Pact poised to boost growth: Economists

Trade deal with US seen lifting growth by 20-30 bps in FY27

FE BUREAU
New Delhi, February 3

THE SHARP REDUCTION in US tariffs from 50% to 18% on Indian goods, the lowest compared to South-east Asian countries and China, may add 20-30 basis points (bps) to the GDP growth in FY27, offering support at a time when global trade conditions remain uncertain. Chief Economic Adviser V Anantha Nageswaran indicated that India's growth next year could end up close to the current year's pace. Speaking to Bloomberg, he said growth in 2026-27 could be "probably something close to this year's growth estimate of 7.4%", though he added that this was an initial assessment subject to further analysis.

In the latest Economic Survey, finance ministry economists, led by Nageswaran, had projected growth in a range of 6.8%-7.2% for FY27, compared with the first advance estimate of 7.4% for FY26.

Under the deal, details of which are still awaited, the US will reduce its levy on most Indian goods to 18%. This replaces the earlier 25% "reciprocal" tariff and also eliminates an additional 25% punitive duty that had been linked to India's purchases of Russian oil. The new 18% rate is lower than what most Asian peers face, potentially improving India's relative competitiveness in the US market.

NR Bhanumurthy, director of the Madras School of Economics, said the growth could reach 7.5% in FY27 and even suggested that FY26 growth may be revised upwards from the current 7.4% estimate,

GROWTH GAINS GROUND

■ US cuts tariffs on Indian goods to 18%

■ Tariff reduction may add 20-30 bps to GDP

■ Growth boost expected in FY27, say economists

■ Tariff rate now lower than China, ASEAN peers

■ CEA sees FY27 growth near FY26's 7.4%

reflecting a stronger momentum. "We estimate an incremental boost of around 0.2pp of GDP (annualised), if the new lower tariffs are enforced," Goldman Sachs said. The estimate is based on India's goods export exposure to US final demand—roughly 4% of GDP—and a goods export demand elasticity of about 0.7. In its earlier baseline, the firm had assumed the initial 25% tariff would persist through 2026, with the Russia-linked penalties being rolled back only gradually. The revised tariff structure, therefore, represents a positive surprise, it said.

Moody's Ratings also described the tariff cut as credit positive. The US remains India's largest goods export market, accounting for about 21% of total goods exports in the first eleven months of 2025.

"Lower tariff rate will also be credit positive for labour-intensive sectors such as gems, jewellery, textiles and apparel, which rank as the top export sectors," Moody's said.

Moody's cautioned that India is unlikely to halt Russian oil purchases entirely in the near term, as a rapid shift could disrupt growth and add to global supply pressures, potentially raising inflation for a major oil importer like India.

DBS Group economist Radhika Rao noted that the reduced tariff places India below most ASEAN countries and strengthens its position relative to China. She said the breakthrough is clearly positive for exports, market sentiment and the broader real economy, even as stakeholders await finer details of the agreement.

Deal allows India to maintain farm safeguards, says Trump aide Greer

AGENCIES
Washington, February 3

THE TRUMP ADMINISTRATION is working to put the details of its trade deal with India announced on Monday on paper, but it will reduce India's tariffs on American industrial goods to zero from 13.5% and eliminate duties but allow India to maintain some agricultural import protections, US Trade Representative Jamieson Greer said on Tuesday.

Greer told CNBC in a live interview that the US would continue to work on access to certain protected areas of India's agriculture sector, but said India's tariffs "for a variety of things, you know, tree nuts, wine, spirits, fruits, vegetables, etc, they're going down to zero."

He did not mention rice, beef, soybeans, sugar or dairy, which are commodities that India excluded from its recent trade deal with the European Union.

Greer confirmed that the deal would reduce the US tariff on most Indian goods to 18% from 50% because of the size and growth of India's trade surplus with the US. That reached $5.3 billion during the first 11 months of 2025, up from $4.8 billion for all of 2024, according to US census Bureau data.

Greer said that the Trump administration reached an "understanding and an agreement with the Indians as well on a variety of technical barriers to trade, areas where they have not accepted US standards. We know American goods are safe."

He said there would be a process for recognising US standards but that India would have to go through its own political processes for accepting these standards, adding that it would open up a market of more than 1 billion people to more US goods.

Regarding India's agreement to wind down Russian crude oil imports, he said that prior to 2022 and 2023, India did not import Russian oil and has been working since late last year to wind down imports. India was "making the right choice" to diversify its energy purchases to the US and Venezuela.

He did not specify a start date for the tariff changes, saying that the process for making it official was underway. "We'll finish papering it, but we know the specifics, we know the details," Greer said. He added that India is maintaining some protection around agricultural goods.

While Asia's third-largest economy is not primarily export-driven, the US is India's biggest market and accounts for about a fifth of its overseas shipments. Labor-intensive industries such as textiles, leather, footwear and jewelry, had been particularly hard-hit by the tariffs.

"The trade agreement details remain cloudy, but topline, if both sides reduce tariffs as meaningfully as indicated on social media, this could unlock real commercial opportunities," said Rick Rossow, a senior adviser and chair on India and Emerging Asia Economics at the Center for Strategic and International Studies.

At 18%, India's tariff is now lower than Vietnam's 20% rate and the 19% applied to most of Southeast Asia, while South Korea and Japan secured duties of 15%.
