Aadhaar complies with data privacy law: UIDAI chief

OJASVI GUPTA
New Delhi, August 3

ONCE THE DIGITAL Personal Data Protection (DPDP) Act becomes operational, Aadhaar would be fully within its boundaries in protecting consumer data and its usage, Bhuvnesh Kumar, CEO of the Unique Identification Authority of India (UIDAI), told FE in an interaction. He said that in some areas, Aadhaar even goes beyond what the DPDP then deleted. Nobody would even know for what purpose the data was used beyond that window". He pointed out that the automation of Aadhaar's processes act as a core safeguard. "Everything flows through secure channels, gets authenticated, and goes back to the channel. It's completely automated," Kumar said.

Earlier this year, the government permitted private entities to use Aadhaar authentication under strict conditions tied to the DPDP framework.

BHUVNESH KUMAR,
CEO, UIDAI

No service mandates Aadhaar. It has substitutes. You don't need it mandatorily to vote or buy a SIM card

Kumar said that Aadhaar imposes tighter controls on how data is stored and shared, compared to many other systems. For instance, the Aadhaar Act allows the use of collected data only for authentication or for purposes that have been specifically notified by the government. On concerns about the possibility of data being re-used for profiling or surveillance, Kumar said the system prevents this through design. "Transaction logs are stored for just six months and Kumar said this move is supported by adequate safeguards and governed by specific use cases. He added that UIDAI is working closely with the ministry of electronics and IT, which has asked the agency to examine the final DPDP rules and close any gap.

On the question of deleting core data, Kumar said that biometric and demographic data such as fingerprints, iris scans, and facial records are retained to avoid duplication. "This is intended to prevent duplication and strengthen the system's integrity," he said. Kumar reiterated that Aadhaar is not mandatory in most contexts. "No service mandates Aadhaar. It has substitutes. You don't need it mandatorily to vote or buy a SIM card," he added.

Samsung optimistic about India growth path

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
New Delhi, August 3

CONSUMER ELECTRONICS MAJOR Samsung sees India as a key strategic market with immense potential, and remains optimistic about its growth trajectory, driven by government initiatives like Make in India, Digital India, and a robust digital ecosystem, a top company official said. The comment comes against the backdrop of global trade and tariff turmoil, and the latest 25% tariff imposed on India by the US.

India is not just a strategic market for Samsung but a key pillar in its global future, said JB Park, president and CEO, Samsung Southwest Asia, adding the South Korean company will continue to invest in innovation, manufacturing, and local value addition, aligning with India's vision of a self-reliant economy. Samsung's long-term commitment to India remains unwavering, as it sees the country as a cornerstone of its global strategy, he said.

For the company, which reported revenue of over ₹1 lakh crore in FY24 from the Indian market and operates here with two manufacturing plants, three R&D centres, and one design centre, India plays a crucial role, catering to both local demand and global markets.

Samsung, which recently introduced the seventh edition of its flagship foldable smartphone Galaxy Z series, plans to manufacture them in India. "These new phones will be manufactured at our Noida factory," Park said.

Ai cancels flight from Singapore after tech glitch

AIR INDIA ON SUNDAY cancelled its flight from Singapore to Chennai due to a technical issue. The flight AI349 was to be operated with an Airbus A321.

In a statement, the airline said the flight had been cancelled due to a maintenance task identified prior to departure which required additional time for rectification. "Arrangements are being made to fly the passengers to Chennai at the earliest. Hotel accommodation is being provided, and full refunds on cancellation, or complimentary rescheduling is also being offered to passengers based on their preference," Air India said.

In recent days, some of the Air India planes have faced technical snags. —PTI

Semiconductor market likely to grow over twofold by 2030

INDIA'S SEMICONDUCTOR MARKET is expected to more than double to the range of $100-110 billion by 2030, an official statement said on Sunday citing industry estimates.

The Indian semiconductor market was about $45-50 billion in 2024-2025 against $38 billion in 2023, the statement said.

The statement highlighting the need for semiconductors, efforts of the government and response from the industry cited the crisis faced by various technology segments especially by the automobile industry due to dependency on select geographies during the Covid pandemic and stressed the need for developing India as trusted partner in the global supply chain.

"Currently, countries like Taiwan, South Korea, Japan, China and the US dominate the semiconductor industry. Taiwan produces more than 60% of the world's semiconductors, including nearly 90% of the most advanced ones. "Such dependence on a single region has exposed global supply chains to significant risks — from pandemics and natural disasters to geopolitical tensions. Recognising this challenge, many countries are now building secure and diversified supply chains," the statement said.

The US, European Union,

Japan, and South Korea have launched national strategies to support domestic chip manufacturing and reduce over-reliance on a single region. "India is emerging as an important and trusted partner in this global shift," the statement said. The global semiconductor market is expected to reach $1 trillion by 2030, with India's market occupying a substantial portion of it. —PTI
