Royalty overhaul fuels ONGC, Oil India rally

Brokerages see higher valuations after Centre eases upstream levies

DEEPAK KORGAONKAR
Mumbai, 12 May

Shares of state-owned upstream companies Oil and Natural Gas Corporation (ONGC) and Oil India (OIL) rallied up to 7 per cent on the BSE in Tuesday's intraday trade, despite a weak broader market. OIL soared 7.5 per cent to ₹490.9, while ONGC gained more than 5 per cent to close at ₹295.25 on the BSE. By comparison, the Sensex fell 1.92 per cent to 74,559.

So far in calendar year 2026, ONGC (up 22 per cent) and OIL (up 15 per cent) have outperformed the Sensex, which has declined 12.5 per cent during the period. The sharp rise in the stocks followed Union Minister for Petroleum and Natural Gas Hardeep Singh Puri's announcement on Monday regarding the rationalisation of royalty rates for India's upstream sector.

The Centre has reduced royalty rates on crude oil and natural gas production from several categories of fields, including deepwater and ultra-deepwater blocks, in a move aimed at boosting domestic exploration and production.

Calling it a major boost for the country's upstream sector, Puri said the rationalisation of royalty under the Oilfields (Regulation and Development) Act (ORD Act) marks a new phase for India's oil and gas regime by removing inconsistencies and supporting growth in the upstream sector. He added that the landmark decision would provide greater regulatory clarity.

Following the historic 2025 amendments to the ORD Act and Petroleum And Natural Gas Rules, the government has revised royalty rates and methodologies for crude oil, natural gas, and casing head condensate. The updated framework removes longstanding inconsistencies across regimes to create a more stable and predictable policy environment for the upstream sector.

On an upswing

Puri said the decision capped a decade-long effort to modernise the regulatory framework by replacing complexity with consistency to strengthen India's energy future.

Brokerage firm CLSA remains positive on ONGC following the government's decision and has set a target price of ₹405. According to analysts at the brokerage, the cut in royalty on crude oil and gas production could increase the fair value of ONGC by 7-9 per cent and OIL by 9-11 per cent. More importantly, CLSA said the move could ease concerns over any increase in upstream taxation through a windfall tax similar to the one imposed in 2022, which had weighed on the performance of ONGC and OIL compared with global upstream peers.

At $80 per barrel, the brokerage sees more than 50 per cent total return potential in ONGC, observing that the stock is currently pricing in Brent crude at $65 per barrel. ONGC's standalone oil and gas production, including its joint venture share, has steadily declined over the past five years. However, analysts at ICICI Securities said the decline appears to have largely stabilised in 2025-26 (FY26) year-to-date.

With production beginning from the KG basin, along with new assets in the western offshore and Daman offshore regions, the brokerage expects the production trend to improve over the next few years. ICICI Securities projects a compound annual growth rate of 5 per cent in standalone oil and gas output between FY26 and 2027-28. ONGC recently signed an agreement with BP Plc, UK, appointing the company as a technical services provider for its western offshore assets. BP has committed to delivering up to 60 per cent incremental production over base levels of around 40 million standard cubic metres per day of gas and about 250,000 barrels per day of oil over the 10-year contract period.

ICICI Securities said even partial achievement of these targets could materially improve ONGC's production profile over the next five to seven years.

Following the company's third quarter (October-December/Q3) results update, the brokerage said that ONGC management had indicated that the normal decline rate of 6-7 per cent from the Mumbai High Field had been largely arrested, with output expected to recover over the coming quarters. ICICI Securities retained its "buy" rating on ONGC with a target price of ₹332 per share.

Pharma funds are in a recovery mode. Should you invest now?

SANJAY KUMAR SINGH & KARTHIK JEROME

Pharma and health care funds have staged a recovery in recent months. After delivering a category average return of -2.9 per cent in 2025, these funds have gained 8.3 per cent over the past three months and 14.7 per cent over the past year.

Domestic and overseas opportunities

Fund managers see opportunities for the pharma sector both in India and abroad. "Domestic formulations growth is again trending towards a 10 per cent-plus run rate, compared with around 8 per cent compounded annual growth rate (CAGR) over FY22-FY25," says Kamal Gada, senior vice president-equity, UTI Asset Management Company (AMC).

The expiry of Novo's semaglutide patent in India and select international markets has created the opportunity for day-one generic launches. "Indian manufacturers are well placed to generate incremental revenue from this," says Gada.

Indian contract research, development and manufacturing organisations (CRDMOs) are positioned to benefit from the opportunity in this segment, which is expected to grow at 13.4 per cent over FY24-FY29. Rupee depreciation is a profitability lever for export-oriented companies.

Hospitals and diagnostics companies are experiencing strong volume growth and gaining market share due to improved cost structures. Fund managers remain constructive. "Healthcare businesses such as India formulations, US exports, non-US exports, diagnostics, hospitals, API and CDMO each have double-digit long-term growth potential," says Chirag Dagli,

Long-term residence doesn't give property rights: HC order explained

Living in a house for years does not automatically create ownership rights, the Delhi High Court said in a case that was decided on the basis of registered sale deed.

The ruling is significant because property disputes among siblings and relatives are common, particularly in informal arrangements without proper documentation, according to legal experts.

to legal experts.

What courts check
They examine whether the occupant was allowed to stay out of family goodwill or whether there was a legally enforceable ownership arrangement. Courts also examine whether there was any intention by the original owner to blend self-acquired property into common family property.

A common argument in family disputes is that a house was purchased using pooled family funds, despite being registered in only one person's name. Experts warn that such claims are difficult to prove without clear evidence. Lawyers recommend maintaining the
