PRESS RELEASE

Delta Autocorp Limited Announces Upcoming Company-Owned Company-Operated Showroom in Bokaro, Further Expanding Its Jharkhand Retail Network

Delta Autocorp Limited ("Deltic"), through its wholly owned subsidiary Electrofine Motors Private Limited, announces the upcoming commencement of operations of its new Company-Owned Company-Operated (COCO) showroom in Bokaro, Jharkhand, scheduled to become operational during the month of August 2026. The upcoming outlet represents the next phase of the Company's planned expansion of its company-operated retail network across strategically important electric mobility markets.

Upon commencement of operations, the Bokaro showroom will further strengthen Deltic's growing COCO network in Jharkhand, complementing its operational company-owned showrooms at Dhanbad, Mihijam, Mahuda and Deoghar. Together, these locations will continue to enhance customer accessibility, after-sales support, servicing capabilities and overall retail presence across the state.

Bokaro has emerged as one of Jharkhand's most active electric mobility markets, supported by its strategic location, strong commercial activity and connectivity with surrounding industrial townships and major public sector undertakings. The region serves as an important commercial hub for neighbouring industrial settlements and public sector enterprises, creating sustained demand for passenger, commercial and utility mobility solutions. These market characteristics have led the Company to identify Bokaro as one of its priority locations for expanding its company-operated retail footprint within the state.

The location of the upcoming showroom has also been strategically selected considering its proximity to Deltic's manufacturing ecosystem and existing COCO network across Jharkhand. By expanding around connected markets rather than developing isolated retail locations, the Company expects to improve regional operating efficiency through faster inventory movement, stronger service support, improved logistics and a more consistent customer experience while strengthening its retail presence across the state.

The Company views its COCO network as more than a retail channel. It serves as a benchmark for customer experience, after-sales service and retail execution while also supporting the growth of surrounding dealer and sub-dealer networks. Experience from the Company's existing COCO operations indicates that a strong company-operated presence contributes to improved supply-chain responsiveness, greater product availability, stronger servicing confidence and enhanced local brand visibility.

The Company believes that every successful COCO showroom creates value beyond its own retail operations. As customer confidence, servicing capability and product visibility strengthen within a region, surrounding dealer and sub-dealer participation also increases, enabling the Company to build broader retail coverage while maintaining a consistent customer experience. The Company has observed increasing dealer and sub-dealer interest around its established COCO locations and believes this complementary relationship between company-operated outlets and the dealership network forms an important part of its long-term retail expansion strategy.

Jharkhand continues to remain one of Deltic's key markets across both two-wheelers and three-wheelers. Increasing adoption of electric mobility, improving affordability, rising fuel costs and growing customer awareness continue to create favourable opportunities across urban, industrial and semi-urban markets throughout the state.

The Company also confirms that its Deoghar COCO showroom, announced earlier, is now operational, with its official showroom photographs being released. The planned commencement of operations at Bokaro represents the next milestone in Deltic's continuing retail expansion across Jharkhand and further strengthens the Company's presence across strategically connected markets within the state.

Through the COCO model, Deltic continues to provide an integrated customer experience encompassing product display, financing assistance, after-sales service, spare parts availability and direct customer engagement. The format also enables the Company to better understand customer requirements, maintain consistent servicing standards and implement product and market feedback more efficiently across its retail network.

The continued expansion of the Company's product portfolio, engineering capabilities, commercial mobility business and retail network reflects Deltic's ongoing focus on strengthening every stage of its electric mobility business—from product development and manufacturing to retail, after-sales service and institutional participation. This integrated approach supports the Company's long-term strategy of building a scalable and sustainable electric mobility platform.

The upcoming Bokaro showroom reflects Deltic's continued focus on disciplined execution and strengthening the operating foundations of its business. As the Company's retail network continues to expand alongside its product development, commercial mobility and institutional initiatives, Deltic remains committed to creating long-term value through sustained operational growth, focused regional expansion and the development of a connected retail ecosystem across Bharat.

The Company expects the Bokaro COCO showroom to commence operations during August 2026, subject to completion of the remaining operational and commissioning activities.
