Premiumisation to drive growth of Consumer

Brokerages remain positive on company's prospects for FY27

RAM PRASAD SAHU
Mumbai, 21 August

The stock of Crompton Greaves Consumer Electricals (Crompton) has underperformed the broader markets and the benchmarks over the past year and dropped 25 per cent during this period to ₹251.8.

The valuation derating was on account of competitive pressures in the fans/lighting category, execution hurdles related to Butterfly acquisition and margin pressures.

The company's June (Q1FY27) quarter performance was below estimates with revenues growing at 12 per cent. The miss was on account of the electric consumer durables (ECD) segment. Further, supply constraints on commodities and inputs, largely in the fan segment, saw a sales hit of ₹200 crore. Growth was, however, supported by the lighting segment (up 15 per cent) and Butterfly business (gain of 18 per cent).

On the profitability front, gross margins were lower by 91 basis points (bps) year-on-year (Y-o-Y) due to commodity inflation. However, the company was able to expand margins at the operating level by 45 bps to 10 per cent on account of cost control initiatives and operating leverage.

The company could offset about 80 per cent of the inflation on the back of high single to low double digit price hikes.

Given that the supply challenges in the June quarter were one-off and the company managed to rein in costs, brokerages remain positive on the prospects for FY27.

Analysts led by Manoj Gori of Equities Securities say that the top line miss reflects one-off lost sales, while the margin print reflects genuine cost discipline.

With normalised supply entering Q2, solar rooftop order book execution front-loaded into Q2, and agencies scaling, the brokerage stays constructive on the FY27 setup. It is positive on the stock and has a target price of ₹340. In the medium term, the company is eyeing premiumisation and expansion into new categories to drive growth.

In a recent interaction with analysts, the company outlined its growth and profitability targets. It expects revenues to rise by 13-14 per cent annually over FY26-29 and is targeting to double revenues over the next five years (by FY31).

It is also eyeing an operating profit margin of 11-12 per cent over the next three years (FY29) and plans to enhance it further to 12 per cent plus by FY31.

Motilal Oswal Research believes that higher investments in advertisement and promotional spending, along with efforts to strengthen the brand and product portfolio, will support the company's future growth trajectory. The brokerage has a "buy" rating with a target price of ₹340.

New businesses (small currently) are expected to account for about fifth of the revenues by FY31.

Downward trend

To hit its targets, the company is boosting the innovation funnel, distribution and supply chain over the FY23-26 period. It is expanding its addressable market from ₹80,000 crore to ₹1.6 trillion through premiumisation, new products and adjacencies.

ICICI Securities believes that the next phase could be driven by a combination of core market share gains, rising new product contribution, premiumisation and scaling of solar, wires and other new businesses. Further, analysts led by Anirudha Joshi of the brokerage point out that growth investments can be funded internally, supported by strong cash generation and a net-cash balance sheet.

The brokerage has a "buy" rating with a target price of ₹345.

Sending money abroad? Know LRS, Fema, tax rules

SANJEEV SINHA

The Income Tax Department's verification exercise covering 394 entities and 36 professionals over suspected irregularities in large overseas remittances has put the spotlight on how money sent abroad is monitored. While the exercise focuses on entities and professionals, it also serves as a reminder for individuals that overseas remittances are subject to a range of foreign exchange, tax and reporting rules.

Who can remit?

Liberalised remittance scheme (LRS) is available to resident individuals. "For LRS, residential status is determined under the Foreign Exchange Management Act, 1999 (FEMA). An individual is considered a person resident in India if they have stayed in India for more than 182 days during the preceding financial year, subject to certain exceptions," says Riaz Thangna, partner, Grant Thornton Bharat.

LRS remittance limit
Resident individual can remit up to $300,000 per financial year under LRS for permitted current and capital account transactions, or a combination of both.

"Current account transactions include overseas travel, gifts/donations, employment, immigration, maintenance of relatives, business trips, medical treatment and education, while capital account transactions include opening foreign currency accounts abroad, overseas direct investments (ODI) and overseas portfolio investments (OFI), buying immovable property abroad and extending loans to eligible NRI relatives," says Thangna.

Documents needed

An individual must submit Form A2, an application-cum-declaration to the authorised dealer bank and provide details such as Permanent Account Number (PAN), annual purpose, source of funds, beneficiary and remittances already made during the financial year. "The remitter must declare the purpose and purpose code, account to be debited and beneficiary details, and confirm that the transaction is within the LRS limit," says Abhishek Sachdeva, partner, Nangia Global.

How coverage, claims, payouts work for multiple insurance policies

Holding multiple insurance policies is common, but that does not necessarily mean receiving multiple payouts for the same loss. The claim rules depend on the type of insurance.

If a person has multiple valid life insurance policies, the nominee can generally claim the applicable death benefit under each, subject to the terms of each contract. For example, if a person has two life policies of ₹50 lakh each and both claims are admissible, the nominee could potentially receive ₹1 crore.

Health insurance, however, is generally indemnity-based. It is meant to cover eligible medical expenses, rather than allow a policyholder to profit from a loss.

When does TDS apply?

Under Section 394(1) of the Income Tax Act, 2005, tax collected at source (TCS) applies when aggregate LRS remittances exceed ₹10 lakh in a tax year. From April 1, 2026, the rate is 2 per cent on the amount exceeding ₹10 lakh for education or medical treatment, while 20 per cent applies to the amount exceeding ₹10 lakh for other purposes. For overseas tour programme packages, TCS is 2 per cent on the entire amount.

"The ₹10 lakh threshold is combined across LRS remittances and does not apply separately to each purpose. TCS does not apply to education-related remittances funded through a loan from a specified financial institution," says Sachdeva.

Compliances after acquiring foreign assets

- File annual performance report by December 31 each year until disinvestment
- Report disinvestment within prescribed timelines
- Repatriate dues and proceeds to India within FEMA timelines
- Delayed reporting may attract a late submission fee
- Ordinarily resident taxpayers must disclose foreign assets (FA) and income in schedules FA and foreign source income (FSI)
- Claim foreign tax relief through Schedule TR
- FA, FSI and TR schedules don't apply to resident but not ordinarily resident, or NRORs, and non-residents

When does TDS apply?

Tax deducted at source (TDS) under Section 203C applies separately when the underlying payment to a non-resident is taxable in India. Form 145 is prescribed for specified payments.

"For taxable payments exceeding ₹5 lakh, tax liability can be determined through an Assessing Officer's certificate/order or a chartered account's certificate in Form 146—these are alternative routes. Form 146 also covers the applicability of tax treaties. Where a double taxation avoidance agreement (DTAA) applies, the taxpayer can claim the more beneficial treatment under domestic law or the treaty, subject to eligibility and required documents such as a Tax Residency Certificate," says Shubham Jain, director, SVAS Business Advisors LLP.

Violating FEMA provisions — such as exceeding the $250,000 LRS limit, making prohibited remittances or providing incorrect information—can attract penalties of up to three times the amount involved, or ₹2 lakh where the amount is not quantifiable. Continuing contraventions may attract an additional penalty of up to ₹5,000 per day.

The remittance should have a legitimate, identifiable source of funds supported by documents up to three times the amount involved, or ₹2 lakh where the amount is not quantifiable. Continuing contraventions may attract an additional penalty of up to ₹5,000 per day.

"A significant unexplained disparity can trigger tax scrutiny and source-of-funds verification," says Jain.
