धौलपुर, राजस्थान में आंगनवाड़ी केंद्रों पर प्रारंभिक बाल विकास को रूपांतरित करने के लिए वेदांता की नंदघर, जॉन स्नो इंक. (JSI) और रॉकेट लर्निंग के साथ साझेदारी

यह साझेदारी राजस्थान में नंद घरों के माध्यम से प्रारंभिक बाल शिक्षा, स्वास्थ्य और पोषण को सुदृढ़ करने की दिशा में एक परिवर्तनकारी कदम है

बिज़नेस रेमेडीज/जयपुर

वेदांता की प्रमुख सीएसआर पहल 'नंद घर' पारंपरिक आंगनबाड़ियों को आधुनिक केंद्रों में रूपांतरित कर रही है, जो स्मार्ट शिक्षा उपकरणों, BaLA (बिल्डिंग एज लर्निंग एड) डिज़ाइन, एलईडी टीवी और बच्चों के अनुकूल ढांचे से सुसज्जित हैं, जिससे 3–6 वर्ष के बच्चों के लिए आकर्षक और सुरक्षित वातावरण तैयार हो। नंद घरों में बच्चों और माताओं को पोषक आहार, स्वास्थ्य सेवाएं और पोषण सहायता प्रदान की जाती है, साथ ही महिलाओं को कौशल विकास कार्यक्रमों के माध्यम से सशक्त किया जाता है जिससे आजीविका और समुदाय का समग्र विकास सुनिश्चित हो सके।

प्रोजेक्ट बालवर्धन, अनिल अग्रवाल फाउंडेशन द्वारा शुरू की गई एक पहल है, जिसका उद्देश्य बच्चों में कुपोषण से लड़ना और आंगनवाड़ी कार्यकर्ताओं की क्षमता को बढ़ाना है। NFHS-5 के अनुसार, राजस्थान में 5 वर्ष से कम उम्र के 31.8 प्रतिशत बच्चे स्टंटिंग और 16.8 प्रतिशत बच्चे वेस्टिंग का शिकार हैं। इस परियोजना के माध्यम से धौलपुर, राजस्थान में 800 से अधिक आंगनवाड़ी केंद्रों को नंद घर में बदला जाएगा, जिससे 80,000 से अधिक बच्चों और 14,000 महिलाओं को प्रत्यक्ष लाभ मिलेगा और कुल मिलाकर 1,00,000 से अधिक समुदाय के लोगों के जीवन पर सकारात्मक प्रभाव पड़ेगा।

इस पहल में एक 360-डिग्री प्रणालीगत दृष्टिकोण अपनाया गया है, जो प्रारंभिक बचपन देखभाल और शिक्षा (ECCE) को मजबूत करने, सभी प्रकार के कुपोषण से निपटने, और ICDS राजस्थान के दिशा-निर्देशों के अनुसार गुणवत्तापूर्ण पूरक पोषण सुनिश्चित करने पर केंद्रित है।

साथ ही, स्वास्थ्य और पोषण की स्थिति में दीर्घकालिक और स्थायी प्रभाव सुनिश्चित करने के लिए व्यवहार परिवर्तन पद्धतियों पर विशेष बल दिया जाएगा।

JSI और रॉकेट लर्निंग के साथ इस रणनीतिक सहयोग के माध्यम से, नंद घर पोषण, स्वास्थ्य और शिक्षा हस्तक्षेपों के लिए एक मजबूत आधार बनाएगा, जिससे स्थायित्व, मापनीयता और सामुदायिक भागीदारी पर आधारित एक समग्र विकास मॉडल का निर्माण होगा।

नंद घर के सीईओ, शशि अरोड़ा ने इस कार्यक्रम की प्रतिबद्धता को दोहराते हुए कहा, कि नंद घर में हमारा विश्वास है कि असली बदलाव जड़ों से शुरू होता है।

प्रोजेक्ट बालवर्धन बच्चों में कुपोषण से लड़ने और आंगनबाड़ी कार्यकर्ताओं को सशक्त करने की हमारी प्रतिबद्धता का एक महत्वपूर्ण कदम है। राजस्थान सरकार, JSI और रॉकेट लर्निंग के साथ मिलकर, नंद घर इस बदलाव को जमीनी स्तर से संचालित करने और हमारी आने वाली पीढ़ियों के लिए एक सुरक्षित भविष्य बनाने के लिए प्रतिबद्ध है। प्रोजेक्ट बालवर्धन के तहत JSI, 6 वर्ष से कम उम्र के बच्चों की पोषण स्थिति को सुधारने, आंगनवाड़ी सेवाओं के बुनियादी ढांचे को उन्नत करने, डिजिटल ग्रोथ मॉनिटरिंग (एंथ्रोपोमेट्री) और वैज्ञानिक पद्धतियों पर आधारित मातृ पोषण जागरूकता बढ़ाने के माध्यम से मातृ एवं बाल पोषण और स्वास्थ्य में सुधार के लिए कार्य करेगा। ये प्रयास बच्चों, गर्भवती महिलाओं और स्तनपान कराने वाली माताओं को सीधे लाभ पहुंचाएंगे और ग्रामीण समुदायों के समग्र स्वास्थ्य परिणामों को बेहतर बनाएंगे। इसके अतिरिक्त, नंद घर दीदियों (आंगनवाड़ी कार्यकर्ताओं), फ्रंटलाइन वर्कर्स और समुदायों की क्षमता निर्माण पर बल दिया जाएगा ताकि व्यवहार परिवर्तन के माध्यम से स्थायी प्रभाव सुनिश्चित हो सके।

रॉकेट लर्निंग, आंगनबाड़ी कार्यकर्ताओं को उच्च गुणवत्ता वाली प्रारंभिक बाल देखभाल और शिक्षा (ECCE) प्रदान करने में सक्षम बनाएगा। यह बच्चों की उपस्थिति और भागीदारी को बढ़ाने, राज्य-आधारित शैक्षणिक सामग्री विकसित करने और आधुनिक शिक्षण विधियों में प्रशिक्षण के माध्यम से प्राप्त किया जाएगा।

JSI और रॉकेट लर्निंग, ICDS राजस्थान के सहयोग से, मातृ और शिशु स्वास्थ्य, पोषण और ECCE में अपने गहन अनुभव के साथ मिलकर आंगनवाड़ी सेवाओं में एक परिवर्तनकारी युग की शुरुआत कर रहे हैं। वे सेवा वितरण मानकों को ऊपर उठाने और समग्र बाल विकास की एक नई दृष्टि को साकार करने हेतु एकीकृत प्रणालीगत दृष्टिकोण को आगे बढ़ा रहे हैं। यह परियोजना उप-मुख्यमंत्री और महिला एवं बाल विकास मंत्री, राजस्थान, दीया कुमारी के आशीर्वाद से कार्यान्वित की जा रही है, जो बाल कल्याण और ग्रामीण विकास के प्रति सरकार की मजबूत प्रतिबद्धता को दर्शाता है। प्रोजेक्ट बालवर्धन साझेदारी से संचालित, समुदाय से प्रेरित और स्थायित्व में निहित एक सहयोगात्मक प्रभाव का प्रतीक है।

कृषि को उन्नत बनाने के लिए वैज्ञानिक-किसान संवाद जरूरी : शिवराज सिंह

बिजनेस रेमेडीज/ नई दिल्ली/आईएएनएस

केंद्रीय कृषि मंत्री शिवराज सिंह चौहान ने शनिवार को कहा कि विकसित राष्ट्र की दिशा में कृषि क्षेत्र को आगे बढ़ाने के लिए 'एक राष्ट्र, एक कृषि, एक टीम' के मंत्र के साथ एक व्यापक जन आंदोलन शुरू किया गया है। उन्होंने इस कार्यक्रम को एक ÷महाआंदोलन÷ करार दिया, जिसमें वैज्ञानिकों और किसानों के बीच सीधे संवाद और साझेदारी को प्राथमिकता दी जा रही है।

शिवराज सिंह चौहान ने शनिवार को समाचार एजेंसी आईएएनएस से खास बातचीत में कहा कि कृषि मंत्री, कृषि विभाग के अधिकारी, भारतीय कृषि अनुसंधान परिषद (आईसीएआर) के वैज्ञानिक, उन्नतशील किसान और राज्य सरकारों के कृषि विभाग, सभी एक टीम के रूप में मिलकर कार्य कर रहे हैं। यह टीम भावना ही इस आंदोलन की सबसे बड़ी ताकत है। उन्होंने कहा कि यह महाआंदोलन खेती को बेहतर बनाने, किसानों की आय बढ़ाने और उत्पादन लागत को घटाने के उद्देश्य से चलाया जा रहा है। उन्होंने कहा कि वैज्ञानिक और किसान साथ बैठकर चर्चा कर रहे हैं कि खेती को कैसे अधिक उन्नत और लाभकारी बनाया जाए। कृषि को

भारतीय अर्थव्यवस्था की रीढ़ बताते हुए कृषि मंत्री ने कहा कि चौथी तिमाही में कृषि क्षेत्र की विकास दर 5.4 प्रतिशत रही है। यह हमारे मेहनती किसानों की मेहनत और सरकार की नीतिगत पहलों का परिणाम है। मैं अपने सभी किसानों को प्रणाम करता हूं। प्रधानमंत्री नरेंद्र मोदी के नेतृत्व में कृषि क्षेत्र में हुए नीतिगत सुधारों की सराहना करते हुए उन्होंने कहा कि इन सुधारों का सीधा लाभ अब किसानों को मिल रहा है। उन्होंने कहा कि वह हरियाणा के पानीपत में किसानों से सीधे संवाद करेंगे। उन्होंने राज्य के किसानों से इस महायज्ञ में शामिल होकर उत्पादन बढ़ाने, लागत घटाने और अपनी आय बढ़ाने की अपील की। उन्होंने भरोसा दिलाया कि सरकार उनके साथ खड़ी है। शिवराज सिंह चौहान का कहना है कि प्रधानमंत्री नरेंद्र मोदी के नेतृत्व में विकसित खेती का संकल्प देश के प्रत्येक कोने और प्रत्येक गांव तक पहुंच रहा है। किसानों का जीवन बदलने वाले इस अभियान से जन-जन जुड़ रहा है।

New-age philanthropy has climate, gender, arts push

VAISHALI DAR
New Delhi, May 31

BILL GATES, WHOSE net worth Bloomberg estimates at $168 billion, recently announced to give away 99% of his personal wealth within the next 20 years, mainly for health, education and agriculture. While the Microsoft co-founder's stance is vital in addressing global challenges, newer focus areas like climate action, mental health, gender equity are also attracting robust philanthropy push.

Data recorded between 2022 and 2024 from 150 philanthropist members of GivingPi, an exclusive family philanthropy network started in August 2022, and as quoted in Dasra and Bain & Company's India Philanthropy Report 2025, states 40% of families supported gender, equity, diversity, and inclusion, while 29% support climate action.

GivingPi member community include Abhinav Bindra, founder and trustee, Abhinav Bindra Foundation; Anjali Tendulkar, director & co-founder, The Sachin Tendulkar Foundation; Vasvi Bharat Ram, joint chairperson, The Shri Ram Schools, to name a few.

India has seen visible growth in families' wealth reflected through a sevenfold growth in family offices from 45 in 2018 to 300 in 2024. This can build momentum towards multi-generational and value-driven philanthropy in areas like climate change, mental health, gender equity, sports, and arts. "For decades, philanthropy focused on health, education, poverty—visible problems with measurable solutions," said Neera Nundy, co-founder and partner, Dasra, a strategic philanthropy foundation.

Steel, aluminium tariffs to double at 50%: Trump

- $4.56-bn Indian exports exposed to higher rates

REUTERS/PTI
Pennsylvania/New Delhi, May 31

US PRESIDENT DONALD Trump said on Friday he planned to increase tariffs on imported steel and aluminium to 50% from 25%, ratcheting up pressure on global steel producers and deepening his trade war.

"We are going to be imposing a 25% increase. We're going to bring it from 25% to 50%—the tariffs on steel into the United States of America, which will even further secure the steel industry in the United States," he said at a rally in Pennsylvania.

Trump announced the higher tariffs just outside Pittsburgh, where he was talking up an agreement between Nippon Steel and US Steel. Trump said the $14.9-billion deal, like the tariff increase, will help keep jobs for steel workers in the US.

He later posted on social media that the increased tariff would also apply to aluminium products and that it would take effect on Wednesday, June 4.

May auto sales dip 4%, PV segment drives sharp fall

NITIN KUMAR
New Delhi, May 31

AUTO SALES IN May are set to record a year-on-year (YoY) decline of about 4%. As per Vahan data, total vehicle registrations stood at 2.03 million units as of 3 pm on Saturday, compared to 2.11 million units in May 2024—a drop of approximately 4%.

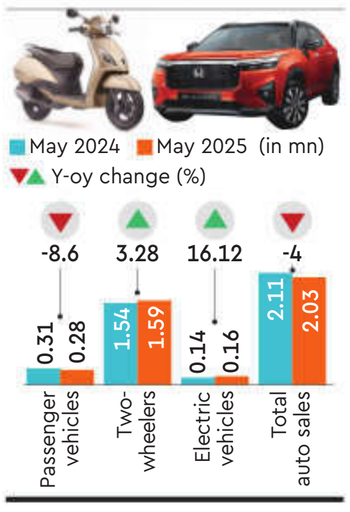

The sharpest decline was seen in the passenger vehicle (PV) segment, which fell by approximately 8.6% in May 2025, with sales dropping to 2,80,877 units from 3,07,356 units in the same month last year.

The Society of Indian Automobile Manufacturers (SIAM) has projected FY26 would see subdued growth of 1-2% in the passenger vehicles segment and the auto industry as a whole. The cautious outlook has been attributed to weak urban sentiment, a rising preference for costlier SUVs and declining affordability.

In contrast, two-wheeler sales rose by 3.28%, reaching 1.59 million units in May 2025, up from 1.54 million units in May 2024.

Govt prioritising lower denomination notes: FM

AGENCIES
New Delhi, May 31

UNION FINANCE MINISTER Nirmala Sitharaman on Saturday said the priority of the government is to make sure that currency in circulation will be in lower denominations, besides spreading more awareness for digital transfers. Speaking at a seminar in Delhi, Sitharaman said on the future of ₹500 currency, "We are making every effort to make sure that currency will be in the lower denominations, and used more, as the ₹2000 note is almost completely out of circulation, except for possibly 0.02%, which is still lying outside. The rest have been returned to the banks. We need to have more digital awareness," the FM said.

In recent years, India has witnessed an unparalleled rise in digital transactions, marking a significant milestone in its journey towards becoming a cashless society. At the forefront is UPI with a record hit of 16.73 billion transactions in December 2024.

She also said the government terms entrepreneurs as wealth creators as profit earned by them through ethical ways helps drive development goals. "Wealth creation in India has never been a taboo. We promoted wealth creation. That is why we refer to entrepreneurs as wealth creators; they are not thieves," she said.

Dharavi 2.0: A people-first transformation plan

RAGHAVENDRA KAMATH
Mumbai, May 31

WHAT WAS ONCE a slum, considered the world's largest, sprawling over 251 hectares, will soon become a well-developed area complete with green spaces, a promenade, waterfront development and a multi-modal transit hub. This is what the ambitious masterplan for Dharavi proposes, in what is one of the world's largest redevelopment projects, to cost about ₹3 lakh crore for rehabilitation and infrastructure.

The project is being carried out by Navbharat Mega Developers (NMDPL), a joint venture between the state government's slum rehabilitation authority (SRA), and Adani Properties (APPL). The plan proposes to set up 8,532 housing units and 13,468 commercial units for eligible tenants in the Dharavi notified area.

At the centre of the plan is a multi-modal transit hub (MMTH), the first for the city providing access to metro, high-speed and airport express trains, besides city buses and other city transport—all at one location. This will ensure efficient transfers in all directions, with Dharavi serving as a focal point.

"Those in transit can come to Dharavi, check-in their bags for flights later in the day either from Mumbai or Navi Mumbai airports, and spend the day at various facilities at the MMTH. The MMTH, through underground elevators, escalators, and subways, will have 24x7 retail spaces restaurants, cafes, offices and hotels," details from the company stated. Both Mumbai and Navi Mumbai airports are operated by the Adani Group.

A dense road network inside Dharavi will ensure that residents can commute with the arterial routes without having to come on the main road. "It ensures a well-connected network that links different neighbourhoods, promoting a balanced and inclusive transportation system. Dharavi's streets will be wide and interlinked every 125 metres," the plan proposes.

The plan also offers an interconnected network of green and public spaces.

Steel tariffs to double: Trump

THE DOUBLING OF steel and aluminium levies intensifies Trump's global trade war and came just hours after he accused China of violating an agreement with the US to mutually roll back tariffs and trade restrictions for critical minerals. Think tank Global Trade Research Initiative (GTRI) said on Saturday the announcement to double tariffs on imported steel and aluminium will impact Indian exporters, as it would hurt their profitability. For India, the consequences are direct, GTRI said.

In 2024-25, India exported $4.56 billion worth of iron, steel, and aluminium products to the US, with key categories, including $587.5 million in iron and steel, $3.1 billion in articles of iron or steel, and $860 million in aluminium and related articles.

"These exports are now exposed to sharply higher US tariffs, threatening the profitability of Indian producers and exporters," GTRI founder Ajay Srivastava said.

