Runs to returns: Meet Virat Kohli, the investor

With over 13 startups in his portfolio, the cricketer's off-field innings is as strategic as his on-field game

SURAJEET DAS GUPTA
New Delhi, 2 July

Virat Kohli might have announced his retirement from Test cricket, but he remains very much in the game — both on and off the field. While he continues to be a favourite among brands as an endorser, he's also actively putting his name — and money — behind businesses as an investor.

The latest venture to attract the cricketer's attention is Agilitas Sports, a sportswear and athleisure company in which he has invested around ₹40 crore. With this investment, Kohli has acquired a 1.94 per cent stake in the company, which was founded by former Puma India boss Abhishek Ganguly. Cricketer Yuvraj Singh is also an investor in Agilitas.

This is far from Kohli's first foray into the startup ecosystem. Together with his wife, actor Anushka Sharma, Kohli is a serial investor, with stakes in around 13 startups spanning health and fitness products, insurance, fashion, sports, and energy drinks. The couple began investing as early as November 2014, when they put money into London-based SportNova, a developer of social networking platforms for sports fans, as angel investors.

Kohli's business strategy can be gauged from the nature and stage of his investments. According to data from Tracxn,

Beyond the boundary

Startups Virat and Anushka have invested in

Company	Latest valuation ($ million)
Digit Insurance	3,788*
MPL	2,187
Hyperice	700
Slurrp Farm	64
Agilitas	243
Rage Coffee	21
Wrogn	58
O'cean Beverages	28.2

* Publicly listed. This is not an exhaustive list. Source: Tracxn he has come in as an angel investor in at least six startups, indicating a preference for entering businesses at an early stage. However, he hasn't hesitated to back ventures in later funding rounds, participating in Series C to Series E investments. Besides this, Kohli and Sharma are also lead investors in as many as six companies.

Their investment track record already includes visible successes.

One of their investee companies has achieved unicorn status, another is publicly listed, and two more — according to Tracxn — are classified as "sonicorns" (close to attaining a $1 billion valuation) and "minicorn" (valued below $1 billion but with strong potential to grow). However, not every bet has paid off: Koo, the vernacular social media platform in which they invested, recently shut down operations.

While there's no official figure for the total amount Kohli has invested across his portfolio, the aggregate funds raised by these startups are estimated at $1.1 billion. The combined valuation of 10 of these companies, for which public data is available, stands at $6.72 billion — more than six times the amount raised. However, data on whether the couple has divested part of their stake in any of the companies they invested in is unavailable.

Kohli has been careful to ensure his investments align with his public persona as a successful sportsman and advocate of healthy living. Health and wellness form a key focus; he has invested in Slurrp Farm, an online brand selling millet-based foods for toddlers and children; Mille, which offers millet-based breakfast cereals, besides pancake and baking mixes; and Blue Tribe, which specialises in plant-based chicken alternatives.

Sports and fitness is his other investment plank. He has backed Hyperice, a brand that offers smart devices for physical recovery and fitness, and O'cean Beverages, an energy drink venture. In sports businesses, besides Agilitas and SportNova, he has stakes in Sportsbiz. He has also invested in fashionwear brand WROGN — in which the Aditya Birla group made a substantial investment last year.

Yet the couple's biggest bonanza has come from their investment in Go Digit General Insurance, an online insurance company. They jointly invested around ₹2.5 crore in 2020. Following Go Digit's IPO in 2024, the value of their stake has risen dramatically, with the company's market cap currently at ₹31,000 crore.

Another key investment is in MPL (Mobile Premier League), an online e-sports platform. Reports indicate that in 2019, Kohli invested over ₹33 lakh via a compulsory convertible debenture, which will convert into equity after 10 years. Currently, MPL is valued at around $2.3 billion, making it a unicorn.

Whether in cricket or business, Kohli continues to play the long game — and by the looks of it, he's scoring big.

Updated mobility aggregator rules clear speed bumps for pvt bike taxis

UDISHA SRIVASTAV
New Delhi, 2 July

The Ministry of Road Transport and Highways, in a notification, allowed the use of non-transport motorcycles for passenger journeys. The change is part of the revised Motor Vehicle Aggregator Guidelines (MVAG) 2025. This is the first time the Centre has urged state governments to allow private motorcycles to operate as taxis.

