SIBUR, IOC in talks to build petchem capacity

Potential multi-billion dollar investment will boost IOC’s petchem output

NEW DELHI

Russia’s largest integrated petrochemicals firm PJSC SIBUR Holding is in talks with state-run Indian Oil Corporation Ltd (IOC) for a partnership to set up a large petrochemical facility in India, said two people aware of the development. The multi-billion dollar investment is being explored at a time when IOC is focusing on the expansion of its petrochemical business against the backdrop of a growing demand for petrochemicals in the country.

“SIBUR is in talks with IOC for investing in India for setting up petrochemicals capacity in partnership with the state-run company. It will be a large facility,” said one of the two people mentioned above requesting anonymity.

Mint had earlier reported about India and Russia working on a multi-pronged approach that involves joint collaboration in petrochemicals, energy sourcing and supplies, and upstream investments in Russia and India.

“The Russian energy majors are of the view that India is a market and will remain a market for a long while,” said the first person quoted above.

“It is at a very crucial stage,” said the second person mentioned above, who also did not want to be named.

India’s petrochemicals manufacturing space has a major player in Mukesh Ambani-controlled Reliance Industries Ltd (RIL). Adani Enterprises Ltd also recently incorporated Adani Petrochemicals Ltd as a wholly-owned subsidiary, marking the Gautam Adani-controlled firm’s entry into the sector.

Queries emailed to the spokespersons of IOC and SIBUR late on Tuesday night remained unanswered till press time.

Last month, IOC had signed a pact with the Gujarat government for setting up a petrochemical and lube integration project and acrylics and oxo alcohol project at its refinery in Vadodara.

India wants to leverage its position as a key refining hub in Asia to boost its petrochemical capacity. India, which has an installed capacity of more than 249.36 million tonnes per annum (mtpa) with 23 refineries, plans to increase its refining capacity to 400 mtpa by 2025. SIBUR reported $7.2 billion revenue in 2020 and has a presence in India through its subsidiary SIBUR Petrochemical India, which is building a butyl rubber facility in Jamnagar in a joint venture with RIL.

Leonid Mikhelson, chairman of Russian gas firm OAO Novatek, is the largest stakeholder in SIBUR, followed by Gennady Timchenko, a known ally of Russian President Vladimir Putin. The other shareholders in the Moscow-headquartered firm are current and former SIBUR employees, insurance firm Sogaz JSC, China’s state-owned investment fund The Silk Road Fund and oil & gas major Sinopec.

ICRA said in a report.

India has been leaning on its old energy partner Russia as part of the strategy of diversifying its energy basket with crude oil supplies from non-Organization of the Petroleum Exporting Countries (Opec) sources. India had signed the first term contract for crude oil sourcing from Russia in February 2020, with IOC and Russian firm Rosneft inking a deal for 2 million metric tonnes of Urals grade crude.

“Petroleum refining and marketing with much higher petrochemicals integration will continue to be IOC’s key focus area. We are going to add 25 million tonnes of refining capacity by 2023-24,” IOC chairman Shrikant Madhav Vaidya had said recently.

IOC recently announced a net profit of ₹5,941 crore for the June quarter, compared with ₹1,911 crore a year earlier. India’s largest fuel retailer posted a jump in revenue in the first quarter to ₹1.55 trillion, compared to ₹88,939 crore in the corresponding quarter last year because of higher inventory gains and improved petrochemical margins.

“IOC’s Gujarat refinery is now poised to grow to 18 mtpa capacity. New units for the production of polypropylene, butyl acrylate and lube oil base stocks will also be added to its portfolio,” Vaidya had said.

According to Crisil Research, India has a petrochemicals manufacturing capacity of 14 mtpa and recorded a domestic market size of 15 million tonnes in FY20.

India will remain robust, analysts said.

There has been “healthy growth in demand for several petrochemicals in Q4 FY2021”, according to ratings agency ICRA. “Margins have also improved for most products in Q4 FY2021. After an exceptionally strong FY2021, FY2022 is also expected to remain healthy, though marginally weaker than FY2021 on growth and profitability.”

