

Women Congress workers burn economy in effigy

STAFF REPORTER

Indore

A large number of women Congress workers and leaders of the city led by Mahila Congress President Shashi Yadav here Thursday stage a demonstration at Janjirwala Square. While starting protest, Shashi Yadav said that due to rising unemployment and inflation in the country, common life has got badly affected. The Modi government continued to show the countrymen the dreams of taking the country's economy to five trillion.

In fact, the country's economy has reached a dying state at present, she said adding that due to the continuous increase in the prices of petrol-diesel-gas and back breaking inflation, there is an outcry from the state to the entire country.

She said that compared to other states, the highest tax is being collected on petrol and diesel in Madhya Pradesh. At the same time, the subsidy available on gas prices has also been almost abolished. The women Congress leader further said that the BJP government at the Center and in the state are working to rob the common man's pocket. Whenever the central government increases the price on petrol and diesel, the state government also starts filling the treasury by increasing its taxes. "In the name of Ujjwala Yojana, the central government led by Narendra Modi has done a mischief with half of the country's population. The poor have to take a gas cylinder by borrowing from nearby neighbours to light the stove", she added. The women Congress leaders further alleged that the price of a gas cylinder during Manmohan Singh's tenure was Rs 400, now it has reached close to Rs 900 per cylinder. Further, the Central Government is working on a plan to make LPG free from government control and make its price at Rs 1200 per cylinder after assessing the availability of LPG in the month of October.

The women Congress leaders further said that under the guise of nationalism and nation building, the BJP government is robbing the pockets of the people. The policy and plans of the country are being implemented according to the intention of the industrialists, they alleged. On the occasion, the women Congress workers and leaders made an effigy of the country's economy in dire strait, wallowed over it and later burnt the effigy. A large number of women Congress officials including Sonila Mimroth, Archana Rathore, Archana Jinwal, Pratima Anchan, Rakhi Dubey, Nasreen Khan, Shashi Hada, Sushma Pathak, Kusumlata Singh, Anita Soni were present in the protest.

My City, My Heritage

KK JHA

Indore

Under the 'My City, My Heritage' project, Sahapedia in partnership with the InterGlobe Foundation has embarked upon a three-year project to rediscover the culture and heritage potential of Indian cities. The project entails exploration, documentation and dissemination of varied heritage and cultural aspects of 12 locations in India, including Indore.

As a part of the project, a number of heritage walks, museum tours, baithaks and engaging educational activities for school students and general audiences will be organised between 2020 and 2022. The locations covered in the first year include Indore, Ahmedabad, Prayagraj, Goa and Shillong.

Situated on the southern edge of the Malwa plateau in west Madhya Pradesh, Indore occupies an important place in the state's past and present. Currently the largest and most populated city in the centrally located state, the city was the seat of the erstwhile Holkar dynasty and is considered a major hub of education today.

Project to encapsulate Indore's vibrant heritage, culture, literature, arts with writers, researchers and photographers from the city to document various aspects of Indore's heritage and culture spanning themes such as built heritage, people and communities, institutions of cultural importance, and literature and the arts.

Heritage walks and activities for children from marginalized communities have been conducted to renew old as well as create new relationships of participation, community and ownership within the city's vibrant citizenry. Designed as a guide to navigate the city's better kept secrets, the culmination of the project in Indore is the booklet, 'My City, My Heritage, My Indore' which documents various well-known and offbeat treasures of Indore's living heritage.

Passengers eager to see Indore-Dubai flight back on track

STAFF REPORTER

Indore

The Indore International Airport has completed two years since the inception of its first international flight which was in the Dubai sector.

Although the direct flight to Dubai that started on July 15, 2019, was well received with good passenger response, it was suspended on March 16, 2020, because of the Covid-19 pandemic.

The flight served only for eight months, operating three days a week.

A senior Air India official said there is no decision yet when the flight will resume.

Meanwhile, there is a strong demand on the part of the passengers to see the flight back on track.

During the lockdown, special flights carrying people from abroad landed in Indore several times. According to Airport Director Aryama Sanyal, during the lockdown, special flights from Sharjah, London, Kuwait, Kyrgyzstan, and Moscow landed here.

Chief Minister Shivraj Chouhan recently met new Civil Aviation Minister Jyotiraditya Scindia and requested the launch of new flights to the Gulf region, including Dubai, and Singapore.
