HCLTech named AWS European Sovereign Cloud launch partner

POTSDAM, Germany and NOIDA, India, March 18, 2026—HCLTech, a leading global technology company, has been named an official launch partner for the AWS European Sovereign Cloud (ESC), a new independent cloud for Europe launched in the State of Brandenburg, Germany.

The AWS European Sovereign Cloud provides a comprehensive, independently managed infrastructure located entirely within the EU. It is built with rigorous technical safeguards and legal frameworks specifically designed for European public sector and enterprise needs. By operating separately from existing AWS Regions, it provides localized control over data residency and operational autonomy.

As a launch partner, HCLTech will enable clients to meet stringent operational autonomy and data residency requirements within the European Union (EU) with security, speed and agility.

HCLTech was selected due to its proven ability to manage complex, highly regulated workloads across Europe, its strength in operating governed cloud environments and its deep technical alignment with AWS. As a Premier Tier Services Partner and a frequent participant in AWS early-access programs, HCLTech brings extensive cloud and security expertise, backed by multiple AWS competencies spanning security, networking, cloud resilience, high-performance computing, managed security services and GenAI. Recognized as AWS Partner of the Year in Financial Services (API) and a Global Finalist in GenAI Consult, HCLTech will work closely with AWS to deliver the operational readiness and governance required for sovereign cloud adoption.

“European organizations are seeking cloud innovation that respects sovereignty without slowing transformation. Being a launch partner for the AWS European Sovereign Cloud allows us to apply our deep regulatory and operational expertise in a way that gives clients confidence, control and continuity as they modernize their most critical systems,” said Prabhakar Appana, SVP and Global Head of AWS Business Unit at HCLTech.