India has already issued a formal notice at the World Trade Organization (WTO) signalling its intention to impose retaliatory tariffs on US goods in response to the earlier steel tariffs. "With Trump now doubling the tariffs, it remains to be seen whether India will carry out the retaliation by increasing tariffs on certain US exports within a month," Srivastava said. Canada's Chamber of Commerce quickly denounced the tariff hike as "antithetical to North American economic security". "Unwinding the efficient, competitive and reliable cross-border supply chains like we have in steel and aluminium comes at a great cost to both countries," Candace Laing, president of the chamber, said in a statement. Australia's centre-left government also condemned the tariff increase as "unjustified and not the act of a friend". The European Commission said it "strongly" regrets an announced increase of US tariffs on steel imports and that the EU is prepared to impose countermeasures.

The US is the world's largest steel importer, excluding the EU, with a total of 26.2 million tonne of imported steel in 2024. As a result, the new tariffs will likely increase steel prices across the board, hitting industry and consumers alike. Steel and aluminum tariffs were among the earliest put into effect by Trump when he returned to office in January. Tariffs of 25% on most steel and aluminium imported to the US went into effect in March, and he had briefly threatened a 50% levy on Canadian steel but later backed off.

Under the so-called Section 232 national security authority, import taxes include both raw metals and derivative products such as stainless steel sinks, gas ranges, AC evaporator coils, horseshoes, aluminium frying pans and steel door hinges.

Climate, gender push to philanthropy

"BUTTODAY'S GIVING landscape is being reshaped by families, where women, Inter-gen and Now-gen givers, along with an emerging cohort of professionals, are channelling funds into newer focus areas," added Nundy.

Sectors like renewable energy, climate-smart agriculture, and inclusive disaster planning are other areas that urgently need support. "The 29% funding on climate action remains a drop in the ocean compared to the $2.5 trillion needed by India by 2030 for mitigation and adaptation. In India alone, the social sector faces an annual funding gap of $170 billion. Philanthropy must now move beyond grants, embracing catalytic tools like impact investing and blended finance," said Naina Subberwal Batra, CEO, AVPN, the largest network of social investors in Asia, comprising over 600 funders and resource providers across 33 markets. As per the India Philanthropy Report 2025, India's social sector funding has grown at a steady rate of about 13% over the past five years and is estimated to have reached about ₹25 lakh crore (8.3% of GDP) in FY2024. Public spending grew about 13% annually over the past five years, reaching approximately ₹23 lakh crore (7.9% of GDP) in FY2024. By FY 2029, it is projected to increase to about ₹43 lakh crore (9.1% of GDP). Private spending rose 7% from FY 2023 to FY2024, reaching about ₹131,000 crore.

Some of the niche areas where families are leveraging their personal and professional influence to drive impact include The Pride Fund (2025), India's first dedicated LGBTQIA+ philanthropy fund supporting queer-led organisations, backed by the Keshav Suri Foundation (KSF) in Delhi, Godrej Industries Group (GIG) in Mumbai, and Radhika Piramal, executive director of VIP Industries, which has committed an annual ₹2 crore for the next three years.

Sectors like renewable energy, and inclusive disaster planning are some areas that need support

The Anita Dongre Foundation (2015) founded by fashion designer Anita Dongre promotes sustainability, animal welfare and women's empowerment by supporting rural artisans, advocating for ethical fashion, and funding wildlife conservation through initiatives like REWILD.

Traxcn data states the foundation generated a revenue of ₹30 lakh for FY2022. It also established a medical fund of ₹1.5 crore in 2020 to support the health needs of self-employed vendors and artisans during the Covid pandemic.

Ek Saath—The Earth Foundation (2020), founded by Pragya Kapoor, drives environmental sustainability through awareness and action initiatives, including tree planting, plastic waste reduction, and steps to restore ecosystems and protect wildlife. The Heritage Project (2018) founded by Radha Goenka, director, RPG Foundation, uplifts communities and spaces around heritage sites, fostering awareness and preservation. The Aditya Birla Education Trust (ABET), founded by chairperson Neerja Birla, joins as a core member of the Impact Action Council, a strategic collective of leading organisations and philanthropists under the Philanthropy Asia Alliance (PAA), to drive meaningful social change.

Among the top philanthropists, Azim Premji, the founder of Wipro, has donated approximately around ₹1.76 lakh crore to education, healthcare, ecology, and disaster response through the Azim Premji Foundation. Recently, Premji committed to giving ₹2,250 crore over three years to help more girls complete their college education. "The basic purpose is to allow girl children to complete their higher education," said Anurag Behar, CEO of Azim Premji Foundation.

Post-Covid, mental health emerges as a growing need within health. "Urgent crisis areas and natural disasters have immense power to galvanise philanthropic funding. Covid was a recent example of this," said Aakanksha Gulati, CEO, ACT Capital Foundation.

Chief of Defence Staff admits loss of aircraft

THE INTERVIEW WAS taken on the sidelines of the Shangri-La Dialogue security forum in Singapore. "So we rectified tactics and then went back on the 7th, 8th and 10th in large numbers to hit air bases deep inside Pakistan, penetrated all their air defences with impunity, carried out precision strikes." The Indian Air Force "flew all types of aircraft with all types of ordinances on the 10th", he said.

India's Director General of Air Operations, Air Marshal AK Bharti, had told a press conference earlier in the month that "losses are a part of combat" and that India had downed some Pakistani jets. Islamabad has denied it suffered any losses of planes but has acknowledged its air bases suffered some hits, although losses were minimal.

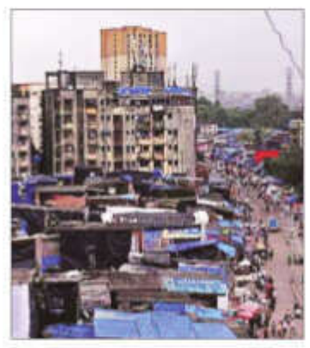

"Most of the strikes were delivered with pinpoint accuracy, some even to a metre," Chauhan said.

Chauhan, and Pakistan's Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, General Sahir Shamshad Mirza, have both said there was no danger at any time during the conflict that nuclear weapons were considered.

"I think there's a lot of space before that nuclear threshold is crossed, a lot of signalling before that, I think nothing like that happened," Chauhan said. "There's a lot of space for conventional operations which has been created, and this will be the new norm." "It's my personal view that the most rational people are people in uniform when conflict takes place," he added. "During this operation, I found both sides displaying a lot of rationality in their thoughts as well as actions. So why should we assume that in the nuclear domain there will be irrationality on someone else's part?"

Chauhan also said although Pakistan is closely allied with China, there was no sign of any actual help from Beijing. "While this was unfolding from (April) 22nd onwards, we didn't find any unusual activity in the operational or tactical depth of our northern borders, and things were generally all right."

Dharavi 2.0

THESE RANGE FROM large city parks to smaller community playgrounds, which will strengthen ecological resilience and enhance quality of life of residents. Niranjan Hiranandani, founder and managing director of Hiranandani Group, told FE: "The plan will certainly improve the quality of life of Dharavi residents. The face of Mumbai will change." The plan also proposes a waterfront development and Dharavi promenade—a linear open space to make Mithi river's edge accessible. "The promenade shall be a place for people to come and enjoy walks along the Mithi river. This will potentially be the longest waterfront in the city after Marine Drive," said the plan document.

Sanjay Dutt, managing director and CEO, Tata Realty & Infrastructure, told FE: "The amenities will enhance the value for developers as they will be able to attract people relating to a better lifestyle. It will be the first planned township of over 300 acres in the city."

Also, a hospital network will be set up in Dharavi, besides polyclinics, first-aid centres and diagnostic facilities. Under the live-and-work concept, new structures will be designed to accommodate heavy industrial machinery and equipment wherever such need arises. Besides, all industrial and commercial units will be given a choice to lease out commercial spaces which the SPV (NMDPL) would build. The plan also proposes to set up places of worship for all religions and faiths.

May auto sales dip 4%

THE THREE-WHEELER SEGMENT posted marginal growth of less than 1%, with sales increasing to 99,700 units compared to 99,154 units in the year-ago period.

The electric vehicle (EV) segment maintained its YoY growth in May, recording a 16.12% increase in sales. A total of 1,63,341 EV units were sold in May 2025, compared to 1,40,666 units in May 2024.

Intensifying competition and the increased availability of products from legacy players boosted EV sales, particularly in the two-wheeler segment. In April, the auto industry posted a modest year-on-year (YoY) growth of 3% in overall retail sales, as per FADA. All categories, except commercial vehicles (CVs), registered positive growth.

Two-wheelers (2W) grew by 2.25%, three-wheelers (3W) by 24.5%, and passenger vehicles (PVs) by 1.5%, while CVs saw a decline of 1%.

FADA had earlier projected that two-wheeler sales would benefit from marriage season demand and post-harvest purchases.

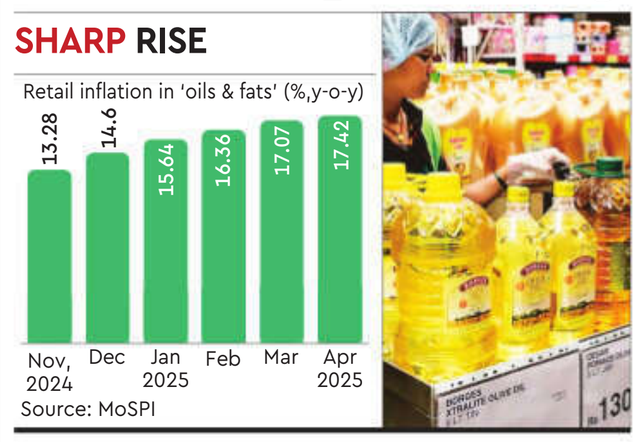

In the PV segment, it expected sales to remain steady but subdued, as buyers await new model launches and face high financing costs.

Govt prioritising lower denomination notes: FM

"ONCE YOU HAVE wealth, you give dignity of labour, you provide for education, you provide for skilling, and you lift the tempo and the spirit of the nation," she said. "If you lift everyone out of poverty, give them employment, give them a certain standard of living and give them access to fundamental basic necessities, they are above where they were before, and the country's production levels also increase," she said.

Cut in import duty on crude cooking oil to boost local processing

SHARP RISE

SANDIP DAS
New Delhi, May 31

THE GOVERNMENT'S MOVE to cut basic custom duty on crude palm, soybean and sunflower oils to 10% from 20% will restrict import of refined oils and boost domestic processing, industry associations — Solvent Extractors Association of India (SEA) and Indian Vegetable Oil Producers' Association (IVPA) have stated. "This is a win-win situation for veg oil refiners as well as consumers, as local price will go down due to lower duty on crude oils," BV Mehta, executive director, SEA, said. Following the announcement of import duties on Friday, the effective import duty, including basic custom duty and cess, on these three oils is reduced to 16.5% from 27.5% earlier. Sources said the reduction in duty was because of a sharp rise in prices of edible oils in the recent months, while retail inflation in 'oils and fats' category was highest in the food basket at 17.42% in May. However, the basic custom duty on refined oils remains unchanged at 32.5%. India imports around 57% of its edible oils — palm, soybean and sunflower consumption of around 25 million tonne (MT).

"This move will not just strengthen the domestic refining capacities of Indian refiners but also ensure fair price to oilseed farmers and a fair price to the consumers," Sudhakar Desai, president, IVPA said.

With a sharp rise in imports of refined palm oil in the past six months, both industry associations have been urging the government to increase the duty difference between crude cooking oils and refined edible oils. Last September, the government had raised import duties on crude oils to 27.5% from 5.5%, while duties on refined edible oil rose to 35.75% from 13.75% aimed at boosting domestic production.

However, Soybean Processor Association of India (SOPA) has questioned the government's move to reduce import duties after significantly increasing the minimum support price of kharif oilseeds — soybean and groundnut aimed at boosting output.

"Duty reduction on edible oils is a step against local crushing and farmers. It helps the import lobby at the cost of industry, and will be a huge setback for the goal of self-sufficiency in edible oils," DN Pathak, executive director, SOPA, said. India imported 15.96 MT of edible oils during the 2023-24 oil year (November to October) valued at ₹1.32 lakh crore. In the first six months of the oil year (November – April), cooking oil imports declined by 8% to 6.5 MT on year, the SEA has stated. India imports crude palm oils from Malaysia and Indonesia while soybean and sunflower oils are imported by Argentina, Brazil, Russia and Ukraine.

CBIC debunks social media claims of delay in granting GST registration

THE CBIC ON Saturday debunked a claim circulating on social media about delays and corruption in granting GST registration, saying the applicant has yet to furnish details sought by Delhi state GST officers.

One individual took to LinkedIn to talk about how he has not been granted GST registration even after applying 20 days back. The post was shared on X by another user accusing that there is "corruption" in granting Goods and Services Tax (GST) registration.

Replying on X, the Central Board of Indirect Taxes and Customs (CBIC) gave facts of the case and said the application was filed this week on May 26, 2025, which was assigned to Delhi state GST. The Central GST authorities had no role in this matter, the CBIC said.

It further said that as per Delhi state GST authorities, the case was processed immediately and a query was raised about the missing designation of the person who has signed the rent agreement on behalf of the firm. —PTI

The man who is fully self driving

File image of Tesla CEO Elon Musk at a Conservative Political Action Conference in Maryland, US. The book is a delight for conspiracy theorists and binge followers of socio-economic intrigue BLOOMBERG

Love him or hate him, you just can't ignore Elon Musk

SHIVAJI DASGUPTA

FAIZ SIDDIQUI'S LITERARY carnage of Elon Musk is a delight for conspiracy theorists and binge followers of socio-economic intrigue. It divides the American population into two unambiguous segments—those who love the man and those who hate him. The former stretching every sinew to further his seemingly unscrupulous agenda, while the latter necessarily gaping at his chutzpah, without being able to intervene sufficiently.

Two major arenas occupy much of the narrative—electric carmaker Tesla and thought disruptor X. The cast and crew are marinaded in uncompromising audacity—whether reckless technology development, Stalinist purges in corporate structures or the relentless ability to manipulate policy makers and industry icons. Therefore, suggesting a twisted Orwellian version of the American Dream, now seemingly one reckless man's prerogative and no longer a licence for every sincere fellow.

The narrative begins with the accidental death of Huang, a passionate lover of Musk's autopilot Tesla vehicles, on a highway due to tech failures, whether caused by man, machine or the alliance of both, up for much debate. Musk initially appears to be cooperative in the investigation process, when Robert Sumwalt takes charge of investigations. But he soon takes a deliberate U-turn and when Missy Cummings from the NHTSA, the safety board, takes charge, the atmosphere turns ferociously hostile. Cummings, a former fighter pilot, is invested in LIDAR, a technology competing with the Tesla worldview, and she soon is the recipient of direct and clandestine personal threats. Seemingly orchestrated by folks like Omar Qazi, a Musk fan boy, on a mission to smoothen every circuit for the guru's electric dreams.

The autopilot and its evolution into 'full self driving', further closer to singularity, continues to make significant appearances throughout the sequence of pages. Musk's intent to fast forward the automation protocols takes precedence over the electrification spiel, as it is projected as a modern-day Titanic, doomed for disaster. Cybertruck plays a key cameo, a paint-free apparition with bullet proof glass that guillotines every engineering convention for this cadre. Trump's unveiling of the mega star is projected in tragi-comic light, with cheeky comparisons made to the iconic product reveals of Steve Jobs. Clearly Siddique is no foe of the Apple impresario, and dispels all attempts by Musk to place himself as an elite peer.

The automotive saga continues with the Uber flirtation, as Musk considers the robotaxi project by Travis Kalanick's team to be competition that merits collaboration, or rather control. 'Full self driving' keeps resurfacing as a persistent villain, as its three way skillset of highways, city streets and parking prowess is brutally audited. The journey from 'smart summons' to 'actually smart summons' is gleefully projected as a necessary blow to Tesla's utopian script, even as Uber seems to be abandoning its autonomous aspirations, chastened by an unsavoury crash or two. It still remains competition for Musk in a fundamental sense, but the tech intersection has been abdicated.

Hubris Maximus: The Shattering of Elon Musk
Faiz Siddiqui
HarperCollins
Pp 336, ₹599

A few sideshows add subversive fuel to the torrential tidings. Phantom Braking, a much vaunted killer feature, is tested with aggressive vanity, with real children as test cases. Dan O'Dowd and Ralph Nader appear as brakes of dissent—the former a tech millionaire who is deeply opposed to the automation overclaims, and the latter, a legendary advocate of car safety, from the 1960s. Joe Biden strangely excludes Musk from a Washington summit on EVs, in tune with his administration's efforts to turn up the regulatory volume, and in sharp contrast to the Trump patronage. The latter is evident on multiple occasions, including the premature reopening of the California production facility during Covid, in contravention of the county laws. 'Free America Now' seems to be a shared agenda for Trump and Musk, the Covid standoff just a merry trailer and the 450-odd employees affected by the virus simply minor collateral skirmishes. Poetic injustice, in all this, ensuring that Tesla became the most valuable automotive player in the market.

Musk's game playing with Twitter is projected with gleeful abandon, as if blockbuster evidence of satanic strains. He was clearly 'buying influence' and the power to control opinion, a standard dictatorial stock in trade, through deeply under-ethical means. The workforce was brutally diminished, including Dorsey's CEO Parag Agrawal, and this led to a breakdown in services, like inadequate risk mitigation processes failing to censure a fake Eli Lilly account proclaiming that insulin was free, amongst multiple such gaffes.

