Pidilite’s growth sticks, but rising costs may test its grip

Vinyl acetate monomer price rise may weigh on near-term margins

RAM PRASAD SAHU
Mumbai, 17 August

Adhesives and construction chemicals major Pidilite Industries reported a strong first-quarter (April-June/Q1) performance in 2026-27 (FY27). The company’s consolidated revenue growth was led by the consumer and bazaar (C&B) segment, followed by the business-to-business (B2B) segment. Operating performance was also strong, aided by lower costs, even as gross margins came in below estimates.

The export business, however, saw a decline due to the ongoing conflict in West Asia. Given management’s confidence in revenue growth and long-term margins, most brokerages remain positive on the company. At the current price of ₹1,669, the stock, which has gained 22 per cent since the start of May, is trading at, is trading at 48x its 2027-28 (FY28) earnings estimates.

Consolidated revenue grew 21.3 per cent year-on-year (Y-o-Y), aided by a 10 per cent blended price hike implemented in April. Among the segments, C&B, which houses a raft of brands such as Fevicol, Dr. Fixit, Araldite, Fevistik, and M-Seal, grew 22.4 per cent Y-o-Y, while the B2B business posted a rise of 13.8 per cent. The C&B segment accounts for over 80 per cent of revenues.

While overall standalone volume growth was 11 per cent, volumes in the C&B segment grew 12 per cent, while B2B volumes were impacted by disruptions in West Asia. Exports declined 8.4 per cent, limiting B2B volume growth to 7 per cent. Healthy momentum in core brands such as Fevicol, Roff, and Dr Fixit continued to drive growth.

Pidilite’s volume growth trajectory, according to Motilal Oswal Research, remains encouraging, especially amid a challenging demand environment. Operating margins, according to analysts at the brokerage led by Naveen Trivedi, could contract in the near term owing to cost inflation. Given its market leadership, Pidilite is better placed to navigate such an inflationary scenario, they added. The brokerage has a “neutral” rating on the stock with a target price of ₹1,700.

Strong showing

The company indicated that the demand scenario was healthy in Q1 and that the trend had continued into the second quarter (July-September/Q2) so far. Analysts Arun Baid and Nikunj Shah of ICICI Securities believe the company will continue to report healthy growth, supported by its comprehensive portfolio, innovative products, and wide distribution reach. They expect Pidilite to grow its revenues at an annual rate of 13.6 per cent from 2025-26 (FY26) through FY28. The brokerage has an “add” rating on the stock with a price target of ₹1,837.

While revenue growth was strong, gross profitability was impacted by rising costs. Higher raw material costs hit gross margins by 66 basis points (bps) Y-o-Y and 313 bps sequentially. The weakness in gross margins was due to the West Asia conflict, which led to a rise in vinyl acetate monomer (Vam) prices. Vam, a key raw material used in adhesives and other polymer-based products, rose to $1,370 per tonne from $924 per tonne in Q1FY26. The company took calibrated price hikes of between 2 per cent and 12 per cent across products in Q1 to mitigate cost pressures.

Operating profit margin, however, came in at 26.2 per cent, up 116 bps Y-o-Y and 299 bps quarter-on-quarter. The gains at the operating level were driven by pricing, the carryover of low-cost inventory, and lower fixed-cost inflation.

As higher-cost raw material inventory is consumed, Equirus Securities expects near-term margins to moderate towards management’s guided range of 20-24 per cent. Analysts Pranav Mehta and Jinesh Kothari raised their FY27 and FY28 operating profit estimates by 5 per cent and 3 per cent, respectively, given the stronger-than-expected Q1 margins. Pidilite, according to them, remains a steady compounder, with its core franchise sustaining healthy growth and new categories such as Roff and Dr. Fixit scaling through deeper penetration and wider adoption. The brokerage is positive on the company, with a target price of ₹1,885.

How to handle your finances after a job loss

KARTHIK JEROME

Layoffs in technology and other sectors continue to make news periodically. Those who lose their jobs have to grapple with multiple financial challenges: The salary they had come to view as a constant stops, but household expenses must still be met and equated monthly instalments (EMIs) still be paid. The employer’s health insurance also terminates.

