I saw people burning alive: Indore survivor

Recalls Chilling Moments From E-Way Bus Fire

Karishma.Kotwal
@timesofindia.com

Isha Singh

Indore: "I saw people in flames, burning alive," recalled 22-year-old Isha Singh, recoiling in horror as those raw, distressing and unsettling scenes flashed across her mind. Travelling in the same sleeper bus returning from the Char Dham Yatra, which crashed into a trailer truck and burst into a ball of fire on the Delhi-Mumbai expressway, she was among the few lucky ones to survive.

Speaking to TOI, the Indore native recounted how she was thrown off her seat by the impact of the crash and struggled to escape the smoke-filled bus while watching desperate attempts to pull trapped fellow passengers off to safety.

A resident of Indore's Laxmi and employed in a private firm, Isha had undertaken the pilgrimage with her brother, sister-in-law and three other family members. They were travelling from Rishikesh to Indore in the sleeper coach, all parked on the bus's rear berths when the accident took place.

Isha, who was awake and speaking on the phone at the time, felt the sudden impact as the bus rammed into the trailer-truck at high speed.

"There was a sudden, violent jolt, throwing me off my seat into the aisle between the rear berths. The windows in the front portion of the bus cracked and crumbled to shreds within seconds as desperate screams for help filled the coach," Isha recalled.

She said the bus rammed into the trolley for some distance before exploding into a fireball. She alleged that the driver had appeared to be under the influence of alcohol. However, the claim couldn't be officially corroborated till the time of going to press.

The Indore resident said the conductor, who was asleep in the aisle between the rear seats, went flying towards the front portion of the bus, as he could find nothing to grab hold of. He suffered critical injuries, which eventually proved fatal.

Passengers sleeping on the upper deck came hurtling down to the lower half of the vehicle as it ploughed into the trailer, she recalled, adding, "The emergency exit at the rear was locked. Soon after the collision, an AC pipe started leaking and it looked like the bus would catch fire. However, many passengers managed to climb out through broken window panes before the flames could reach them."

The driver couldn't escape as his legs were trapped in the cabin, she said, adding, "Many of the passengers had to climb over people lying unconscious or motionless, in sheer desperation to escape. Once outside, many of the surviving passengers began pulling the other injured occupants to safety. However, some of the trapped passengers couldn't be brought out and were eventually consumed by the fire. The driver's legs were crushed inside the cabin and he couldn't be rescued."

Standing outside, Isha helplessly watched the fire engulf the bus. "I saw people being roasted alive," she said, her voice breaking as those ghastly visuals came haunting back.

Meanwhile, families who lost their loved ones in the bus fire were still waiting for their remains, many of which were charred beyond recognition.

Even as they waited for the DNA profiling of the charred remains to establish their identities, grieving relatives were in a state of shock, struggling to come to terms with the enormity of the tragedy and their losses.

Dausa bus inferno: 'Screams for help' as tanker fire guts coach

Survivors said they heard a loud explosion after the impact. Within moments, flames engulfed the bus, leaving sleeping passengers scrambling to escape through thick smoke and intense heat.

A senior police officer said both the bus and the trailer caught fire immediately after the collision and were completely gutted. Rescue teams recovered the bodies of six passengers trapped inside the bus and shifted them to the mortuary at Dausa district hospital. Two critically injured passengers later succumbed to their injuries, taking the toll to eight.

Authorities said six bodies were charred beyond recognition and visual identification was not possible. DNA profiling has been initiated to establish their identities before the remains are handed over to their families.

"There were 36 passengers in the bus. Eight died and 28 were injured. Twelve injured passengers are undergoing treatment at Dausa district hospital, while 16 were discharged after primary treatment," an official said.

According to documents accessed by TOI, the passengers whose identities are being established through DNA profiling include Priyanka Pandey and Deepak from Khargone district of Madhya Pradesh, Nirmala and Dharm Singh from Indore district, Bhumi Bhor from Dhar district, and Deep from Sehore district.