“The demand for several petrochemicals such as polyethylene and polypropylene increased sharply in Q4 FY2021, whereas demand for others was stable,”

THE POWER OF POPULATION FOR ECONOMIES

A MATTER OF NUMBERS
DILIP D’SOUZA

Respond to this column at feedback@livemint.com

Give me a rupee for every time I have heard “demographic advantage” applied to India in the last several years, and I’d be sitting on a small fortune. Invariably, the mentions are tinged with pride, as if we’ve suddenly transformed into a commendably and overwhelmingly young nation.

Truth is, we used to be even younger and are getting steadily older. But that’s a story for another time.

Over 200 years ago, the Reverend Thomas Robert Malthus wrote in his Essay on Population—“The power of population is indefinitely greater than the power in the Earth to produce subsistence for man.” Ever since, that bleak vision has influenced plenty of scientists.

Malthus addressed an age-old and ongoing wrangle. For, population often sets off furious intellectual battles, whose antagonists barely speak to each other.

In one corner are pessimists—usually biologists—who believe that the human population is increasing so rapidly that we will end in catastrophe. In the other corner are optimists—usually economists—who believe that humanity stands a good chance of solving its population problems. Biologists see a newborn as another hungry mouth. Economists see two tiny hands that will one day contribute to economic growth.

Pessimists worry about exceeding the capacity of the Earth to support us all. After all, there are animals that endure sudden collapses when their populations rise beyond a limit. Does mankind face the same fate? Optimists remind them that no such collapse has ever happened to humans. Economic growth can both feed billions of humans and slow the population explosion, and don’t families in prosperous societies have fewer children? Pessimists see growth itself as the problem. The world cannot keep adding 80 million people a year, as it does today, forever.

Which is right: optimism or pessimism? “It is hard to think of a question more fundamental to our crowded world”, Charles C. Mann wrote in a revealing article (How Many is Too Many? The Atlantic, February 1993).

Demographers often cite a figure called the total fertility rate (TFR). This is the number of babies a woman will have, on average, in her lifetime. 2 is replacement level: if every woman had two babies, children will exactly replace their parents and eventually, the population will level off. (Because some children die, replacement level is usually taken as 2.1).

TFR has recently been in the news in India. For example, Uttar Pradesh has just announced measures to “control” its population growth. Its draft Population (Control, Stabilisation and Welfare) Bill proposes penalties for couples who have more than two children, like denying welfare schemes and even the PDS to them. Apart from the bureaucratic nightmare these kind of measures will set in motion, it’s not even clear they are effective. In any case, UP’s TFR was 2.7 in 2016—likely lower now—which, while higher than replacement level, is a significant drop from over 4 at the turn of the century. It still trails India as a whole—2.22 in 2018—but it has indeed been decreasing.

Why? Because what we call development—healthcare, jobs, education, especially of women—inevitably lowers the TFR. That’s the lesson, the world over, of the last half-century.

In 1968, the United Nations Population Division studied TFR trends in different parts of the world. In the developing world, the TFR was at a then-alarming 6.0. The most likely scenario, UNPD projected, was that this figure would fall to 5.1 by 1985; and even this modest drop was greeted with much scepticism at the time. But in 1985, the TFR in developing countries was down to 4.2. As a whole, they had done twice as well as UNPD had estimated, pulling TFR almost halfway to replacement level in 17 years. That downward trend continues. Given their massive populations, India and China dominate TFR calculations for the developing world: today, China’s TFR (about 1.69) is well below replacement level and India’s is not far above.

Good news? Certainly, population optimists like to quote TFR trends. But consider the not-so-good news too: since 1968, the Earth has added over 4 billion more people. Sure, it’s likely that future TFR figures the world over will be the lowest in history. Even so, today’s children will replace themselves, and their children will, and so on. The immediate future remains one of an enormous and growing world population. That will have consequences, some unpleasant. But those unpleasant consequences may not necessarily be the result of the disaster Malthus predicted. They are more likely to stem from what Mann described with elegant delicacy: “the human race’s perennial inability to run its political affairs wisely.”

