US suspends H-1B visa...

"IF YOU DO the math, for every worker that Microsoft laid off, they replaced that worker with one and a half foreign indentured servants," Vance said while announcing the decision.

The move marks a drastic attempt by the Donald Trump administration to crack down on the H-1B programme for high-skilled employees, which has historically been mainly used by tech companies.

A large proportion of H-1B workers have historically been Indian techies.

Sonderling stated that since 2009, the mentioned companies had requested approximately 3 million foreign workers and received over 230,000 H-1B visa approvals and more than 100,000 permanent labour certifications.

The H-1B programme has long been targeted by the current US administration with widespread efforts to halt it. Earlier in August, the US Department of Homeland Security had proposed a steep $103,265 fee charge on new H-1B petitions.

This was just months after the Trump administration had tried to push the hike in fees earlier but failed after a federal court struck the proposal down.
