Pledging declined as stakeholders prefer redeeming shares

Percentage of pledged shares lower than pre-Covid level

SACHIN P MAMPATTA
MUMBAI, 20 December

Going by recent trends, stakeholders may have reduced the amount of debt they had been taking on by pledging shares on a relative basis. While the absolute value of pledged shares has risen for a sample of companies analysed by Business Standard, the proportion of pledged shares to their total market capitalisation has fallen. This would suggest that as markets soared, stakeholders chose to redeem their pledged shares instead of borrowing more heavily as their collateral became more valuable. The analysis considered a sample of 953 listed companies, and as of September 2021, stakeholders' pledged shares fell to 4.1 per cent of the companies' total market capitalisation, which was 5.0 per cent as of September 2017, indicating a continuous decline. Pledging is a process by which promoters and other stakeholders can borrow money keeping their shares as collateral with lenders. Regulations require the proportion of pledged shares to be made public, which came in the wake of the 2008 global financial crisis. Shares of companies with high pledging often saw significant declines when promoters were unable to meet their obligations to lenders. The lenders would dump the collateral stock in large quantities, causing the share prices to plunge. The Securities and Exchange Board of India (Sebi) tightened disclosure norms again in 2019, as some promoters were said to be making use of innovative structures to pledge shares. "Recently, some instances have come to light, where private limited companies (controlled by the promoter(s) of a listed company) issue... (debentures)... backed by the promoter(s) either in the form of pledge of securities (including shares) of a group company or through other forms of encumbrances such as covenants...which are very complex in nature," said Sebi's 2019 note on the change in regulations. "The intention of the Takeover Regulations is to cover all types of encumbrances by whatever name called. Accordingly, it is felt that there is a need to better clarify the scope of encumbrance and make it more specific for the purpose of disclosure requirements." While the overall trend indicated a fall in stake used as collateral against borrowing, individual sectors have seen an increase in pledging. The 953 companies under consideration came from 69 different sectors. The top five accounted for 54.7 per cent of the total value of pledged shares in the sample. Mining and mineral products saw an increase since September 2019. It accounted for less than 0.1 per cent pledged shares at the time. It currently accounts for 21.4 per cent. Infrastructure developers and operators have reduced their overall share in the value of shares pledged, although it still figures in the top five sectors by value of shares pledged. This is also true of power generation and distribution companies. The sample covers pledged shares worth ₹3.3 trillion as of September 2021. This is likely to be broadly representative going by the BSE's figures for overall pledging across listed firms as of Friday. It identified 729 companies where promoters had pledged shares. The total value was ₹3.66 trillion.
