Ex-help, her husband held for murder in Amar Colony

Karn Pratap Singh
karn.singh@hindustantimes.com

NEW DELHI: Two days after a 75-year-old woman was robbed and killed in her south Delhi house, police solved the case on Thursday by arresting the victim's former house help and her husband, officers aware of the matter said.

Kulwant Kaur Sethi, who lived on the first floor of a two-storey building in Amar Colony, was found dead in a pool of blood on Tuesday with all her jewellery missing.

On Thursday, police said Sethi was killed by her former house help, Rani (single name), and Rani's husband Yogesh Kumar Arora. Apart from some of the stolen jewellery, police also recovered a pistol with two cartridges and 83 bottles of foreign alcohol.

According to an investigator familiar with the case, Rani visited Sethi on Sunday to inform her about her wedding. On finding that Sethi was living alone after her husband's death, Rani and Arora hatched a plan to kill the elderly woman and steal her cash and valuables, the officer said.

"Rani visited the house again on Tuesday at around 4 pm with her husband, but this time to execute their plan," the investigator said on condition of anonymity, adding that she and Arora strangled Sethi with her dupatta, removed all the jewel-

Murder most foul

November 6: Rani, Kulwant Sethi's former domestic help, visits her to inform her about her wedding, finds her living alone. She and her husband hatch a plan to rob and kill her

November 8 4pm: Rani and her husband strangle Sethi with her dupatta. They tear off her earrings and plan to ransack the house, but get cold feet after seeing Sethi dead

5pm: Sameena Parveen, Sethi's current house help, discovers the body

November 10: Police raid Rani's house in Chhatrapur Enclave, discover some of the stolen jewellery, and arrest the couple lery on her person, before tearing off her earrings.

"The couple wanted to ransack the entire house for cash and other valuables. But they got cold feet after seeing the woman dead and bleeding on the floor. They fled with whatever jewellery they found on her body," the officer said.

Soon after they fled, at around 5pm, Sethi's current house help, Sameena Parveen, discovered the body and raised an alarm.

A police team from the Amar Colony police station arrived and Sethi was rushed to a nearby hospital, where she was declared brought dead.

A case of murder was registered and several teams, including the special staff of southeast district police, were tasked with solving the case. Since Sethi's assailants had gained a friendly entry into the house, investigators suspected the role of someone known to her.

During an investigation into the case, Sethi's daughter revealed that Rani had visited her mother, said special commissioner of police (law and order) Sagar Preet Hooda.

"Scanning of CCTV cameras in the neighbourhood also confirmed that Rani had come to the area on two days - first on November 6 and them on November 8 with her husband.

Woman robbed at outer Delhi home

NEW DELHI: Three miscreants barged into the house of a 52-year-old woman in outer Delhi's Prem Nagar and robbed her of cash and jewellery on Wednesday night, before fleeing on a motorcycle, police said. Teams have been formed to identify and nab the robbers, police said on Thursday.

HTC

Through technical investigation, the couple's house in Chhatrapur Enclave was located and raided. The two were arrested and some stolen jewellery was recovered," Hooda said.

The search of the house also led to the recovery of 83 bottles of alcohol, which the couple has claimed belonged to Arora's brother, who illegally purchased and sold liquor. A pistol that Arora had kept was also recovered, police said.

"We are trying to recover the rest of the jewellery that was not found at the couple's house. The two needed money for their lavish lifestyle. Their only source of income was ₹7,000 that Arora used to earn as rent of his shop. He earlier ran a restaurant but it permanently shut during the Covid lockdowns," said another investigator.

DDA ASKS CAQM FOR PERMISSION TO START WORK ON DWARKA DRAIN

HT Correspondent

letters@hindustantimes.com

NEW DELHI: The Delhi Development Authority (DDA) has written to the Commission for Air Quality Management (CAQM) to allow the construction of a crucial drain project in Dwarka's Sector 8, which is essential to ensure that there is no water-logging at the Indira Gandhi International (IGI) Airport.

The ₹69.72 crore project involves the construction of a 3km drain from the airport to Bharat Vandana Park in Dwarka, and further to the trunk drain.

