

Micro Technologies offers Advanced Technological Security Solutions for Mega Amusement Park

Micro Technologies a leading global developer, integrator, and marketer of security solutions added a new dimension to its business by delivering new and advanced Technological Solutions for Amusement Parks in the country. Micro Technologies has developed and integrated its well known and established range of technologically advanced Security products and solutions to deliver a custom made solutions for theme parks which are foreseen as a one of the key drivers for the Tourism sector. Micro Access Validation System would be a key attraction to this project which will helps the theme park operators for controlling and tracking the tourist along with other Micro Solutions which facilitates a safe and secured tourism environment. Micro Access Validation System is an extended version of Micro Access Control System (ACS) with a user-friendly RF based automated system for attendance registration and crowd management of employees and visitors.

There are more than 50 large and small sized theme parks in India and Micro Technologies find a new dimension and these are strategic targets to be covered as these attract International tourists along with local ones. This theme park is unique and one of its kind in India, based out of Karnataka and is equipped to attract visitors from many countries with its attractions. It is projected to become a major vacation destination, catering to people of all ages with a wide and eclectic range of exciting activities. To gain control of its customer relationships and sales process, the theme park specifically requires significantly changing its international crowd management and distribution system and specifically upgrading its online capabilities.

Mr. Ganapathy V, CEO, Micro Technologies, "This is one of the very interesting project for us and for the very first time we are venturing in to such area. We have successfully secured many complex infrastructures and this is one of its kinds. We strongly believe that our product would play a vital role in this concept to attract International tourists in the country".