The bus, AR 11 D 6565, belonged to Hans Travels and was driven by Rajeev Rathi, with Kuldeep as the conductor. Police suspect both were among those killed in the accident, though DNA profiling was under way to confirm their identities.

The FIR was registered on the statement of injured passenger Sunny Tanwar, 34, a resident of Khargone district. In his statement, Tanwar said a loud explosion was heard as the bus was travelling on the expressway. The vehicle then swerved into trees planted along the median before thick smoke rapidly filled the coach. Passengers tried to escape as flames spread through the bus.

Officials said the bus and trailer were reduced to skeletal frames. Even three hours after the fire was extinguished, teams continued to search the wreckage for evidence.

Each body has been assigned a unique identification number. DNA samples will be collected from family members and matched with samples taken from the bodies before the remains are released. "We have detained the trailer driver for questioning," an official said.

A villager involved in the rescue operation said passengers trapped inside the burning coach could be heard screaming for help.

The Dausa district collector constituted a joint inquiry committee to investigate the cause of the accident. TNN

Police probing if bribes paid for Ram Temple jobs

Arrested Accused Tinnu To Be Quizzed In Jail Regarding Donation Theft

Investigators are likely to question sanitation and maintenance workers responsible for the washrooms

Lucknow: Ayodhya police have widened the probe into the donations scam and are now investigating allegations that bribes were paid for appointments in the Ram Temple establishment.

Sources said police are examining claims that 125 temple employees were recruited after commissions were paid. The custodial interrogation of one of the arrested accused, Avinash Shukla, led investigators to examine the role of a member of Shri Ram Janmabhoomi Teerth Kshetra Trust, whose name surfaced repeatedly during the questioning. Based on Shukla's disclosures, investigators are also set to question accused Ramshankar Yadav alias Tinnu in jail regarding the embezzlement of cash donations.

According to police sources, Shukla allegedly revealed that Tinnu was entrusted with one of the keys to the highly secured donation counting room, where cash offerings made by devotees were counted, reconciled and temporarily stored before being deposited in the bank. Investigators believe access to the counting room may have enabled Tinnu to facilitate alleged diversion of temple money. Regarding appointments to the temple posts, investigators are trying to find out whether an organised recruitment racket was operating.

Related report on, P 11

Sources said during scrutiny of records, police have so far not found appointment letters, formal service contracts or other employment-related documents for several of the recruits. This has prompted them to examine the recruitment process in greater detail. The findings of this probe are expected to form a key part of the detailed report being prepared by the SIT.

Police are preparing to question the trust member at whose behest the appointments are suspected to have been made. Investigators are in the process of verifying the credentials of the individuals recruited, their employment records and the circumstances under which they were appointed. The bank accounts and financial transactions of the recruits as well as those suspected to be involved in the alleged recruitment network will also be examined to find out if money changed hands, and to trace the alleged flow of funds. The properties linked to the trust member under scrutiny will be checked to verify if there was any disproportionate increase in his assets during his association with the temple trust, and whether any asset(s) could be linked to the donation theft or the suspected recruitment-for-commission racket.

3 arrested as DMK, TVK accuse each other of poaching

Chennai: Three men were arrested and four detained by Tamil Nadu Police Wednesday on charges of trying to buy over at least 15 TVK MLAs to vote against a planned no-confidence motion against assembly speaker J.C.D. Prabhakar.

Horse-trading allegations flew thick and fast as the governing TVK and opposition DMK accused each other of trying to poach their MLAs. While TVK said former DMK minister V Senthilbalaji was trying to topple the TVK govt, DMK complained to governor R V Arlekar and DVAC that chief minister C. Joseph Vijay and MDMK neta Vaiko conspired to poach two DMK MLAs. TVK Uthangarai MLA N Ilayaraja said a Chennai resident called Thirunavukarasu promised him Rs 35 crore to vote against the speaker during the motion. Thirunavukarasu and two others, Nares from Trichy and Thiagarajan from Chennai, were arrested on charges of inducement.