His own tweet responses were boosted artificially to delight both ego and impact, while unsavoury elements were allowed to continue. Twitter Blue, the paid verification service, seemed to undermine the credibility of the platform, while the wish to make it 'The Everything App', like China's WeChat with transaction built in, clearly inappropriate for the free universe. The author takes great pains to project a Heinrich Hynkel-like pattern of calibrated insanity, like Charlie Chaplin's The Great Dictator. Quite seamlessly, like strategic timeouts in the IPL, routine court proceedings are built in to address diverse charges, the stoic Musk emerging consistently as a defiant powerhouse, the bad out of reach for the good. The liquidity of his net worth is often questioned, as if for consolation points and not real analysis.

In the dubious lineage of Trump, Musk does come across as the poster boy of American corporate villainy, a character out of a James Bond classic, determined to conquer the world with the gore of evil. Yet it is faulty to ignore that he is indeed a visionary who 'sprints', not just 'walks', the talk, and that is no mean feat. Thus, leaving the world to be both a richer and a poorer place, an equilibrium that is constantly work in progress. Elon Musk is far from being shattered in Trump 2.0, and that is the only constant.

The era of Swadeshi

How businesses that boomed right after independence focused on making India great

MADAN SABNAVIS

LAKSHMI SUBRAMANIAN LOOKS at a unique aspect of India's economic history—evolution of business—in her book, India Before the Ambanis. She traces how Indians took to business actively, roughly from the middle of the 19th century till the time economic reforms were introduced.

Quite befittingly, the book has been called India before the Ambanis, as Dhirubhai Ambani stands as a symbol of new Indian enterprise. Coming from a non-business family, the stupendous climb to the top exemplifies his entrepreneurial spirit. Building an empire covering the entire upstream and downstream products make his story fascinating.

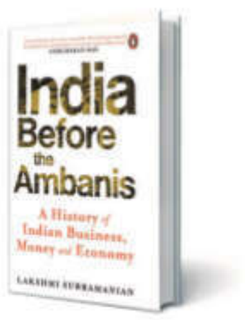

The book starts with the pre-modern era and brings its story to more contemporary times. Business was conducted even in the Mughal period, though was rudimentary in nature. It gained momentum and came to the fore with the entry of the British through the East India Company. Merchants, she points out, followed money all the way and hence were able to bring scale to business. Thus the so-called merchant capitalist existed for several centuries, though they metamorphosed to something significant only during the past two centuries or so.

The two hotbeds of business were evidently Calcutta and Bombay (going by the original names). The entry of the East India Company through Bengal probably gave it the advantage, while Bombay benefited from being a port in the early colonial times. The Anglo-Parsi collaboration started with Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy and was concentrated more in export trade and shipping where opium played an integral part. The Parsi tilt was then best exemplified by the rise of families such as the Tatas and Godrejs. If one juxtaposes the history of Birlas and Bajajs, the story gets even stronger.

The founder of Tata Empire, JN Tata, started with cloth and then went to steel and the creation of Jamshedpur city. Ardeshir Godrej had started with surgical instruments, which did not quite succeed.

A file photo of SP Godrej and JRD Tata. India Before the Ambanis is a quick read on the history of Indian business houses, including the rise of families such as the Tatas and Godrejs EXPRESS ARCHIVES

India Before the Ambanis: A History of Indian Business, Money and Economy

Pp 320, ₹699

But the move to making locks, which seemed a low value product, became the main line of business. The call for swadeshi at that time helped to gain traction, which expanded to safes and cupboards, which still have a strong brand name. There was close alignment with the political landscape that was the Nehru vision of modern India. The author gives the example of the Madhya Pradesh State Electricity Board offices that were designed with Godrej products and became quite iconic in being minimalistic and modern. In the decades after independence, Godrej became a story of objects, notably storwel, office chairs, and the now extinct typewriter.

At a different level, the author also takes us through the concept of market or bazaar, taking a deeper look at the concept of money and its evolution. This is a critical part of trade. Here she talks a lot of the concept of the traditional bill called 'hundi'. Its evolution was critical to the development of the money market and systems of payments that are in the most sophisticated form today. This concept also gave birth to the concept of negotiable instruments, which even today is the nucleus of the payments system.

On the engineering side she looks at two major enterprises that were set up. One is the Kirloskar family in Pune and the other was the TVS group. These stories are quite fascinating as they trace their beginnings several decades back. The engineering business goes ahead to encompass power and transport. Alongside there is the story of the Bajaj family with different businesses, though today it is synonymous with automobiles.

A question that the reader may pose is why is it that several other businesses have been excluded? This can be a fair point given that the title talks of India before the Ambanis and there are admittedly several other industrial groups that have made significant contributions. This book is probably not meant to be an omnibus as it picks up some stark stories that lay the foundations of India Inc. Hence it should be read keeping this in mind as all stories cannot possible be included.

What the author tries to bring out is that while each story is about eccentric drive and impulse, there are certain patterns that evolve, which probably is the main thrust of the narrative. In each case, the protagonist was focused on the production of a public good essential for the country.

Therefore, all examples given during the pre-independence time sought to make India self-sufficient. There was also a commitment to disseminate these core values down the ladder to successors who turned out to be effective captains of industry. They worked keeping in mind the independence of India and their vision was to partner with the government in making India great.

Interestingly, the author points out that it was only with the successor generation that there was some angst against licence raj and the plethora of controls that were imposed by the government under the banner of being socialistic. This new generation also put a lot of focus on education and technical expertise. A blend of paternalism and professionalism created this new entrepreneurial culture that helped survive family feuds and wrangles, and, more importantly, protect their reputation. This can be seen even today for family-owned businesses, which do not carry the vestiges of what they were decades or centuries back.

This book is a quick read on the history of Indian business and should resonate with the reader. It is written well and keeps the reader engaged, which is the USP of the narrative.

WE HAVE TO ACT... NOW!

While a growing number of countries is committing to net zero emissions by 2050, emissions must be cut in half by 2030 to keep warming below 1.5°C. To achieve this, production and consumption of all fossil fuels need to be cut by at least 30% by 2030

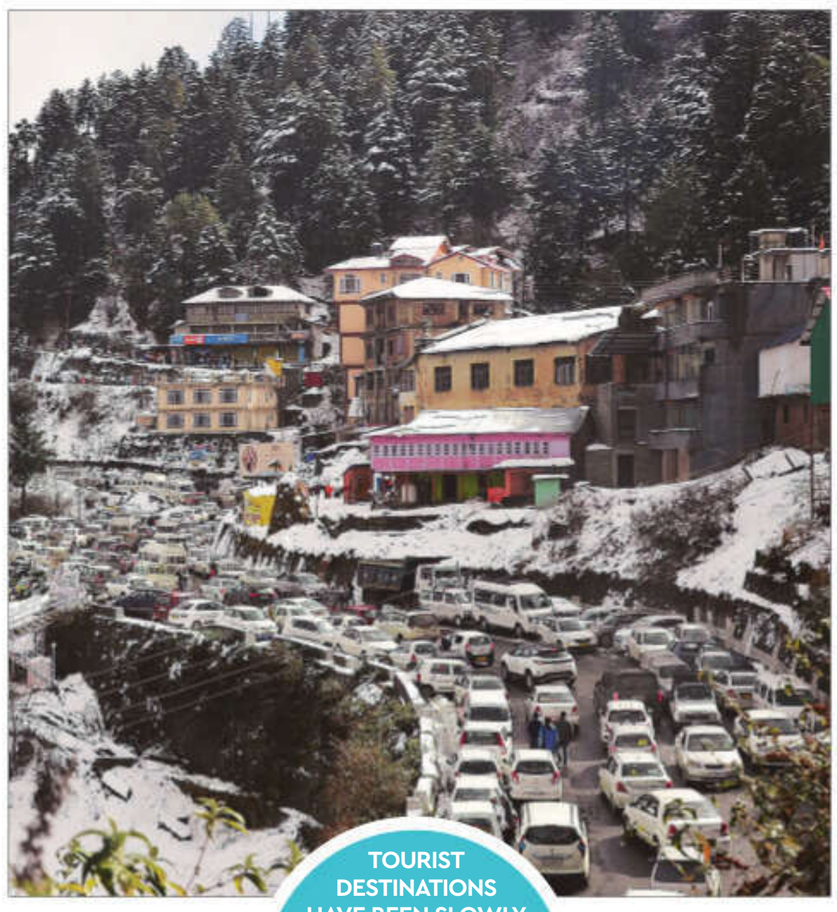

SHIFTING TOURISM

As popular destinations come under pressure due to overcrowding, climate crises & unplanned development, many are redefining travel plans to look at newer places, even as there is a need to reshape policy around tourist hotspots

GARIMA SADHWANI

THE PERIOD BETWEEN the end of February and the beginning of March this year was a difficult one for Himachal Pradesh. Incessant bouts of heavy rainfall triggered flash floods and landslides in the lower areas of Kullu district. Lahaul-Spiti and Kinnaur were among the regions that received unexpected snowfall. Visuals of vehicles being swept away and being trapped in sludge, too, bombarded our social media feeds. The state disaster management authority had, at the time, shared that close to 600 roads in the state were blocked due to erratic weather.

Ironically, the state was back to normalcy within a week. By mid-March, the influx of tourists also increased, with people (who were seeking respite from the heat) thronging to the mountains.

Erratic weather, overtourism, and development that is not in line with the ecology—these have become a normal part of most popular tourist destinations in the country; be it Himachal or Uttarakhand in the north, or Kerala in the south; with the latter witnessing one of its deadliest landslides in Wayanad district in 2024. However, these places that most people vacation in are topologically and ecologically sensitive and are on the receiving end of environmental degradation.

Abinash Mohanty, head of climate change and sustainability at IPE Global, and expert reviewer of IPCC-AR(6), explains, "Largely, the pattern of tourism in the global south is related to ecology, even when it is religious or recreational tourism. Since tourism generates a lot of economic advantages and opportunities, we've tried to overexploit these ecologically-sensitive areas. Of late, changing weather patterns and climate-linked disasters have been triggered in these places."

What Mohanty says, unfortunately, rings true. Over the years, tourist destinations have slowly been losing the very essence of what drives people to these places in the first place—the forest cover, the ecology, and nature.

"Tourism places immense pressure on fragile ecosystems, particularly in the Himalayas and in coastal belts. The existing vulnerabilities get compounded not just by unregulated construction but also inadequate waste and sanitation infrastructure. What we're witnessing is a system straining at its seams, where climate-triggered events are exposing poor planning and outdated infrastructure," says Uttam Banerjee, co-founder and CEO of Ekam Eco, a sustainable living start-up.

Alternative holidays

What's interesting to note is that thanks to multiple factors at play—overcrowding, changing weather patterns, changing ecology—people are now moving away from the traditional tourism hotspots.

Rajeev Kale, president and country head, holidays, MICE, visa at Thomas Cook (India) tells FE that gen Z and millennial travellers are now opting for "offbeat experiences beyond conventional destinations like Jibhi, Spiti, and Tirthan Valley (Himachal Pradesh), Gokarna (Karnataka), Mon (Nagaland), and Mawlynnong (Meghalaya)".

SD Nandakumar, president and country head, holidays and corporate tours, SOTC Travel, agrees: "Travellers are keen to explore lesser-known destinations that offer both soulful retreats and adrenaline-packed adventures. There is a growing demand for personalised experiences beyond traditional tourism." According to Nandakumar, there's also new interest in hatke places in every corner of the country from Bir Billing, Chopta, and Pelling, to Varkala, Auroville, and Majuli.

There's also a growing concept of 'second-tier' hill destinations—essentially places that are ecologically rich (which makes them sensitive and fragile), much closer to nature than anything we witness in the cities, and just offbeat enough that you'd find all facilities for your vacation and yet the place won't be crowded.

But does this mean that the traditional tourism hotspots are at a loss? No, not at all. In fact, Rikant Pittie, CEO and co-founder, EaseMyTrip, says, "Manali, Leh-Ladakh, Nainital, and Spiti valley continue to draw visitors looking for cooler climates and scenic getaways."

Even Devendra Parulekar, founder of SaffronStays, which has luxury villas, bungalows, and holiday homes across multiple destinations in India, says, "This summer, we anticipate a 150% increase in revenues from our homes and villas in Himachal Pradesh and Uttarakhand, driven by a combination of strategic inventory expansion and a 25% rise in footfalls. With El Niño expected to trigger intense heatwaves across the northern plains, we foresee a significant shift in travel patterns towards the cooler hill destinations. Additionally, the launch of new expressways is making these locations more accessible, prompting a surge in road trips to drivable getaways."

Parulekar goes on to say that his company's footprint has grown 5x in the last five years, with "exponential growth in Himachal Pradesh and Uttarakhand, bookings increasing multifold, and revenue scaling up significantly." He adds, "Himachal Pradesh and Uttarakhand remain deeply cherished by travellers from across north India, offering idyllic retreats for wellness, nature, and cultural exploration. With their serene landscapes, temperate climate, and rich heritage, these regions are perfect for both short and extended escapes."

However, all said and done, there's a clear dent too. Khushboo Barry, founder of The Xplorers, a homestay in Manali, says that over the past few years, there's been a sharp decline in tourist footfall in the hill station. Speaking with FE in early April, she had said, "We don't have a packed summer season yet. Usually by this time, all rooms in the homestay would be booked till the end of June. Other hotels would call each other to get guests accommodated here and there. But this year, while most rooms are sold, 2-3 rooms on average are vacant even now."

Interestingly, says Barry, that this shift happened post 2022. After the Covid lockdowns had eased a little bit, travellers were going to places like Manali to stay for longer durations—to have a sense of respite from the restricted life in cities as hybrid work boomed. She says, "Now, we're seeing people stay for shorter trips and only treat Manali as a one-day halt while going ahead to more offbeat places, or places like Spiti which are somewhat touristy but not crowded."

"A big reason for this is climate change. There's unpredictability in the weather and an uncertainty of some places being accessible—especially during the monsoon, when the risk of floods increases. In fact, because of the weather changing, new properties that are coming up here are installing fans and ACs, something which was practically unheard of, but will be needed more and more going ahead. The hill station has also become very congested. There's construction going around everywhere. The air quality is poor. Other than the peak season of 3-4 months, Manali is practically empty," adds Barry.

This is something that Hisham Mundol, chief adviser of the Environmental Defense Fund in India, a global non-profit that collaborates with governments, NGOs, research and academic institutions and corporates to support India's vision of shared, sustainable prosperity, had underlined in December last year in a conversation with FE. Mundol had said, "Every economy where tourism is an important element has to consider the business risk of losing tourists because they are losing the very reasons why tourists came, or when the tourist experience becomes so unappealing that it loses its attraction."

TOURIST DESTINATIONS HAVE BEEN SLOWLY LOSING THE VERY ESSENCE OF WHAT DRIVES PEOPLE TO THESE PLACES—FOREST COVER, ECOLOGY, AND NATURE

Emerging patterns

It's also important to note that these new emerging patterns in tourism aren't just changing the way we think about a lot of these places, but also actively reshaping policy discourses and decisions.

In 2024, Indonesia announced that it is moving its capital from Jakarta to Nusantara, because the former is at risk of sinking. Tuvalu, a Pacific island nation, could become inhabitable in 25 years. The country even signed a treaty with Australia, called the Falepili Agreement, for Tuvalu citizens to have a place of refuge as climate change impacts their lives more and more.

Even Thailand has been mulling whether it should move its capital from Bangkok as it faces the threat of submerging under rising sea levels, and being inundated before the year 2100. Similarly, Lagos in Nigeria, according to a World Economic Forum report, has been losing its coastline slowly over the years. Closer home, Bangladesh's capital city Dhaka could sink by 2050 as sea levels rise, displacing over 18 million residents.

However, it's not just our part of the world or the global south that faces these threats. Houston in the United States and Venice in Italy are at risk of sinking too, at the rate of 2 inches and 0.08 inches per year, respectively. The latter also could be totally inundated by the end of this century.

This is a threat that India's financial capital Mumbai also faces — sinking.

The way things are panning out, now the local residents of popular tourist destinations are requesting people to stay away from their homelands. Almost every year since 2018, Shimla has faced an acute water shortage during the peak tourist seasons (the hill station's population of about 1.7 lakh increases by close to a lakh due to incoming travellers, which causes the water requirement to increase to 45 million litres per day). This has forced the residents to urge tourists not to come to Shimla and opt for other destinations. The locals have also taken to social media during the year-end holiday season requesting tourists to not come if they are going to create a ruckus while being drunk and leave behind trash.

There are other concerns too. Thanks to a greater footfall, roads often get jammed. Hill stations like Nainital and Mussoorie, which are closer to Delhi, are a shining example of this. In fact, last year, on December 30, a tourist vacationing in Himachal Pradesh had taken to social media to share that amid heavy snowfall, close to 2,000 vehicles were left stranded in the Manali and Solang valley overnight with nowhere to go.

Not all hope is lost, though. Back in 2000, Thailand shut down Maya Bay for three years when the popular tourist destination was at risk of facing environmental damage. Now, Indonesia's Bali has suspended the construction of new hotels and the country is planning an audit to reform the way tourism takes place.

There are measures that we could (and should) start working towards too. In fact, Mohanty says, there's quite a few things that can be done to protect these places and our environment. For starters, he says, "we need to come up with frameworks like perhaps a cap and tour mechanism. What you need to do is basically map every ecologically sensitive area that is a tourist hotspot with its carrying capacity so as to prevent the overexploitation of the landscape. You cannot have unlimited tourist footfalls to these fragile ecosystems, which might have a lower threshold of carrying capacity."

He goes on to add, "You also need to have an evacuation plan in place for different hazard scenarios. There's further a need to update the hypergranular risk assessment of these places when it comes to climate change, so that you have a better understanding of the likelihood of extreme weather events and its potential scale-of-impact. And it's important to anticipate risks in a compounding and cascading manner and not look at them in silos."

