Wipro partners with Databricks to Enable Enterprises to Modernize Data and Deploy AI at Scale

Self-contained business practice to focus on building industry-specific AI-led solutions

EAST BRUNSWICK, N.J. | BENGALURU, India – July 27, 2026: Wipro Limited (NYSE: WIT, BSE: 507685, NSE: WIPRO), a leading AI-powered technology services and consulting company, today announced an enhanced partnership with Databricks, the Data and AI company, to enable enterprises to modernize data foundations and accelerate AI adoption. As part of this partnership, Wipro has set up a self-contained Databricks business practice to drive industry solutions and accelerators to deliver business value through industry-specific offerings.

The enhanced partnership will help clients move from fragmented data foundations and isolated AI pilots to governed, enterprise-scale AI implementations. This will enable Wipro and Databricks to optimize existing data investments for shared clients while building new AI-led solutions tailored to industry needs. The collaboration will integrate Databricks' capabilities for agentic AI, data modernization, application development, and analytics with Wipro Intelligence™, the suite of AI-powered platforms, solutions, and transformative offerings. The practice will help business users see the value faster, utilizing Databricks Genie, Databricks' AI coworker which helps both business users and technical professionals explore and interact with enterprise data using natural language. Leveraging Wipro's agent-native delivery platform WEGA, the practice will enable enterprises to transition from legacy systems to scalable, AI-ready data architectures.

"Our long-standing collaboration with Databricks reflects a shared commitment to help enterprises move from AI experimentation to measurable value," said Kanwar Singh, Managing Partner - Technology Services, Wipro Limited. "The business practice will bring together platform specialists, consulting expertise, and industry teams to co-create solutions that accelerate data transformation and enterprise-wide AI adoption."

The business practice is built on a strong foundation of more than 300 agentic AI and data use cases delivered across industries, including banking and financial services, healthcare, telecom, manufacturing, and energy. The business practice was also recognized by Databricks as the 2025 Banking Partner of the Year Award and the 2026 Innovation Partner of the Year.

"Databricks helps companies unify data, analytics, and AI with governance built in, all with the most efficient cost of ownership," said Kori O'Brien, Senior Vice President, Partnerships, Databricks. "This global practice with Wipro will enable enterprises to build trusted data foundations and deploy production-ready AI at scale, turning data intelligence into real, measurable business impact. This global practice with Wipro will enable enterprises to build trusted data foundations and deploy production-ready AI at scale, turning data intelligence into real, measurable business impact."

Across industries, the business practice will build context-aware solutions that apply AI to core business challenges, such as:

- End-to-end wealth management, portfolio performance optimization, and client experience in banking and financial services,
- Planning resiliency to overcome volatility in the global macro-economic environment for manufacturing and consumer goods,
- Drive growth for telecoms with agentic AI-led sales and marketing transformation,
- Asset visibility and performance improvement for energy and large-asset industries.
- Agentic AI-led Chief Financial Officer Transformation by reimagining Financial Planning & Analysis processes leading to cost optimization & higher efficiency.

Through the newly incubated practice, Wipro and Databricks will enable joint clients to become intelligent enterprises that are secure by design, resilient by default, and ready for the next wave of reinvention.