The notification read: "The state government may allow aggregation of non-transport motorcycles for journey by passengers as shared mobility through aggregators, resulting in reduced traffic congestion and vehicular pollution, along with providing, inter alia, affordable passenger mobility, hyperlocal delivery, and creating livelihood opportunities."

Your ride, their rules

- States given three months to implement the guidelines
- Aggregators allowed to charge up to 2x the base fare
- Drivers to receive at least 80% of the fare; 10% cancellation penalty capped at ₹100
- Mandatory insurance: Health and term insurance of at least ₹5 lakh and ₹10 lakh

The Centre has given state governments three months to adopt the revised guidelines. Mobility aggregators such as Rapido and Uber have welcomed the revised MVAG 2025. However, gig workers' associations and unions remain concerned.

The Indian Federation of App-based Transport Workers (IFAT) and the Telangana Gig and Platform Workers Union (TGPWU) welcomed certain provisions but flagged concerns over the lack of uniform fare regulation, unchecked surge pricing, and gaps in enforcement.

Citing their concerns, IFAT and TGPWU said the guidelines allow fares to increase by up to 2x during high-demand periods, leading to exorbitant ride costs during emergencies, festivals, rains, or peak hours. They added that the current model benefits only the aggregators, with customers overpaying and drivers receiving inconsistent and unfair payments.

The unions demanded that state governments not implement the guidelines without involving the unions concerned in the monitoring and enforcement process.

"When fares increase by 2x or 3x, passengers blame drivers. But the truth is, both drivers and passengers are suffering while only app companies profit. We need fixed, fair fares across India, strong state enforcement, and an end to illegal operations like bike taxis without yellow plates. Only then can we ensure safety, dignity, and fairness for both customers and workers," said Shaik Salauddin, national general secretary of IFAT and founding president of TGPWU.

No fuel for old vehicles: Delhi HC agrees to hear plea by petrol pumps

The Delhi High Court has agreed to hear a plea moved by the Delhi Petrol Dealers Association (DPDA) challenging the fines and legal action imposed on petrol pump owners for supplying fuel to vehicles classified as end-of-life vehicles (ELVs).

The high court, while agreeing to hear the case on Wednesday, sought responses from the Delhi government and the Commission for Air Quality Management (CAQM). The case will now be heard in September.

In its plea, the DPDA has said that the Delhi government directive barring fuel stations from serving diesel vehicles older than 10 years and petrol vehicles older than 15 years imposes "the responsibility of implementing the said rule without them being necessarily equipped or authorised under any law to carry out such responsibility".

Travel operators stay nimble as monsoon throws plans off track

Tourists look for flex bookings, no-penalty cancellations, and weather insurance

AKSHARA SRIVASTAVA
New Delhi, 2 July

Travel platforms and tour operators are readying themselves to address a large number of weather-related challenges, from flight delays to consumer requests for rescheduling and cancellations, as the monsoon season sets in and brings with it several rain-related disruptions.

Flash floods in Himachal Pradesh due to a cloudburst, torrential rains in Uttarakhand and Odisha, and instances of inundation in cities like Mumbai, Chennai, and Bengaluru during most monsoon seasons are impacting traveller activity in tourist destinations, prompting them to opt for insurance coverage that includes weather disruptions.

"We are tracking forecasts, working closely with airlines, and building in flexibility for bookings and rescheduling as we see greater demand for packages that allow free cancellations or quick itinerary changes without penalty. Many hotels, too, are offering weatherproof experiences and easier check-in terms, which helps," said Rikant Pittie, chief executive officer (CEO) and co-founder at EaseMyTrip.

With flight delays and weather-related disruptions a reality, the industry is shifting into a more responsive and flexible mode as travellers expect options, not uncertainty, he said, adding, "It's all about giving customers the confidence to book, knowing they won't be left stranded if plans change."

