Kim in Beijing

The timing of North Korean leader Kim Jong-un's visit to China, his first foreign trip after assuming power in 2011, is not lost on anyone. After travelling to Beijing this week in an armoured train, he held talks with Chinese President Xi Jinping and re-emphasised his commitment to the "denuclearisation" of the peninsula, weeks before his scheduled April 27 summit with South Korean President Moon Jae-in. In May, Mr. Kim and U.S. President Donald Trump are expected to meet for a historic summit. By visiting Beijing now, Mr. Kim is sending a clear message: that he is serious about his offer of talks. The visit has also helped repair relations between Pyongyang and Beijing, which had come under some strain. China was not particularly happy with the North's nuclear tests. Mr. Xi was under pressure from the West to exercise influence on Mr. Kim's regime. And Beijing's support for stringent UN sanctions on North Korea that have cut its exports of coal, seafood and other goods to China has dealt a blow to its already isolated economy. Mr. Kim reportedly rejected overtures from Beijing and purged officials who had close ties with the Chinese. But now, both leaders appear to have decided to set aside their differences. China has historically played a role in inter-Korean relations. In 2000, Mr. Kim's father and predecessor, Kim Jong-il, had visited China shortly before a summit with South Korea. In 2003, China launched the Six-Party Talks aimed at peacefully resolving the North Korean nuclear crisis, which eventually failed. Mr. Kim's visit to Beijing has reinstated China's central role in talks over the Korean crisis, which both countries see as mutually beneficial. For the Kim regime, China's experience and guidance could come in handy when it is preparing to engage with two of its biggest rivals.

Naidu praises Modi's passion for economic reforms

New Delhi, Apr 8: Vice President M Venkaiah Naidu today praised Prime Minister Narendra Modi for his passion to reform the economy and bring transformation "everywhere", saying India was "again on the move" because of his leadership.

Speaking at a programme to mark 60 years of the Foreign Correspondents' Club of South Asia in New Delhi, Naidu said India witnessed the effects of economic slowdown elsewhere in the world because of "the prime minister's passion for reforms". "He wanted to bring transformation everywhere," he said.

The vice president said any reform leads to "temporary pain but long-term gain", apparently referring to the sudden government move to demonetise a bulk of currency notes in November 2016. However, Naidu said, "India is once again on the move. I am confident that by going by the present situation India is moving ahead, thanks to the leadership."

HC smells money laundering in plea, transfers probe to CBI

Chennai, Apr 8 : Suspecting serious offences, including money laundering, in an insolvency petition filed by a finance and real estate businessman with claims from creditors running to crores of rupees, the Madras High Court has transferred the probe to the CBI from the Tamil Nadu police.

The matter relates to an insolvency petition filed by businessman Arjunlal Sunderdas, in which Chief Justice Indira Banerjee had constituted a Special Bench comprising justices G Jayachandran and C V Karthikeyan to examine the issues in the plea.

The Special Bench, on its perusal of a police (Economic Offences Wing) report, in its order, said the materials placed before it led to a strong suspicion of offences, including money laundering. "This court is of the opinion that the Economic Offences Wing may not be in a position to complete the investigation with its restriction on jurisdiction," the court said. The Madras High Court, in its March 7, 2017 order, had directed the official assignee of the court to file a police complaint in view of the enormous amount of funds and numerous transactions involved in the case. Sunderdas was engaged in finance and real estate business under the name of "Arjunlal Sunderdas". He had incorporated four companies under the Companies Act. Following a petition from a Mumbai-based creditor, Chitra Desai, the properties of Sunderdas were vested with the official assignee for realisation and distribution among his creditors.

under the Foreign Exchange Management Act (FEMA) and Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA).

In its status report, the EOW had said large-scale money laundering had occurred across several states, including Tamil Nadu, Maharashtra, Uttar Pradesh, Andhra Pradesh, Telangana, Haryana, Karnataka, New Delhi and Puducherry.

It was also reported that there had been flow of funds from the US.

The police reports had expressed limitations in conducting the probe since the sum involved inter-state transactions and claimants from various states and abroad, the court noted.

The bench, in its order, said the extent of money involved in the case and several suspicious circumstances around the insolvency petition merited the transfer of the probe to the CBI.

UP CM Adityanath meets PM Modi in Delhi

New Delhi, Apr 8 : Amid complaints by some BJP MPs that their problems are being ignored by the Uttar Pradesh government, Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath today met with Prime Minister Narendra Modi here, sources said. The two are also learnt to have discussed the bypoll to the Kairana Lok Sabha seat, which fell vacant due to the demise of BJP member Hukum Singh in February, sources in the state government said. With the Samajwadi Party and the Bahujan Samaj Party set to replicate their alliance which helped them win the Phulpur and Gorakhpur Lok Sabha bypolls, the two are understood to have discussed the election strategy. Kairana, a Jat dominated region in Shamli district in western UP, was in 2014 won by BJP's Hukum Singh, who died due to illness in February this year, necessitating the bypoll.