Calculate your runway
Begin by estimating the household’s minimum monthly expenditure. List all unavoidable expenses such as rent, groceries, transportation, education and medical bills. “Include annual expenses that will fall due over the next six months,” says Renu Maheshwari, Sebi-registered investment advisor, cofounder and principal advisor, Finscholarz Wealth Managers.

Next, take stock of liquid and relatively liquid assets. These include bank balances, fixed deposits, liquid funds and debt mutual funds.

Compare the available financial resources with monthly expenditure to estimate how long the money can last. “For a more conservative estimate of the financial runway, rely primarily on fixed-income assets, as equity fund valuations tend to fluctuate,” says Maheshwari.

Cut expenses selectively
Discretionary spending needs to be pared. Luxury purchases and spending on upgrading the house should be postponed. Dining out, movies and similar entertainment expenses should be reduced, though not eliminated completely. “Excessive spending cuts can compound the psychological stress caused by unemployment,” says Maheshwari.

Pause SIPs, change asset allocation
While using your savings, dip into the emergency fund first. Fixed deposits come next, followed by debt funds. “If markets are favourable, book some profits in equities,” says Maheshwari. Systematic investment plans (SIPs) funded by the monthly salary will have to be stopped. Asset allocation may also need to change. “The investor’s capacity to take risk falls drastically, so portfolio risk must come down,” says Maheshwari. However, investors should not exit equities completely.

Protect critical repayments
When cash flow becomes strained, the payment hierarchy should be based on the consequences of default rather than only on the interest rate.

“Secured loans such as home and vehicle loans warrant priority because they are linked to underlying assets,” says Vinay Singh, cofounder & chief product officer, Olyv.

As for credit card debt, pay minimum dues on time to prevent an impact on the credit report. While this means the account will remain current, the outstanding balance will grow rapidly. Credit card revolving interest can be 36-45 per cent a year. Convert the outstanding balance into an EMI. “Many issuers offer such conversions at 12-18 per cent,” says Ritesh Srivas-

Pros and cons of restructuring debt

- Restructuring can take the form of a moratorium or a longer repayment tenure
- A moratorium (pause in payments) offers immediate relief
- But interest continues to accumulate during the payment holiday
- A longer repayment tenure lowers the EMI and hence eases the pressure on monthly cash flows
- But the total interest outgo over the life of the loan increases
- Some lenders also charge a processing fee of about 0.5-2 per cent of the outstanding amount for restructuring tava, founder & CEO, FREED.

Act before missing a payment. “Once there is a default, issuers may tighten terms or not offer conversion,” says Srivastava.

Approach the lender early
If an EMI is likely to be missed, contact the lender before the due date. “Early engagement improves the possibility of reaching a workable arrangement,” says Singh.

Lenders may offer restructuring in cases of genuine hardship. “The options could include a moratorium of three to six months or an extension of the loan tenure,” says Srivastava.

Secure health cover
Find out when the employer’s group health cover ends and begin exploring alternatives before there is a break in coverage.

“Under Insurance Regulatory and Development Authority of India (Irdai) provisions, migration from a group health policy to an individual or family floater policy with the same insurer is available,” says Arun Ramamurthy, cofounder, Staywell.Health.

Contact the insurer and request migration. “Check the terms, premium and sum insured of the new policy. Confirm which family members will be covered, what continuity benefits will be recognised, and which waiting periods will apply,” says Ramamurthy.

An individual policy may offer different benefits and can be significantly more expensive. “Migration is also subject to underwriting,” says Ramamurthy.

Bali, Vietnam trip? Forex mistakes that can quietly eat into your budget

If you are planning a trip to Southeast Asia — Thailand, Bali, and Vietnam — you are dealing with three different currencies, different levels of cash acceptance and different digital-payment ecosystems.

For Indian travellers increasingly stitching together multiple

Southeast Asian destinations in one holiday, forex planning needs to become a part of the travel budget — not an afterthought.

Here are some precautions you can take:

- Don’t convert your rupees into dollars and then dollars into local currency. This can mean paying a spread more than once

- Think about the trip country by country and day by day instead of treating it as a whole
- Don’t carry too much cash as it will increase the risk of theft or loss

- Don’t assume your Indian UPI will work everywhere
- Avoid airport forex counters. They can be expensive
- Make sure you take foreign exchange from a Reserve Bank of India-authorized dealer or money changer.