Consider sub-Saharan Africa, where we regularly hear that overpopulation has caused terrible damage to the land. Droughts have led to overgrazing, erosion and deforestation; the Sahara is moving southwards at about six miles a year.

Africa’s population dilemma, you’d think, is nowhere as acute as here.

But then, there’s what Michael Mortimore of Cambridge University found in Nigeria, Africa’s most populous nation, by examining soil samples (Working the Sahel, 1999). For generations, Nigerian farmers would simply move on when resources were exhausted. But with population pressure, land grew ever more expensive. This forced farmers to take better care of what they owned, because moving on was no longer viable. The result? Nigeria’s grain production levels were, far and away, higher than they had ever been. The country’s steadily increasing population had actually increased the productivity of its land.

So what are the reasons for the hunger and suffering that sometimes seem endemic to sub-Saharan Africa?

Traditionally, land in Africa was common property. It gets overused, but higher yields give people incentive to cheat the system, make a handsome profit and vanish. It is those who play fair who are left to deal with the consequences: the ancient tragedy of the commons. Add ethnic conflict, also endemic to the region, and catastrophe is never far away.

Governments are mandated to address issues like these. But sub-Saharan Africa’s tragedy is that governments have failed their people, and on two counts.

First, they have rarely stopped and punished civil strife. On the contrary, too many governments have actually participated in it. Wars have driven millions of people there from their homes and into starvation. Remember the brutal civil war in Nigeria in the 1960s, when “Biafra” became a synonym for widespread starvation.

Second, they have not addressed land use. A reasonable response to the overuse of common property would have been to reform land use rules. It has happened elsewhere in Africa. That it has not happened in sub-Saharan Africa may say more about corruption, inefficiency and warfare than a growing population.

That’s worth thinking about. In a time of political violence, of a justice system that delivers much less than it promises, it’s worth thinking about in relation to UP and India as well.

So: Optimists or pessimists, they might agree on at least the contours of the problems the world faces—shrinking reserves of potable water and fuel, signs that productivity increases in agriculture may be levelling off, deforestation, the loss of biodiversity and more broadly, climate change. When there were fewer of us, these problems were not as severe as they are today. And there were usually ways around them anyway. (Like moving on.)

But those days are gone. Which of our problems will we solve? Which will we leave untackled? The answers will depend largely on our desire and ability to find wiser and more responsive government.

Can India’s demographic advantage address that? If so, I might paraphrase a great Indian: into that heaven, without doubt, let my country awake.

BlackSoil, Ex-India Team of Walton St Acquire US Co's Local Realty Debt Biz

Kailash.Babar@timesgroup.com

Mumbai: Alternative credit platform BlackSoil and the former India-based management team of US-based realty investment adviser Walton Street Capital have joined hands to acquire Walton Street India's real estate debt business. The India management team is led by Kishor Desai, Vinit Prabhakar and Vimal Jangla and had advised affiliates of Walton Street Capital on India-based equity and debt transactions totalling around $300 million for over 12 years prior to the buyout.

Walton Street Capital has real estate and real estate-related assets under management worth $12 billion and started operations in India in 2007.

Walton Street Capital's equity investments in India are not part of the transaction.

"Our India team was the obvious choice to continue to carry on our Indian real estate debt business," Eric C Mogen-

BlackSoil, which focuses on real estate, venture and structured debt and India-based affiliates of Walton Street Capital, began co-investing in Indian real estate debt opportunities in 2015.

Walton Street India later became the investment advisor to BlackSoil in connection with the nearly ₹320 crore Walton Street BlackSoil Real Estate Debt Fund 1. The fund was fully deployed across 10 investments in the key metros of Bengaluru, Hyderabad and Mumbai.

"Our association with Walton Street Capital and its affiliates over the last six years has been extremely fruitful," said Mohinder Pal Bansal, co-founder of BlackSoil. "We have enjoyed working with their India management team and have appreciated their professionalism and rigour in advising us on the debt platform. We are excited to embark on this new chapter with them."

