US court dismisses patent lawsuit against Hexaware

FE BUREAU
Bengaluru, June 12

MID-TIER IT services company Hexaware Technologies has announced on Friday that the United States District Court for the Northern District of Illinois has dismissed all claims of patent infringement against the firm filed by Natssoft and its affiliate Updraft. The dismissal passed by the court on June 9 included complaints across nine patents over two patent families.

The court found that the patents in question claimed broad, abstract ideas rather than any solid, concrete invention and were ineligible for patent protection under US law. The order also granted the plaintiffs time to file an amended complaint adding a federal claim, failing which the court will give its final judgment.

The court also declined to exercise jurisdiction over the accompanying state law claims, including contractual and business-related allegations. As a result, those claims have been dismissed at this stage without a ruling on their merits.

"We have been clear about our confidence since the day this suit was filed, and the Court's decision reflects why we held it," said Srikishna Ramakarthikeyan, executive director & CEO of Hexaware.

"These platforms came from our own research and from years of investment by our own engineers. The court found that what Natssoft asserted was too abstract to be patentable invention and Hexaware holds patents of its own precisely because our work is specific, real and original. Our clients trusted us through this process, and we will keep earning that trust. If this case continues in any form, our response will be the same," he added.

Filed in December 2025, the lawsuit named Hexaware platforms, Amaze, Tensai and RapidX.

Mumbai, June 12

THE FOOD SAFETY and Standards Authority of India (FSSAI) on Friday issued notices to popular food brands over allegations ranging from hygiene issues to contamination concerns. FSSAI said it had taken cognisance of complaints circulating on social media and issued notices to Nestlé India for Maggi, KFC, Flipkart and food brand Open Secret. The regulator added that the notices are part of its fact-finding mission.

The notice to Nestlé India concerns allegations that insects or larvae were found inside a packet of Maggi noodles. FSSAI has sought a detailed Action Taken Report, including vendor details, internal quality-check logs for the batch in question, corrective measures taken to remove affected products from the supply chain, and steps being implemented to prevent a recurrence, sources at the food safety regulator said.

Shares of Nestlé India dropped over 3% on the news on Friday to settle at ₹1,375.85 apiece at the end of trade on the BSE. In a statement, the company said it rejected the allegations circulating on social media basis an unverified account regarding the presence of infestation in

Govt clears way for self-driving, safety car tech

Bengaluru, June 12

INDIA HAS SCRAPPED licensing requirements for radio spectrum used by crash-avoidance and self-driving systems in cars, removing a commercial barrier for automakers as it seeks to make its roads safer.

largest car market, reported more than 177,000 deaths in nearly half a million road accidents in 2024, latest government data show.

In notices on Thursday, the government waived licence requirements for radar sensors in the 77 GHz to 81 GHz frequency band, allowing companies to use the spectrum without separate allocation by authorities. A separate notice did the same for systems in the 5.9 GHz band, which enable vehicles to communicate with each other and roadside infrastructure.

Govt aligns with global standards

The move aligns India with standards used in the US and the European Union, allowing carmakers to deploy standardised, off-the-shelf hardware rather than build costlier local versions, lowering costs and speeding adoption.

Luxury carmakers Mercedes-Benz and BMW, which already offer radar-based driver assistance abroad, can roll out the same systems in India.

Domestic players Maruti

Suzuki, Tata Motors and Mahindra & Mahindra could more easily introduce advanced driver-assistance systems (ADAS), pushing premium safety features into cheaper models.

Suppliers such as Germany's Bosch and Continental, and chipmaker Qualcomm, also stand to benefit.

US and Iran may sign peace deal on Sunday

"THE TERMS THAT Iran leaked out to the Fake News was NOTHING to do with the terms that were agreed to, in writing," Trump wrote on Truth Social.

"Very dishonorable people to deal with," he said of the Iranians.

However, shortly afterwards, Trump reposted a social media post by Iranian Foreign Minister Abbas Araqchi, in which Araqchi said a memorandum to end the war had never been closer - and also warned against speculation over its contents until it was finalised.

A Western source, an Iranian source and a Gulf source said a key issue yet to be resolved was language on ceasing hostilities in Lebanon. Iran has demanded Israel end a campaign against Iran's allies, the Hezbollah militia.

