Govt's BIT regime now mandates 2-yr local remedies, excludes MFN

AANCHAL MAGAZINE & SIDDHARTH UPASANI New Delhi, June 8

MINIMUM TWO-YEAR period for local remedies before initiation of international arbitration; no most-favoured nation (MFN) clause; and, an exclusion of tax-related provisions.

These are the three key principles on which the Centre is remodelling its Bilateral Investment Treaties (BITs) with countries, it has been learnt.

Amid the recent debate on various issues with the BIT model, the Centre is considering tailoring them according to engagement with other countries, with even a one-year cooling window for local remedies being considered for a few countries amid ongoing negotiations, a top Government source said.

"We have to protect the sovereignty of our country, the powers of our Parliament. So, local remedies cannot be done away with by heading straightway to international arbitration. That's why we are looking at a minimum two-year timeline for local remedies within India's legal system. Also, the ongoing discussions are leaning towards no clause for ratifying or most-favoured nation in the investment pacts. Taxation will also be kept separate from the investment pacts," the source said.

BITs are crucial for promotion and protection of investors as they pour money into each other's countries. At present, the Government follows the BIT model from 2016, which mandates exhaustion of domestic remedies prior to the initiation of international arbitration proceedings.

Asked if the local remedies clause, which did not exist in the country's pre-2016 BIT model, creates a hurdle for investors, the source said India has pushed for dedicated commercial courts — and that route has to be explored before international arbitration, which doesn't have fair representation from all countries and can lead to discretionary decisions.

The changes in the erstwhile BIT were also prompted by several international arbitration proceedings by global majors such as Vodafone and Cairn against the Government in different tax disputes. The Budget for 2025-26 had announced the revamping of the 2016 model to make it more investor-friendly and attract sustained foreign investment.

In February 2025, speaking at the International Commercial & Investment Treaty Arbitration in Delhi, Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman said that BIT should be handled separately and negotiated standalone from the free trade agreements by specialists with expertise in elements of policy making such as taxation.

Sitharaman had underlined that before taking up international arbitration, enough time should be given to the contesting parties to go through the available local remedies because that is important for the host country.

On May 21 this year, senior economist Surjit Bhalla in his column for The Indian Express wrote that the "most damaging provision" in India's BIT was the requirement that "foreign investors exhaust local remedies for five years before accessing international arbitration".

"Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman announced in Parliament in February 2025 that the BIT framework would be reviewed and a new version released. The reform release is still awaited. Speculation is that the fundamental architecture has not changed — except that the five-year waiting period has been shortened to 'just' three years. And the requirement to exhaust Indian courts first — the defining departure from pre-2015 BIT norms — is likely being retained," he wrote.

Chief Economic Advisor V Anantha Nageswaran had replied to Bhalla's piece with a column of his own on May 23 in The Indian Express, stating that academic record has found weak or no effects of BITs on FDI inflows. "...a study examining India — Singh, Shreeti, and Urdhwaresh (2022), published in the Indian Economic Review — found that individual BIT signings do not influence FDI inflows.

Ronaldo still the face of Portugal's campaign

SHANKAR NARAYAN Mumbai, June 8

FOR NEARLY TWO decades, Portugal's football story has been told through Cristiano Ronaldo's lens. Every major tournament has carried the same question: Can Ronaldo carry Portugal once again? As the 2026 FIFA World Cup approaches, that question still remains. The 41-year-old is still the face of Portuguese football, still the player fans come to watch. But for perhaps the first time in his international career, Portugal's hopes may depend less on the man finishing THE moves and more on the players creating them around him.

Somewhere behind Ronaldo, scanning the pitch before receiving the ball, will be 26-year-old midfielder Vitor Machado Ferreira, better known as Vitinha.

Born in Santo Tirso, northern Portugal, Vitinha was introduced to football by his father, Vitor Manuel, a former professional player. Yet the game was never forced on him, allowing him to develop at his own pace. He is not the captain. He is not their biggest star. But over the last two years, he has quietly become one of Portugal's most important players.