Since its inception in 2014, BlackSoil has cumulatively completed over 130 deals, disbursed over ₹2,300 crore and has assets under management worth over ₹900 crore across its non-banking finance company and multiple alternative investment funds under the group umbrella.

Co-Living Operators See Bookings from Students Despite Colleges Being Shut

Faizan.Haldar@timesgroup.com

New Delhi: Co-living operators have started receiving bookings from students despite colleges being shut as they want to network, complete their internships or prepare for competitive exams, leading operators told ET.

Most of the student housing operators were forced to shut operations as colleges have been closed due to Covid-19-induced curbs.

Co-living operators that usually house working professionals have opened the facilities for students after witnessing demand.

"Besides over 2,000 working professionals, the number of PG students staying at our various properties is upward of 300 and this number is growing exponentially. We also have an additional inbound interest from a group of 80+ students," said Deepak Anand, Co-Founder and CEO, Housr.

At present, Housr has 15 properties across NCR and Pune and is aiming to aggressively launch more cities and properties in the next 6-9 months.

"These students are from Grade A PG institutes like IIS, IIM, IIT and MDL. Although Housr primarily caters to working professionals in the age group of 21-35, of late and especially owing to the ongoing pandemic, we have seen considerable interest from another potential segment - PG students of Grade A colleges. This segment has a fairly good overlap with working professionals as a lot of them are with prior work experience of 2-5 years," said Anand.

According to Colive, which offers living homes for students, young working professionals and students in Bengaluru, Chennai, Hyderabad and Pune have started coming back even Rangarajan, Founder of Colive. "Students have come back also looking for internship opportunities in the city," he said.

Operators said most PG students have lost over a year due to the pandemic and with the course coming to end, they want to stay together. "We have specifically launched a brand called Gurukul that addresses the student market where students who want to live together despite attending online classes and we have seen some early traction during the last couple of weeks of July. We have had instances of gig workers of Amazon taking up the property in bulk to train more than 100 from the same company had taken up with Colive during June," said Rangarajan.

More than 20 million students and working professionals move within the country every year, searching for living space. Almost 90% of the student housing segment is unorganised and start-ups are hoping to fill the gap with better facilities. "We have close to 20 students from a reputed B-school living with us. The share of students in our co-living facility used to be 5% and it has increased to 10% as more students are coming in. In addition, those preparing for civil services or medi-

Shailesh Dalmia & Wife Buy 4 Luxury Flats in Mumbai's Worli for ₹125 Crore

Kailash.Babar@timesgroup.com

Mumbai: Businessman Shailesh Dalmia and his wife Natasha have bought four sea-view luxury apartments in realty developer K Raheja Corp's under-construction high-rise in Mumbai's Worli locality for ₹125 crore.

All four apartments are spread over nearly 11,000 sq ft on the 33rd floor of the super-premium tower.

The property transactions were executed on March 31, the last day for availing the benefit of reduced stamp duty as announced by the government of Maharashtra. The buyers have paid ₹1.67 crore as stamp duty for the registration of the apartments.

Dalmia has bought two apartments spread over 5,529 sq ft carpet area along with 200 sq ft terrace for over ₹55.14 crore while his wife has also purchased two apartments with over 7,404 sq ft carpet area with 346 sq ft terrace, showed the documents accessed through landrecords.mah.nic.in.

As part of the deal, both the buyers will get access to a total 12 car parks.

Dalmia is part of the founder family of educational institutes including business school NLD Dalmia Institute of Management Studies and Research on Mira Road near Mumbai. He is also a director on the board of Minerva Apparels, Veritas Properties & Developers, and Minerva Dealers.

Natasha Dalmia is also a director of NLD Dalmia Centre for Excellence, King Realtors, Veritas Infrastructure Development and Harsh Energy.

The email queries to K Raheja Corp remained unanswered until the time of publication.

