The Company's solutions-oriented approach gained further recognition and momentum during the year. Through in-house development and strategic acquisitions, Rolta has built a rich repository of Intellectual Property (IP). To build and sustain this IP-driven strategy, the Company has further strengthened its product development and delivery organization, especially by inducting senior and highly skilled staff.

During the year, the Company received numerous awards in recognition of its innovative solutions from prestigious industry bodies, such as a "Titan" award from Oracle, the "Award for Excellence in Science, Technology and Technological Innovation" from FICCI, IBM's "The Great Mind Challenge for Business 2010", and many more.

The Company unlocked value by selling its 50% stake in SWRL -- its joint venture with The Shaw Group, Inc., USA, resulting in substantial return on its investment in the venture.

OPERATIONAL HIGHLIGHTS

Enterprise Geospatial and Defense Solutions (EGDS)

The Company continues to maintain its leadership in the Indian Defense and Security markets by deploying its expanding range of C4ISTAR solutions, based on Rolta IP, across the country. With a sharp focus on enhancing its state-of-the-art solutions portfolio, the Company has developed and acquired various technologies and Intellectual Property during the year. For example, the Company acquired perpetual rights to the complete portfolio of Geo-Imaging technologies, including source code, from various leading vendors, Maritime (coastal) security solutions from Mariner Group of USA, and the full portfolio of software technology for homeland security, public safety and emergency response from ACLS

Systems. In addition, Rolta has built and strengthened its partnerships with world-leading defense companies, like Selex (Italy), QiOptiq (UK), Controp (Israel) and Rheinmetall (Germany). With its ever increasing capabilities, including a strong track-record, cutting-edge technologies, world-class partners and tremendous domain expertise, Rolta is very well positioned to address the large, multi-billion dollar, Defense and Security modernization programs, like Tactical Communication Systems, Battlefield Management Systems, Digital Soldier, Vehicle Systems, Crime & Criminal Tracking Network Systems, etc. In fact, the Company has already been selected or is one of the select few shortlisted for final consideration, in some of these programs, which have come to an advanced stage.

In the commercial and government GIS space, the Company has had significant success worldwide. The Company's BI and enterprise integration suite, Geospatial Fusion™ has been received very well in the developed markets. The Company added to its high-end consulting and systems integration credentials in the areas of Electric Utilities, Telecom, Water and Gas through induction of subject-matter experts and industry specialists. Rolta is continually adding functionality and features to the Geospatial Fusion™ suite to address new verticals, and offer greater breadth; for example the OneView Mobile solution for integrated field operations for Utilities. At the same time, Rolta continues to win large orders for solutions and services in its traditional areas of mapping and earth sciences in the developing/emerging markets.

The Company signed a formal MOU with Central Board of Secondary Education (CBSE) for vocational courses on Geospatial Technology. Under this MOU, Rolta will provide technical assistance to create the curriculum and impart advanced training to CBSE teachers. This solution has evolved beyond its initial focus on the downstream Oil & Gas segment to now also address the BI needs of upstream operations and petrochemical plants. With successful deployments in these segments, OneView™ has matured with significant traction world-wide. The Company is building new functionality into OneView™ to not only offer broader coverage within these segments, but also to expand the offerings into new high-growth segments such as Utilities and Power.
