● SREI PLEA DISMISSED

Odisha Slurry: SC approves Arcelor plan

INDU BHAN
New Delhi, November 10

THE SUPREME COURT on Thursday gave a thumbs up to ArcelorMittal's resolution plan for Odisha Slurry Pipeline Infrastructure (OSPLI) as it dismissed Srei Infrastructure Finance's appeal which alleged that the plan was discriminatory in the manner of distribution between the similarly situated creditors.

Srei further alleged that it being a secured financial creditor was being treated differently than other similarly situated creditors such as banks.

A Bench led by Justice Jayant Rastogi dismissed the Srei Infrastructure Finance's appeal, saying it lacks merit. OSPLI, which was set up as a wholly owned subsidiary of Essar and a 253-km pipeline from Dabuna to Paradeep in Odisha was transferred to OSPLI in February 2015 for a consideration of ₹4,000 crore, free of encumbrance.

The acquisition of the pipeline asset was financed by the lenders to OSPLI, including Srei. Most of the lenders to OSPLI were also lenders to Essar.

The insolvency proceedings were initiated against OSPLI at the behest of IDBI Bank. The Arcelor resolution plan for OSPLI was approved by the National Company Law Tribunal (NCLT), Cuttack bench, upheld the approval in March 2020.

Srei had challenged the order granting approval to ArcelorMittal's resolution plan for OSPLI, which owns and operates a 253-km slurry pipeline. The pipeline is a critical ancillary unit of ArcelorMittal Nippon Steel India (erstwhile Essar Steel).

Senior counsel Kapil Sibal, appearing for Srei, argued that Arcelor's resolution plan suffered from infirmity on various grounds, including that it failed to maximise the value of the corporate debt.

Opposing the appeal,

ArcelorMittal July-Sept net income drops over 78%

ARCELORMITTAL ON Thursday posted over 78% fall in its net income to ₹993 million for the September quarter, mainly due to low demand and higher energy costs. The company follows January-December fiscal.

"ArcelorMittal recorded a net income of ₹3,923 million and a net income of ₹4,621 million for Q3 2021. Sales in July-September also fell 6% to senior counsel Abhishek Manu Singhvi and counsel Ruby Singh Ahuja, arguing for ArcelorMittal, submitted that the plan was approved by 100% of the committee of creditors (CoC) of OSPLI and got the due sanction of the NCLT as mandated under the IBC. They also highlighted that all the financial creditors of OSPLI, including SIFI, were given 100% of their principal amount claimed and verified by the insolvency professional and the resolution plan had been in effect since July 2020 and thus, there can be no grievance whatsoever.

Challenging the dismissal of its appeal by the NCLAT, Srei Infra had questioned whether the revised RP of AMI deserved to be sanctioned on account of its failure to maximise the value of the assets of the corporate debtor.

"The NCLAT has adopted a blinkered approach of not looking at the issues raised in their true perspective, simply relying on the fact that the RP of AMI was approved by 100% vote of the CoC of OSPLI and the commercial wisdom of the CoC is beyond the purview of judicial review."

At ₹165.6 crore, the company's revenue from operations came in at nearly ₹1,475 crore, up nearly 10% on a y-o-y basis. The Ebitda (earnings before interest, tax, depreciation and amortisation) for the quarter remained flat y-o-y at ₹415.6 crore.

The Ebitda and profit margins were at 28.18% and 10.12%, respectively. Ebitda margins declined 2.26 basis points on a y-o-y basis during the September quarter.

For Q2FY23, the company recorded sales of ₹3,511 crore, up 66% y-o-y and collections of ₹2,603 crore increased 68% y-o-y.

The sales during the period were attributed to 8.18 million sq ft volume with an average realisation of ₹7,711 per sq ft.

The company sold a total of 3,210 units in the quarter. For the year, the company registered sales of ₹6,523 crore, up by 129% y-o-y, while collections increased 85% y-o-y to ₹4,749 crore.

The sales during this period is attributed to 8.18 million sq ft volume with an average realisation of ₹7,976 per sq ft.

The company sold a total of 5,774 units in the first half of the year.