The online aggregator has also witnessed an uptick in travellers opting for insurance coverage that includes weather disruptions. Thomas Cook (India) and SOTC Travel launched a travel programme to provide customers round-the-clock assistance through a dedicated representative, while also covering costs that arise during unforeseen circumstances.

"This is to ensure that our travellers feel protected and supported at every stage of their journey. In today's uncertain travel landscape, assurance is the need of the hour, and TravSure aims to provide comprehensive protection for our international group tour customers," said Rajeev Kale, president and country head — holidays, MICE, visa at Thomas Cook (India).

Flexibility and contingency planning are becoming crucial for travel agencies that are proactively preparing for monsoon-related disruptions.

"Key measures include offering refundable and flexible ticket options, especially for sectors prone to weather issues. They are collaborating closely with hotels to secure flexible cancellation and rebooking policies for clients and strengthening real-time travel monitoring and customer service readiness. Some operators are also recommending

Airports tap tech to reshape travel and boost commercial potential

As travel, both domestic and outbound, continues to remain steadfast, airports are rapidly evolving into technology-driven hubs and reshaping the travel experience while unlocking commercial potential.

A new research that surveyed over 12,000 travellers from 21 countries, including 1,001 from India, highlights how digital innovation is transforming traveller behaviour, spending, and engagement at airports worldwide.

The global airport automation market size is projected to surge to $85.12 billion by 2033 from $5.05 billion currently, fuelled by rising passenger expectations and investment in digital infrastructure.

Among the surveyed Indian travellers, 82 per cent identified fast-track security and 85 per cent cited digital boarding passes as the most impactful technologies, while automated baggage drops and advanced scanners are both highly valued by 80 per cent of respondents.

"With travel volumes continuing to rise, airports are looking to technology to help enhance the curb-to-gate journey whilst also increasing traveller spends. Automation is freeing up valuable time, lowering stress levels, and providing better information to the traveller in real time. When the experience delivers, travellers are more inclined to explore places to relax, sample dining options or retail stores," said Christopher Evans, CEO at Collinson International.

travel insurance with disruption coverage for travellers," said Ravi Gosain, president of the Indian Association of Tour Operators. There is also increased consumer awareness and demand for tailored plans that can adapt to unpredictable weather, he added.

"As the monsoon season nears, travellers increasingly seek convenience, real-time updates, and experience-driven getaways. We have enhanced our offerings with flexible booking and cancellation options and alternative stay choices to help customers plan with confidence," said Bharat Kumar Malik, senior vice president — flights & hotel business, at travel platform Yatra.

Agrees Karan Agarwal, director at Cox & Kings, who noted that there is growing interest among Indians to travel throughout the year, including the monsoon, which has otherwise been the so-called off-season. "We are seeing a growing interest in travel during this time of the year and are mindful of the operational uncertainties that can come with it,

Taking off

83% India travellers say airports are adopting AI and technology at the right pace

88% Indian travellers spend more when automation smoothes their journey, led by millennials (93%) and Gen Z (91%); significantly higher than the global (60%) and APAC (68%) average

45% travellers say they gained an extra 10-30 minutes at the airport, while 27% up to an hour due to technology

56% dine or have a drink, 57% go shopping, 56% visit an airport lounge when they have extra time

At 59%, lounge interest is highest in Indonesia at market level, followed by India (56%), and the UAE (47%) especially around flight delays or weather-related adjustments," he said.

The travel company is also helping customers with real-time updates and support — whether it's flight delays or rescheduling — as it promotes destinations like Coorg, Munnar, the Western Ghats, and parts of the Northeast, which are at their scenic best in the monsoon.

"We are also encouraging shorter and quick getaways that allow for spontaneity without long-term commitments. This approach not only gives travellers confidence but also lets them enjoy the season fully," Agarwal added.

Travel platforms are also seeing a rise in interest in alternative destinations as people look to holiday without the added hassles of cancellations or rescheduling. Pent-up summer travel demand is now spilling over into the monsoon months, with flight bookings up 25-30 per cent year-on-year to emerging destinations like Port Blair, Tirupati, Udaipur, Coimbatore, and Pune, pointed out ixigo.
