NIIT Technologies enters into a strategic partnership with Morris Communications

Establishes onshore joint venture to expand business

New Delhi, India, 13th July, 2011, Wednesday – NIIT Technologies, a leading IT solutions Company, announced today a strategic partnership with Morris Communications, a privately held leading media company with headquarters in Augusta, Georgia. This partnership provides for integrated IT & BPO services to Morris communication for an aggregate amount of US $ 85 m over a period of 5 years. NIIT Technologies will have the controlling interest in the joint venture.

Commenting on the relationship, Steve K. Stone, Senior Vice President and Chief Financial Officer of Newspapers and Shared Services at Morris Communications said; "NIIT Technologies was selected as the preferred partner following a rigorous selection process. This partnership will significantly reduce our costs of operations and services, while improving the level of services required to meeting our objectives in the future."

Under the terms of the agreement Morris will transfer to the joint venture its key assets including IT infrastructure, people and application landscape. With this facility, NIIT will be better able to address growing technology outsourcing business in North America with a near shore facility.

According to Lalit Dhingra, President NIIT Technologies, Inc. "We are pleased to partner with Morris Communications, a significant player and a strong voice in the media industry. This is a strategic transformational deal which enhances our onshore presence to expand its footprint in the US market."
