10-year G-Sec briefly tests 7% yield level

SIGNIFICANT MOVE. The 6.94 per cent G-Sec 2036 ended the day at 6.98%, up 2 bps over the previous close

Our Bureau
Mumbai

The yield of the 10-year benchmark Government Security (G-Sec) briefly breached the psychologically-crucial 7 per cent level, tracking higher US treasury yields and rising global crude oil prices.

Opening 4 basis points (bps) higher at a yield of 7 per cent, the 6.94 per cent G-Sec 2036 ended the day at 6.98 per cent, up 2 bps over the previous close of 6.96 per cent.

Venkatakrishnan Srinivasan, Founder and Managing Partner, Rockfort

Fincap LLP, said: “The 10-year G-Sec yield breaching the 7 per cent mark again is significant, particularly after trading as low as around 6.75 per cent a few months ago. The benchmark had last crossed 7 per cent in May 2026, subsequently touching around 7.13 per cent. This move is more about the global repricing of inflation and interest-rate risks.

CRUDE OIL PRICES

The escalation in West Asia, Brent crude moving above $95 and the sharp rise in the US, UK, German, Japanese and Australian bond yields are creating broad-based pressure on sovereign bonds.”

He noted that for India, higher crude is particularly important given its implications for inflation, the rupee, fiscal balances and the RBI’s rate trajectory. The strong domestic growth environment gives the RBI greater flexibility to focus on inflation rather than growth support.

“In the near term, the 10-year is expected to remain under pressure, with 7 per cent likely to be tested repeatedly. A move towards 7.10-7.15 per cent cannot be ruled out if crude remains elevated and global yields continue to rise. Any meaningful cooling in oil or reversal in global yields could bring buying interest back. I would, therefore, see 7 per cent as a warning level rather than a new equilibrium at this stage. The immediate impact is on G-Secs, but if the repricing persists, it will eventually flow through to PSU bonds, corporate bonds, NBFC funding costs and the overall cost of capital,” Srinivasan said.

Nuvama, in a report, said that the 10-year benchmark paper tracked the rise in 10Y UST yields to 4.8 per cent levels and elevated Brent crude oil prices above $95.

“The 10Y UST hardened to 4.81 per cent amid oil-driven inflation fears and hawkish Fed repricing after Governor Barr signalled a rate hike if inflation fails to ease. Over the day, the 10Y IGB eased to around 6.98 per cent as some buying interest emerged at elevated yield levels,” per the report.

FinOps is becoming a standard practice among enterprise cloud-strategy decision-makers to ramp up cost efficiencies as cloud usage has gone up 10-15 per cent over the last two years, as per Forrester.

A Forrester analyst told businessline that this usage will only increase as companies grow more confident about the regulations around data management.

According to The State of Cloud in India, 2026 report by Forrester, around 67 per cent of enterprises already have FinOps practice and another 18 per cent said they planned to adopt one in the next 12 months. Stating that FinOps adoption is now mainstream, it talked about how organisations are formalising cloud spend governance through cross-functional FinOps teams that embed cost visibility, accountability and optimisation into engineering and delivery processes.

EVOLVING PRACTICE

“FinOps itself is also evolving. From a cloud licensing or cost management practice, it’s getting more and more integrated with SaaS management and software asset management,” said Biswajeet Mahapatra, Principal Analyst at Forrester.

The report gives the example of an Indian educational tech firm that implemented a FinOps-driven right sizing programme, reducing overall cloud infrastructure costs by 35 per cent. Similarly, a private general insurer, addressing a $2-million annual cloud bill, saved more than $6,00,000 annually (around 30 per cent of total spend) and significantly reduced month-to-month cloud cost volatility.

NCLAT keeps lenders’ appeals pending in Subhash Chandra’s insolvency case

Ankita Upadhyay
New Delhi

The National Company Law Appellate Tribunal (NCLAT) on Wednesday said appeals filed by a coalition of dissenting lenders, including LIC Housing Finance, Canara Bank and Union Bank of India, against the NCLT’s August 25 order that reduced the liability on Subhash Chandra should be kept pending, and posted the matter for the first week of October. Solicitor General Tushar Mehta, appearing for the lenders, told the NCLAT the lenders should be at liberty to revive the appeals depending on the outcome of proceedings before the five-member NCLT bench.

Chandra was physically present at the NCLAT during Wednesday’s hearing. His counsel said Chandra had been vilified across the country.

The appeals were filed by creditors against the order passed by the NCLT’s third member in the personal insolvency proceedings of Essel Group founder Chandra that gave him a 99 per cent haircut.

The third-member order had resulted in a steep reduction in the amount that creditors stood to recover from ₹22,006.57 crore to only ₹6.5 crore. Mehta submitted that since the matter was now before a five-member NCLT bench, the appeals could be disposed of with liberty to revive them if required.

The NCLAT Chairperson, however, said the appeals by creditors should remain pending and posted the matter for the first week of October. The tribunal said that if the lenders wanted to challenge the September 1 order of the five-member NCLT bench, they would have to file a separate appeal.

Chandra’s counsel, argued that the appeals themselves were defective and had been filed against a “non-est” order. His contention was that the original NCLT bench had a difference of opinion and, therefore, there was no majority order. He further argued that the third member’s order did not conform to the views of the original members and, therefore, could not be treated as a valid order capable of being challenged in appeal. He also argued that the five-member bench order that stayed the August 25 order was faulty and wrong.

The development comes a day after a five-member NCLT bench stayed its August 25 order approving Chandra’s repayment plan.

Under the August 25 order, Chandra was required to pay about ₹6.25 crore to creditors, against admitted claims of ₹22,006.57 crore. The bench held there was no clear majority view and restrained Chandra from alienating any of his properties, directly or indirectly.

PAST DEVELOPMENTS

Earlier this year, the NCLT appointed a third member after Judicial Member Ashok Kumar Bhardwaj and Technical Member Reena Sinha Puri delivered conflicting views on Chandra’s repayment plan. Bhardwaj favoured approval of the plan, while Puri held that it suffered from serious legal and procedural defects.

Third member Nilesh Sharma, subsequently, favoured approval of the plan on August 25. Under the plan, ₹6.25 crore was to be distributed among eligible creditors, with a further ₹25 lakh earmarked towards insolvency resolution process costs. The amount represented only around 0.028 per cent of the admitted claims. Several lenders had opposed the plan, questioning the negligible recovery, verification of entities allegedly associated with Chandra in the voting process.

‘Asset quality of SFBs likely to improve this fiscal’

Our Bureau
Mumbai

Asset quality at small finance banks (SFBs) is expected to improve this fiscal, driven by a recovery in the credit performance of the microfinance portfolio, alongside continued growth in and a rising contribution from the non-micro finance portfolio, where asset quality is expected to remain stable, according to Crisil Ratings. Gross non-performing assets are projected to decline about 120 basis points to 2.6-2.8 per cent by March 2027.

The agency noted that over the past two fiscals, the microfinance portfolio experienced elevated credit stress owing to borrower over leveraging. Consequently, the segment contributed disproportionately to overall delinquencies despite accounting for only around 30 per cent of advances. SFBs recalibrated growth, strengthened underwriting practices and tightened risk management standards, including alignment with the microfinance industry’s Guardrails 2.0 framework. Crisil Ratings observed that these banks also wrote off advances, mostly microfinance loans, equivalent to 7 per cent of the outstanding portfolio as of March 2024.

Measures announced by the Micro Finance Industry Network for strengthening lending include a cap on total indebtedness per borrower and no lending to delinquent borrowers effective January 1, 2025, and limit on the number of microfinance lenders per borrower, effective April 1, 2025.
