Hard Rock Café winds down its India gig

JSM franchise unplugged; 10 outlets to close

AKSHARA SRIVASTAVA
New Delhi, 16 March

Hard Rock International, the company behind the famed Hard Rock Café, announced on Monday that it has terminated its agreement with Indian franchisee JSM Corporation, effectively halting operations at all outlets.

The chain, synonymous with rock music globally, came to India in 2005 with its first outlet in Mumbai's Worli neighbourhood, opened by Sanjay Mahtani and Jay Singh's JSM Corporation. It eventually expanded to major metro cities.

Around 2017, Jay Singh exited the company, making way for Bengaluru-based Embassy Group Managing Director Jitendra Virwani to buy a stake in the firm.

Now, 10 Hard Rock outlets across Bengaluru, Chandigarh, Chennai, Hyderabad, Kolkata, New Delhi, and Pune will shut down.

"However, the Hard Rock Hotel in Goa, which is operated by a different entity, will remain open," Hard Rock International said in a statement. The company did not specify whether the shutdowns would take effect immediately or be phased in over time.

Known for its live music atmosphere and memorabilia associated with rock legends such as Led Zeppelin, Guns N' Roses, and Prince, the brand was launched by two Americans — Isaac Tigrett and Peter Morton — in London in 1971.

"Hard Rock Café leaving India feels like the end of a small cultural pocket," said Sujit Das, an executive at a Mumbai-based creative agency. "I still remember the one on St. Mark's Road in Bengaluru — the guitars and costumes of legends on the walls, the city-specific merchandise, and the unapologetically American food. But more than anything, it was the vibe. A certain kind of crowd, a certain kind of night that now quietly becomes a memory," he added, reminiscing about time spent at the venue.

"Hard Rock was among the few iconic American brands, like Harley-Davidson, that we had heard of while growing up. So to be able to visit it here was a different feeling, especially for people like us who love rock music and grew up listening to it," said a Gurugram-based consultant.

However, many believe the chain has been losing relevance.

"There are too many places like Hard Rock now that have a better lineup of performing bands, better food, and better crowds. It used to be exciting and fun, but it has lost its relevance," the consultant added.

The chain, present in more than 75 countries, has over 315 Hard Rock-branded venues, 37 hotels, and 19 casinos.

Queen Elizabeth's Global Schools turns first page of India chapter in Gurugram

CEO says the UK grammar school brand plans more campuses after its debut

AUHONA MUKHERJEE
New Delhi, 16 March

Queen Elizabeth's Global Schools plans to open more campuses in India after establishing its first one in Gurugram, said Caroline Pendleton-Nash, chief executive officer of Queen Elizabeth's Global Schools.

"We don't have locations yet, but as soon as the Gurugram one opens, we'll be looking for the next one," Pendleton-Nash said.

The Queen Elizabeth's School, Barnet, is set to open the Gurugram campus in August 2026, marking the UK grammar school's entry into India's K-12 education market. The school, being developed with Gedu Global Education, will offer a British curriculum programme and expand in phases as enrolment grows.

While the Barnet, Hertfordshire, campus in the UK is state-funded with zero tuition fees, the Indian campus will charge annual fees starting from ₹7,55 lakh for students aged three to four years, rising to ₹15.65 lakh for Grade 11. The school opened admissions on Monday for grades up to 9.

The institution is also exploring the use of artificial intelligence (AI) and

"The plan is to become an Apple Distinguished School. We're already in conversation with Apple on what that looks like," Pendleton-Nash said. She added that the institution is also considering potential collaboration with Apple on a research hub.

- Annual fees range from ₹7,55,000 (early years) to ₹15,65,000 (Grade 11)

students need to learn with pen and paper," she said. "You won't see a school that has zero technology, but it will be used as an enhancement. We expect teachers to use AI tools as well for administrative tasks, but as additional help rather than a replacement because we must retain soft skills and the human-centric aspects that really matter."

Beyond India, the group is also expanding in West Asia. Pendleton-Nash said the priority markets for Queen Elizabeth's Global Schools in Asia are India and the United Arab Emirates.

The group is setting up a fee-paying K-12 British curriculum school in Dubai Sports City, scheduled to open in August 2026.

Pendleton-Nash said construction timelines for the Dubai campus have not been affected by the ongoing West Asian conflict; rather, it has helped advance the launch timeline.

"Half of the school in Dubai is already finished because it's a renovation, while the other half is underway. It's likely our timeline will move forward, and the reason is that schools are closed right now. That school has students there, but it is currently closed, enabling us to complete the work more quickly," she said.

However, Pendleton-Nash said the school intends to adopt a cautious approach to AI in classrooms.

'Iran war should trigger faster exit from fossil fuel dependence'

The disruption to energy markets caused by the Iran war is a lesson on the risks of relying on fossil fuels which should drive governments to wean their economies off oil and gas faster, the UN climate secretary told Reuters on Monday.

"If there was ever a moment to accelerate that energy transition, breaking dependencies which have shackled economies, this is the time," Simon Stiell, Executive Secretary of the UN climate change arm UNFCCC, said in an interview.

Stiell said the price spikes triggered by the conflict demonstrated how heavy reliance on imported oil and gas threatened national security and the cost of living. "Those risks are abundantly clear right now and are burning at everyone's feet," he said.

Leaders of the EU, importing more than 90 percent of its oil and 80 percent of its gas, are drafting emergency measures to shield consumers from rising energy bills and avoid a repeat of record-high energy prices in 2022 after Russia's invasion of Ukraine. REUTERS