A quick look over the shoulder. A pass played with perfect weight. A small run into space to escape pressure. Suddenly, Portugal are moving forward again. It is football's least visible work, but also one of its most important.

Vitinha's biggest strength is not goals or assists, but control. Analysts often call him a "metronome" because he decides when Portugal speed up and when they slow down. In modern football, where attention is fixed on goals and statistics, he stands out for making the team function better as a unit.

He operates as a deep-lying playmaker, similar to players like Andrea Pirlo or Toni Kroos, dictating games from deep areas rather than advanced positions. Most of his work is simple on the surface, but crucial in shaping how the team plays.

When Paris Saint-Germain (PSG) signed him in 2022, the club was still driven by big names like Lionel Messi, Neymar, and Kylian Mbappé. Vitinha arrived with little attention and had a difficult start. He was young, adapting to a new league, and competing in a squad full of established stars. At first, opportunities were limited, and he had to wait for his chance.

The turning point came under Luis Enrique. As PSG moved away from relying on individuals and became a more balanced team, Vitinha grew into one of the most important players in the squad. The Spaniard trusted him to control midfield phases.

Midfield control

He is also surrounded by a talented set of teammates, who are equally competent in their roles. Among them, none is more influential than Bruno Fernandes. The Manchester United playmaker remains Portugal's chief creator, capable of producing passes few others would even attempt. While Vitinha provides control, Fernandes supplies invention.

He often looks for quick, early passes into attacking areas, especially into spaces where Ronaldo can attack the ball. These fast combinations around the box will be central to Portugal's attacking style in the tournament.

Wide impact

On the left side, Nuno Mendes adds a different kind of threat. After a strong season with PSG, the full-back has become one of the most important attacking defenders in Europe. He brings pace, strength, and constant forward movement. His runs from deep push opposition defenders back and stretch the pitch. Mendes' role is not just about overlapping runs, but also occasional underlaps, allowing wingers to hold plays and isolate defenders one-on-one.

Together, they help explain why Portugal is seen as a genuine contender. Ronaldo remains the face of the team and its most recognisable figure.

CR7 has 143 goals in 226 matches. The forward has 8 goals in 22 World Cup matches.

At 41, this will be Ronaldo's sixth World Cup

TMC split reaches Lok Sabha: 20 MPs back NDA

West Bengal Chief Minister Suvendu Adhikari leaves a TMC MP's residence to conduct a meeting with TMC MPs, in New Delhi, on Monday

THE TMC IMPOLODED on Monday as a rebellion that had ruptured its West Bengal Assembly ranks reached Parliament, where 20 Lok Sabha MPs led by senior leader Kakoli Ghosh Dastidar claimed to have written to Speaker Om Birla backing the BJP-led NDA as a "separate bloc", triggering a split in the party's parliamentary ranks.

The twin revolts in the assembly and Parliament have plunged Mamata Banerjee's outfit into its gravest crisis since its inception in 1998, with 58 of the TMC's 80 MLAs having only days ago defied the party high command and backed expelled MLA Ritabrata Banerjee as Leader of the Opposition instead of its nominee, Sovande Chattopadhyay.

The political turbulence spilled into Parliament even as Banerjee was in Delhi attending an INDIA bloc conclave to forge opposition unity against the BJP, underscoring the scale of the challenge confronting the TMC leadership.

The dramatic development marks the first major split in the party's parliamentary wing since the TMC was founded and raises the prospect of a broader realignment within one of the country's largest opposition parties.

Speaking to PTI over phone, Ghosh Dastidar said 20 MPs had decided to support the NDA.

Later, speaking to a news channel, she claimed that a letter bearing the signatures of 20 MPs had already been sent to the Speaker. "The letter has already reached the Speaker. We have sought separate seating arrangements as a separate bloc," she said. —PTI