Banerjee agrees. According to him, it's important that all actors in the ecosystem take the responsibility to adapt rather than just shifting the blame to the "mass behavioural patterns of tourists". He says: "There is a dire need for innovation of scalable, low-impact sanitation and waste solutions that are centered on reducing ecological burden. This would mean creating waste management systems that are not water dependent, especially in ecologically sensitive areas where traditional systems often fail during extreme weather."

Faces of the future

Brands are turning to AI bots & avatars for ad campaigns, not only as a cost-effective tool but also as a creative collaborator. But are they posing a threat to real models and celeb endorsements?

VAISHALI DAR

IF YOU'RE A keen follower of social media, chances are that you'd have noticed prickly heat powder brand DermiCool's new digital film, said to be its first AI-generated ad. In the video, cool 'neem-tulsi-powered' superheroes take down monsters (read ghamoriya or prickly heat) in a fantasy battlefield reimagined through a video game-inspired narrative.

Earlier this year, fast fashion giant H&M announced plans to create digital clones of its models using AI tools. The Swedish company said it will initially create 30 AI doppelgangers of its models, to be used in social media posts and marketing campaigns, instead of real humans.

Similarly, fashion retailer Mango featured AI-generated glam bots in its adverts last year, at a time when others like Hugo Boss and Levi Strauss & Co have also talked about using generative AI for product images.

Amid changing modern storytelling formats, brands are increasingly turning to AI to create ads, not only as a cost-effective tool but also as a creative collaborator. "It (the DermiCool campaign) embraces future-facing technologies in brand communication while staying true to the core emotional legacy and promise," explains Kaushik Vedula, AVP-Marketing, Emami.

As per Jörgen Andersson, chief creative officer of H&M, "At our heart, we have always been radically curious, wanting to see what's coming and explore what's out there. This project is exactly that."

"We are exploring what is possible, and we are doing so in close collaboration with other creatives within the industry, agencies and the models themselves - who are in full control of when the digital twin would be used and paid accordingly. This is a way for us to stick to who we are, while also figuring out how technology can enhance our creative work," adds Andersson.

No doubt, AI is transforming the way companies approach campaigns, creating a new normal in advertising and offsetting brand marketing costs. But is the disruptive, and sometimes controversial, technology also posing a threat to real faces, leading to a shrinking of potential celebrity endorsement deals?

Not yet, feel experts. The reliance on AI models happens when heavy endorser spends do not receive return on investment (ROI) in terms of brand equity, credibility or sales, and AI models become a viable alternative for brands to evaluate, they say.

"The advantage of AI influencers is that they exist in an environment controlled by their custodians, preventing any slip-ups and scandals that can spoil the brand image of human influencers. This makes them a safer bet," says Nisha Sampath, founder of Bright Angles Consulting, a marketing and brand consulting agency.

Take the case of D2C brands that are increasingly finding their audiences to be sceptical about celebrity endorsements and more so about influencers. For brands with small budgets who cannot afford celebrities, AI models offer an attractive option. "It's best if the brand creates an in-house virtual persona like Myntra's Maya as this enables them to etch a better fit with the brand and build higher recall. It is a new-age replacement of the old-time brand mascots. However, AI influencers will play a bigger role not just with Gen Z but even with Gen Alpha, who will grow up with a blend of virtual and real influencers as their online reality," adds Sampath, who has worked with companies like HUL, Aditya Birla Capital, Swiggy and BookMyShow.

According to Himanshu Arora, co-founder of social media and digital marketing company Social Panga, celebrities are not going anywhere, AI is just a smarter way to optimise campaigns and make it impactful.

"For early-stage teams, AI can act as a smart research partner, digging through conversations, scanning market trends, and helping pressure-test new product or campaign ideas before they hit the market. For more evolved brands, it steps into a strategic role—predicting regional acceptance, optimising media mix, or automating repetitive production workflows so teams can stay focused on creative problem-solving. There's no one-size-fits-all formula," says Arora. He quotes an example of a D2C personal care brand that recently used AI to scan past campaign data and identify that print ads with high regional emotion-index (festive, family-driven narratives) worked 3x better in UP and Bihar. That insight changed their copy and media plan entirely.

However, experts also feel celebrities need to be more 'involved' with a brand. If they don't come through as a brand custodian, brands would use AI generated influencers, who are budget balancers that help sustain a campaign at relatively low costs, they add.

"Brand teams, especially the social media handlers, are churning out a multitude of posts that are responsive to social stimuli and inclusive of all the keywords that define the new lingo. If brands were to decide to 'take back the power', AI could help deliver the goods. The goods in this case would be a mix of amenable influencers who say what the brands want them to say. This was a way of bringing back the impactful icons of advertising like Lalitaji of Surf and the ladies of Nirma," says Manas Mohan, chief digital & data officer at Laqshya Media, and CEO of Digitalabs, working with brands like HDFC Bank, Smaaash, and Delhi Police, among others.

Even if AI-generated models and celebrity clones are a game-changer in the marketing landscape, offering brands cost-effective, highly customisable, and scalable alternatives to traditional endorsements, they are also a violation of rights without permission.

"With AI-driven models, brands can create dynamic messaging that resonates with specific consumer segments in real-time," says Ameer Ismail, former president, Lintas Live, the digital-first creative PR agency of MullenLowe Lintas Group. Ismail quotes an example of how HUL is leveraging AI to transform its marketing and media strategies through 'Sangam', an AI powered platform aimed at streamlining media planning and buying processes.

Even if technology can help brands create custom content, it is unlikely to completely replace the emotional connection that real-life celebrities bring to the table. "Celebrity endorsements continue to provide authenticity, trust, and relatability, which are difficult to replicate with AI. Companies may leverage AI for cost efficiency, but the human element of celebrity endorsements will remain crucial for fostering deep emotional engagement with consumers. It's not necessarily about replacing the traditional model but rather complementing it with innovative and future-forward approaches," adds Ismail.

Helming the world's number 1 restaurant can't be easy. But Oriol Castro has done it all before at El Bulli, which was the the most coveted restaurant when it was open. In India for an event in collaboration with Don Julio, the head chef and co-owner of Disfrutar talks about the restaurant in Barcelona

● How do you balance the informality of fun and the precision of fine dining at Disfrutar?

It's about conveying the values behind our cuisine and the emotions that inspired its creation. Disfrutar is a creative restaurant that is always searching for new techniques and concepts. But it's also grounded in strong traditions. It plays with all senses— touch, smell, and textures.

● How much of an influence is El Bulli in your food now? It is said you were the brains behind the molecular gastronomy at El Bulli.

We're not huge fans of the term 'molecular gastronomy'. We don't really support that name. It sounds too scientific. It makes it seem like it's not the chefs cooking, but the scientists. The scientists helped us understand how certain ingredients work...and we, the chefs, cooked. At El Bulli, it was always said that 'molecular gastronomy' wasn't our term—we called it 'techno-emotional cuisine'. It was more about technique and emotion.

El Bulli is very important, it has a big influence. Because El Bulli taught us a way of working and some working methodologies. Disfrutar has its own identity, it's not El Bulli. But El Bulli greatly influenced the way we work. And it is a part of our DNA.

● Is this your first visit to India? What culinary inspirations have you drawn or have planned to explore here?

It is my first visit to India. Thanks to Culinary Culture, the Oberoi Hotel and Don Julio. Being here is very, very important. To be able to share my knowledge... and about the restaurant, Disfrutar. And also, to take back some of the culture, history, and food of India.

I have only spent one day in India so far. But I've visited markets where I discovered fantastic ingredients. I also had dinner at a restaurant called Bukhara, which was incredible. And seeing the tandoori technique was amazing. The story and history behind Indian breads is also very unique.

Today, I also had a South Indian breakfast with fantastic dishes like fermented coconut bread—appam.

● Have you ever felt fine dining fatigue? You were at one of the world's most coveted restaurants at El Bulli and now helm the world's number one restaurant?

No. We are not burned out, we are not tired. Because we have done this type of cooking all our lives. This is the cuisine we've always loved. What motivates us is the fact that every day, we can do something different and keep evolving.

● Eating at Disfrutar is an experience. But do you aim for the experience or do you aim for flavour? Does one get compromised at the cost of another?

No, flavour must always come first. Everything must taste exceptional. The experience comes after. The food has to be great, then the rest can follow.

THE CAUSAL LINK

PCOS is the most common cause of anovulation and a leading cause of infertility, according to the WHO. It's also associated with chronic health problems that impact a person's physical and emotional well-being

Period pain may not always be routine

While mostly ignored, some menstrual cramps can be accompanied by underlying health conditions such as PCOS and endometriosis. Here's what you should know

REWATI KARAN

DISCOMFORT DURING A period or a delayed period is considered a normal part of a woman's reproductive life. However, dismissing it as just another 'period pain' would not be a wise thing to do as it may come with significant health issues linked with mental health, diabetes, and infertility.

Such painful periods could be a sign of Polycystic Ovary Syndrome (PCOS), which is common in India and an increasing number of women in the reproductive age are suffering from this hormonal disorder. They could also be associated with endometriosis, a disease in which tissue similar to the lining of the uterus grows outside the uterus.

As per reports, one in five women in India suffer from PCOS but this lifelong health condition is often dismissed as a routine issue that will go away on its own. In fact, the list of serious health issues that PCOS comes with is exhaustive. A recent study published in The Journal of Clinical Endocrinology and Metabolism says PCOS is associated with an eating disorder or bulimia. It shows that the risk of eating disorders is 50% higher among women with PCOS, regardless of their body mass index (BMI). Another study published in Neurology earlier this year, says it is also associated with potential cognitive issues in midlife. It says increasing evidence links cardiovascular risk factors, such as diabetes and hypertension, to accelerated cognitive ageing to PCOS.

The disorder is primarily known for its reproductive issues including oligomenorrhea (abnormal menstruation), hyperandrogenism (high levels of androgens or male hormones), and infertility. It is also associated with adverse metabolic features, including insulin resistance (IR) exacerbated by obesity, cardiovascular risk factors, including dyslipidemia, hypertension, and inflammation as well as mental health issues, including depression and anxiety.

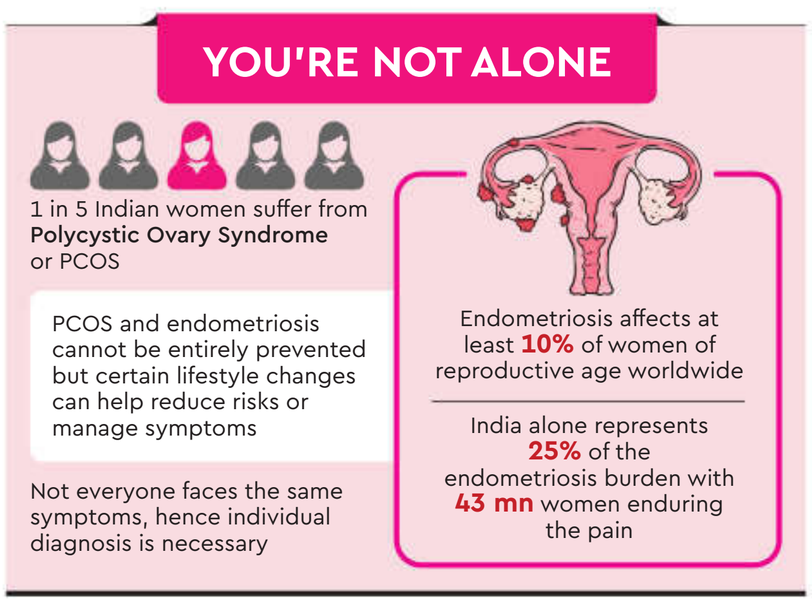

A new study conducted by researchers from the Norwegian University of Science and Technology found that women with PCOS and obesity are more likely to have smaller babies in terms of birth weight, length, and head circumference. Research has also shown that, compared to 7% of women in the general population, 34% of women with PCOS experience depression and approximately 45% of them experience anxiety, compared to just 18% of those in the overall population. A study by researchers in Taiwan, published in Annals of Internal Medicine, earlier this year found that PCOS can also increase the likelihood of suicide attempts among women, even after adjusting for factors such as psychiatric disorders, other health conditions, and demographics.

Despite these health complications, experts say most women ignore PCOS symptoms and visit a doctor only when they face issues when planning to have a baby.

Endometriosis is another condition related to period pains in which women suffering from this disease are known to not get enough care worldwide simply because of the under-diagnosis of the disease, according to a Lancet study. The report says that it affects at least 10% of women of reproductive age worldwide, which spells out to approximately 247 million women. Several reports say that India alone represents 25% of the burden with an estimated 43 million women enduring the pain.

The Lancet report also notes that the poor care of the disease is attributed to the taboo around discussing menstrual pain and issues such as painful intercourse (a symptom of endometriosis) which leads to women ignoring the concerns altogether, not discussing it and resultantly either delaying its diagnosis or never seeking medical attention at all. If ignored for a long time, doctors say it can lead to infertility, damage to surrounding organs, persistent pelvic pain, gastrointestinal issues as well as mental health issues.

Warning signs

Doctors associate PCOS with menstrual irregularity, infertility, acne, hair loss on top, male-pattern baldness, and sides of the head, and excessive body hair typically seen on the upper lip, chin, sides of the face, and trunk. Obesity with skin darkening on the nape of the neck and folds is also seen. Other symptoms include polycystic ovaries (multiple small cysts on the ovaries visible on ultrasound), weight gain or difficulty losing weight, and sometimes infertility.

"The exact cause of PCOS is not known. Some studies say insulin resistance stimulates the production of androgens (male hormones). Mild inflammation in the ovaries of patients can cause the production of androgens," says Dr Anshumala Shukla Kulkarni, head, minimally invasive gynaecology, gynaecology laparoscopic and robotic surgery, at Kokilaben Dhirubhai Ambani Hospital, Mumbai. She says genetics plays a major role in developing PCOS.

Talking about endometriosis, she says, it is a systemic inflammatory disease that is responsive to hormones. "It involves the growth of cells similar to the uterus lining (endometrium) in areas around the pelvis mainly, but can be found in the bowel, bladder, diaphragm, pleura, and nerves," says Dr Kulkarni.

Women suffering from the condition have internal bleeding as the endometrial tissue has no outlet from the body. "Common symptoms of endometriosis include painful periods, heavy periods or bleeding between periods, pain during intercourse, bowel movements or urination, and infertility caused by scar tissue formation," says Dr Anita Kant, chairman of OBG services and robotic surgery, Asian Hospital, Faridabad.

Dr Sameep Bhujbal, consultant, obstetrics and gynaecologist, at Jupiter Hospital in Pune, says that it can make it harder to get pregnant adding that it can start at a person's first menstrual period and last until menopause. Talking about menstrual pain, Dr Bujbal also points out that while it typically causes painful periods, the pain may feel different from normal menstrual cramps.

"Not everyone experiences the same symptoms; some may only notice more intense period pain and heavier bleeding," he says. The exact cause of endometriosis is not fully understood, but theories include retrograde menstruation, immune system disorders, and genetic predispositions, underscores Dr Tripti Raheja, lead consultant, obstetrics and gynaecology, at the CK Birla Hospital in Delhi.

Take care

Dr Raheja of CK Birla Hospital says that diagnosis of PCOS typically involves blood tests to check for hormone levels and an ultrasound to check for cysts on the ovaries. It is often based on the presence of at least two of the following criteria: irregular periods, elevated androgens, and polycystic ovaries.

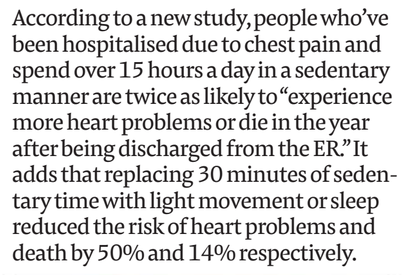

The treatment includes hormonal birth control to regulate periods, medications to manage insulin levels, and treatments for symptoms like acne and hair growth. Surgery for this is not recommended unless the patient is resistant to all medicines and desires fertility, explains Dr Kulkarni of Kokilaben hospital.

For endometriosis, the diagnosis involves pelvic exams, imaging tests like ultrasound or MRI, and often laparoscopy (a surgical procedure) to confirm the presence of endometrial tissue outside the uterus. For treatment, doctors may advise pain relief with medications, hormonal therapies to reduce or eliminate menstruation, as well as surgical options to remove endometrial tissue.

Experts say both the conditions cannot be prevented entirely as they are influenced by genetic and hormonal factors. However, certain lifestyle changes can help reduce the risks or manage the symptoms. They suggest eating a balanced diet with more fish, fruits, and vegetables while reducing dairy, carbs, and gluten, which can ease symptoms of endometriosis and PCOS.

Regular exercise, yoga, and mindfulness can also help manage pain and improve hormone balance. For any kind of supplements that may be beneficial, doctors advise against taking them on your own and consulting healthcare professionals beforehand.

HEALTH CAPSULES

Beta-carotene in your diet reduces anxiety

A new study published in the European Journal of Nutrition suggested that people who have a better intake of antioxidants like beta-carotene reported "lower anxiety, fewer psychosomatic symptoms, and better health-related quality of life" than others. The study also found a correlation between vitamin C intake and improvement in psychosomatic symptoms.

Sedentary lifestyle & health problems

According to a new study, people who've been hospitalised due to chest pain and spend over 15 hours a day in a sedentary manner are twice as likely to "experience more heart problems or die in the year after being discharged from the ER." It adds that replacing 30 minutes of sedentary time with light movement or sleep reduced the risk of heart problems and death by 50% and 14% respectively.

