Commenting on the Results, Mr. Sajid Malik – Chairman & Managing Director said, "The World Bank-funded Ahmedabad 3D digital twin initiative reinforces our leadership in India's urban digital twin market and builds on the experience we have gained mapping some of the country's most complex cities.

We believe the scale and detail of the digital twins we are building give us a significant advantage in GeoAI and physical AI. They provide a foundation for AI systems that can understand how cities and infrastructure are laid out, track how they change over time and model the impact of planning decisions. We see this as a major opportunity for Genesys to shape how AI is applied to urban planning, infrastructure development and governance."