UP RERA Intervention Pays Off, 800+ Buyers in Noida Project to Get Flats

Developer Gayatri Aura to deliver first lot of homes before August 15

Faizan.Haldar@timesgroup.com

New Delhi: In the first success story of the conciliation forum of the Uttar Pradesh Real Estate Regulatory Authority, over 800 homebuyers of a Noida project will get their homes almost a decade after booking their apartments.

Close to 100 homebuyers of Gayatri Aura had dragged the Gayatri Group to UP RERA after the project was stuck.

Following complaints from homebuyers in UP RERA, the conciliation forum conducted several rounds of talks between builder and buyers.

After this, the builder submitted a blueprint of the project construction in which the work of four towers was to be completed in phases.

"We had acquired the land in 2011 and launched the project in the same year.

But there was some encroachment on the land and we got full possession of the land only in 2015. The completion date in RERA for the first two towers was 2017, and due to the delay buyers approached the RERA," said Hari Om Dixit, director, Gayatri Aura.

In the last two years, the developer has invested ₹40 crore and has now offered possession of two towers to the buyers before August 15.

The construction of the remaining two towers is also targeted to be completed by December 2022 and January 2023.

"Whenever we see a possibility that a project can be completed with a little push, we take it to the conciliation forum. With both builder and buyers on the same page, the project takes shape. We will take more projects toward completion through the conciliation forum," said Rajive Kumar, chairperson, UP RERA.

SC Verdict Today on Amazon's Plea against Future, Rel Retail Merger

NEW DELHI: The Supreme Court is scheduled to pronounce on Friday the verdict on e-commerce giant Amazon's pleas against the merger of Future Retail Ltd (FRL) with Reliance Retail, and is likely to decide whether Singapore's Emergency Arbitrator (EA) award, restraining the ₹24,731-crore deal, is valid under Indian law and can be enforced. As per the apex court's website, the verdict would be pronounced at 10.30am by a bench of Justices RF Nariman and BR Gavai, which had reserved its verdict on July 29.

The verdict is likely to deal with the legality and enforceability of an award by an EA of a foreign country here in view of the fact that the term EA is not used in the Indian Arbitration and Conciliation Act.

Amazon.com NV Investment Holdings LLC and FRL are embroiled in a legal fight over the deal; the US-based firm has sought in the apex court that the EA award is valid and enforceable.

"We will decide whether EA award falls under Section 17(1) (which deals with interim award by arbitral tribunal) of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act. And if yes, then whether it can be enforced under Section 17(2) (of the Act)," the bench had said. PTI

HIGH AND EVER SPIRALLING OCEAN FREIGHT DIMINISHING BASMATI RICE EXPORTS

Over the last 10 months the oceans freights have spiked phenomenally multifold from 100% to 800% and there are no signs of abatement. This situation is very adversely impacting export of Basmati rice. Around 70,000 Tonnes of consignments of exporters are held up at ports because with rising freights it is becoming extremely uneconomical to ship out. The All India Rice Exporters' Association apprehends that if this situation continues export of Basmati rice will drastically diminish which will be detrimental not only to exporters but also impact a large number of Basmati rice farmers whose income will take a hit. More so, with the arrival of new crop, it will be difficult for the farmers to realize good return for their crop and can be a dissuading factor to them in future. Government intervention in arresting the situation is urgently needed in order to have some kind of control over shipping lines' monopolistic hikes in ocean freights. So as to enable exports to continue an immediate intervention by way of ocean freight subsidy is the need of the hour. We request Government of India's immediate attention in this matter.

ASCI Slams Brands Using Olympics Winners in Ads without Permission

Ratna Bhushan
@timesgroup.com

New Delhi: The Advertising Standards Council of India (ASCI) has said brands playing back on athletes winning medals in the Tokyo Olympics in their advertising without permission are in violation of its code.