The reason you get toothaches in winters

A new study published in Nature journal recently suggests that dentine (the inner layer of teeth) evolved from an early vertebrate fish from the Ordovician period, and could be the reason your teeth ache when it's cold, since they transmit sensory information. While the study couldn't trace the exact species, it noted that it dates back about 465 million years.

How much junk do you eat? A test can tell

According to a study published in the PLOS Medicine journal, researchers have noted that a person's blood and urine samples have specific patterns of metabolites (or tiny molecules) that can be reliable markers of the amount of ultra-processed food you consume. These can also help identify your intake of whole foods.

New Covid strains are more transmissible, but less severe

Refresher on Covid dos and don'ts

FE FEATURES

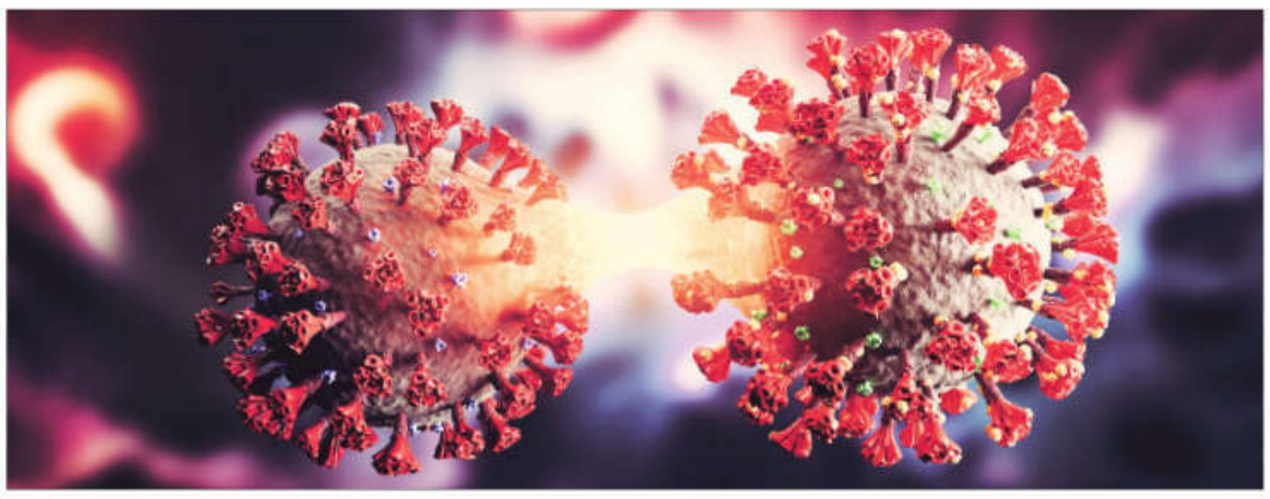

AS COVID CASES rise across the country, Dr Rakesh Gupta, senior consultant, internal medicine, Indraprastha Apollo Hospitals, tells us how different are the new COVID-19 variants infecting the Indian population from what we saw earlier. "The new COVID-19 variants, such as NB.1.8.1 and LF.7, differ from earlier strains like Delta and Omicron due to distinct genetic mutations that may enhance transmissibility. These variants are classified as 'Variants Under Monitoring' by the WHO, meaning they are being tracked for changes in behaviour but are not yet considered more dangerous. While they spread more easily, most cases remain mild and manageable at home, unlike the severe illness seen during earlier waves. There is no evidence yet of increased hospitalisations or deaths directly linked to these new variants."

Dr Rakesh Gupta

How virulent are the new strains, and what are the symptoms to look for?

The new strains, NB.1.8.1 and LF.7, appear to be more transmissible, but current data indicate they do not cause more severe illness than previous variants. Most infections present with mild, flu-like symptoms such as sore throat, fatigue, mild cough, fever, muscle aches, headaches, nasal congestion, and sometimes gastrointestinal issues like nausea and stomach discomfort. Unique features of the JN.1 subvariant, still prevalent, include persistent low-grade fever and gastrointestinal symptoms. Severe symptoms are rare, and most people recover at home without complications.

Should people go for fresh vaccination, and which ones if yes?

Health authorities continue to recommend vaccination and booster doses, as current vaccines remain effective against these new variants. There is no indication that NB.1.8.1 or LF.7 significantly evade immunity from vaccines or past infections. Vulnerable groups — such as the elderly, pregnant women, and those with underlying health conditions — should especially ensure their vaccinations are up to date. Consult local health advisories for the latest booster recommendations and vaccine availability.

When to seek medical attention?

Medical attention should be sought if symptoms persist, worsen, or if you experience breathing difficulties, high fever, chest pain, confusion, or a significant drop in oxygen saturation. Individuals with underlying health conditions should be more vigilant. For mild symptoms, self-isolation, hydration, and rest are generally sufficient, but testing is advised to confirm infection and prevent spread. Prompt medical care is crucial for those experiencing severe or rapidly worsening symptoms.

Any fresh precautions in addition to what we practiced earlier?

The basic precautions remain effective: wear masks in crowded or enclosed spaces, maintain hand hygiene, avoid large gatherings, and ensure proper ventilation. With the rise in cases, extra vigilance is advised for vulnerable groups. Continue to monitor for symptoms, get tested if unwell, and stay updated on local advisories. There are no new precautions beyond these established measures, but renewed emphasis on compliance is recommended to curb transmission.

The latest travel lingo

From land snorkelling to townsizing, here's a guide to keep up with the lexicon of travel

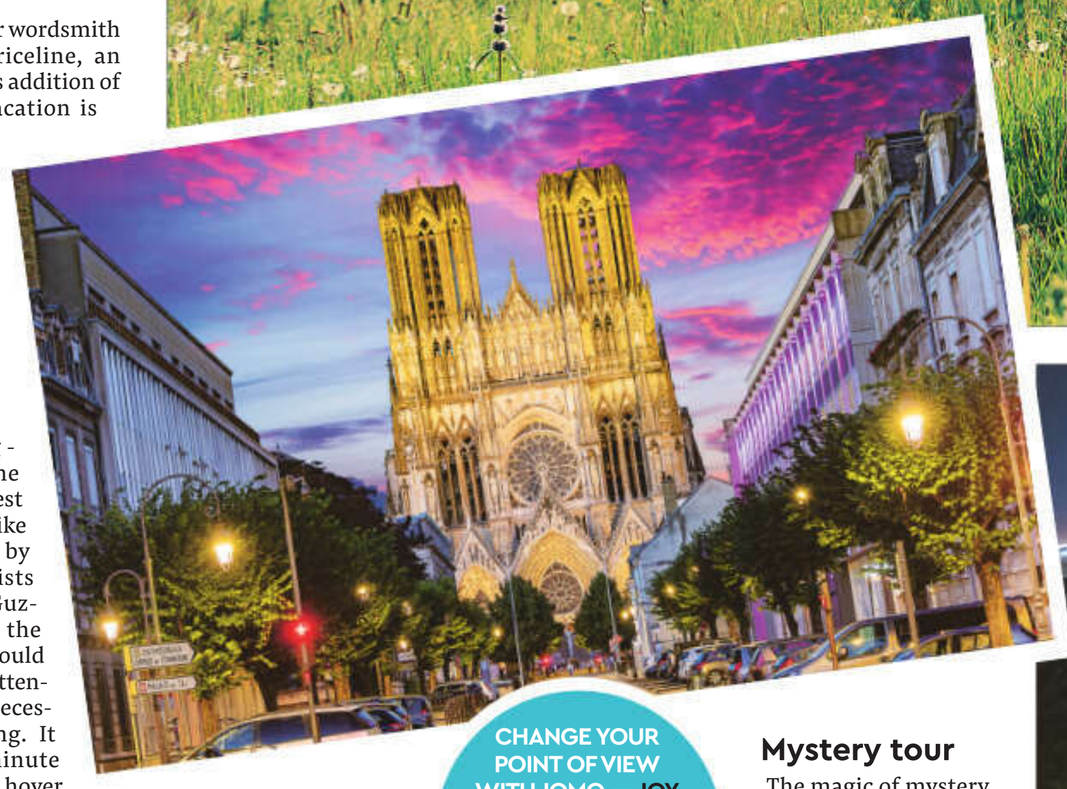

FOR YOUR NEXT trip, have you considered townsizing? What about choosing a detour destination? And instead of forest-bathing, maybe it's time to give land snorkelling a try. If the terms sound odd, you might need a travel translator. Agencies, online platforms and sometimes travellers themselves have been flexing their creative language skills by labelling trends in travel — some new, some tried-and-true (like bleisure, a trip that combines business with leisure time). The following guide will help you keep up with the lexicon of travel.

Detour destinations

Last year's destination dupes became this year's detours in Expedia's 2025 trend report. Detour destinations are "less well-known and less crowded than tourist hot spots," according to the report. They can be destinations on their own or side trips from a bigger target. Examples include pairing Reims with Paris, in France, and Santa Barbara, California, with Los Angeles. This practical two-for-one trip concept bundles an appealing neighbour with the closest major airport destination.

Townsizing

If there were awards for wordsmith of the year, consider Priceline, an online travel agency, for its addition of townsizing. Your next vacation is townsized if instead of big-city buzz you opt for small-town vibes in easygoing destinations. Popular townsizing destinations at the online agency include Stowe, Vermont, Mackinac Island, Michigan, and Carmel-by-the-Sea, California.

Land snorkelling

Think of forest bathing - slow, mindful walks in the woods, and remove the forest and you have something like land snorkelling. Coined by the Montana-based artists Clyde Aspevig and Carol Guzman, land snorkelling in the context of a walk (which could even be in a city) is paying attention to where you are, not necessarily where you're going. It encourages a focus on minute details, the way you might hover over a reef when snorkelling to view the comings and goings of tropical fish and the current's effect on sea fans. "When you snorkel, you don't go with a destination in mind but go with the water and let the visuals take over," said Guzman. "You wander and you wonder," Aspevig added.

Aspevig and Guzman have both volunteered with American Prairie, a nonprofit conservation group that is building a preserve in central Montana, where land snorkelling might focus on the movement of prairie grasses.

JOMO travel

How to fight FOMO, or fear of missing out? Change your point of view with JOMO — joy of missing out — by embracing a vacation that prioritises relaxing and ditching your phone. The vacation rental company Vrbo proposed this mindset switch, citing 85% of respondents to a company survey who declared an interest in taking a vacation to unplug. Pitchup.com and Campspot, two platforms that offer camping bookings, also celebrated JOMO as a digital detox method.

CHANGE YOUR POINT OF VIEW WITH JOMO — JOY OF MISSING OUT — BY EMBRACING A VACATION. RELAX & DITCH YOUR PHONE

Live tourism

In its 2025 trends forecast, the travel news site Skift came up with "live tourism" to refer to the increase in the number of people booking trips around live events in entertainment, sports and natural phenomena. In 2024, few events were bigger travel motivators than the Taylor Swift Eras Tour, the Paris Olympic Games and the total solar eclipse. Some live tourism patterns are perennial, such as the Coachella music festival and the Super Bowl.

The next total solar eclipse is expected to pass over Iceland, Portugal and Spain on August 12, 2026.

Mystery tour

The magic of mystery tours, according to operators, lies in surrendering to the unknown and avoiding the quandary of choice. The high-end agency Black Tomato has a Get Lost service that offers clients journeys to unspecified destinations and the opportunity to find their way out of the wilderness (under a safe watch from afar, they say).

The company has organised mystery trips, which are fully customised, but tend to run five to seven nights, in Mongolia, Morocco, Norway and Guatemala. EF Go Ahead Tours launched its Mystery Tours last year and said it sold out within three hours. Past trips have included Bali and Java in Indonesia.

The 2025 slate of unspecified trips are on sale now (from $2,199 for an eight-day tour).

Phenomenon chasing

Separate natural phenomenon from live tourism and you have phenomenon chasing. Black Tomato cites rising interest in natural events like the northern lights and solar eclipses among travellers willing to go far and wide to see them in person. "In a world that can feel overly digital and predictable, there's something incredible about witnessing a rare natural event," said Rob Murray-John, the head of special projects at Black Tomato. "These moments let us strip away the noise and immerse in something that feels both intimate and vast, like you're a small part of something much bigger."

Noctourism

If it's a travel adventure you have at night, from swimming in phosphorescent bays to stargazing, then it's also known as noctourism. While it's hardly new, trend forecasters are finding renewed interest in after-dark activities, sometimes as a strategy to beat the heat. Booking.com cited noctourism in its 2025 forecast, noting that 54% of travellers surveyed in a recent study planned to increase their nighttime activities to avoid daytime temperatures. "No matter the outing, the cover of darkness adds a sense of adventure and mystery," said Stephanie Vermillion, the author of the new book "100 Nights of a Lifetime: The World's Ultimate Adventures After Dark."

Noctourism activities she covers include night tours of Alcatraz prison, catching "moonbows" or lunar rainbows seen through a waterfall's spray at places like Victoria Falls in southern Africa, seeing a lava flow in Indonesia, and browsing night markets in Taiwan. —NYT

For your next Italian getaway, a taste of la dolce vita

A selection of new and restored hotels and luxury villas await in Rome, Tuscany and beyond

STEPHANIE ROSENBLOOM

A RAFT OF new and renovated properties is opening in Italy just in time for the lazy, sun-drenched days of summer. From Tuscany to Puglia, here are a handful of newcomers and thoughtful restorations, including a boutique hotel in a 16th-century Baroque mansion in Lecce and a collection of luxe villas in the mountains of Chianti.

Pensione America, Forte Dei Marmi, Lucca

Dating to the early 1920s, this one-time Tuscan villa, and then pensione (or boarding house), by the Ligurian Sea has been transformed into an adults-only beach escape. Where there were once dozens of rooms, there are now just 18 rooms and suites. All have terraces or verandas; bamboo furniture that lends a breezy, seaside feel; and products from Officina Profumo-Farmaceutica di Santa Maria Novella, the venerable Italian fragrance and personal care brand. If you really want to spread out, consider booking the two-story casita, La Villetta, which has a garden and a plunge pool.

Created by Collezione Em (whose hotels include the Grand Hotel Minerva in Florence and the Violino d'Oro in Venice), Pensione America is part of the Leading Hotels of the World collection of luxury properties. You can delight amid the gardens, on a tennis court and in the pool decorated with Sicilian tiles. Go for a stroll or ride on one of the free bikes to the nearby beaches for which the area is known. At lunchtime, you'll find a menu inspired by the surrounding waters, with seafood dishes such as ravioli with shellfish and spaghetti with arselle (little clams).

La Roqqa, Porto Ercole, Grosseto

On the harbour of Porto Ercole on Tuscany's Argentario peninsula (about an hour-and-a-half-to-two-hour drive from Rome), La Roqqa underwent a three-year renovation and is now a 50-room-and-suite boutique hotel designed by the Milan-based Palomba Serafini Associati studio. Bold lighting and furniture from the 1960s and '70s add nostalgic touches to the common areas, while many of the minimalist guest rooms are awash in the colours of the surrounding land and sea. Suites, in contrast, sport lighter hues. All rooms have outdoor spaces with views of hills and trees, or the sea. Stretch out under an umbrella at Isolotto Beach Club, part of La Roqqa, on a sandy stretch of beach amid the otherwise rocky coast. Take in the Mediterranean air by hiking, cycling or horseback-riding. Treat yourself to a massage or a facial, or spend some time in the sauna. The hotel, part of Miramis Hospitality, has its own yacht that can take you to nearby islands, such as Giglio and Giannutri, and can arrange experiences like wine tasting and cooking lessons. Watch day turn to night at the Scirocco Rooftop Bar, where you can sip a cocktail — the hotel has several that it says were inspired by Caravaggio paintings — as you gaze out over the Corsini Botanical Garden and the harbour.

Stay in a plush villa in Tuscany through the tour company Abercrombie & Kent

Palazzo Zimara, Lecce

The historical centre of Lecce, in the Apulia region, is rife with Baroque buildings, including this boutique hotel in a limestone mansion that dates to 1557. After a four-year renovation, the property is now an 18-room-and-suite getaway that mixes contemporary design with vaulted ceilings and graceful arches. The rooms are elegant and spare, with 18th-century wooden doors with different touches, including stone walls, brick-and-lime floors, and walls adorned with frescoes. For a special occasion, book the more-than-1,000-square-foot Suite Zimara, with a balcony, two bathrooms and your own hammam, Jacuzzi and fireplace.

Palazzo Zimara is in the heart of the city, so you can go out for a meal or dine al fresco at the hotel's La Bocca restaurant. In the mornings, sip caffè leccese, iced coffee sweetened with almond syrup, and sample pastries and local cheeses.

The Social Hub Rome, Rome

Part of a vast, new complex in the capital that includes co-working and event spaces as well as a soon-to-open public park, the contemporary Social Hub Rome hotel is near the Termini train station in the San Lorenzo neighbourhood, which makes it a potential jumping off point for trips outside the city. On the site of a former railway customs house, in an area buzzing with students, the hotel offers 396 affordable rooms for both short and extended stays. The Social Hub, which is based in Amsterdam, operates 21 hotels in Europe and, as its name suggests, aims to bring locals and tourists together in hubs that may include hotels, gyms and other spaces. At the Rome location, the rooms have a no-fuss youthful vibe. Stop into the all-day restaurant and bar on the ground floor for dishes like rabbit porchetta or fettuccine with smoked butter and Parmigiano Reggiano, along with a glass of organic wine.

