INDIA'S GIRLS DELIVER A GOLDEN FINISH IN THE 4X400M RELAY

Four women turn all their struggles into golden glory

● Haryana shooter Neeru hits the bullseye, creates Asiad history

MIHIR VASAVDA
Nagoya, September 29

LFOR KIRAN PAHAL, running was once an act of defiance. Her father had to fight an entire village in Sonipat to allow his daughter to pursue athletics.

IFor Prachi Choudhary, a farmer's daughter from Saharanpur, the dream of a DSP post in the UP Police has been a driving force. Before leaving for Nagoya, she submitted her measurements for the uniform, hoping to turn that ambition into reality. IM R Poovamma had to find her way back from a doping ban and depression, with her husband and mother helping her rebuild.

Vithya Ramraj, the daughter of an autorickshaw driver, had already broken India's oldest athletics national record in Nagoya before taking the track for the relay.

Four women, from different corners of the country, carrying different expectations. On Tuesday, at Mizuho Park, they won India's first and only track-and-field gold medal of the Asian Games in Nagoya, reclaiming the women's 4x400m relay title with a time of 3:29.69.

In the last edition in Hangzhou, China had beaten India to gold, but this quartet proved why Indian women remain favourites with a seventh gold in the 4x400m relay at the Asian Games.

It was also a victory that capped India's most successful day of the Games, so far.

Neeru Dhanda, who had been hospitalised with an illness 10 days ago, won gold in the women's trap shooting event. India also won its first-ever medal in the mixed 4x100m relay; Gulveer Singh added a bronze to the two silvers he had already won; the high jump produced a bronze; and, Indian boxers secured significant victories to march into the finals.

The rain had soaked the track, but the four Indian women had a gold medal to chase. The route to it was anything but straightforward.

Kiran got off to a slow start, handing over the baton in third place. Poovamma took over and set about making up ground. With every stride, she said, the snapshots of her recent struggles flashed in front of her. The dope ban, the "depression", the lonely comeback.

She thought of her husband, who managed her training programme while continuing to work and cook for her, and her mother, who travelled to Pune to ensure she could train without distractions. "When my issues were going on, I was so depressed. I don't know what situation I went through. It was my family and my husband," she said.

The veteran, who had won relay gold at the 2014 and 2018 Asian Games, dug into her decade-plus experience and pulled India into the podium position, showing that age — she is 36 — had not slowed her down.

Prachi took over with India in front and held the advantage, charging towards a gold medal, and the DSP post. "I missed it last time because I won just a silver medal," she said. "Before leaving for Nagoya, I submitted my measurements for the uniform." Vithya saw Prachi march towards her, and felt her heart beating fast. She had already broken PT Usha's four-decade-old national record in the 400m hurdles, clocking 54.75 seconds for bronze and won silver in the 4x400 metres mixed relay. Now, she had one more job to finish.

She surged into the final lap with the lead, but Bahrain's Salwa Eid Nasser was beginning to make her presence felt. Having received the baton in last place, Nasser tore through the field, picking off runners one by one and closing the gap.

The pressure mounted. Vithya could see the Bahraini closing in, and the uncertainty began to creep in. "I told myself, 'It's the last race of your season, Vithya. Go for it. Whatever happens, come on, Vithya, you have to fight until the finish line. They all three did good, now it's your turn.' So I went for it," she said. And she held on.

As Nasser closed in, Vithya drove towards the finish line, refusing to yield. The rain continued to fall, the gap continued to narrow, but Vithya had enough left to bring India home in 3:29.69. Bahrain finished second, China third.

For four women whose careers had been shaped by very different struggles, the finish line offered a common reward. Poovamma had returned from the lowest point of her career. Kiran hoped the medal would lighten the burden she carried for her family. Prachi had taken another step towards a long-held dream. And Vithya had found one more moment to fight through the pressure.

Four women, four journeys, one relay that brought them together — and brought India back to the top of the Asian Games relay podium.

'Match-fixing' in electoral process, alleges Rahul

LEADER OF OPPOSITION Rahul Gandhi told the Congress Working Committee on Tuesday that EVM and voters' list "match-fixing" of polls was underway in the country and asserted that his party should not budge from the path of "virodh" (opposing) as well as "pratirodh" (resistance) from streets to Parliament, sources said.

Speaking during the Congress Working Committee (CWC) meeting here at Indira Bhawan, Gandhi also said that revelations about the Election Commission were now coming out in the open because of the Congress.

During the two-and-a-half hour meeting, the Leader of Opposition in the Lok Sabha pointed out that the Congress had been raising the "vote chori" issue strongly and talked about irregularities in polls in Haryana, Karnataka and Maharashtra but many were sceptical of it, sources said.

The issue is now being discussed in the media and in editorials, he was quoted as saying. So, the atmosphere has indeed changed over these two years, largely because of presentations based on facts by the Congress, Gandhi was quoted as saying.

Gandhi had stated that there are two types of "match-fixing" — one involving EVMs and the other is deliberate tampering with the voter lists, sources said. "So, there are two forms of match-fixing: EVM match-fixing and voter list match-fixing, both are happening," Gandhi was quoted as saying. Gandhi also said that there is no doubt that the 2024 election was "completely fixed and rigged".

India's global university footprint widens, misses top 200 in Times ranking

● 143 institutions make the list; IISc slips to 254th

MANU KAUSHIK
New Delhi, September 29

THE NUMBER OF Indian universities in the latest Times Higher Education (THE) World University Rankings has risen to 143, up by 15 from last year, giving the country the highest representation in Asia. However, India's top-ranked institution, the Indian Institute of Science (IISc), has slipped to 254th place from the 201-250 band last year, leaving the country without a single university in the global top 200.

India's increased presence in this year's rankings is primarily driven by the inclusion of more institutions. The two highest-ranked new Indian entrants are the Central University of Himachal Pradesh and Mahatma Jyotiba Phule Rohilkhand University, both placed in the 701-800 band. Meanwhile, Saveetha Institute of Medical and Technical Sciences, India's second-highest-ranked institution, climbed to the 326-350 band from 351-400 last year, achieving its highest-ever position on the back of improved publications per staff.

India now has the second-highest number of ranked universities globally, behind the US. However, the gap with China remains particularly pronounced at the upper end. China has 102 universities in the 2027 rankings, compared with India's 143, but 17 Chinese institutions feature in the global top 200, up from 13 last year.

The rankings assess universities using 17 indicators across five areas: teaching, research environment, research quality, international outlook and industry. The methodology draws on institutional data submitted to THE, bibliometric data from Elsevier and an academic reputation survey. For the 2027 rankings, Elsevier supplied data covering 19.9 million publications and 188.7 million citations, while the latest reputation survey was conducted between November 2025 and February 2026. Research reputation carries the highest individual weight at 18%, followed by teaching reputation and citation impact at 15% each.

This year, THE expanded the rankings to 2,297 institutions across 118 countries and territories, up from 2,191 institutions across 115 countries and territories last year. It also introduced individual positions for the top 300 universities, compared with the top 200 previously.

At the top of the global table, the University of Oxford retained its position for the 11th consecutive year, followed by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT). Princeton and Stanford shared third place, while the University of Cambridge ranked fifth.

The US and UK continued to dominate the top 10, but Asian universities gained ground, with China's Tsinghua University ranking 11th and Singapore's National University of Singapore 15th.

For the first time, Asia has three universities in the global top 15.