"When ads refer to or show celebrities without their explicit permission, such ads are in potential violation of the ASCI code," said ASCI secretary general Manisha Kapoor. She said such ads could be misleading to consumers, who may think that these celebrities genuinely endorse these products. ASCI guidelines are not legally enforceable, but violations of the council's guidelines are treated as violation of government's rules. Indian athletes, like weightlifter Mirabai Chanu, badminton player PV Sindhu, boxer Lovlina Borgohain and wrestler Bani Kumar Dahiya, have won medals, while the hockey teams have created history at Tokyo, leading to a surge of brands putting out ads and messages on social media, some directly leveraging the athletes' names without permission or contracts.

On Thursday, the men's hockey team defeated Germany to claim the bronze medal match, which many brands and corporate chief executives said "felt like a gold". Team captain Manpreet Singh dedicating the medal to Covid-19 warriors too became a trend. "The athletes' names are being leveraged and linked to brands across corporates such as Aditya Birla Group, Apollo Hospitals and Perfetti Van Melle, to agencies such as BrandOnWheelz to out-of-home media agency The Brand Sigma."

RIL-BP Forays into Battery Swapping for EVs

RBML AIMS TO CREATE ecosystem that will help accelerate EV adoption, says top exec; co inks pact with Swiggy to deploy EVs for food delivery

Our Bureau

Mumbai | Bengaluru: Reliance Industries has forayed into the electric vehicle (EV) space with its fuel retailing joint venture with UK energy firm BP signing an agreement with Swiggy to deploy electric vehicles for the food delivery platform, the companies said on Thursday.

Reliance BP Mobility (RBML) said it aims to be India's largest network of battery swapping stations by setting up "multiple thousand" stations over the next five years at its fuel retail outlets, and other commercial and residential locations.

"Leveraging the best of BP's global learnings in electrification, RBML is setting up a robust and sustainable infrastructure comprising EV charging hubs and battery swapping stations, offering digitally-enabled services to all stakeholders," Harish C

Mehta, chief executive officer of RBML, said in a statement.

He said the company "is committed to creating an ecosystem which will help accelerate the adoption of electric vehicles in the country" to support the government's vision of electric mobility.

RBML has tied up with Swiggy to start trials for a project to deploy EVs that will be supported by Jio-bp's network of battery swap stations and Swiggy's network of delivery partners. The RIL-BP fuels and mobility business operates under the 'Jio-bp' brand.

In the EV space, Jio-bp will initially set up battery swapping stations at various locations assisted by Swiggy and provide all required technical assistance and training to Swiggy delivery partners and designated Swiggy staff related to battery swapping.

Swiggy said it will procure EVs from RBML, and rent them out on a monthly basis to its partners. The food delivery company said RBML will install battery swapping stations every few kilometres in several locations in Delhi and Bengaluru.

The battery swapping model cuts down the time required to charge an EV and improves efficiency.

SWIGGY'S E-CYCLE TIEUP

Swiggy on Thursday also said it has partnered with electric cycle manufacturer Hero Lectro and Fast Despatch Logistics, a last-mile delivery player in the UK, to enable end-to-end delivery of orders through e-cycles.

It has begun trials in Bengaluru, New Delhi and Hyderabad.

"Today's announcement comes on the back of almost two years of pilots, during which Swiggy explored various models to determine what would make EV adoption easier and more profitable for its delivery partners."

The Bengaluru-based company, which delivers millions of orders each month across cities with its partners traveling an average of 80-100 kms daily, has committed to covering deliveries spanning 900,000 kilometres everyday through electric vehicles by 2025.

"Transitioning to EVs is an important step in this direction," said

Sriharsha Majety, chief executive officer of Swiggy. "It will have a positive impact not only on the environment but also empower our delivery partners to earn more."

Making deliveries through EVs is expected to lower the vehicle running cost of its delivery partners by up to 40%, the company said.

Earlier in June, Swiggy's rival Zomato had said it will join the Climate Group's global electric mobility initiative, EV100, committing to 100% adoption of electric vehicles by 2030.

