Rahul, Priyanka like my children': Captain says he won't let Sidhu become CM

Punjab : Former Punjab chief minister Amarinder Singh on Wednesday said he will never allow Navjot Singh Sidhu to become the chief minister of Punjab as Charanjit Singh Channi's appointment as the chief minister has only widened the road for Punjab

Congress president Navjot Singh Sidhu to become the CM face in the upcoming election. The senior Congress leader said he will pit a strong candidate against Sidhu so that he can't become the chief minister, triggering speculation over Captain's further political plans.

J&K govt sacks 6 employees over 'terror links', 2 cops among those dismissed

Jammu : The Jammu and Kashmir government on Wednesday sacked six of its employees for allegedly having terror links and working as over ground workers. Among those dismissed were two police constables. According to available reports, the government initiated the steps after a designated committee in the Union territory mandated to scrutinise cases under Article 311(2) (c) of the Constitution recommended the removal of the six employees from government service over terror links.

This provision gives the government the power to sack employees without an inquiry if "the President or the Governor, as the case may be, is satisfied that in the interest of the security of the State, it is not expedient to hold such inquiry".

The order came days after the UT administration issued instructions on periodic character and antecedents verification of government employees. According to instructions issued by the general administration department of J&K, every government employee is mandatorily required to maintain absolute integrity, honesty and allegiance to the Union of India and its Constitution and not do anything that is unbecoming of a government servant.

No Relief For Max Owners in Covid-19 Testing Fraud During Kumbh Mela Case

Kerala : The Uttarakhand High court on Tuesday refused to grant interim relief to Sharat Pant and Mallika Pant, the two co-owners of Max Corporate Services, in the Covid-19 testing fraud that occurred during the Kumbh Mela in Haridwar. On Tuesday, Sharat and Mallika appealed for a stay on the arrest orders and also sought relief from being charged under Section 467. The counsel for the accused claimed in the High Court that it's illogical to accuse them just because they did not conduct any tests; rather all data entry and testing was done by local government health officials. The duo told the court that they were mere mediators between the government and labs. However, the court refused to grant them interim relief.

The court had earlier asked the State government to reveal the names of the parties between whom the MoU was signed for Covid-19 testing. In response, the government had said that an MoU was signed between Max Corporate Service and the government. It was found later that Max did not have the required registration or authorization to carry out tests. They snagged the deal with help from their partners Lalchandani and Nalwa laboratories. The government informed the court that the accused fudged the real number of tests carried out by them on the government website. They put up registration and identification numbers of the people, who had not even travelled to Haridwar for the Kumbh Mela. Along with the owners of Max, Navtej Nalwa, the owner of Nalwa Lab, is also accused in the fake testing case. However, Nalwa Lab has filed a petition in the court, demanding the FIR against them to be quashed stating that they had no role in the fake testing scam. In the investigation conducted as per the High Court orders, it was found that there were multiple tests registered on the same mobile number. After the scam came to light, Haridwar CMO filed a case on June 17. The accused Mallika Pant, Sharat Pant and Nalwa Lab have filed a petition in the High Court demanding a stay on the arrest.

Affordable housing gets a boost on the back of Work from Home and Home for all initiatives

Mumbai : The Indian real estate sector has rebounded strongly in the post-crisis environment supported by an innate, robust appetite for housing and other favourable economic and sector drivers. The sustained high levels of output growth, rising disposable income, availability of historic low rate of interest and higher rise in nuclear families are strong economic drivers of the development of the real estate sector. Further, the government's initiative of Home for All will provide an impetus for affordable housing. The residential component of the Indian real estate market looks particularly attractive with a significant demand-supply gap. The demand-supply gap is highest in the low and mid-income segments, wherein certain cities demand exceeding supply by a multiple of three or four. The Covid pandemic has resulted in the permanence of Work from Home or at least partially so. The lockdown and spread of the pandemic led to the realisation of better home space and cleaner, well-developed localities. The work from home concept has reduced the commute to the workplace, thus lowering the importance of travel time in the home location decision. Those with 1BHK are looking to upgrade to 2 BHK and so on. In the last two decades, affordability has gone up with an average income hike of 8%-10% per annum, whereas property prices have seen a rise of just about 1%-2% since 2013. Translating into multiples means a property that was 5.9x average annual income in 2000 is today available at 3.3x yearly average income. Coupled with the lowest home loan interest rates of sub 6.75% and a host of other sops makes it a compelling buy for the end-user.

Tier-II cities are seeing a good jump in demand as Tier I cities are getting crowded and with highly inflated prices. In addition, high disposable income has also pushed the need for a second home or holiday home in Tier-II cities. As a result, Nasik is seeing a sharp rise in demand for home buying. Nasik has agro-based industries like Wineries, cold storage etc. There are state-level research and training institutes in the city and educational institutions like Yashwant Chavan and the Maharashtra University of Health Science. Mumbai, Pune and Nasik are referred to as the Golden Triangle of Maharashtra, where socio-economic development is swift. Further, the connectivity of Nasik with Mumbai and Pune is improving very fast. All these factors make Nasik a desirable location to own a residential house. Many entrepreneurs are looking at Nasik as a new destination that will create an employment opportunity in the city, driving demand for a home. Further, Nasik has an excellent climate and abundance of land at a relatively cheap rate. It is also an important pilgrimage centre surrounded by Trimbekeshwar, Saptashrungi, Shirdi. Therefore, tourist prefers Nasik as a central place for visiting other sites. Nasik is developing as an industrial space as it has big factory setups by Bajaj Auto, Mahindra and Mahindra, ABB, Crompton Greaves and MICO. Further, Nasik has a solid urban local body with a surplus budget and excellent credit rating. These factors have contributed substantially to the growth of the real estate sector in Nasik in the past.

They will continue to grow as it has immense growth potential to develop as a residential and commercial real estate market shortly. Real estate developers see this as a growth opportunity. Strong, established brand, quality work, and customised solution provider always stands to gain higher.