Telecom Bill: Deadline for comments extended

FE BUREAU
New Delhi, November 10

THE DEPARTMENT of Telecommunications (DoT) has now extended the deadline to submit comments on the draft Indian Telecommunication Bill, 2022, to November 20, following requests from various stakeholders. The deadline for submission of comments was November 10.

This is the third time the government extended the deadline for receiving the comments. The draft telecom Bill, which aims at reforming the existing regulations and laws in the telecom sector, was released by the government on September 21. Earlier, the deadline for submission of comments was October 20, which was extended to October 30.

Among key things, the government has proposed to enhance the definition of telecommunications by including OTT communication services such as those provided by WhatsApp and Signal, satellite-based communication services, internet and broadband services, among others into the ambit.

Once it becomes an Act, the government will have the powers to waive the levies, penalties and other charges on telecom services, assign spectrum through administrative route for some services, direct suspension of telecom network services, among other things.

The grant of a pan-India VNO Access licence is a significant milestone for it. It takes us one step closer to our objective of building the future of customer experience in India, and helping our customers to empower their employees to work from anywhere," said Ishwar Sridharan, co-founder and COO of the company.

The Bengaluru-based company provides a complete communication suite for companies, including virtual call centre solutions using telephony and internet, pushing aside the need for traditional systems like private telephone network or Electronic Private Automatic Branch Exchange (EPABX) used by the companies to manage client calls. "This licence will further cement Exotel as a one-stop shop for all customer engagement solutions, with the added advantage of providing seamless connectivity to VFA (Work from anywhere) agents and reducing cost for businesses," Sridharan said.

CLIMATE FUNDING

Should emerging economies pay? Row brews

Jayashree Nandi

NEW DELHI: Who will pay for loss and damage caused by the climate crisis? And who will pay for what countries should do to adapt to climate change?

A new controversy is brewing at the UN Climate Conference (COP27) following Gagan Bhatia, Prime Minister of India, and Barbados's comment on Tuesday that highly polluting emerging economies such as China and India should also contribute to a Loss and Damage compensation fund.

The thinking thus far has been only on having historical polluters (read: developed world) pay for this.

There is also a subtle push from developed countries to include China and India in the donor base for a new, collective quantified goal (NCG) for the post 2025 period which will be used to fund a floor of $100 billion per year that developed countries were supposed to pay from 2020 onwards, and there is also a push to increase the donor base for the Adaptation Fund, observers said.

Brown was speaking on behalf of the Association of Small Island States (AOSIS) Tuesday when he said: "We all know that the People's Republic of China, India and Barbados are among the world's major polluters, and the polluter must pay. I don't think there's any free pass for any country and I don't say this with any animosity." Reuters reported on November 9.

Indian officials who are part of the delegation said on Wednesday that the country is already funding and implementing projects for south-south cooperation and resilience building. "We (Indians) are also victims of emissions from developed countries and we are prepared to pay for our adaptation and loss and damage and helping others," one of the officials added on condition of anonymity. Other Indian officials pointed to India's role in creating coalitions such as the Coalition of Disaster Resilient Infrastructure (CDRI), and the Global Infrastructure Anti-Corruption Centre (GIACC).

During informal consultations of matters related to the adaptation fund discussed on November 9, parties discussed a draft text proposed by the co-facilitators.

According to observers of the Third World Network, an advocacy organisation working on north-south affairs, on the issue of doubling the collective provision of climate finance for adaptation, the US has requested deletion of "in the context of doubling the collective provision of climate finance for adaptation to developing countries".

It also proposed deleting a reference to "invites developed country Parties" since "all the countries" should be invited "to contribute to the AF". TWN's bulletin on Thursday said.

The Glasgow Climate Pact urged developed countries to at least double their collective provision of climate finance for adaptation to developing country Parties from 2019 levels. The Africa Group, and Saudi Arabia for the Arab group and China, said they did not support the notion of diversifying the fund's contributor base according to TWN's bulletin.

