China wants to cut steel production volume; abolishes export rebates

SUSHIM BANERJEE
Former DG, Institute of Steel Development and Growth

The products without export rebates would include pig iron, seamless and ERW pipes (all sizes), hollow sections, wire Rods, rebar, PPGI/PPGL coils and sheets, CRS, HRC, HRS and Plates in carbon, Alloy/SS, SS/Alloy bars and rods, round/square bars/wires, structural and flat products, steel sheet piles, railway materials, articles of cast iron.

Elimination of export rebates is associated with abolition of import duties on pig Iron, DRI, ferrous scrap, ferrochrome, MS Carbon and SS Billets to zero with effect from May 1, 2021. In addition, China has raised the export duties on ferrochrome and ferrosilicon from 15% to 20%, on high Silicon steel from 20% to 25% and on foundry pig Iron from the existing level of 10% to 15% from May '21.

There are a few reasons for Chinese actions. First, the government is keen to reduce steel production volume of China. In 2020 the Chinese production of Crude steel at 1053.0 MT was around 5.2 per cent more than the previous year and steel production in China rose despite the pandemic.

East Asia and other neighbouring areas, the higher offers resulting out of rebate withdrawal from China would push up global prices of flat products further. This would in turn result in more export realisation for Indian exports of HRC, CRC and Coated products. There is likely to be a rise ranging between $25-30/t in export offers of HRC from India for June '21 shipment. India's export to the West Asia is likely to fetch a comparatively higher realisation and a corresponding rise in export offers of CRC.

The overall push to higher prices in the global market would imply that there would be a lower import flow of flat products in the coming months. India has ended the fiscal year FY21 with a total export of 17.4 MT and a total import of 5.04 MT. The flat component in total finished steel exports were 87 per cent. The relatively higher price rise in flats compared to long products has benefitted all flat steel exporters from India. The flat component in total exports in the current fiscal would be further strengthened.