मोदी ने हर युवा के फोन में पेगासस हथियार डाल दिया : राहुल

नई दिल्ली(एसएनबी)। भारतीय युवा कांग्रेस ने देश में आसमान छूती महंगाई, बेलगाम बेरोजगारी, काले कृषि कानून एवं पेगासस जासूसी कांड के खिलाफ बृहस्पतिवार को संसद घेराव किया। युवा कांग्रेस के सैकड़ों कार्यकर्ता संसद घेराव में उपस्थित रहे। उधर बिना अनुमति प्रदर्शन करने पर पुलिस ने कांग्रेस के नेताओं व कार्यकर्ताओं को हिरासत में लिया जिन्हें बाद में रिहा कर दिया गया। जिला पुलिस उपायुक्त दीपक यादव ने बताया कि बिना अनुमति प्रदर्शन करने के आरोप में 589 लोगों को हिरासत में लिया गया था। इनमें 28 महिलाएं, दो सांसद और चार विधायक भी शामिल हैं।

इस अवसर पर कांग्रेस नेता राहुल गांधी भी पहुंचे व संसद घेराव करते युवाओं को संबोधित करते हुए उन्होंने कहा कि मोदी सरकार की साझेदारी छोटे उद्योगपतियों, युवाओं और आम लोगों के साथ नहीं है। उनकी साझेदारी सिर्फ और सिर्फ 2-3 उद्योगपतियों के साथ है। इनका लक्ष्य भारत के युवाओं की आवाज को दबाने का है। ये जानते हैं कि जिस दिन भारत के युवाओं ने सच बोलना शुरू कर दिया उसी दिन प्रधानमंत्री नरेंद्र मोदी की सरकार खत्म हो जाएगी। राहुल गांधी ने कहा कि नरेंद्र मोदी ने सिर्फ मेरे फोन के अंदर नहीं, आप सभी के,

संसद का घेराव करने जा रहे युवा कार्यकर्ताओं पर पानी की बौछार कर रोकती पुलिस।

देश में आसमान छूती महंगाई, बेलगाम बेरोजगारी, काले कृषि कानून एवं पेगासस जासूसी कांड के खिलाफ बृहस्पतिवार को संसद घेराव किया

हर युवा के फोन के अंदर पेगासस हथियार डाल दिया है। जब तक हम दो, हमारे दो की सरकार है हिंदुस्तान के युवाओं को रोजगार नहीं मिलेगा। राहुल गांधी ने युवा कांग्रेस के कार्यकर्ताओं को उनके कार्यों के लिए

सराहना करते हुए कहा कि युवा कांग्रेस एक ऐसा संगठन है जिसने अकेले कोरोना काल में लड़ाई लड़ी और जनता की मदद की।

भारतीय युवा कांग्रेस के राष्ट्रीय अध्यक्ष श्रीनवास बोवी ने कहा कि संसद के

मानसून सत्र के कम से कम 89 घंटे बर्बाद हुए हैं। जन सरोकारों से जुड़े मुद्दों पर विपक्ष चर्चा करना चाहता है, लेकिन सरकार अपने एजेंडे पर चलकर संसद को बाधित किए हुए है ताकि जवाबदेही से बचा जा सके।

ओपन डेज सेशन में छात्रों ने पूछे सवाल

नई दिल्ली (एसएनबी)। दिल्ली विश्वविद्यालय की दाखिला शाखा की तरफ से ओपन डे सेशन आयोजित किया गया। यह आयोजन अंडर ग्रेजुएट स्तर के छात्रों के समक्ष आने वाली समस्याओं के निदान के लिए था। डीन एडमिशन प्रोफेसर पिकी शर्मा ने छात्रों को संबोधित करते हुए सभी संबंधित कागजात संभाल कर रखने एवं प्रत्येक कालम को ठीक से पढ़ कर तभी भरने पर जोर दिया।

कंप्यूटर सेंटर के निदेशक प्रोफेसर संजोव सिंह ने उन तकनीकी बातों की तरफ छात्रों का ध्यान आकर्षित करने का प्रयास किया जो सामान्यतः उन्हें आवेदन की प्रक्रिया से गुजरते समय दिखाई देती हैं।