Police said Thirunavukarasu met the TVK MLA on behalf of Senthilbalaji and warned the MLA and his family against telling anyone about the "negotiation". TNN

Another significant proposal under consideration is about giving school board performance "substantial weightage — up to 50%, suitably normalised — in admission/merit": a major shift from the current near-total dependence on entrance test scores for access to top professional and undergraduate programmes.

The panel has linked any move to give board marks greater weightage with improving board-exam integrity to curb the phenomenon of inflated marking and excessive moderation, showing internal assessment and practical marks separately as grades.

The committee has suggested that NCERT be made the nodal agency for aligning Class 11-12 syllabi with JEE and NEET requirements and harmonise syllabus, pedagogy and evaluation "on a par as far as possible".

To reduce one-shot pressure, the panel, in its draft report under preparation, has recommended a multi-attempt framework, with exams "at least twice a year" and a gradual move towards on-demand testing. It has suggested increasing the number of JEE attempts from two to 3-4, scrapping the Dec-Jan JEE attempt to decongest the exam calendar and ensuring a clearer gap between Class 12 boards and entrance tests.

In the longer term, draft calls for moving towards "less-coachable, aptitude-oriented and adaptive CBT", with non-linguistic items where appropriate, while retaining subject-specific evaluation for STEM courses. The panel, however, has not argued for easier papers, noting that very easy tests could weaken ranking accuracy among lakhs competing for limited seats.

The committee has also recommended psychometric analysis of NTA data by IIT-Kanpur to assess the "validity, reliability and discriminatory power" of JEE Main, JEE Advanced, NEET-UG and CUET. In a related recommendation, the committee has asked govt to examine "a comprehensive regulatory framework for coaching centres — including consideration of legislative measures".

Goa man gets 10-year jail for raping 15-year-old girl

Panaji: A Pocos court in Goa has sentenced a man to 10 years' imprisonment for raping a 15-year-old girl in 2024, reports Lisa Monteiro. The girl was found to be four months pregnant. Her mother allegedly asked her to undergo an abortion, but she refused saying she wanted to continue the pregnancy.

The girl said the relationship was consensual. The girl produced a receipt in court to show she had initiated the marriage process, but the court noted she was still a minor and the receipt could not be relied upon. Public prosecutor S Navgenkar argued that the offence was heinous as the accused knew she was a minor. The girl's consent was immaterial because sexual intercourse with a minor is statutory rape, he added.

Considering the age of the accused, a sentence of up to 10 years would suffice," observed presiding officer, fast track special court (Pocos), Pooja Kavlekar. "The Pocos Act imposes a minimum sentence... Once the offence is proved, the court cannot overlook this minimum sentence prescribed by law."

UP man gets death for rape and murder of 3-year-old girl

Prayagraj: A Pocos court in Prayagraj has awarded death sentence to a man for the rape and murder of a three-year-old girl in the city six years ago, reports Rajesh Kumar Pandey. "The brutality against this innocent person is a threat to society. This case is extremely cruel, inhuman and shocking.

The accused has zero chance of reform and deserves the death penalty," Pocos court judge V K Chaurasia observed in his June 29 order.

The court also imposed a fine of Rs 25,000 on the convict, Gagan Kumar, and directed the District Legal Services Authority to provide a companion of Rs 2 lakh to the victim's kin.

According to the prosecution, the girl's mother, who had gone to a relative's house on June 12, 2020, found her daughter missing after she returned home around 9pm.

The child's grandmother told her that Gagan, a family acquaintance, had taken her out around 7.30pm on the pretext of buying her toffees.

When the child did not return, family members launched a search and found her body near Gagan's house.

The postmortem confirmed that the child had been raped and strangled.

Shukla also reportedly revealed during questioning that he and other accused enjoyed unrestricted access to the temple's administrative areas because of their proximity to a former trustee. Pb govt adds 30 more sacred words in sacrilege law list

Chandigarh: Three days before Jathedar Giani Kuldeep Singh Gargaji informed Punjab legislators of Akal Takht's strong objections to certain clauses of AAP govt's amended anti-sacrilege law — including replacing 'Bir' with 'Saroop' — Punjab Bureau of Investigation (PBI) had issued an amended circular, adding 30 more reverential terms to the list for probe into sacrilege cases.

