Share of women in corporates jumps 4-fold

THE SHARE OF women directors on the boards of NSE-listed firms has grown from 5% to over a fifth – over four times – between 2013 and 2025, even as the total number of directors grew 45%, according to a report by primeinfobase.com. However, women still struggle to move up the corporate hierarchy with less than 5% of such firms have women managing directors/CEOs as of March this year, compared with 4.5% in 2020. The share of executive directorship held by women too has only inched up from 7.7% to 10% during the period, the report added. The number of directors on the board of the NSE-listed firms grew by from 11,518 in March 2013 to 16,694 now. In the same period, number of women directors grew from 569 to 3,479. The report also reveals that 97% of the 2,133 NSE-listed firms now have at least one woman director on board because of the regulatory requirements, up from 30.8% in March 2013. Women hold 28% of 8,472 posts of independent directors in these firms, up from 17% as of March 2018. For the top 500 companies by market cap it has been mandatory to have at least one woman ID since April 1, 2019. Only 6% or 123 companies have a woman chairing the board. Of which 57 are from the promoter group. Around 15% companies have a woman chairing the audit committee, up from 9% as on March 2020. The report shows that women independent directors are seven years younger than their male counterparts on an average while non-independent directors are four years younger.

Women finding their voice in startup world

● Out of the 118 unicorns, 22 have women founders: Tracxn report

S SHANTHI Bengaluru, March 7

DESPITE PERSISTENT CHALLENGES, women-led startups in the country are making notable progress in terms of funding, unicorn creation, and global positioning. Women entrepreneurs FE spoke to said that the startup ecosystem hasn't been discriminatory as investors, accelerators, and mentors have recognised the need for equitable opportunities.

Consider the numbers: As on date, out of 118 startups in the country with a unicorn status, 22 have women founders, according to Tracxn data. In other words women are powering one-fourth unicorns. Back in 2020, there were around 21 unicorns, of which 4 were unicorns. This means back then also 19% unicorns were founded by women entrepreneurs.

As on date, India has over 7,000 active startups with at least one female founder, accounting for 7.5% of the country's total startup ecosystem. Of this, over 2,900 startups have received a cumulative funding of $26.4 billion in funding.

Further, according to Tracxn data, India ranks second globally in cumulative funding raised by women-led startups, trailing only the United States. In 2022, India accounted for 15.18% of global funding for women-led startups, but this figure dropped to 3.96% in 2024. Despite this decline, India maintained its third-place ranking in global funding in 2024, following the US and the UK.

lowed by edtech ($5.4 billion) and enterprise applications ($5 billion). Sub-sectors such as B2C e-commerce, Internet-first brands, and fashion tech have witnessed notable growth. Some of the most successful women-led startups include Zomato ($1.7 billion funding), Pine Labs ($1 billion), Lenskart ($1 billion), OfBusiness ($758 million), Cult.fit ($687 million), and ACKO ($598 million).

"More investors are today recognising the business case for diverse leadership. Many women-led businesses are also proving their ability to scale successfully, setting new benchmarks for future founders," Mabel Chacko, co-founder and COO, OPEN told FE.

"See a change in the society, where more and more women are becoming open about their aspirations with their families and families/spouses in turn are becoming more supportive," Smita Deorah, co-CEO and co-founder, LEAD Group said.

"The dynamics are changing. There's far less hostility towards aspiring business women than how it used to be. Women are actively occupying the funding spaces and further encouraging other women," Garima Sawhney, senior gynaecologist and co-founder, Pristyn Care said.

"There's this notion that to succeed in fields dominated by men, women need to replicate male behaviours but that's not true. Every business needs women and their unique perspective, a more inclusive leadership style, and a collaborative approach to ventures that are equally, if not more, powerful. Success doesn't need to look like anyone else's. The trick is to believe your instinct, your vision, and be confident in your abilities," she added.

Lalit Modi, architect of IPL, seeks to surrender Indian passport

INDIAN PREMIER LEAGUE (IPL) founder Lalit Modi has filed an application with the Indian high commission in London to surrender his Indian passport. The ministry of external affairs (MEA) confirmed this on Friday.

Modi is known to have acquired citizenship of Vanuatu, a South Pacific Island nation. He left India in 2010

Lalit Modi is known to have acquired citizenship of Vanuatu, a South Pacific Island nation. He left India in 2010 and is learnt to have been living in London.

The former IPL chief is wanted by Indian law enforcement agencies in connection with allegations that he was involved in embezzlement of crores of rupees during his stint as the top boss of the IPL. "He has made an application for surrendering his passport in the high commission of India, London," External Affairs Ministry spokesperson Randhir Jaiswal said.

"The same will be examined in light of extant rules and procedures. We are also given to understand that he has acquired citizenship of Vanuatu. We continue to pursue the case against him as required under law," he said. —PTI
