ANEES HUSSAIN

AMIT GUPTA HAD planned to stop working at 40. By then, he had co-founded InMobi and helped build it into India's first venture-funded new-age unicorn, valued at just over $1 billion in 2011. He had little reason to start over. Yet an increasingly frustrating commute in Bengaluru changed that plan.

InMobi's office on the Outer Ring Road was about 3 km from Gupta's home. What initially took less than 10 minutes began taking half an hour and eventually an hour as traffic worsened. "I thought this menace of traffic will only get worse," he says. The problem was simple: how do you move people over short distances in a city where the roads were becoming the bottleneck?

"I knew I wanted to solve this problem and give it a shot before I turn 50 or 60 and regret that I didn't try," Gupta says.

The idea was not built alone. Gupta called his IIT Kanpur classmate Naveen Dachuri, who was then working on data systems for the US aviation regulator. Dachuri returned to Bengaluru. The third co-founder was RK Misra, an IIT Kanpur alumnus who had founded the Tenet group of technology companies and Traveljini.com, one of India's early travel portals. Misra had left business at 40 to work in public policy, advising central and state governments.

Their answer was Yulu, launched in early 2018 with a relatively simple proposition: rent a bicycle for short urban commutes. Users could scan a QR code, pick up a cycle and drop it at another location. But within six months, the founders realised the idea was not going to scale. "People were using those pedal cycles more for fitness and leisure, rather than the daily commute," Gupta says.

By mid-2018, Yulu changed direction. It shifted to low-speed electric bikes capped at 25 km/h. The vehicles were slow enough to be treated as bicycles under the rules then in force, avoiding the need for a driving licence or registration. More importantly, they found a use case that pedal cycles had not.

HOW A SIMPLE ANSWER TO THE PROBLEM OF MOVING PEOPLE THROUGH CONGESTED CITIES EVOLVED INTO AN ELECTRIC MOBILITY BUSINESS

THE COMPANY PLANS TO DOUBLE ITS FLEET IN A YEAR AND QUADRUPLE IT IN TWO. IT WILL LAUNCH A FASTER 45-50 KM/H VERSION

Then came Covid. Offices shut, commuters disappeared and Yulu's revenue fell to zero. But another market was emerging at the same time: food delivery and quick commerce. The company had vehicles sitting idle and a growing pool of delivery workers looking for affordable mobility.

"We thought why don't we offer our bikes to these riders on a fixed rental. Anyway our assets were sitting idle," Gupta says.

The pivot changed Yulu's economics. Gig workers took to the vehicles, investors followed and the company began building a business around electric mobility for commercial riders as much as commuters. In June 2020, Rocketship led a $3.9 million funding round. That year, Anuj Tewari, Gupta's schoolmate from Kanpur, joined as chief financial officer. He was elevated to co-founder by late 2023. Bajaj invested in 2021, while Magna International led an $83 million Series B in September 2022 that valued Yulu at $181 million. Magna and Bajaj invested another $19.25 million in February 2024.

In August, Yulu raised $93 million, comprising $63 million in equity led by GEF Capital Partners and $30 million in debt. Overall, the company has raised about $198 million in equity and $49 million in debt, according to Tracxn. Its revenue doubled to ₹241.9 crore in FY25 from ₹122.8 crore in FY24, while its loss narrowed to ₹126 crore from ₹142.8 crore.

Bajaj now manufactures Yulu's vehicles, which are in their third generation. The fleet is around 50,000, comprising the Miracle for commuters, the DeX for delivery riders and the Yulu Express, a two-seater. About 2,500 are Miracles and 700-800 are Express vehicles, with the rest being DeX.

The commuter business, however, had taken a back seat. Yulu plans to put 7,000-8,000 Miracles back on Bengaluru's roads over the next two to three quarters.

The company aims to double its fleet in a year and quadruple it in two. It will launch a faster 45-50 km/h version of the Express for parcels and bike taxis, which Bajaj will not manufacture. It is also targeting bike-taxi aggregators such as Rapido and Uber.

The larger challenge may be regulatory. A draft from the Ministry of Road Transport and Highways proposes raising the power limit for low-speed vehicles from 250 watts to 600 watts and removing the 60-kg weight cap.

The concern is that heavier, faster scooters could begin passing as bicycles, undermining the category on which Yulu has built its model. At the same time, violations by delivery riders and the unresolved legal status of bike taxis add uncertainty.