PBI director, ADGP, LK Yadav, said, "It is an evolving exercise, hence more reverential words have been included... The idea is that no investigation results in further disrespect to the sacred material."

The initial list, notified on June 16, codified 22 terms but did not define 'Jaagat Jot Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji' and 'Paawan Saroop of Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji'. These two terms have been explained in PBI's June 26 circular — a copy of which is with TOI. It has been issued to all police commissioners and SSPs. Among the additions is the term 'Sewa Unique Identification Number' assigned to the 'custodian (including sewak or sewadar) of Saroop(s) of Jaagat Jot Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji'.

SC: No default bail if chargesheet filed but not provided to accused

New Delhi: Supreme Court Wednesday held that an accused person cannot claim default bail on the ground that the chargesheet, which was filed in court within the statutory period, was not provided to him according to that timeline.

A bench of Justices Sanjay Karol and NK Singh said, "We are of the view that simple non-filing of additional copies of the chargesheet/police report will not entitle the appellant to the relief of default bail. This Court, while considering default bail under the erstwhile CrPC, has expounded that the relief of default bail is limited to non-filing of the chargesheet itself and once the chargesheet is filed in its proper form, the question of default bail does not arise," the bench said.

The court rejected the plea of an accused person facing prosecution for online fraud. He was arrested by CBI on July 13 last year, and the prosecution filed a chargesheet against him and the other accused on Sept 2. A copy of the chargesheet was provided to the appellant on Sept 23. Saying that he was not provided the do-document within 60 days, the time limit for filing the chargesheet, he sought default bail.

"... the non-filing of additional copies of the chargesheet under Section 193(8) would not vitiate the chargesheet/police report itself. As was the case under the erstwhile CrPC, the position under BNSS is to remain that the right to default bail arises when the chargesheet is not filed within a period of 60 or 90 days, as applicable. Once the chargesheet is filed, in compliance with the form prescribed under Section 193(3) of BNSS within the aforesaid period, the right to default bail ceases. Non-compliance with Section 193(8) of the BNSS cannot be construed to give the same result as Section 187(3) of the BNSS," bench said.

Another significant proposal under consideration is about giving school board performance "substantial weightage — up to 50%, suitably normalised — in admission/merit": a major shift from the current near-total dependence on entrance test scores for access to top professional and undergraduate programmes.

The panel has linked any move to give board marks greater weightage with improving board-exam integrity to curb the phenomenon of inflated marking and excessive moderation, showing internal assessment and practical marks separately as grades.

The committee has suggested that NCERT be made the nodal agency for aligning Class 11-12 syllabi with JEE and NEET requirements and harmonise syllabus, pedagogy and evaluation "on a par as far as possible".

To reduce one-shot pressure, the panel, in its draft report under preparation, has recommended a multi-attempt framework, with exams "at least twice a year" and a gradual move towards on-demand testing. It has suggested increasing the number of JEE attempts from two to 3-4, scrapping the Dec-Jan JEE attempt to decongest the exam calendar

The panel, however, has not argued for easier papers, noting that very easy tests could weaken ranking accuracy among lakhs competing for limited seats and ensuring a clearer gap between Class 12 boards and entrance tests.

In the longer term, draft calls for moving towards "less-coachable, aptitude-oriented and adaptive CBT", with non-linguistic items where appropriate, while retaining subject-specific evaluation for STEM courses. The panel, however, has not argued that very easy tests could weaken ranking accuracy among lakhs competing for limited seats.

The committee has also recommended psychometric analysis of NTA data by IIT-Kanpur to assess the "validity, reliability and discriminatory power" of JEE Main, JEE Advanced, NEET-UG and CUET.

In a related recommendation, the committee has asked govt to examine "a comprehensive regulatory framework for coaching centres — including consideration of legislative measures".