Under the terms of the text described by other sources to Reuters, the US would immediately begin providing Iran with billions of dollars in unfrozen assets, and waive sanctions on its oil exports, in return for Iran opening the strait.

Discussion of Iran's nuclear programme would be set aside for a 60-day period of talks on a final settlement, there would be a discussion of war reparations to Tehran, and the dropping of longstanding demands for curbs on Iran's missile programme, the sources said.

Washington has previously demanded Iran give up its stockpile of highly enriched uranium. But none of the versions of the text reviewed by Reuters includes mention of it, and the sources said the demand had been explicitly excluded for now.

But a senior US official, describing the agreement, said that the uranium stockpile "will be destroyed and removed" and Iran's nuclear programme would be dismantled.

"None of their money released until they perform. Strait of Hormuz will be open. No Iran funding of terrorist groups," the official said. "This is what they have agreed to. This is a performance-based deal."

Vice President JD Vance said on X: "First, the Iranians are not receiving any cash, and no funds are being released for simply signing a deal or attending a meeting."

The deal ensures economic benefits would only flow to Iran if it meets its obligations under the agreement, he said.

Despite jointly launching the war with the United States, Israel has so far been excluded from the negotiations, and Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu said his country would not be party to the memorandum.

Netanyahu has repeatedly clashed with Trump in recent weeks over US demands that Israel curb military action in Lebanon to let Washington reach a deal with Tehran.

Israel's defence minister said Israel would not withdraw from territory in Lebanon. A senior Israeli official said Israel expects any deal to maintain the Lebanon ceasefire in its current form, with Israel maintaining freedom to act against what it deems threats in areas under its control.

AM Green, VOC Port to develop India's first green ammonia bunkering hubs

FE BUREAU
Chennai, June 12

AM GREEN AND V O Chidambaranar (VOC) Port Authority have signed a MoU to develop one of India's first large-scale green ammonia bunkering hubs at Tuticorin in Tamil Nadu. The announcement follows a Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) signed on May 28 to jointly develop VOC Port, Tuticorin, as a strategic green ammonia production and bunkering hub.

AM Green, a leading green hydrogen and ammonia developer, last month announced that it will set up a one million tonne per annum (MTPA) green hydrogen-based ammonia plant near VOC Port at ₹15,000 crore investment. The project will include ammonia handling, storage and bunkering infrastructure, pilot bunkering operations, safety systems and training programmes.

In its latest release, AM Green said it plans to develop up to 200,000 tonne per annum (TPA) of green ammonia bunkering capacity by 2029-30 with an estimated investment of ₹2,000 crore. The partners also see potential to expand capacity to 500 KTPA by 2035, entailing a total investment of ₹5,000 crore, subject to market demand and wider adoption of low-carbon marine fuels.

Bunkering refers to the storage and supply of fuel to ships and green ammonia is expected to emerge as a low-carbon marine fuel as the global shipping industry seeks to decarbonise. AM Green and VOC Port Authority said it will explore pilot bunkering operations and jointly develop the infrastructure required to facilitate green ammonia bunkering in line with international best practices.

"Tuticorin is a natural gateway for India's green ammonia bunkering future. VOC Port's existing ammonia infrastructure, its green hydrogen hub designation, and its connectivity to global shipping lanes make this partnership a critical building block in AM Green's pan-India commercialisation strategy," Gautam Reddy Kumbam, CEO, AM Green, said in a statement.

The bunkering capacity agreement reinforces AM Green's commitment to develop a 1 MTPA green ammonia production facility near the port, involving an investment of ₹15,000 crore. The company has already completed a significant portion of the land acquisition for the green hydrogen-ammonia complex.

The project is also expected to catalyse investments of around ₹35,000 crore in renewable power generation and support AM Green's target of developing more than 4 MTPA of green ammonia production capacity across India by 2030.

"We are committed to providing the infrastructure, facilitation, and institutional support needed to make Tuticorin a leading destination for green ammonia bunkering and export, and we look forward to working with AM Green to realise this shared vision," Susanta Kumar Nath, chairman, V O Chidambaranar Port Authority, said.

SpaceX stock soars, makes Musk the world's first..

THE DEAL WAS being closely scrutinised because of the stakes for the IPO market, which some bankers said could face difficulties if SpaceX shares closed below Thursday's pricing level.