Going beyond advocacy to resolve Ukraine war: EAM

SHUBHAJIT ROY
New Delhi, October 4

DISCLOSING THAT INDIA has gone "beyond advocacy" to be a "little more involved" in the efforts to end the Russia-Ukraine war raging since February 2022, External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar said on Sunday that Delhi has been in conversations with both Moscow and Kyiv, trying to be "helpful" on the safety of shipping in the Black Sea, grain and energy exports and on "non-attack possibilities".

His remarks, at the Munich Leaders' Meeting in New Delhi, came days after Ukraine's Foreign Minister Andrii Sybiha said India had put forward a "comprehensive" and "broad" proposal to end the war for the first time.

Jaishankar said, "We are seeing today an unfortunate conflict. Our position on that conflict has been very clear, which is that we would like to see an end to this conflict, and we believe that this will require dialogue and diplomacy. There has to be negotiations in this regard. We have been advocating it for many years, and in recent months, we have got a little bit more involved beyond advocacy. So we have conversations with both Russia and Ukraine in this regard." "We are trying to be helpful, starting with the Black Sea safety of shipping issue, but going beyond that to cover some immediate concerns which both of them have on grain exports, on energy exports, on non-attack possibilities. So those are ongoing conversations right now."

He said India and Russia have historically had very good relations, particularly since the 1950s, and that history is not forgotten.

"For us, Russia and the Soviet Union before that was a country that stood by us in many ways when our security, when our territorial integrity was under threat. And at a time when, you know, much of the world preferred backing a military regime next to us, Russia was a country with which our relations were very good, and... we are obviously shaped in many ways by that legacy. Today, the relationship has widened beyond that. You know, it is again, the world has changed. We have changed. Our own relationships are not what they were in the '70s and '80s. Neither is the case with Russia's," he said.

"So, like any relationship, it is refreshed. It undergoes a change. New issues come. Old issues sometimes get rebalanced. So it is very much more today an economic relationship as well. So there is a military component. There's a nuclear component. There are space issues, but there is a significant amount of trade and investment between the two countries, and of course, energy and resources as well. So, any country would, when you view another country, you judge it from our experiences..."

"I can't expect Europe, for example, to look at the world and say, okay, what does India think? And my view should be based on India's experience. Europe will base its judgement on Europe's experience. India will base its judgment on India's experience. So India's experience has been, frankly, quite positive and consistently positive," he said.

On October 1, Russian President Vladimir Putin said Prime Minister Narendra Modi "constantly raises the question about putting an end to the conflict" and has "very good ideas".

Later that day, speaking to reporters in Kyiv, Ukraine's Foreign Minister Sybiha said, "We have four proposals. The most comprehensive is India's proposal. For the first time, India has signalled its willingness to play a role."

He said Ukraine is prepared to agree to an energy and agricultural truce in the Black Sea, and is also considering an unconditional ceasefire along the line of contact.

SC to hear pleas for CEC's suspension today

THE SUPREME COURT is scheduled to hear on Monday a batch of pleas seeking suspension of Chief Election Commissioner Gyanesh Kumar and challenging the manner in which the poll panel led by him took decisions, allegedly without the approval of two election commissioners.

A bench of Chief Justice Surya Kant and Justices Joydip Bagchi and V Mohana is scheduled to hear the pleas filed by Rakesh Kumar Singh and advocate Shailendra Mani Tripathi, who have also challenged the decisions, guidelines and software changes allegedly made by Kumar without the concurrence of his two colleagues. The PIL, filed by Patna resident Rakesh Kumar Singh, has urged the top court to determine whether Kumar has been individually exercising powers that legally belong to the Election Commission (EC) as a whole, and, if so, to declare those actions unauthorised and take appropriate legal action.

"Direct that respondent No.3 (CEC) shall not exercise the functions of Chief Election Commissioner of India pending final hearing of the present petition; direct that during such period, the business of the Commission be transacted by the unanimous decision of respondent Nos. 4 (Sukhbir Singh Sandhu) and 5 (Vivek Joshi); and direct that any appointment to the resulting vacancy be made upon the recommendation of a Committee, including the Hon'ble Chief Justice of India," the plea reads.

It demanded suspension of Kumar pending the final hearing of the petition to preserve the "multi-member character of the Election Commission." The plea comes against the backdrop of an Indian Express report that claimed that election commissioners Sandhu and Joshi objected on record at least 14 times over the past 10 months to decisions and orders on Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of electoral rolls that they said were issued without their knowledge or recommendation under fire.

The EC said differing views and observations are a normal part of deliberations in any institution and all its orders carry full legal sanction and follow established statutory procedures.
