TRANSFORMING INDIAN SPACES

DMart squeezed in a crowded retail aisle

Qcom pressure and muted expansion weigh on growth

RAM PRASAD SAHU
Mumbai, 5 January

The stock of retail major Avenue Supermarts (DMart) is trading at a 10-month low, down 23 per cent since early September. Weak sentiment stems from falling same-store sales (SSS) growth, revenue pressure from intensifying competition with quick-commerce (qcom) companies, and a slower pace of new store addition.

These factors have led to earnings cuts and downgrades by brokerages. Despite the correction, the stock trades at 68-75x its 2026-27 (FY27) earnings estimates. The stock may continue to underperform, as the company's 2025-26 (FY26) third-quarter (October-December/Q3) update confirmed a trajectory of sluggish revenue growth, muted store addition, and lower revenue per square foot.

The company's Q3 revenue growth of 13 per cent was lower than Street estimates of 14-17 per cent and below the 15-16 per cent recorded in the first (April-June/Q1) and second (July-September/Q2) quarters of FY26. DMart added 10 stores sequentially, taking the total to 442 — below expectations. JM Financial points out that sales per square foot at ₹9,730 were 3 per cent lower than the Q3 2019-20 (FY20) level of ₹10,000. The brokerage has a 'reduce' rating on the stock.

In a post-update note, Motilal Oswal says DMart's gross margin stabilised in Q2FY26. However, given the weak revenue print and increased discounting by qcom players, margin pressure is expected to persist over the medium term. While discounting intensity is likely to remain elevated, acceleration in store additions remains DMart's key growth lever, it adds.

Analyst Abhijeet Kundu of Antique Stock Broking says key monitorables include a recovery in sales of higher-margin general merchandise and apparel, stabilisation in mature-store SSS growth, and the company's ability to counter online grocery competition. SSS growth fell to 6.8 per cent in Q2FY26 and to low single digits in Q3, from 8.4 per cent in 2024-25 (FY25).

Kotak Securities highlights that a rising proportion of older stores, combined with slower new additions, could weigh on SSS growth. Analysts Garima Mishra and Ishani Swain note that older stores continue to account for a larger share of DMart's network. In FY20, 131 of the company's 214 stores — 61 per cent — were over three years old. By FY25, that share had risen to 68 per cent and may continue to climb unless store expansion picks up. Mature stores typically deliver slower SSS growth as market potential peaks, making new additions critical.

The brokerage has cut SSS growth assumptions for FY26 through 2027-28 (FY28), translating into a 1-3 per cent revenue reduction and a 3-7 per cent cut in earnings per share estimates. It retains a 'sell' rating with a target price of ₹3,370.

Several brokerages have flagged the impact of sharper competition. Goldman Sachs expects competitive pressure to remain elevated in the near term, potentially weighing further on growth and margins. It cites rapid qcom expansion and fresh capital raises in support of its view. Industry net order value (NOV) reached $12-13 billion as of September 2025, more than doubling over the past 12 months. NOV is projected to hit $50 billion by 2029-30, implying annual growth of about 40 per cent.

Swiggy has announced a capital raise of up to $1.1 billion, while Zepto raised $450 million, likely pushing competition higher. Blinkit plans to expand its dark-store network from 1,816 in Q2FY26 to 3,000 by the fourth quarter of FY27.

Analysts led by Arnab Mitra project Blinkit's NOV could exceed DMart's net sales in FY27. Goldman Sachs has cut its earnings estimates by 1-3 per cent for FY26-28 to factor in slower growth amid rising competition and maintains a 'sell' rating with an unchanged target of ₹3,425.

HOME LOAN MISTAKES

Do not equate loan eligibility with repayment capacity

KARTHIK JEROME

Buying a home is often the biggest financial decision an individual makes, yet many borrowers underestimate the preparation it requires. A recent report by NoBroker highlights recurring mistakes that home loan applicants make.

insurance and property taxes later. Agarwal suggests opting for maximum tenure to keep mandatory EMIs low.

"Ideally, not more than 30-35 per cent of net monthly income should go towards EMI payments," says Pramod Kathuria, founder and CEO, Easiloan.

Maintaining an adequate emergency fund is vital. "Borrowers should ensure they continue to allocate money towards long-term investments even after taking a home loan," says Atul Monga, CEO and cofounder, BASIC Home Loan. According to Agarwal, pre-paying whenever surplus cash is available helps reduce the interest burden.

Misunderstanding eligibility criteria

Many borrowers assume lenders consider only income and credit score. Job stability, business vintage, income consistency, financial discipline, existing liabilities, property location and the completeness of property-related approvals also matter. Freelancers with irregular income or buyers choosing properties with documentation gaps may

Eligibility vs affordability

A common error is confusing loan eligibility with affordability. Many buyers set equated monthly instalments (EMIs) too high relative to net income. "Borrowers often assume that income and interest rates will remain stable throughout the loan tenure," says Amit Agarwal, cofounder and chief executive officer (CEO), NoBroker. Job changes, income disruptions, and rising interest rates can strain cash flows.

Another blind spot is underestimating non-EMI costs. Buyers often focus on monthly repayments and overlook stamp duty (typically 5-7 per cent), registration fees, brokerage and processing charges at the time of purchase, and maintenance,

Ensure credit readiness before applying

- Monitor credit reports, correct discrepancies early
- Outstanding dues, especially credit card balances, must be paid on time
- Credit utilisation ratio of cards should be kept low
- Close unnecessary credit accounts
- Avoid applying for multiple loans or credit cards close to a home loan application
- A credit score of 750 and above can help secure a lower interest rate Bengaluru), incomplete ownership records or delayed society no-objection certificates can stall cases. These issues are avoidable with complete, accurate, current and legible submissions. "High-resolution scans should be used instead of photographs taken by a mobile phone. Utility bills should not be more than three months old," says Rishi Mehra, CEO, Wishfin. Kathuria emphasises comprehensive financial disclosures.

Choosing unsuitable lenders
Misaligned lender selection means approaching an institution whose policies do not fit the borrower profile or property type. Self-employed borrowers may struggle with salaried-focused lenders. Older resale properties can face stricter title and aged-related norms. Credit score cut-offs also differ among lenders.

Borrowers should research multiple lenders, consider using experienced direct sales agents, and begin with a lender with whom they already bank.

Self-employed borrowers need to be prepared

Due to their fluctuating incomes, lenders prioritise consistency and business stability. "Non-salaried applicants should ensure that audited financial statements are current, income is accurately reported, bank statements reflect business cash flows clearly and tax filings are consistent," says Kathuria.

A strong credit score, and selecting a lender comfortable with self-employed borrowers, helps. "Making a higher down payment can strengthen the application, as lenders often apply more conservative LTV norms to them," says Monga.

face challenges. Eligibility is constrained by income-based norms — fixed obligation to income ratio (FOIR) — and property value-based norms — loan-to-value (LTV) ratio. "A borrower eligible for ₹90 lakh based on income for a ₹1 crore property may receive only ₹80-85 lakh due to the Reserve Bank of India's LTV limits," says Agarwal.

Why delays in approval occur

Delays commonly stem from repeated document submissions when papers are incomplete, outdated, inconsistent or misaligned with lender specifications. Name mismatches, missing floor plans, absence of khata documents (in