The company's market debut is widely viewed as a dress rehearsal for a new generation of mega-listings, with market participants watching for signals on investor appetite ahead of forthcoming IPOs for AI heavyweights Anthropic and OpenAI.

The stock's performance will be a test for the so-called "Musk premium," which has been the force behind Tesla's $1 trillion-plus valuation, despite coming under pressure during Musk's active role in President Donald Trump's administration.

The record IPO is a culmination of Musk's long-held ambitions in space and technology, and has stood out for rewriting

Wall Street's IPO playbook and drawing legions of retail investors into the market.

At $75 billion, the deal's proceeds were more than double those of Saudi Aramco's record-setting 2019 IPO.

The valuation could rise further should underwriters exercise their right to sell additional shares, a decision typically made within 30 days after the offering.

Although SpaceX may have to wait for entry into the S&P 500, its expected fast-track inclusion in the Nasdaq 100 will soon make it a major holding for passive funds and ETFs that track the index, creating a fresh source of demand for its shares.

"We have to go back 100 years to get comparable entrepreneurs. He's a visionary unlike others, and he executes extremely well," said Joel Shulman, CEO of ERSshares, which manages an ETF that has an exposure to SpaceX.

It will take about a month before it gets added to that index under Nasdaq's new fast-track rules, as opposed to a typical wait of as much as a year.

Some analysts expect SpaceX's debut to trigger a reshuffling of investor portfolios, creating selling pressure on other technology heavyweights as funds rotate into the stock. —REUTERS

The move aligns India with standards used in the US and the European Union, allowing carmakers to deploy standardised, off-the-shelf hardware rather than build costlier local versions, lowering costs and speeding adoption.

Luxury carmakers Mercedes-Benz and BMW, which already offer radar-based driver assistance abroad, can roll out the same systems in India.

Domestic players Maruti

Suzuki, Tata Motors and Mahindra & Mahindra could more easily introduce advanced driver-assistance systems (ADAS), pushing premium safety features into cheaper models.

Suppliers such as Germany's Bosch and Continental, and chipmaker Qualcomm, also stand to benefit.

US and Iran may sign peace deal on Sunday

"THE TERMS THAT Iran leaked out to the Fake News was NOTHING to do with the terms that were agreed to, in writing," Trump wrote on Truth Social.

"Very dishonorable people to deal with," he said of the Iranians.

However, shortly afterwards, Trump reposted a social media post by Iranian Foreign Minister Abbas Araqchi, in which Araqchi said a memorandum to end the war had never been closer - and also warned against speculation over its contents until it was finalised.

A Western source, an Iranian source and a Gulf source said a key issue yet to be resolved was language on ceasing hostilities in Lebanon. Iran has demanded Israel end a campaign against Iran's allies, the Hezbollah militia.

Under the terms of the text described by other sources to Reuters, the US would immediately begin providing Iran with billions of dollars in unfrozen assets, and waive sanctions on its oil exports, in return for Iran opening the strait.

Discussion of Iran's nuclear programme would be set aside for a 60-day period of talks on a final settlement, there would be a discussion of war reparations to Tehran, and the dropping of longstanding demands for curbs on Iran's missile programme, the sources said.

Washington has previously demanded Iran give up its stockpile of highly enriched uranium. But none of the versions of the text reviewed by Reuters includes mention of it, and the sources said the demand had been explicitly excluded for now.

But a senior US official, describing the agreement, said that the uranium stockpile "will be destroyed and removed" and Iran's nuclear programme would be dismantled.

"None of their money released until they perform. Strait of Hormuz will be open. No Iran funding of terrorist groups," the official said. "This is what they have agreed to. This is a performance-based deal."

The deal ensures economic benefits would only flow to Iran if it meets its obligations under the agreement, he said.

Despite jointly launching the war with the United States, Israel has so far been excluded from the negotiations, and Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu said his country would not be party to the memorandum.

Netanyahu has repeatedly clashed with Trump in recent weeks over US demands that Israel curb military action in Lebanon to let Washington reach a deal with Tehran.

Israel's defence minister said Israel would not withdraw from territory in Lebanon. A senior Israeli official said Israel expects any deal to maintain the Lebanon ceasefire in its current form, with Israel maintaining freedom to act against what it deems threats in areas under its control.

