Quotes

Matt King, Senior Vice President - Technology, TOMS:

"Infosys brings to us valuable experience to support and optimize the way we run our existing digital platforms so that we have the time and resources to branch out into new areas. It is vital that we have trusted partners as we grow our business."

Madhu Janardan, Vice President, Regional Lead of Retail, Consumer Goods and Logistics, Infosys:

"The original concept of TOMS Shoes is an inspiration, which makes us proud to be their partner. As we help them mature into a multi-channel global operation, we will use our technology skills and our experience with the world's leading retailers and online commerce players to create a compelling experience for them. More importantly, it gives us great satisfaction to know that this partnership will help TOMS continue its mission of helping the underprivileged across the world – whether by giving brand new shoes to children in need or by creating sustainable water systems."