A&K Private Estates: The Chianti Collection, Chianti Region, Tuscany

This summer, the luxury travel company Abercrombie & Kent is rolling out five estates for families and groups seeking plush villas in Chianti, the Tuscan region beloved for its mountains and wine. Your trip begins at the airport, where a private car will pick you up. Rates include a case of Tuscan wine and a hamper of food, think homemade bread, local olives and cheese, as well as breakfast, housekeeping and experiences, which include welcome and farewell dinners, a wine-tasting on the estate, a cooking class with an Italian chef and a photography session, as well as private return airport transfers.

Ranging from five to 10 bedrooms, the estates have amenities such as pools, outdoor kitchens, gyms, wine cellars and a concierge who can book restaurants and private chefs, and arrange car rentals and spa appointments. —NYT

STORIES AND TRENDS FROM INDIA AND AROUND THE WORLD THAT CAUGHT OUR FANCY

The month of pride

Globally, this month will see a powerful celebration of identity, love, and equality

VAISHALI DAR

TO COMMEMORATE JUNE 1969 Stonewall riots in New York's Christopher Street, a pivotal moment in the LGBTQ+ rights movement, Pride month marks global celebrations across the world. As the riots sparked by a police raid on the Stonewall Inn, a gay bar, galvanised the LGBTQ+ community and led to the first pride marches and protests the following year, even today, hundreds of LGBTQ rallies, events, parade marches, seminars, parties, after-parties in cities across the world are planned in June.

For instance, the 50th anniversary of pride celebrations in Washington DC this year starts at a crucial time, bringing together voices from around the world to support the LGBTQ+ community's ongoing fight for equality, visibility, and justice. Washington DC's WorldPride 2025 will feature an all-star celebrity artiste line-up including pop icon Shakira, Jennifer Lopez, Troye Sivan, RuPaul, Doechii, Cynthia Erivo, Paris Hilton and more, who will perform at the two-day music festival.

In Los Angeles, a pride parade and festival is being organised on June 8, while San Francisco Pride is happening June 28-29 with the theme being 'Queer Joy Is Resistance'.

What's new? The Frankfurt Pride or the Christopher Street Day (CSD) in Frankfurt is moving from its traditional location at Konstablerwache to the banks of the Main river in Frankfurt because of the newly available open area at the riverbank which will provide more open seating, rest areas, and tree shade in the hot July sun. The event is planned between July 17 and 20 which will see celebrations and cultural highlights like the CSD Frankfurt cinema evenings with film screenings that will address important issues facing the LGBTIQ+ community; A diverse stage programme with music, speeches, and plenty of space for community celebration and demonstration. New York City Pride will be held with a week of events capped off by a rally and a march that draws around 25,000 marchers and two million spectators to Manhattan.

Chicago Pride Fest is a two-day street festival, featuring live music, space for teens, best of Chicago drag performance, the Proud Pet Parade with prizes, dance exhibitions, Chicago Gay Men's Chorus, speakers and over 150 food and merchandise vendors, all set for June 29. The parade through Boystown, (now Northalsted) in Chicago's East Lakeview, one of the Midwest's largest LGBT communities, will be full of floats, dancers, and community groups, followed by live music and food vendors. Amsterdam Pride, also known as Pride Amsterdam, is a citywide LGBTQ+ festival held annually in Amsterdam, Netherlands. It takes place during the first weekend of August and attracts hundreds of thousands of visitors. The event is known for its Canal Parade, a vibrant spectacle with decorated boats, and various street parties. It's a prominent feature in the city where decorated boats parade through the city's canals, various street parties and events are held.

Lisbon in Portugal is gearing up for a show from June 14-22. The day is celebrated with a huge parade through Lisbon's historic Alfama and Bairro Alto districts, along with human rights conferences, art exhibitions, and live performances, along with workshops, film screenings, and discussions and lively nightlife events in Lisbon's gay-friendly bars.

Madrid Pride, also known as Orgullo Gay, is one of Europe's largest, with over a million attendees showing up each year since its inception in 1979. The celebrations begin on June 28 and go up to July 5. It hosts one of the world's largest parades which goes through famous streets like Gran Vía, with floats, dancers, and live music creating an electric atmosphere. Chueca, Madrid's gay village, hosts concerts, drag shows, and street parties, making it a week-long fiesta.

Having started in 1972 to commemorate the Stonewall Riots, London's parade typically features over 600 LGBTQ+ community groups and thousands of participants at the parade which is being held on July 5. The parade starts at Trafalgar Square and ends up at Hyde Park in the middle of London, with live music, drag performances, and food stalls.

The mood is upbeat with rallies, a diverse lineup of speakers and performers that include comedians like Alan Carr, celebrities like Dame Kelly Holmes and Anna Richardson, and activists like Laila El Metoui, alongside community workshops, and events in Soho's gay bars, as well as family-friendly activities in city parks.

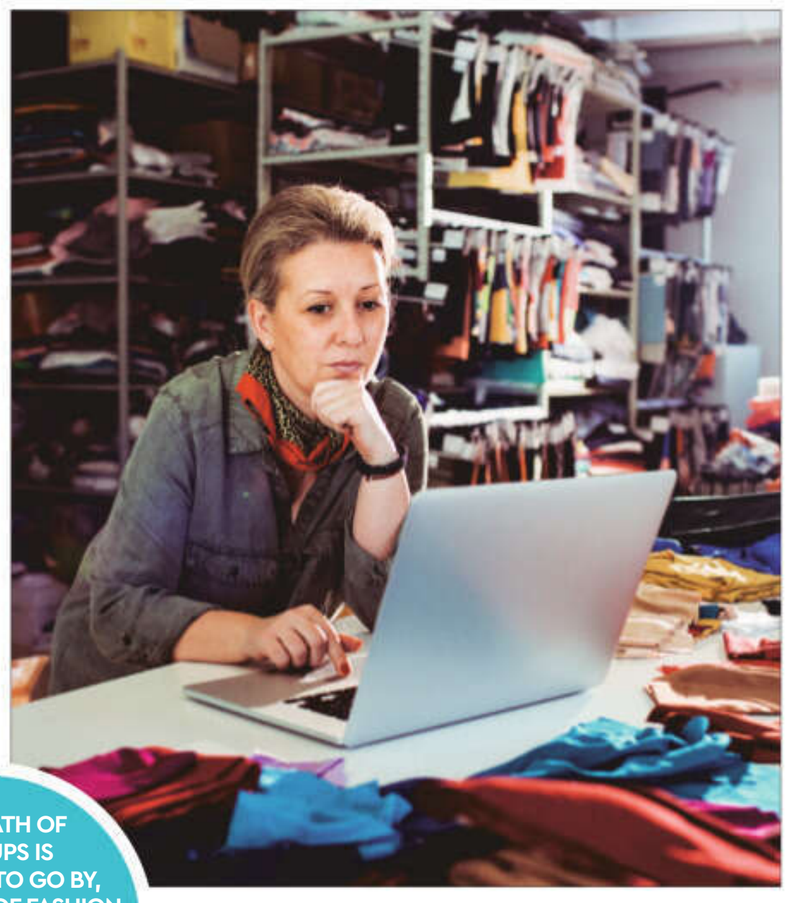

Famous for its vibrant nightlife, especially in Schöneberg with many themed parties, film festivals, art installations, and discussions on trans and queer rights, Berlin in Germany will have its celebrations on July 20. Some wild after-parties dominate the scene, creating a lively, sun-soaked atmosphere.

How Indian climate tech startups are making fashion sustainable

REWATI KARAN

INDIA'S FASHION INDUSTRY, one of the world's biggest textile producers, is getting a reality check. The formerly resource-hungry, high-waste sector is experiencing the arrival of a new type of disruptor: climate tech startups fuelled by AI, which are redefining the way fashion is designed, manufactured, and distributed. From tracking emissions to forecasting waste, startups like GreenStitch, ZYOD, and Stylumia are leading the charge to sustainability with algorithms rather than sewing kits. Their mission is clear: make fashion climate-smart without denting style, speed, or scale. Take a look at these startups which are leveraging AI to make fashion sustainable:

GreenStitch: Targeting carbon crisis

In 2023, GreenStitch was founded by entrepreneurs Narendra Makwana (CEO) and Arpit Samdani (CTO) in Bengaluru to tackle one of the fashion world's biggest challenges: Scope 3 emissions. These are indirect, upstream emissions from textile manufacturing, dyeing, and international supply chains that contribute to almost 90% of a brand's overall carbon footprint, yet remain unmeasured and unregulated. "At GreenStitch, we are bringing radical visibility to the fashion supply chain," Narendra Makwana, co-founder and CEO, tells FE. "Up to 75% of a fashion brand's emissions come from upstream processes like material production, dyeing, and logistics, yet these often go unmeasured." GreenStitch employs AI to map multi-level, complex supplier networks that tend to be geographically dispersed. "Since 2023, we have enabled brands to track more than 20 million metric tonne of CO2e through these unseen phases, blind spots into data-led climate action," Makwana adds.

The firm states that its AI engine suggests customised interventions such as changing to lower-impact materials, converting to demand-based production, streamlining shipping routes, assisting brands in lowering emissions in real time. Supported by $1.2 million in seed capital provided by Equirus InnovateX Fund, IvyCap Ventures, Zeca Ventures, and Warmup Ventures, GreenStitch is expanding globally, including in India, Southeast Asia, and Europe.

IF THE PATH OF STARTUPS IS ANYTHING TO GO BY, THE FUTURE OF FASHION WILL BE SMARTER, CLEANER, AND STRONGER BECAUSE AI MAKES IT SO

ZYOD: Curbing overproduction

Gurugram-headquartered ZYOD is fighting another side of fashion's sustainability battle: excessive overproduction. Started in 2023 by Ankit Jaipuria and Ritesh Khandelwal, ZYOD is developing an AI-driven backend for fashion businesses globally, providing design-to-delivery solutions that are not just fast but also environmentally friendly. "Fast fashion needs a dynamic production strategy, one the traditional supply chain cannot deliver," Jaipuria has been reported to say. "ZYOD was established in order to provide that needed quickness to fashion manufacturing." ZYOD's AI engine processes real-time fashion trends, past demand, and sales history to enable brands to make only what shoppers will actually purchase. Their computerised manufacturing system shortens lead time, minimises the use of resources, and facilitates lower minimum order quantities, making fashion scalable, sustainable, and economically feasible for both large-scale brands and individual designers.

Stylumia: Cutting fashion waste

Started in 2015 by former Myntra executive Ganesh Subramanian, Stylumia is a tech-first technology that takes sustainability upstream and to the design board. "We realised conventional forecasting does not address the core problem in fashion, of trend detection and forecast," Subramanian has been reported to say. "The most waste in the fashion world is driven due to uninformed decision-making." Stylumia applies AI and machine learning to analyse millions of real-time data points such as social media trends, consumer behaviour, and store sales to forecast what styles and stock keeping units will actually sell. It enables brands to create smarter inventories and prevent overproduction, estimated to represent up to 30% of all produced garments worldwide. Stylumia asserts that its technologies have decreased waste across the industry by more than 60 million items of clothing a year, a significant chip in fashion's landfill issue.

Why AI is the fashion-friendly?

What ties GreenStitch, ZYOD, and Stylumia together is a conviction that action on climate needs to be grounded in data. The fashion world, which has been criticised for lack of transparency and excess consumption, is finally receiving a tech boost, one that promises transparency, accountability, and efficiency. GreenStitch says Scope 3 is not only the most difficult hurdle, but also the greatest possibility for real climate influence, further stating, "AI provides them with the means to go from estimates to acting upon actual, precise, and actionable data." If the path of startups such as GreenStitch, ZYOD, and Stylumia is anything to go by, the future decade of fashion will be smarter, cleaner, and stronger because artificial intelligence makes it so.

THE AI TRACKER

AI-generated Trump video dupes people, India's first AI blood test, new features for shopping, weather forecasting, reducing medical error, AI Mode in Google search... here's what's happening on the AI front lately By Rewati Karan

Trump AI video duping people

In a sophisticated cyber scam, over 200 people across Karnataka, mainly in Bengaluru, Tumakuru, Mangaluru, and Haveri, were duped of more than ₹2 crore through an AI-generated video of Donald Trump promoting fake investments in Trump Hotel rentals. Victims, lured by promises of high returns and work-from-home tasks, were first asked to pay ₹1,500 to create accounts. They were shown fake earnings on an app to gain trust, prompting larger investments. One Haveri-based advocate lost nearly ₹6 lakh before realising the fraud. Police are investigating.

Shopping magic

Google Cloud and Myntra have teamed up to launch 'Dream Room Inspirations,' an AI-powered tool that lets users visualise personalised home decor using text prompts. Powered by Google's Imagen 3 model on Vertex AI, the feature enables furniture shoppers to generate images of rooms that match their desired aesthetic, making interior design more accessible and interactive. The tool is part of Myntra's push to enhance customer engagement through immersive, generative AI experiences, offering shoppers inspiration and clarity while choosing home decor, all from the convenience of a simple text-based input.

Amazon's audio feature

Amazon is testing a generative AI-powered audio feature that offers short-form product summaries through the "hear the highlights" button on select product pages in its shopping app. These AI-generated audio clips synthesise product details, reviews, and web data into conversational, easy-to-digest summaries, helping customers save time and shop on the go. Initially rolled out to select US users, the feature is designed for products that require more consideration. It builds on Amazon's broader AI ecosystem, including tools like Rufus, Shopping Guides and Review Highlights, which the e-comm platform says are all aimed at making shopping experience faster, smarter, and more personalised through conversational technology.

Power hungry

Artificial intelligence could consume nearly half of all data centre electricity by the end of 2025, as per new analysis by tech sustainability expert and founder of the Digiconomist tech sustainability website Alex de Vries-Gao. Published in Joule, the study highlights how energy-hungry AI chips, particularly from Nvidia and AMD, are driving soaring demand. The International Energy Agency also predicts AI systems may soon match Japan's current energy usage. While advances in chip efficiency and geopolitical constraints could slow growth, rising demand for "sovereign AI" and ventures like OpenAI's Stargate risk deepening fossil fuel dependence. Experts call for greater transparency in AI's energy impact, warning of growing environmental concerns.

Blood test sans needles

India's first AI-powered blood test, Quick Vitals, is transforming diagnostics by offering needle-free results in under 20 seconds via facial scans. Using photoplethysmography, the app measures haemoglobin, blood pressure, heart rate, and more, making it ideal for mass screenings. First launched at Hyderabad's Niloufer Hospital, it is now expanding to Maharashtra and remote regions. Experts say the app's speed, affordability, and accuracy within WHO standards could revolutionise community healthcare. A clinical trial on 1,000 children aims to validate its use for early diagnostics nationwide.

Google's 'AI Mode' in search

At its 2025 I/O conference, Google unveiled "AI Mode", marking a leap in reshaping internet search with conversational, expert-like interactions. Powered by its Gemini 2.5 model, AI Mode is now available to US users, alongside previews of tools that book tickets, interpret live video, and integrate with Gmail. While enhancing user satisfaction, AI Overviews have reduced click-throughs to other websites by nearly 30%, raising concerns for web publishers. Google is also re-entering the smart glasses market with AI-powered spectacles. As AI alternatives grow, Google asserts its dominance, receiving 136 billion monthly visits, far outpacing ChatGPT, and betting big on a future led by AI.

Medical error check

Medical errors, particularly medication mistakes, remain a critical threat to patient safety. More than 138 million patients are harmed every year by doctors' errors, the World Health Organization (WHO) warned in 2022. In the same year, in India, research from the National Library of Medicine, showed an alarming annual incidence rate of up to 5.2 million cases related to medical malpractice across various healthcare settings in India. As per a report, it injures 1.3 million Americans annually. At UW Medicine in Seattle, nurse anesthetist John Wiederspan and anaesthesiologist Dr Kelly Michaelsen are pioneering AI-powered smart eyewear that scans and verifies drug labels in real time to prevent deadly vial swap errors. Their system, boasting 99.6% accuracy in simulated settings, promises to reduce mistakes without adding to clinicians' cognitive load. While experts urge caution about privacy and over-reliance on AI, the technology's potential to save lives and ease pressure in high-stress medical environments marks a hopeful advance in healthcare safety.

Microsoft's Aurora & weather forecasting

Microsoft's new AI weather model Aurora is making waves in forecasting by delivering accurate 10-day predictions within seconds. Trained on physics-based models and massive Earth system datasets, Aurora's flexibility extends beyond weather to areas like air pollution and renewable energy markets. Already in use at a major European weather centre, it showcases the growing shift toward AI-powered forecasting. While faster and more adaptable than traditional models, Aurora still needs human oversight and physical data grounding. Experts remain optimistic but cautious, citing challenges like extreme weather prediction and high energy costs.

Man Utd – now a pale shadow of a giant

RINGSIDE VIEW

Tushar Bhaduri

MANCHESTER UNITED LOST to an ASEAN All-Star XI on their trip to South-East Asia, and manager Ruben Amorim was of the opinion that the booing they received from the large crowd in Kuala Lumpur would have done his players some good.

Whether one considers this sojourn a pre-season or post-season (the UEFA Champions League final was yet to be played), it showed the fall the 20-time English champions have suffered over the last dozen years since a certain Alex Ferguson stepped down as the man in charge.

"The boos from the fans, I think it's something that we need maybe because every game that we lost in the Premier League, they were always there (cheering us)," their Portuguese manager said after the exhibition match. "So, it's like the way of playing, if they see that it's not working, they will change the way they behave."

Though Manchester United managed to win their second match of the tour 3-1 (after trailing 0-1 at half-time to Hong Kong), it did little to brighten the mood around the club.