TWN also pointed that report of the Adaptation Fund Board revealed there are outstanding pledges worth $74.6 billion. Indian officials confirmed that developed countries want to expand the donor base for the new climate finance and that India has also resisted this. "The Paris Agreement has a provision of doubling the climate finance for adaptation to developing countries," one of the officials added.

While the previous Technical Expert Dialogues on the New Collective Quantified Goal under the Ad Hoc Work Programme have presented an opportunity for the exchange of ideas, a more structured and targeted approach needs to be adopted to enable the successful fulfilment of the mandate ahead of 2024. Discussions within the Technical Expert Dialogues in 2023 should focus mainly on the quantum, recognising the urgency of such discussions for developing countries. That said, a discussion on quality and other elements such as access and transparency is incredibly important," a statement from LMDC said, adding that a structure must be in place to ensure decisions on all these elements can be taken by 2024. "It is also important to highlight in this context that access to climate action will lead to considerable stress on the finances of developing countries. Going ahead, if ambitious climate targets have to be achieved, these need to be backed by intentions reflected by ambitious, appropriate, and reasonable access to financial resources by developing countries," the statement added.

"Finance for climate action by developing countries is a critical key in meeting global climate objectives. With the goals set out in Copenhagen (2009) not having been met, it is imperative that new and, this time, climate financing goals are set and committed to by the developed countries," said Manoj Singh Puri, former climate negotiator and ambassador, responding to the statement. The issue of loans as climate finance burdening developing countries has already been raised at COP27.

Independent experts said AOSIS comments urging that India and China to also pay for Loss and Damage goes against the principle of south-south solidarity because it is G77 (a group of developing nations, now numbering 134) and China which had first proposed that Loss and Damage funding be included in the formal agenda of COP27.

"The onus of providing loss and damage finance lies with the rich industrialised countries whose historical emissions are responsible for the climate crisis the world is facing right now. Their lack of action for decades is causing supercharged storms, devastating floods and unprecedented heatwaves. It is immoral for rich countries, such as the US who have not paid their fair share of climate finance, to shift the burden onto developing countries," said Harjeet Singh, head of global political strategy at Climate Action Network International.

Patanjali issued a statement alleging that the move was a "conspiracy" and that they had not received the letter yet.

"Patanjali's drug making unit Divya Pharmacy manufactures drugs with deep research and quality on the basis of ayurvedic legacy and as per international standards. DEHRADUN: Uttarakhand's Ayurveda and Unani Licensing Authority has directed yoga teacher Ramdev's company, Divya Pharmacy, to stop production of five products terming claims that they can treat blood pressure, diabetes, goitre, glaucoma and high cholesterol as "misleading."

Divya Pharmacy, part of Patanjali Group, aggressively advertised its products, BpPril, Madhugrit, Thyrogit, Lipidom and Eyegrit Gold tablets, as cure for these diseases.

"(The) Drug panel examined the formulation sheets of these drugs and it did not include the claims made (in the advertisement)," Uttarakhand drug controller, Dr GNC Jangpangi said in a letter to Divya Pharmacy dated November 9, 2022. HT has seen a copy of the letter.

appears to be involving drug mafia who are against Ayurveda. As part of conspiracy, the Uttarakhand authority circulated the letter in the media... but it is yet to be made available to us," the release stated. The company also said that it will take legal action against "conspirators" trying to malign its image.

In July, Kerala-based ophthalmologist KV Babu complained that the company was violating the Drugs and Magic Remedies (Objectionable Advertisements) Act, 1954, and the Drugs and Cosmetics Rules, 1954, by promoting these drugs as remedies for these diseases.

Jangpangi, in the letter, asked Patanjali to submit revised formulation sheets and label claims for all the five products for "fresh approval".

The health authority also forwarded the complaint to the Union Ayush ministry. A response from the ministry was not available immediately.

Jangpangi also asked the Divya Pharmacy to stop releasing "misleading and objectionable advertisements" with immediate effect.

"Media reports mention about misleading advertisements by us. In this regard, we have already responded to Uttarakhand authorities on September 30. However, by disregarding the high court order, one sided action is being taken."