AM Green, VOC Port to develop India's first green ammonia bunkering hubs

FE BUREAU
Chennai, June 12

AM GREEN AND V O Chidambaraman (VOC) Port Authority have signed a MoU to develop one of India's first large-scale green ammonia bunkering hubs at Tuticorin in Tamil Nadu. The announcement follows a Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) signed on May 28 to jointly develop VOC Port, Tuticorin, as a strategic green ammonia production and bunkering hub.

AM Green, a leading green hydrogen and ammonia developer, last month announced that it will set up a one million tonne per annum (MTPA) green hydrogen-based ammonia plant near VOC Port at ₹15,000 crore investment. The project will include ammonia handling, storage and bunkering infrastructure, pilot bunkering operations, safety systems and training programmes.

In its latest release, AM Green said it plans to develop up to 200,000 tonne per annum (TPA) of green ammonia bunkering capacity by 2029-30 with an estimated investment of ₹2,000 crore. The partners also see potential to expand capacity to 500 KTPA by 2035, entailing a total investment of ₹5,000 crore, subject to market demand and wider adoption of low-carbon marine fuels.

Bunkering refers to the storage and supply of fuel to ships and green ammonia is expected to emerge as a low-carbon marine fuel as the global shipping industry seeks to decarbonise. AM Green and VOC Port Authority said it will explore pilot bunkering operations and jointly develop the infrastructure required to facilitate green ammonia bunkering in line with international best practices.

"Tuticorin is a natural gateway for India's green ammonia bunkering future. VOC Port's existing ammonia infrastructure, its green hydrogen hub designation, and its connectivity to global shipping lanes make this partnership a critical building block in AM Green's pan-India commercialisation strategy," Gautam Reddy Kumbam, CEO, AM Green, said in a statement.

The bunkering capacity agreement reinforces AM Green's commitment to develop a 1 MTPA green ammonia production facility near the port, involving an investment of ₹15,000 crore. The company has already completed a significant portion of the land acquisition for the green hydrogen-ammonia complex.

The project is also expected to catalyse investments of around ₹35,000 crore in renewable power generation and support AM Green's target of developing more than 4 MTPA of green ammonia production capacity across India by 2030.

"We are committed to providing the infrastructure, facilitation, and institutional support needed to make Tuticorin a leading destination for green ammonia bunkering and export, and we look forward to working with AM Green to realise this shared vision," Susanta Kumar Nath, chairman, V O Chidambaraman Port Authority, said.

SpaceX stock soars, makes Musk the world's first..

THE DEAL WAS being closely scrutinised because of the stakes for the IPO market, which some bankers said could face difficulties if SpaceX shares closed below Thursday's pricing level.

The company's market debut is widely viewed as a dress rehearsal for a new generation of mega-listings, with market participants watching for signals on investor appetite ahead of forthcoming IPOs for AI heavyweights Anthropic and OpenAI.

The stock's performance will be a test for the so-called "Musk premium," which has been the force behind Tesla's $1 trillion-plus valuation, despite coming under pressure during Musk's active role in President Donald Trump's administration.

The record IPO is a culmination of Musk's long-held ambitions in space and technology, and has stood out for rewriting

Wall Street's IPO playbook and drawing legions of retail investors into the market. At $75 billion, the deal's proceeds were more than double those of Saudi Aramco's record-setting 2019 IPO.

The valuation could rise further should underwriters exercise their right to sell additional shares, a decision typically made within 30 days after the offering.

Although SpaceX may have to wait for entry into the S&P 500, its expected fast-track inclusion in the Nasdaq 100 will soon make it a major holding for passive funds and ETFs that track the index, creating a fresh source of demand for its shares.

"We have to go back 100 years to get comparable entrepreneurs. He's a visionary unlike others, and he executes extremely well," said Joel Shulman, CEO of ERSshares, which manages an ETF that has an exposure to SpaceX.

It will take about a month before it gets added to that index under Nasdaq's new fast-track rules, as opposed to a typical wait of as much as a year.

Some analysts expect SpaceX's debut to trigger a reshuffling of investor portfolios, creating selling pressure on other technology heavyweights as funds rotate into the stock. —REUTERS