Forced to board the plane just a couple of days after the end of the Premier League season — which, by general consensus, was their worst campaign in more than half a century — and within a week of losing the UEFA Europa League final to Tottenham Hotspur, it was evident that it was a trip mandated by sponsors and commercial considerations, rather than any team-building requirements. Another trip, to the United States, is scheduled for July.

It was evident from the fact that three of their players were off to the airport for a day-long sponsor-driven marketing trip to Mumbai as the team was being given a rude response in the Malaysian capital — an eye-opener as fans in that part of the world are more star-struck about Premier League clubs than in most places in the world. Even though the Bukut Jalil Stadium saw a sizable crowd, the enthusiasm was nothing compared to the frenzy seen in 2009 when Manchester United last visited Malaysia.

That team had the likes of Ryan Giggs, Wayne Rooney and Michael Owen, but the current lot of fans wonder why they have to keep supporting a club that's not winning anything.

A lot gone wrong

Though results on the pitch haven't been great, it's not the only area that has prompted frowns among traditional supporters. Downsizing in non-playing personnel and closing the staff canteen at both Old Trafford and the club's Carrington training ground, replacing free meals with soup/bread — ostensibly as cost-cutting measures — hasn't made the narrative around the team any more positive.

Amorim may have described the players at his disposal as the "worst" Manchester United team ever – and the side that finished 15th in the Premier League could have been in serious relegation trouble had the clubs that did go down been any better – it's not only on the pitch that co-owner Jim Ratcliffe has to turn things around.

It's evident that Manchester United may still be a big club, with all the history and tradition, but it certainly is not a big team at the moment. A lot of pedigreed managers have tried their hand since the days of Ferguson, but have not added to their Premier League title count. The likes of Louis van Gaal and Jose Mourinho have been the two biggest names in charge, but expectations around Old Trafford have gone down to such an extent that the Portuguese handler considers the second place the club finished at during his stint among his finest achievements.

As things stand, Manchester City and Liverpool have advanced almost out of sight of United. Arsenal haven't been Premier League winners for more than two decades now, but with three back-to-back runners-up finishes, Mikel Arteta's team is at least consistent. United will be without any European football next season, only the second such occasion in the last 35 years, and ironically, some believe it could be the start of a revival as the club would be able to focus all its energies on the domestic front. For a start, it would force the club to slash its wage bill by offloading some players, especially the underperforming ones who are not justifying the expenditure on the pitch.

But missing out on the European high table – in this case, the UEFA Champions League – comes at a cost, Ratcliffe putting it between 80 to 100 million pounds. Not only do they not get the substantial bonus, but it's difficult to attract top players to the club. That they missed out this season despite the Premier League getting an additional slot, and also failed to get through the back door of the second-tier Europa League, may rankle a few. In fact, Tottenham, the club that made it to the Champions League at United's expense, finished just above the relegation zone. But supporters have got used to this situation – 2025-26 will be the sixth season in the past 13 that this has happened. This would prompt the sort of measures in the name of balancing the books that leave a bad taste in the mouth.

Hard yards ahead

It may be some time before Manchester United get back to the top of the English game. They are way off the pace of the title-chasers and if recent evidence is anything to go by, the likes of Aston Villa and Nottingham Forest – much smaller clubs with much less financial muscle – are knocking on the doors of the Champions League.

There was a time when a Manchester United manager, players and even fans would consider appearing in the Europa League almost beneath themselves, and almost second-string sides would be fielded. What would they think of the current situation when there's even a third tier of European club football, and they can't get in any of them?

The history of sport, and football in particular, is replete with empires built and demolished. The Italian aristocracy, represented by the likes of AC Milan and Juventus, fell by the wayside and haven't fully re-emerged. Inter Milan has only recently regained a bit of prestige for Serie A. Nobody has a divine right to perennial success. Manchester United was, for a long time, the torch-bearer of English football, before others took over. Everything works in cycles. But the hallowed club, with a footprint around the world, needs to get its act together – on the pitch and the touchline, and also in the boardroom. The decision-makers have to focus on the bottom line – and not just the financial one.

US President Donald Trump at the White House REUTERS

That's the way the cookie crumbles

IN OCTOBER 2024, Candidate Donald Trump said in an interview, "Prime Minister Modi is the nicest human being and a total killer." Visiting President Donald Trump in February 2025, Mr Modi said "our vision for a developed India is to Make India Great Again or MIGA. When America and India work together, that is when it is MAGA plus MIGA, it becomes MEGA — a mega partnership for prosperity." The two leaders exhibited the gravitas of brash school boys. Where are the dosti and bonhomie?

The rude shock

I gather that Mr Modi and Mr Trump have not spoken to each other since May 7, 2025. The most that we know is that Vice-President J D Vance and Secretary of State Marco Rubio spoke to Mr Modi on the night of May 9 and urged him to stop the war. Mr Trump alluded to such conversation(s) when he posted on Truth Social that "After a long night of talks mediated by the United States, I am pleased to announce that India and Pakistan have agreed to a full and immediate ceasefire." That announcement at 5.25 pm on May 10 rudely awakened Indians to the reality.

Mr Trump was not bluffing. The cease-fire had been agreed at 3.35 pm and had come into effect at 5.00 pm on May 10, 2025. An unsmiling Foreign Secretary confirmed the facts at 6 pm. I think it is important to explore more deeply how America claimed that it had mediated (if not muscled) a ceasefire, and why. There are many plausible reasons:

The China factor

- Vice-President Vance conveyed 'alarming intel' to Mr Modi on the evening of May 9. The alarming intel could only have been the threat of use of nuclear weapons by Pakistan or the role of China. Both the prime minister and the defence minister have said India will not submit to 'nuclear blackmail': why was that phrase used if there was no such threat?
- On the role of China, it is absolutely clear that China had allowed Pakistan to use Chinese aircraft (J-10) and Chinese missiles (PL-15). They could not have been used without Chinese inputs and Chinese presence in Pakistan Air Force's Command Centres. (India neutralised them and repulsed the attacks.)
- Two websites — india.com and defencexp.com — have carried reports that Colonel-rank Pakistan Army officers had been posted in Chinese PLA's Western and Southern Theatre Commands and in the Joint Staff Command of the Central Military Commission. Chinese battlefield guidance was obviously in play.
- Pakistan claimed that it had used China-made hypersonic missiles to target India's S-400 air defence system. China's official news agency Xinhua described it as the 'dawn of a new era in warfare'. (At Adampur airbase, the air defence system was intact.)

Look at the four-day war and its twisted course. On May 7, India entered the era of algorithm-driven wars. No soldier crossed the land border or Line of Control. No aircraft entered the rival's airspace. The main weapons were missiles and armed drones. India had the first-mover advantage and punished Pakistan severely between May 7 and 9. At that moment of triumph, Mr Trump intervened to end the war. He cast aside his friendship with the 'nicest human being' and bullied India to stop the war. Brushing aside India's discreet protests, Mr Trump publicly claimed during his visits to Saudi Arabia and Qatar that it was his mediation and the threat of 'no trade' that brought the war to an end.

Transactional Mr Trump

It is becoming clearer by the day that the Trump family's commercial interests were the moving force behind Mr Trump's intervention. The Trump family's crypto currency firm, World Liberty Financial (WLF), had negotiated with Pakistan, met Pakistan's prime minister and army chief, and signed a deal with Pakistan Crypto Council on April 26 — barely four days after the Pahalgam terror attack. As the war intensified, Mr Trump abandoned his initial 'hands off' approach. Frenetic activity began after May 7 and concluded with Mr Trump having the last word, as he claimed.

Despite the dosti, America deported Indian 'illegal' immigrants in handcuffs and leg chains. Not a word of protest from the prime minister. Steep tariffs were imposed on imports from India; not a word. The US voted in favour of IMF's loan to Pakistan; not a word. Foreign students, including Indians, were barred from Harvard University; not a word. Indian students face the threat of revocation of their visas; not a word. Student visa interviews have been suspended; not a word. The dosti lies in a shambles.

The Prime Minister of India is no longer dealing with the President of the United States. Mr Modi is dealing with the head of a family that owns the multi-million dollar WLF which has concluded a commercial deal with Pakistan. He is dealing with a businessperson who will not hesitate to use the cloak, armour, resources and power of POTUS.

Despite the political support within India to Operation Sindoor and despite his strong words, Mr Modi is truly stumped by the behaviour of Mr Trump. Pakistan is no longer a push over: it has China's military support and America's diplomatic support. India has to go back to the drawing board to re-draw its military strategy. India has also to go back to the drawing board to re-draw its America policy.

INSIDE TRACK

COOMI KAPOOR

Pak's PR plus

Pakistan Crypto Council CEO Bilal bin Saqib is modest in claiming that Pakistan is a victim of bad PR. His country has an old tradition of outdoing India in the hospitality sector for influential state guests. For decades, Indian ambassadors have complained about their pitiful entertainment allowances compared to the lavish budgets of their Pakistani counterparts. The Pakistanis leave no stone unturned in entertaining VVIP foreign guests, from commandeering heritage monuments for throwing dinners to organising falconry and hunting parties of protected species for Middle East royalty. The Pakistani intelligentsia with aristocratic bloodlines and Oxbridge backgrounds have significant clout in Western liberal circles, including think tanks, NGOs, universities and diplomatic parties. Modi's India, painted by Pakistan as an illiberal democracy encouraging Hindutva zealots, is not a favourite in such company. (Ironically, during Operation Sindoor dissenting views within India reflected its plurality, while the Pakistani intelligentsia spoke in one voice while backing its military dictatorship against terror sponsorship charges).

One biased American legacy newspaper judged the military success of the two countries in the four-day war at par, even while displaying satellite imagery demonstrating extensive damage to Pakistani air bases and displaying no evidentiary proof of major destruction on the Indian side. In a bid to counter false propaganda, a senior official recently gave Indian MPs on the diplomatic outreach tours a breakdown of the relatively minor Indian losses. Realisation has dawned that in the absence of official information, Pakistani, Turkish and Chinese WhatsApp messages went to town spreading misinformation.

Trump card

When Trump was elected, we assumed that he had a soft corner for India as a counter to China, particularly as some key Trump appointees have India ties. But his recent statements on India appear rather unfriendly, possibly because India, unlike Pakistan, is unwilling to give Trump credit for brokering a ceasefire and accepting tariff rates as a bargaining chip. The Modi government has finalised at great expense a former Trump aide as a lobbyist for India. Pakistan has a different strategy. In January, Donald Trump Junior's college friend and hunting buddy Gentry Beach was hosted by the Pakistan PM in both Islamabad and Dubai, and was reportedly promised lucrative deals for the Trump business empire. Beach also visited Bangladesh and Turkey. Just after the April 22 terrorist attack, Pakistan signed a crypto deal with World Liberty Financial, a crypto currency firm in which the Trump family has a major stake. Apart from Trump's mercurial temperament and business interests, another reason for the slight trust deficit in Indo-US relations is that Trump has yet to appoint key officials to liaise with India. A US ambassador to India has not been named. The post of US Assistant Secretary of State for South and Central Asia is vacant. Ricky Gill, a relatively junior officer in the National Security Council, is presently the only White House official directly dealing with India.

Pawar point politics

Supriya Sule's appointment as the head of one of India's diplomatic outreach teams and her recent meeting with PM Modi is significant. Sule was always the stumbling block in the NCP aligning with the BJP. Even when Ajit Pawar and most of the party defected, Sule persuaded Sharad Pawar to stay back. Pawar Senior desires a Cabinet berth for his daughter at the Centre. Modi would welcome the support of Pawar's 8 MPs. He realises Pawar's few MLAs are keen to join the government since they complain that their constituencies are starved of central funding because they are in the Opposition. In a new twist, Ajit no longer wants his uncle's NCP to merge with his wing of the party. Ajit's wife is still smarting from her defeat to Sule in the Baramati Lok Sabha poll. A pragmatic solution to get around Ajit's opposition is for Pawar's NCP to join the NDA directly. The BJP is treading cautiously since Sule has a history of persuading her father to run from the altar just when the marriage is about to be formalised.

Double asset

Shashi Tharoor's selection as head of one of the parliamentary teams to present India's case on the war on terrorism is masterful on two counts. Tharoor, who met Prime Minister Modi before his foreign tours, is the most seasoned, skilled and well-networked diplomat in the group, and is already making waves. Congresspersons sourly question his motives in unequivocally applauding the Modi government. Tharoor confessed to a friend it is one thing to be ignored by Rahul Gandhi, but when the entire Congress unit in Kerala, taking its cue from K C Venugopal, gives him the short shrift, what future does he have in the party?

The power of dairy: Nourishing India, empowering the world

BRAHMANI NARA

AS WE RAISE a glass of milk this World Milk Day, let us celebrate not just a beverage but a symbol of purity, strength and sustenance. Dairy is more than a food group - it is a force that fuels our nation's health, empowers our farmers, and drives our economy forward. India, the world's largest milk producer, stands tall with pride, contributing nearly 24% of global milk output. This is not just a statistic — it is a testament to the resilience, innovation, and unity of our dairy ecosystem.

A revolution rooted in the soil

India produces over 230 million metric tonne of milk annually, with a per capita availability of 459 grams per day, far exceeding the global average of 322 grams. This success is deeply intertwined with our agricultural journey. While the Green Revolution transformed crop production, it was the White Revolution, spearheaded by Dr Verghese Kurien, that truly empowered rural India. Dairy became a lifeline for millions, especially women, offering daily income and economic independence. Today, it is the largest agricultural commodity in India, contributing nearly 5% to the national GDP and directly supporting the livelihoods of over eight crore Indians, a majority of whom are women.

Role in national nutrition

Milk is often called nature's perfect food, and for a good reason. It is a rich source of calcium, protein, Vitamin D, Vitamin B12, and potassium, making it essential for bone health, muscle development and immune function.

In a country where hidden hunger or micronutrient deficiency affects millions, especially children, dairy plays a critical role. According to a national health survey, over 35% of children under five in India are stunted, and over 30% are underweight. Regular milk consumption has been shown to reduce these deficiencies, particularly in early childhood, when nutrition has a lifelong impact. The dairy industry has also evolved to meet changing consumer preferences. From traditional staples like milk, butter and ghee, the market now offers a wide range of value-added products — fortified milk, curd, paneer, cheese, Indian sweets, yogurt and probiotic drinks-catering to diverse nutritional and lifestyle needs.

With nearly 50% of the population identifying as vegetarian, and many more as flexitarians, dairy is a crucial source of high-quality protein and essential nutrients. For millions, milk is not just a dietary choice; it is a cultural staple, a symbol of purity and a daily ritual. Moreover, dairy has long been associated with strength and vitality. From school children to Olympic athletes, milk has powered generations. It supports muscle recovery, hydration, and bone health, making it an ideal food for active lifestyles.

Clean, safe & transparent

In an age of rising health consciousness, dairy stands out as a natural, minimally processed, and nutrient rich food. Organised dairies follow stringent protocols — pasteurisation, cold chain logistics, and hygienic packaging — to ensure milk reaches consumers in its purest form. As awareness grows about the risks of ultra-processed foods, fresh dairy products offer a compelling alternative. Dairy is among the cleanest label food groups, free from preservatives and additives, and regulated to maintain its natural integrity.

However, challenges persist. Adulteration and counterfeit products, especially in milk, ghee, and paneer, threaten consumer trust. In response, both private and cooperative dairies have launched consumer awareness campaigns and adopted clean labelling practices. Stricter enforcement and a collective commitment to purity are essential to protect the industry's reputation.

Power of dairy

With rising demand abroad, there is immense potential for exports of value-added products, especially beyond traditional diaspora markets. It is time for India to introduce a global dairy brand that competes with the best. We must focus on quality, innovation, and premium experiences, from organic dairy to artisanal cheese and butter in order to achieve this. The world is ready for India's dairy story. This World Milk Day, let us not only celebrate our achievements but also reaffirm our commitment to the future. Let us honour the farmers who rise before dawn, the scientists who innovate, the entrepreneurs who invest, and the consumers who believe in the power of dairy.

Dairy is more than a commodity. It is a movement of nourishment, empowerment, and national pride. It connects our villages to our cities, our traditions to our innovations, and our past to our future. Let us celebrate the cleanest label in food, the most inclusive industry in agriculture, and the most powerful symbol of health and hope. Here's to milk. Here's to dairy. Here's to India.

Fires spread through the Brasília National Park during the dry season last September in Brazil NYT

Global forest loss hit a record last year as fires raged

Forests disappeared at a rate of 18 soccer fields every minute

HIROKO TABUCHI & HARRY STEVENS

THE PLANET LOST a record amount of forests last year, driven by fires that raged around the world, data shows.

Loss of pristine rainforests alone reached 6.7 million hectares in 2024, nearly twice as much as in 2023, researchers at the University of Maryland and the World Resources Institute said.

The world lost the equivalent of 18 soccer fields of forested land every minute.

For the first time since record-keeping began, fires, not agriculture, were the leading cause of rainforest loss, accounting for nearly half of all destruction. Those fires emitted 4.1 gigatons of planet-warming greenhouse gases, which is more than four times the emissions from air travel in 2023. Still, land clearing for agriculture, cattle farming and other causes rose by 14%, the sharpest increase in almost a decade.

"If this trend continues, it could permanently transform critical natural areas and unleash large amounts of carbon, intensifying climate change and fuelling even more extreme fires," Peter Potapov, the co-director of the Global Land Analysis and Discovery Lab at the University of Maryland, said.

Forests do a lot of work to store carbon dioxide. Globally, forests are thought to absorb from the atmosphere more than a quarter of the carbon emissions from human activities every year.

