Varhadkar, who was then a police inspector at Alibaug police station. The 2018 case was closed after police submitted a closure report in court in April 2019, which was accepted by the court. This May, Anvay's wife Akshata met Maharashtra Home Minister Anil Deshmukh and requested him to reopen the case. Several state ministers were also came out in support of Naik and demanded action in the case, after which Deshmukh ordered the reopening of the case. On October 15, police inspector J A Shaikh of Local Crime Branch of Raigad-Alibaug submitted a letter to the Alibaug Magistrate court and informed that they had been ordered to investigate the case and told the court they were carrying out further investigation in the case under section 173(8) of the Criminal Procedure Code. Police file an 'A Summary' report when they do not find evidence in a case and after the court's acceptance, the case gets closed. However, the case can be reopened if police file fresh evidence.
