Meghmani Organics bags Safety Award of National Safety Council of India

The Agrochemical manufacturing facility of Meghmani Organics Limited (MOL) situated at Ankleshwar, Gujarat, has bagged the most prestigious 2nd Level Silver Safety Award announced for the year 2009 by National Safety council of India (NSCI).

Shri Mallikarjun Kharge, Hon'ble Minister for Labour & Employment, Government of India is to present the national level NSCI Safety awards on Saturday, 30th October, 2010 at Mumbai.

The 2nd Level Silver Safety award is for recognising and encouraging manufacturing units for developing and implementing safety management system and achieving meritorious and sustained performance over a period of three calendar years preceding the year of Award.

The assessment of application was based upon: (a) Statistics of accidents, dangerous occurrences and occupational diseases. (b) Quality and adequacy of safety systems and procedures. (c) Sustained improvement over a period of three years. The process also involves verification of the data provided in the application through the Chief Inspector of Factories and Chairman Pollution Control Board of the concerned states.

National Safety council not only evaluate aspects of SAFETY but also consider ENVIRONMENT & HEALTH related issues.

Speaking on the achievement, Mr. Ramesh Patel, Executive Director, Meghmani Organics, said, "the award adds to our commitment and dedication towards Safety, Health and Environment (SHE). Safety and health of the workforce is the basic requirement for sustainable existence of any business. Our management and staff have always placed utmost importance to SHE initiatives and such award helps us to raise our standard every year. We are glad that our efforts are recognised. Going forward, we will continue to pledge our commitment to sustain, improve and implement good practices in SHE."