Brazil, which has the largest area of tropical forest, accounted for 42% of all tropical primary forest loss in 2024, the data showed. Fires fuelled by the worst drought on record caused 66% of that loss, a more than sixfold increase from 2023. In Bolivia, forest loss nearly tripled, as fires initially set to clear land for agriculture turned into huge wildfires because of the heavy drought.

The Democratic Republic of Congo and the Republic of Congo also saw their highest levels of forest loss on record, driven by unusually hot and dry conditions. Land clearing in the DRC has been driven by poverty and a deep reliance on forests for food and energy, as well as ongoing conflict and instability, said Teodyl Nkuintchua of the World Resources Institute Africa.

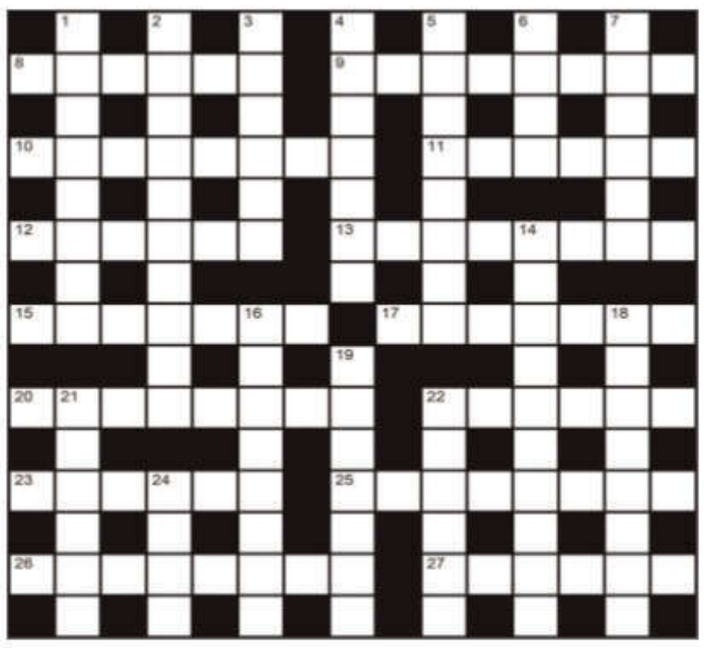

In 2021, more than 140 countries agreed to halt and reverse global forest loss by 2030. But of the 20 countries with the largest area of primary forests, 17 have higher losses today than when the agreement was signed. Some forests showed improvements over prior years. Primary forest loss in Indonesia fell by 11%, reversing a steady rise between 2021 and 2023. Forest loss also declined 13% in Malaysia. Researchers said efforts to restore the land, like thinning trees or prescribed burning, helped to curb wildfires, even amid widespread droughts.

Dominick Spracklen, professor at Leeds University, said the data showed "an incredibly worrying situation." Tropical forests used to be too wet to burn. But as the climate warmed, and as forests degraded from human activity, they were becoming increasingly at risk of fire, he said.

"Last year showed how dangerous the situation has become," Spracklen said. It also showed how, despite pockets of progress, governments have made little progress toward fighting deforestation.

The rich nations of the world, in particular, had not yet made good on promises to provide financial support for measures to support tropical forests, he said. "The survival of everyone in the world depends on it." - NYT

CONSTRUCTING DECLARER'S HAND

A good defender tries to form a picture of declarer's likely hand from the bidding and arrives at the number of tricks declarer has, once the dummy hits the table. Take the west seat in today's deal from a match-point event.

Dlr: South
Vul: None

S J T 5	W	N	E	S
H K Q 8 5	— -	— -	—	1H
D 7 6 4 3	2D	3H	pass	4H
C A 8	All pass

S Q 6 3
H 7 2
D A K Q J 8 5
C 5 2

N

Contract: 4H by south. You lead the DA, partner, following with the nine and declarer, the ten. Plan your defence.

Analysis: Since he has raised his partner's invitation to game, declarer is more likely to be singleton in your suit. With trumps 2-2, you can see declarer has an easy passage for ten tricks. If it is so, he is likely to be 4-5-1-3 or 3-5-1-4. If he has A-K-x-x in spades, he will ruff the diamond continuation, draw trumps, and take the spade finesse against the queen and claim an overtrick, pitching the club loser on the thirteenth spade. So, you should shift to a club through the ace; thereby stopping the overtrick. The complete hands were:

S J T 5
H K Q 8 5
D 7 6 4 3
C A 8

S Q 6 3
H 7 2
D A K Q J 8 5
C 5 2

S

S 9 8 2
H J 3
D 9 2
C K Q T 9 6 3

S A K 7 4
H A T 9 6 4
D T
C J 7 4

Discussion: Though south was minimum for his opening, he has ace-fifth in trumps and A-K fourth in spades, and a singleton. Good bidding. If he were 4-5-2-2, the sensible thing to do for south would be to pass 3H and not accept the invitation.
Limiting declarer to ten tricks gets you 27% score. Why so less, you may ask? Because most south chose to pass 3H!
If you mechanically try to cash a second diamond trick, you would have allowed an overtrick and would have resulted in 5% of the match-points!
Defence is not as difficult as it is made out to be. If you take the trouble of working from first principles, you will find it to be fairly simple, enjoyable, and rewarding.

UNITED STATES AT SHANGRI-LA DIALOGUE

Will stand by Indo-Pacific allies against China: Def secy

Threat China poses is imminent, says US official

ASSOCIATED PRESS
Singapore, May 31

US DEFENSE SECRETARY Pete Hegseth reassured allies in the Indo-Pacific on Saturday that they will not be left alone to face increasing military and economic pressure from China, while insisting that they also contribute more to their own defence.

He said Washington will bolster its defences overseas to counter what the Pentagon sees as rapidly developing threats by Beijing, particularly in its aggressive stance toward Taiwan. China has conducted numerous exercises to test what a blockade would look like of the self-governing island, which Beijing claims as its own and the US has pledged to defend.

China's army "is rehearsing for the real deal," Hegseth said in a keynote speech at a security conference in Singapore. "We are not going to sugarcoat it — the threat China poses is real. And it could be imminent." Hegseth says China is training to invade Taiwan.

China has a stated goal of having its military have the capability to take Taiwan by force if necessary by 2027, a deadline that is seen by experts as more of an aspirational goal than a hard war deadline.

But China also has built sophisticated man-made islands in the South China Sea to support new military outposts and developed highly advanced hypersonic and space capabilities, which are driving the US to create its own space-based "Golden Dome" missile defences.

Speaking at the Shangri-La Dialogue, a global security conference hosted by the International Institute for Security Studies, Hegseth said China is no longer just building up its military forces to take Taiwan, it's "actively training for it, every day." Hegseth also called out China for its ambitions in Latin America, particularly its efforts to increase its influence over the Panama Canal.

He urged countries in the region to increase defense spending to levels similar to the 5% of their gross domestic product European nations are now pressed to contribute. "We must all do our part," Hegseth said.

Trump, Putin hint at trade revival

PRESIDENT DONALD TRUMP has held out the prospect of restoring US-Russia trade if there's ever a peace settlement. "Russia wants to do large-scale TRADE with the United States when this bloodbath is over, and I agree," Trump said after a phone call with Putin.

Trump then shifted his tone toward Putin after heavy drone and missile attacks on Kyiv, saying Putin "has gone absolutely crazy" and threatening new sanctions. Recent comments from Putin reflect that it's not going to be a smooth process for businesses going back into Russia. —AP

Colombia withdraws pro-Pak statement

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
Bogota, May 31

COLOMBIA HAS WITHDRAWN a statement offering condolences to Pakistan for the loss of lives following India's military strikes in response to the Pahalgam attack after an Indian parliamentary delegation explained Islamabad's relentless support to cross-border terrorism.

Congress MP Shashi Tharoor, leading an all-party delegation to the South American country, confirmed Bogota's withdrawal of the controversial statement after meeting vice foreign minister Rosa Yolanda Villavicencio.

In the last two days, the nine-member delegation held a series of meetings with Colombia's senior political brass, apprising India's policy of "zero tolerance for terrorism" and its retaliatory strikes against terror infrastructure on Pakistani soil following the April 22 attack.

"Began today with an excellent meeting with the vice minister of foreign affairs of Colombia, Rosa Yolanda Villavicencio, and her senior colleagues dealing with the Asia-Pacific," Tharoor said, adding, "I expressed India's view of recent events and voiced disappointment at Colombia's statement on 8 May conveying 'heartfelt condolences' to Pakistan."

"The minister assured me that the statement had been withdrawn and that our position was now properly understood and strongly supported."

However, there was no official word from New Delhi on Colombia's position following India's Operation Sindoor and its withdrawal of the statement.

China's May factory activity contracts

CHINA'S FACTORY ACTIVITY contracted in May, according to an official survey, although the decline slowed from April as the country reached a deal with the US to slash President Donald Trump's sky-high tariffs.

China's purchasing managers index rose from 49.0 in April to 49.5 in May, the National Bureau of Statistics said. Meanwhile, the manufacturing index showed growth in the sector, although the index measuring new orders remained under 50 despite some improvement.

National Bureau of Statistics senior statistician Zhao Qinghe said some companies with US business reported accelerated resumption of foreign trade orders, and there was an improvement in import and export conditions.

The US-China deal, reached in May, cuts Trump's tariffs from 145% to 30% for 90 days, creating time for negotiators from both sides to reach a more substantive agreement. —AP

Iran boosts near weapons-grade uranium stock

IRAN HAS INCREASED its stockpile of uranium enriched to near weapons-grade levels, a confidential report by the UN nuclear watchdog said and called on Tehran to urgently change course and comply with the agency's probe. The report comes at a sensitive time as Tehran and Washington have been holding several rounds of talks in the past weeks over a possible nuclear deal that US President Donald Trump is trying to reach.

The International Atomic Energy Agency report says that as of May 17, Iran has amassed 408.6 kg of uranium enriched up to 60%. That's an increase of 133.8 kg, or almost 50%. Iran, on Saturday, dismissed the allegations as "politically motivated and baseless." —AP

The one-man army who saved the tiger — with love and awe

JAY MAZOOMDAAR
New Delhi, May 31

CONSERVATIONIST AND TIGER chronicler Valmik Thapar passed away early this morning after a brave and tough fight with cancer at his Kautilya Marg residence in New Delhi. He was diagnosed with cancer in his digestive tract.

Considered one of the world's foremost authorities on tigers, Thapar inspired generations to rally for the cause of wildlife conservation. A veritable one-man army, he authored over two dozen books mostly on big cats, presented several wildlife documentaries, including the seminal BBC series Land of the Tiger (1997), and remained the loudest and most articulate voice for conservation in India since the 1990s.

With no formal training in wildlife biology or conservation, Thapar developed a deep understanding of tiger behaviour, as he put it, by watching wild tigers in Ranthambhore over five decades. In 1976, it was a chance encounter with Fateh Singh Rathore, then director of Ranthambhore tiger reserve, that had him hooked for life.

Both outspoken and often contrarian, Rathore and Thapar formed an indefatigable partnership that influenced and, often, shaped India's conservation efforts and policies.

Thapar served in multiple apex bodies of the government, including the National Board for Wildlife and the Central Empowered Committee of the Supreme Court. He was also a member of the Tiger Task Force set up to prescribe reforms in the aftermath of the disappearance of tigers from Rajasthan's Sariska in 2005.

That was also the year I started learning the mercurial ways of India's Tigerman. Thapar was warmly supportive of my work in The Indian Express from the day I first reported the total loss of tigers in Rajasthan's Sariska tiger reserve in January 2005. He offered me encouragement, insights and contacts, as the investigative series took me to parks across the country: Ranthambhore, Panna, Kanha, Indrawati, Valmiki and Palamu over the next three months.

VALMIK THAPAR
1952-2025

In May 2005, I reported how Ranthambhore was in shambles despite attracting more money than all other tiger reserves combined. Non-profits, including Thapar's NGO Ranthambhore Foundation, had received a sizeable chunk of those funds. The report appeared in the morning as then PM Manmohan Singh visited Ranthambhore. Thapar was livid over what he said would be his last phone call to me. It was a we-told-you-so moment for a couple of young conservationists who had flagged how often Thapar used to grandly bemoan how he failed to save "his" tigers. "Valmik is in love with his ego," his critics would carp.

Two months later, it was Thapar himself, back at what he loved doing, who would alert me to what he perceived as a "pro-people bias" in the Tiger Task Force report which observed that the tiger "issue is not about the tiger per se... but about rebuilding forest economies."

Thapar's legendary stubbornness, a key shield for his activism, did not come in the way of changing his mind. Inviolate areas are often impractical, he would eventually concede, and "conservation is impossible without community support."

Thapar had set up his Ranthambhore Foundation back in 1987 to work towards integrating local communities into conservation efforts, and also partnered with another non-profit, Dastkar, to create livelihoods for displaced villagers. But Thapar's fight, as he wrote in his 2012 book Tiger My Life, Ranthambhore and Beyond, "was always for inviolate spaces where the tiger could live free, away from noise, away from humans." Post-Sariska, though, reform was in the air and prompted him to look beyond the model of exclusionary conservation.

Around 2006, Thapar's "tiger guru" Fateh Singh Rathore was also warming up to "soft strategies"—such as educating children from traditional hunter communities—pushed by biologist Dharmendra Khandal, who had recently joined Rathore's non-profit TigerWatch. From mostly-stick, the Rathore-Thapar conservation scale started leaning decisively towards mostly-carrot in a matter of years. What did not change was Thapar's inbuilt distrust of the government system, even though he remained an insider most of his life. Perhaps that intimate knowledge led him to observe that "bureaucracy killed more tigers than bullets ever did."

Yet, even Rajesh Gopal, who took heavy flak as then head of Project Tiger from Thapar during the Sariska years, is quick to assert that his adversary was not self-serving. "Valmik really helped the tiger's cause," Gopal said.

Until his last days, Thapar was involved in conservation work. On his first tiger sighting, Thapar once wrote: "It was like shedding one layer of skin and putting on another... The transformation was total." Until his last days, the mere mention of tigers would have the same impact on the man.

No doubt Thapar, like many who become the face of their cause, loved attention, adulation, even himself. He loved tigers more.

Notes:

1. The Company is engaged in the business of IT & ITeS Services, Global Managed Service Provider and Systems Integrator, offering the entire spectrum of infrastructure solutions and services to clients across 70 countries.
2. The above audited standalone financial results have been prepared in the format specified in Division II of Schedule III of Companies Act, 2013 (the "Statement") and are, being submitted by the Company pursuant to the requirements of Regulation 33 of the SEBI (Listing Obligations and Disclosure Requirements) Regulations, 2015, as amended from time to time, amended by the Companies (Indian Accounting Standards) Rules, 2016, prescribed under Section 133 of the Companies Act 2013 ("the Act") read with relevant rules issued thereunder and the other accounting principles generally accepted in India.
3. The above financial results were reviewed by the Audit Committee and approved by the Board of Directors of the Company at their meeting held on May 30, 2025. The statutory auditors have issued modified opinion on the financial results for the quarter and year ended March 31, 2025. The financial results for the quarter and year ended March 31, 2024 were audited by erstwhile statutory auditors.
4. The Company has applied its significant accounting policies in the preparation of these financial results consistent with those followed in the annual financial statements for the year ended March 31, 2024.
5. Certain errors pertaining to prior period balances were identified during the current financial year.These errors have been rectified and accounted in the current financial year. As a result, this has led to non-compliance of requirements of IND-AS 8 "Accounting Policies, Changes in Accounting Estimates and Errors".
6. During the earlier years, the Company had extended a loan to its wholly owned subsidiary, Allied Inc., USA. However, the amount was inadvertently classified under "Investments." This classification error was identified during the current year and the balance has accordingly been reclassified from "Investments" to "Loans and Advances." As a result of this reclassification, a foreign exchange gain of Rs. 5,081 lakh, pertaining to earlier periods, has been recognised in the Statement of Profit and Loss during the current year.
7. During the previous year, the Company did not comply with Ind AS 21 in respect of certain assets and liabilities. 9. An amount of Rs. 693 lakh has been adjusted in the current year on account of short/excess depreciation charged in previous periods. This arose from an incorrect estimation of the useful life of certain fixed assets, which has since been corrected.
10. A loss of Rs. 766 lakh arising from the sale of a fixed asset in earlier years had remained unrecognised due to an error. The same has now been accounted for in the current financial year upon identification and rectification of the omission. "The auditor opinion is modified in respect of these matters.
11. The Company is in the process of reconciling a difference of approximately Rs. 610 lakh between the input tax credit (ITC) available as per the GST portal and the ITC recorded in its books of accounts. This reconciliation is currently underway and will be addressed in due course. The auditor opinion is modified in respect of this matter.
12. The Company has extended interest-free loans to certain companies, resulting in non-compliance with Section 186(7) of the Companies Act, 2013, which stipulates that no loan shall be given at an interest rate lower than the prevailing yield of Government Securities corresponding to the tenor of the loan. The outstanding amount as on March 31, 2025, is ₹11,625 lakhs which includes ₹11,000 lakhs to its wholly owned subsidiairy Allied Inc USA on account of reclassifictaion of investment amount to loan and advances, during the previous year."The management is of the view that no interest has been charged on these loans/advances as they were extended to support the working capital requirements, facilitate further investments, and ensure the liquidity of the respective related party companies. The auditor opinion is modified in respect of this matter.
13. As per Ind AS 108 "Operating Segment", segment shall be diclosed in Consolidated financial results. Hence, no separate disclosure has been given in the standalone financial results of the company.