एक्सपर्ट डॉ आनंद सोनकर ने विभिन्न बोर्ड के अंकों या अंक तालिका के बारे में बात की और यह भी बताया कि दिल्ली विश्वविद्यालय विभिन्न बोर्ड के अंक पत्रों में कोई भेदभाव नहीं करता है। एक्सपर्ट डॉ अमित पुंडीर ने विभिन्न तरह की श्रेणियों

डीयू दाखिला 2021-22 : डीयू में इस बार दाखिले को मिल सकते हैं सिर्फ दो दिन

■ राकेश नाथ

नई दिल्ली। एसएनबी

दिल्ली विश्वविद्यालय के सत्र 2021-22 स्नातक कोर्सेज की दाखिला प्रक्रिया में एक बड़ा बदलाव किए जाने की तैयारी है। इस बार छात्रों को कॉलेजों की हर कटऑफ लिस्ट के बाद दाखिले लेने के लिए मात्र दो दिन ही मिल सकते हैं। अभी तक डीयू में कॉलेजों की कटऑफ लिस्ट आने के बाद दाखिले के लिए तीन दिन मिलते रहे हैं। लेकिन ओवर एडमिशन को रोकने के लिए इस बार इस आशय का प्रस्ताव आया है। यदि सब कुछ ठीक रहा तो इस साल से इस बदलाव को लागू किया जा सकता है।

डीयू दाखिला कमेट्री के सदस्य प्रो. एसपी अग्रवाल ने बताया कि इस बार कॉलेजों में ओवर एडमिशन को रोकने के लिए ऐसा प्रस्ताव आया है। ये प्रस्ताव कॉलेज प्राचार्यों की दाखिला ब्रांच द्वारा आयोजित एक अहम बैठक में आया है। इसको लेकर सहमति भी बनी है। इसकी स्वीकृति होने के बाद इस संबंध में कोई फैसला होगा। प्रो. अग्रवाल ने कहा कि डीयू में ओवर एडमिशन को रोकने को लेकर ये काफी अच्छा कदम होगा। यदि दाखिला लेने के दिन कम होंगे तो ओवर

इस बार दाखिले और फीस जमा करने को 4 दिन मिलेंगे

एडमिशन भी कम होगा।

डीयू में किसी भी कटऑफ लिस्ट के जारी होने के बाद तीन दिन ऑनलाइन दाखिला लेने के लिए मिलते हैं। इसके बाद दो दिन फीस जमा करने के लिए भी मिलते हैं। इस तरह बीते साल तक तीन दिन दाखिला लेने और दो दिन फीस जमा करने के लिए अतिरिक्त मिलते रहे हैं। इस प्रकार इस बार दाखिले लेने को दो और फीस जमा करने को दो दिन मिलेंगे।

इस प्रकार इस साल से हर कट ऑफ लिस्ट के बाद दाखिला लेने और फीस जमा करने के लिए पांच की जगह चार दिन मिल सकते हैं। अभी इस प्रस्ताव को लेकर आधिकारिक घोषणा होनी बाकी है। डीयू की

कटऑफ लिस्ट की घोषणा के साथ ही इसका भी खुलासा हो जाएगा।

प्रो. अग्रवाल ने कहा कि अभी तक हर साल ओवर एडमिशन को लेकर दिक्कत रही है। कुछ कोर्स की 100 सीटों पर 200 तक दाखिले हो जाते हैं। ऐसे में कॉलेज को सेक्शन बढ़ाने पड़ते हैं। कॉलेज में इन्फ्रास्ट्रक्चर की कमी के चलते भी दिक्कत होती है। डीयू से संबद्ध अरविंदो कॉलेज के प्राचार्य प्रो. विपिन अग्रवाल ने कहा कि यदि दाखिले के दिन कम होते हैं तो इससे दाखिला प्रक्रिया लंबी नहीं खिंचेगी। खासकर रिजर्व कोटे की सीटें खाली करने को लेकर ये दिक्कत रहती है। इनकी सीटें न भरने के चलते नवंबर तक दाखिला प्रक्रिया चलता रहता है।
