Twitter user booked for derogatory comment against SC/ST, Muslims

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE AHMEDABAD, JUNE 6

POLICE HAVE booked a case against a Twitter user for allegedly using derogatory words against the scheduled caste community and a religious group.

According to police, an FIR was filed at Vatva GIDC police station on Saturday night against a Twitter handle that goes by the name "Chowkidar Santosh Nishant" on the basis of a complaint filed by Chhotabhai Rathod (61), a social worker from Chodasar in Ahmedabad. "Two days checking on a derogatory Twitter account on May 27 when I came across this profile that used derogatory language for Dalit community, Chhara community and Muslims. In the guise of making a political comment against an opposition party, the user had used offensive words against many communities," said Rathod in his complaint. "I am not interested in his political comments but the derogatory words he used against the Dalit community and Muslims are unacceptable." Patel has booked the Twitter handle under IT sections 153A for promoting enmity between different groups, 153B for imputations, assertions prejudicial to national integration, 501 for defamation, 292 for exhibiting obscenity, 501 for printing or engraving matter known to be defamatory, 504 for intentional insult, 505 for public mischief and 507 for criminal intimidation by anonymous communication along with sections of the SC and ST (Prevention of Atrocities) Act.

SELF-CERTIFIED DOCUMENT A MUST, SAYS GOVT 'Edu institutions in buildings upto 9 m in height don't need fire NOC'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE AHMEDABAD, JUNE 6

EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTIONS functioning in buildings up to nine metres in height and without basements in Gujarat will not have to obtain the mandatory No Objection Certificate (NOC) but should have a self-certified document, the state government said on Sunday.

As per a statement released by the information department on Sunday, "Chief Minister Yashwantrao Chavan has taken some important decisions regarding fire safety NOC in Gujarat... buildings that are less than nine metres in height and don't have basements, are not required to take fire NOC to run educational institutes. However such institutes, as per the rules, must ensure that all fire safety arrangements are made and can get a self-attested, self-certified fire NOC."

The decision comes after the Gujarat High Court dismissed a petition filed by the Ahmedabad Medical Association (AMA) and its 44 members seeking relief from sealing the premises of their hospitals or clinical establishments by the Ahmedabad Municipal Corporation (AMC) owing to absence of fire safety NOC and/or building use (BU) permit.

The CM's office also decided that Building Use (BU) certificate is not necessary for issuing fire NOCs for residential and commercial buildings.

"Across state in many cases, despite fulfilling all requirements of fire NOC, due to lack of BU certificate, fire NOC is not given. In this regard, a decision has been taken that if all fire safety norms have been complied with, then the BU certificate is not necessary to avail fire NOCs," read the statement.

While checking at the Gujarat High Court, the AMC and its 44 members seeking relief from sealing the premises of their hospitals or clinical establishments by the Ahmedabad Municipal Corporation (AMC) owing to absence of fire safety NOC and/or building use (BU) permit.

"Another decision that has been taken is that authority and power to issue fire NOCs in municipalities will be with the fire officers of the municipality concerned rather than the director of Fire Safety Services in Gujarat so that people can get fire NOCs quickly," read the statement.

The CM also announced that apart from the eight municipal corporations in the state, six districts will be treated as functional within the jurisdiction of Regional Commissioners of Municipalities of Ahmedabad, Surat, Vadodra, Gandhinagar, Rajkot and Bhavnagar.

"Fire NOCs are under urban development authorities can be given by the chief fire officer of the municipal corporation concerned," said the statement.

Two owners of private firm among 6 held for trying to dispose of acid in open area

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE AHMEDABAD, JUNE 6

TWO OWNERS of a private company and four others were held near Janghat patrol pump on Melsana-Ahmedabad highway in Kaloji city of Gandhinagar.

On checking and testing the sample content, the GPCB officials found 60,000 litres of rejected hydrochloric acid in the two vehicles which were being disposed of without ETP process as prescribed by the GPCB. The detained drivers Ramesh Modhwadiya and Chandra Prakash Rawat with two tankers filled with rejected hydrochloric acid during interregional sale, accused told us that they were driving the tankers from Asian Tube Limited company's factory in Chhatral of Kaloji to be dumped in a water body gutter or open land in Vatva or Dhadva area," said an LCB officer.

The act of dumping untreated acid waste in residential area could have posed serious harm to civilians as well as animals. The drivers said that it was Bipin Suthar, manager at Asian Tube company, who told the owner of vehicles Jashvi Bhargava, to ask the drivers to take the tankers towards the Vatva area," the officer added.

While checking at the Asian Tube Limited factory in Kaloji, we found that there was no bill or receipt of the two tankers exiting the factory premises and it was sanctioned by manager Suthar at the gate. Suthar was acting as per instructions of MD Brijraj Lal Agarwal and Director Ashya Agarwal," the officer said.

All accused have been booked under IPC 308 for attempt to commit culpable homicide, 277 for corrupting or fouling the water of any public spring or reservoir, 278 for making atmosphere noxious for health, 120B for criminal conspiracy along with sections of Environment Protection Act and Water Pollution Act.

According to police, the accused directors of the company wanted to save money by skipping the ETP process.

The company had procured the hydrochloric acid to remove rust from the mild steel coils produced at the factory. After the process, the remaining hydrochloric acid must be treated at the ETP plant on the factory premises where acid is neutralised with lime and solid waste is generated as byproduct. However, this process is expensive and time consuming and hence the company directors decided to dispose of the rejected acid," police said.

With the arrest police claimed to have unearthed a nexus of tanker owners disposing chemical waste in a harmful manner. "The owner of two tankers Jashvi Bhargava revealed that he has been renting out his vehicles for disposing of waste illegally for the past 10 years and has made more than 50 such trips by his drivers for 10 private companies in Ahmedabad, Vadodra, Anand, Khambhat and Dhap. Further investigation is on," police said.