DDA officials said that due to a ban imposed on the movement of heavy vehicles and of construction activity as part of the Graded Response Action Plan (Grap), they are not able to start the work on site.

"The project recently got all the necessary clearances and the construction work was to start in October. But then the ban was imposed. We have written to the CAQM and will be meeting officials on Friday to discuss the issue," said a senior DDA official.

A CAQM official said a review meeting on the Grap has been called on Friday. "If further restrictions are lifted, then these projects may be allowed to resume operations. Therefore, a review of all projects will only take place after this meeting," the official said.

Strong local winds help AQI in Delhi to stay poor

jasjeev.gandhiok@hindustantimes.com

New Delhi Delhi's air quality deteriorated on Thursday but remained in the "poor" category for a second consecutive day, with an air quality index (AQI) value of 295, according to the Central Pollution Control Board's national bulletin released at 4 pm.

The Capital's AQI was 260 on Wednesday. Officials said the wind changed direction on Thursday, allowing stubble intrusion to reach Delhi, but local winds remained strong and did not allow the air quality to deteriorate significantly.

In the wake of this spell of relatively clean air, the Commission for Air Quality Management (CAQM) will hold a review meeting on curbs on Friday, officials said. "The CAQM is keeping a close watch on the changing air quality scenario of Delhi-NCR and accordingly, the Sub-Committee of the Delhi recorded an AQI of 295 on Thursday.

Commission on Grap will convene a meeting tomorrow (Friday) to comprehensively review the situation for appropriate decision," CAQM said in a statement. Forecasts by the Early Warning System (EWS) for Delhi, used by CAQM to take pre-emptive action, shows the city's AQI is likely to remain "poor" until November 13.

VK Soni, scientist at IMD and part of the CAQM sub-committee on Grap, said despite the intrusion from farm fires, local wind speeds did not allowing pollutants to accumulate. "We will continue to see strong winds in the next two days and this will negate the impact of stubble emissions."

The System of Air Quality of Weather Forecasting and Research (Safar), said the contribution of stubble burning to Delhi's PM2.5 pollutants was 8% on Wednesday - up from a contribution of 5% on Wednesday.

CAQM plans new tech gadgets to fight pollution

HT Correspondent

NEW DELHI: The Commission for Air Quality Management (CAQM) in National Capital Region (NCR) and Adjoining Areas on Thursday said it would tap the technical and academic expertise of reputed scientific institutions to tackle air pollution, while approving seven projects to tackle different aspects and sources of pollution in the region. The projects involve artificial intelligence, drones and developing a Decision Support System (DSS) tool for neighbouring NCR towns, CAQM said.

One project looks at counting vehicles using artificial intelligence and machine learning in order to develop an emissions inventory. This will also help assess traffic density on different roads. "The vehicle counting will be done by uploading footage from CCTV cameras on a cloud platform developed by CSIR-National Environmental Engineering Research Institute in Nagpur. This will help prepare the air pollution emission inventory with the help of vehicle count for urban centres," said CAQM in a statement on Thursday.

Another project is an autonomous drone swarm framework, which will allow real-time air quality monitoring and pollution quantification in NCR's hotspots. The project will be executed by the Thapar Institute of Engineering and Technology in Patiala, Punjab. "The objective of the project is to develop an AI-based technique for flying drones on a specified trajectory with minimal human intervention for real-time air quality monitoring," CAQM said.

Other projects awarded and approved include an ambient air purification system developed by SASTRA University in Thanjavur. This project claims to reduce the Air Quality Index by 25-50% in an area and will be tested in a busy marketplace. IIT Delhi's "Under-actuated Filterless Air Cleaner Retrofit for Rolling Stock and Vehicles" project is also one of the seven projects approved.

Pratima Singh, senior research scientist at the Center for Air Pollution Studies at the Center for Study of Science, Technology and Policy (CSTEP), said a majority of the projects consisted of monitoring devices and did not focus on control of emissions. "Low-hanging fruit such as waste-burning could have been tackled too," she said.