The authority has also asked the Dehradun district Ayurvedic and Unani officer to visit the Patanjali factory. It is clear whether Divya's claims on the efficacy of its formulations is backed by any clinical trial data.

In September, the state health authority, as well as the Central Consumer Protection Authority (CCPA), took a strong stand against advertisements by Patanjali Ayurveda that promised to treat BP, diabetes, goitre, high lipid levels and glaucoma.

The state authority asked Divya Pharmacy, on September 7 to stop releasing the ads and also sought an explanation.

According to Jangpangi, Divya Pharmacy had responded saying they complied. The state health authority also forwarded the complaint to the Union Ayush ministry. A response from the ministry was not available immediately.

Climate finance at market rates not ideal, says India

NEW DELHI: India, speaking on behalf of developing countries, has said access to climate finance at market rates will lead to further financial stress on developing countries.

"Going ahead, if ambitious climate targets have to be achieved, these need to be backed by intentions reflected by ambitious, appropriate, and reasonable access to financial resources by developing countries," Union environment minister Bhupendra Yadav said on behalf of the Like-Minded Developing Countries (LMDC) at a high level ministerial dialogue on a new collective quantified goal (NCG) for the floor of $100 billion per year on Wednesday.

The Standing Committee on Finance under the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change has estimated that resources in the range of $6 trillion to $11 trillion are required till 2100 to meet the targets set by developing countries in their Nationally Determined Contributions (NDCs). Yadav said, "Climate actions to meet the NDC targets require financial, technological, and capacity-building support from developed countries. The ambitious goal set down by the developing countries requires substantive enhancement in climate finance from the floor of $100 billion per year," he said.

"The mobilisation needs to be led by developed countries and should be long-term... The commitment must be in place to ensure decisions on all these elements can be taken by 2024. "It is also important to highlight in this context that access to climate action will lead to considerable stress on the finances of developing countries. ## INDIA TO FILE ITS LONG-TERM NET ZERO PLAN SOON

NEW DELHI: India is expected to submit its long-term strategy to achieve net zero emissions by 2070 at UN Climate Conference (COP27) in Sharm El Sheikh on Monday, a declaration that will be crucial for the country's climate action commitments.

"The cabinet approval did not come until we left for Egypt. But now it has come and it will be submitted on Monday. We cannot comment yet if it is delayed. It will lay down our strategy to achieve net zero emissions," explained this person. Until last month, environment minister officials said it has not been decided when it will be ready for submission to the UNFCCC. The Glasgow Climate Pact made it clear for countries to submit at COP27 their "low greenhouse gas emission development strategies..."

PM to inaugurate T'gana urea plant

letters@hindustantimes.com

NEW DELHI: Prime Minister Narendra Modi will inaugurate on November 12 a plant of Ramgundam Fertilizers and Chemicals Ltd in Telangana that is expected to add 1.2 million tonnes of indigenous urea production capacity as part of a plan to cut dependency on imports in four years, said an official familiar with the matter.

India is hoping to end its reliance on imports to replace the entire imported quantity of urea, according to the Manu-sukh-Mandaviya-headed ministry of chemicals and fertilizers. According to the ministry's

Self-sufficiency in urea will save the government nearly $40,000 crore, the official added.

The country's food security is closely linked to sufficient availability of a range of fertilisers.

India, the world's largest buyer of urea and di-ammonium phosphate, has been hit by a sharp rise in global fertiliser prices this year due to supply disruptions.

Higher domestic output of conventional urea plus indigenous developed urea will be sufficient to replace the entire imported quantity of urea, according to the Manu-sukh-Mandaviya-headed ministry of chemicals and fertilizers. According to the ministry's calculations, domestically produced urea will replace approximately 20 million tonnes of conventional urea imports annually, which is a locally developed highly efficient form of the plant nutrient.

Eight new urea plants in several states, including Karnataka, UP and Assam, will start production by November 2025, according to the official.

Six upcoming conventional urea plants with a capacity of about 1.3 million tonnes each will be sufficient to replace the entire imported quantity of urea, according to the Manu-sukh-Mandaviya-headed ministry of chemicals and fertilizers. According to the ministry's
