IN PUBLIC INTEREST | Court says petitioners' case wholly misdirected as the project serves a public purpose despite being implemented by a private trust

HC dismisses petitions against Bhendi Bazaar cluster redvpt

Urvi Mahajani
MUMBAI

The Bombay High Court has dismissed two petitions challenging the legality of the Bhendi Bazaar cluster redevelopment scheme, holding that the project serves a public purpose despite being implemented by a private trust. The court said the petitioners' case was "wholly misdirected" and based on "a misunderstanding of the concept of public purpose".

A bench of Justices MS Karnik and Shreeram Shirsat rejected the pleas filed by former residents of the Lucky building, which was demolished as part of the redevelopment undertaken by the Saifee

66,264.72 sq mt | Redvpt area

●● Private interest must give way to larger public interest and public good. The petitioners' property had not been taken away without compensation

●● Residents living in almost subhuman conditions are provided larger homes and better common facilities, including wider roads and proper drainage

Bombay High Court

Burhani Upliftment Trust (SBUT). The petitioners were among the minority of land-owners opposed to the scheme spread across 66,264.72 sq mt.

The petitioners had challenged the acquisition of their land in 2019 and a 2020 notice seeking possession of their property. They argued that the land was neither designated nor reserved for a public purpose in the development plan and, therefore, could not be acquired under the Maharashtra Regional and Town Planning (MRTP) Act for a project being executed by a private entity.

They also contended that the MRTP Act did not envisage cluster redevelopment schemes and that the Development Control and Promotion Regulations 2034 could not create substantive rights in favour of SBUT.

The judges observed that the public character of an Urban Renewal Scheme (URS) was not lost merely because it was implemented with the assistance of a private promoter or developer. The scheme benefits the public at large by improving living conditions in congested areas, the court said.

Advocate General Milind Sathe, representing the state government, argued that redevelopment of congested residential and commercial areas under a URS serves a public purpose when the prescribed conditions are met. The involvement of SBUT did not mean that the planning authority had given up its responsibilities, he submitted.

The petitioners had also argued that their building was not declared dilapidated or dangerous before acquisition. The state, however, said it was a more than 100-year-old category A cessed building and did not require a separate declaration of dilapidation.

Senior advocate Birendra Saraf, appearing for SBUT, said only around 7% of land-owners had not consented to the scheme. He also pointed out that the petitioners knew about the project since 2011 but approached the court in 2021, after the compensation award was passed.

19 cyclists pedal 900km for water conservation

THANE: Continuing their tradition of combining cycling expeditions with social awareness, 19 cyclists from Kalyan-Dombivli and surrounding areas embarked on a 900-km expedition to Dandeli in Karnataka on Saturday. This year's theme focuses on spreading awareness about water conservation and promoting cycling as an eco-friendly mode of transport. Organised by Team Bikeport, the week-long ride was flagged off from Durgadi Chowk in Kalyan in the presence of international marathon runner Dilip Ghadge. The team comprises doctors, lawyers, police personnel, IT professionals, government officials, priests, entrepreneurs, businesspeople and Navy officers. The planned route will take the cyclists from Kalyan to Pune, Karad, Radhanagari Ghat and Sawantwadi. They will then travel through Goa and Fonda Ghat before entering Karnataka. Team Bikeport has been organising annual cycling expeditions for the past eight years.

Their differences allegedly persisted over securing lift maintenance contracts. A case has been filed against eight people.

2 women give new lease of life to many

FPJ News Service
MUMBAI

Two deceased women gave several patients a new lease of life through organ donation, marking this year's 50th and 51st deceased organ donations in the Mumbai Metropolitan Region.

In the first case, the 87-year-old mother of a 52-year-old brain-dead woman consented to donate her daughter's organs at Apollo Hospitals, Navi Mumbai, on October 22. According to the hospital, the deceased woman, a former air hostess, had expressed her wish to donate her organs to a friend. Her family was also aware of her wishes, helping them decide to donate her organs, potentially saving five to six

The life-saving acts also marked this year's 50th and 51st cadaveric donations lives. According to information shared by the Zonal Transplant Coordination Centre, Mumbai, the donated organs included the heart, lungs, liver and kidneys, besides corneas and other tissues. One kidney was utilised at Apollo Hospitals, Navi Mumbai.

On October 23, the liver, kidneys and bone tissue of a 41-year-old brain-dead woman were donated at Jupiter Hospital in Thane, marking the region's 51st deceased organ donation of the year.

'No legal recourse to shield encroachment'

Pranali Lotlikar
MUMBAI

Judicial proceedings and injunctions cannot be used to protect encroachment on common spaces or perpetuate an illegality, the Maharashtra State Co-operative Appellate Court has held, reiterating that a trespasser cannot seek protection against the rightful owner of such property.

The observation came while dismissing an appeal in a dispute dating back to 1999 over a 2,360-sq-ft terrace adjoining an industrial unit at Shah and Nahar Industrial Premises Co-operative Society in Worli. The court ruled in favour of the society, rejecting the exclusive ownership claim of Abdul Kader Abdul Latif and Sopariwala Exports.

In a 37-page order, court member Dr Srishty Neelkanth upheld the Co-operative Court's decision, holding that the claimants had failed to establish any legally sanctioned exclusive right over the terrace.

Latif claimed to have purchased the 1,670-sq-ft industrial unit along with the adjoining terrace from Gangamma Trust in 1986. The trust had allegedly acquired both from Shah and Nahar Developers in 1985.

The claimants relied on sale agreements, a deed of confirmation and maintenance bills, arguing that the society had charged them for the terrace for nearly a decade before excluding it in 1998. They alleged attempted forcible entry by the society in January 1999. The society maintained that the terrace was common property required for emergency evacuation, access and maintenance of utilities.

The court held that a builder could not confer private rights over common spaces and that prolonged use or maintenance payments did not establish ownership.

Citing the Bombay High Court's ruling in Ramagauri Keshavlal Virani vs Ovalkeshwar Triveni Co-operative Housing Society, it reiterated that builders cannot sell terraces forming part of common amenities as private property.

Osteoporosis affects 22.9% of Indian adults

Amit Srivastava
MUMBAI

With an estimated 22.9% of adults in India affected by osteoporosis, the Osteoporosis Society of India (OSI), in association with Sun Pharma, has launched a pan-India Bone Health Scorecard initiative in Mumbai.

OSI president Dr Sushrut Babhulkar said one in three women and one in five men aged over 50 globally are at risk of osteoporotic fractures, underlining the need for preventive interventions and greater awareness of bone health. Aimed at promoting early risk assessment, the initiative seeks to reach over one lakh patients through bone mineral density testing camps across more than 500

Osteoporosis weakens bones, increasing the risk of fractures, chronic pain and reduced mobility districts over the next year.

Launched under the campaign "Why Wait? Till It Breaks", the drive encourages people to assess their bone health before a fracture reveals an underlying problem. Osteoporosis often remains undetected until a fracture occurs, with the risk increasing with age, particularly after 50. Postmenopausal women are especially vulnerable as declining oestrogen levels accelerate bone loss. Actor Bhagyashree Dassani attended the event as chief guest.
