CERC approves 3 time slots for TAM contracts

Rishi Ranjan Kala
New Delhi

The Central Electricity Regulatory Commission (CERC) on Thursday approved three pre-specified time slots — round-the-clock (RTC), solar and non-solar — for the term-ahead market (TAM) on power exchanges.

TAM offers a range of products that allow participants to buy or sell electricity on a term basis for up to 90 days.

The regulator was hearing petitions from Indian Energy Exchange (IEX), Power Exchange India (PXIL) and Hindustan Power Exchange (HPX) seeking approval for pre-specified slots in TAM, Green TAM (G-TAM) and High Price TAM (HP-TAM) on their platforms.

'CORE INTENT'

CERC said the "core intent" behind introducing pre-specified time slots in TAM contracts is to align with the conditions laid down in its June 7, 2022, and December 13, 2022, orders and prevent any scope for manipulation by restricting contracts to fixed specifications.

The Commission noted that Grid India had proposed structuring TAM contracts around "solar and non-solar hours" instead of "peak and off-peak hours".

According to Grid India, a uniform four-hour peak slot cannot be defined nationally because each State reaches peak demand at different times based on its demand curve.

Further, imposing uniform peak-hour slots across regions would prevent buyers from optimising procurement in line with actual demand patterns, while region-specific peak-hour slots could fragment liquidity in TAM.

Grid India also pointed out that peak and off-peak hours are notified only a month in advance by RLDCs, whereas TAM contracts are available for trading up to three months ahead.

CERC said it found "merit" in Grid India's proposal to structure TAM contracts on the basis of solar and non-solar hours instead of peak and off-peak hours.

SLOT STRUCTURES

On the slot structures proposed by power exchanges and stakeholders, the Commission observed that suggestions such as region-specific peak hours, two-hour delivery slots and seasonally adjusted variations were not aligned with the objectives of pre-specified time slots envisaged in its April 28, 2025 order for TAM, G-TAM and HP-TAM.

RTC contracts will run for 24 hours, while solar contracts will cover 6 am to 6 pm and non-solar contracts 6 pm to 6 am.

"Broadly, we approve three types of pre-specified time slots for TAM contracts, namely RTC, solar and non-solar contracts. Under solar and non-solar contracts, there shall be further classification of contracts. These time slots are based on the prevailing national solar and non-solar hours," CERC said in its order.

The regulator also directed Grid India to issue a detailed procedure for separately notifying solar and non-solar hours on a national basis, while factoring in regional variations as far as possible.

"The directions to the power exchanges pertaining to pre-specified time slots for TAM/HP-TAM/GTAM (hydro) and GTAM (other than hydro) contracts shall come into effect within a week from the date of the order. However, all such contracts traded or entered into before the date of this order shall continue to be valid," the order said.

Daytime peak power demand second highest at 267 GW solar hours has now hit record highs for four consecutive days.

The daytime peak power demand touched 267.45 gigawatts (GW) on Friday afternoon, marking the second-highest level ever recorded.

The peak of 267.45 GW was logged at 3.29 pm, lower only than Thursday's all-time high of 270.82 GW. It was, however, higher than the demand recorded between Monday and Wednesday.

The surge in electricity consumption has been driven by heavy use of cooling appliances amid intense heatwave conditions across the country. Demand during

HEATWAVE PERSISTS
Since May 17, temperatures have crossed 47°C in several parts of east, central, north-west and peninsular India, with heatwave conditions expected to persist into next week.

Coal accounted for 63.16 per cent of the electricity supplied to meet Friday's peak demand, followed by solar at 22.11 per cent, hydro at 5.64 per cent, wind at 5.54 per cent and nuclear at 2.66 per cent.

The Ministry of Power had projected peak electricity demand to touch around 270 GW this fiscal.
